Subsequent to an investigation and a hearing conducted pursuant to the notice, the committee filed with the Acting Administrator a report containing its findings and recommendations with respect to the matters referred to it. Aside from minor changes in the definition of the industry, this wage order effects no changes in the provisions of the current wage order for this industry.

Accordingly, as authorized and required by section 8 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended (52 Stat. 1064, as amended, 29 U. S. C. 208), Reorganization Plan No. 6 of 1950 (64 Stat. 1263; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp., p. 165) General Orders Nos. 45-A (15 F. R. 3290) and 85-A (22 F. R. 7614) of the Secretary of Labor, the recommendations of the committee are hereby published in this order amending Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations, effective July 16, 1958, as follows:

PART 671—COMMUNICATIONS, UTILITIES, AND TRANSPORTATION INDUSTRY IN PUERTO RICO

WAGE ORDER GIVING EFFECT TO RECOMMENDATIONS

Pursuant to section 5 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended (52 Stat. 1060, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 201 et seq.), the Secretary of Labor by Administrative Order No. 505 (23 F. Sec.
671.1 Definition of the industry.
671.2 Wage rates.

PART 681—HOMEWORKERS IN CERTAIN INDUSTRIES IN PUERTO RICO

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Notice of a proposed amendment to Part 681 was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on May 15, 1958 (23 F. R. 3303). A 15-day period was provided for the submission of data, views, or arguments. The sole submission was a communication received from an employer seeking deferral of the promulgation of the proposal as final on the basis of a question earlier raised by it regarding the previous amendment establishing minimum piece rates for homeworkers effective in November 1957.

This amendment is based on authority under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, and its purpose is to provide minimum piece rates for homeworkers performing the operations described therein commensurate with the hourly rates established under section 8 of the act for the shoe and related products industry in Puerto Rico (23 F. R. 1568) and for the leather, leather goods, and related products industry in Puerto Rico (23 F. R. 1568). The amendment also provides for an automatic adjustment in the piece rates contained in Part 681 when they are no longer commensurate with the minimum hourly rate established under section 8 of the act. In addition to the piece rates changed by this amendment, the automatic adjustment provided for by new § 681.9 applies to the piece rate for hand-braiding leather buttons which is contained in § 681.10 (a) as renumbered. This provision will more readily effectuate the purposes of this act and coincide with the provision for homeworkers in 29 CFR 545.9. The title of Part 681 no longer reflects an accurate description of the contents of the part and for that reason the amendment provides for a change in title which has no substantive effect.

Accordingly, pursuant to the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (52 Stat. 1060, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 201 et seq.), Reorganization Plan No. 6 of 1950 (3 CFR, 1950 Supp., p. 165), and General Orders Nos. 45–A (15 F. R. 3290) and 85–A (22 F. R. 7614) of the Secretary of Labor, and in accordance with section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), effective 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, Part 681, Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations is amended as follows:

1. The headnote to Part 681 is amended to read as set forth above.

2. Section 681.9 is renumbered as § 681.10 and the section headnote and paragraph (b) of the section are amended to read as follows:

§ 681.10 Piece rates established in accordance with § 681.9. • • •

(b) Piece rates for the hand-lacing of plastic and leather wallets, leather wallet covers, and leather moccasin plugs. The minimum piece rates established for homeworkers in accordance with § 681.9 are as follows: A minimum rate of $^{61}/_{100}$ of one cent per dozen stitches for homeworkers in Puerto Rico engaged in the hand-lacing, single stitch, with plastic lacing material, of leather wallets and leather wallet covers; a minimum piece rate of $^{82}/_{100}$ of one cent per dozen stitches for homeworkers in Puerto Rico engaged in the hand-lacing, single stitch, with plastic lacing material, of leather moccasin plugs; a minimum piece rate of 1 and $^{50}/_{100}$ cents per dozen stitches for homeworkers in Puerto Rico engaged in the hand-lacing, double stitch, with plastic lacing material, of leather wallets and leather wallet covers; and a minimum piece rate of 1 and $^{87}/_{100}$ cents per dozen stitches for homeworkers in Puerto Rico engaged in the hand-lacing, double stitch, with plastic lacing material, of plastic wallets.

3. A new § 681.9 is inserted to read as follows:

§ 681.9 Minimum piece rates prescribed by the Administrator. Pursuant to the provisions of section 6 (a) (2) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, each homeworker shall be paid, in lieu of the applicable hourly rate established by wage order, not less than the piece rates indicated in § 681.10 for the operations described therein. On or after the effective date of any change in the minimum hourly rates established by wage order and until the effective date of compensating revisions of the rates contained in § 681.10, the minimum piece rates which shall be paid are those set forth in § 681.10 adjusted in ratio to the relation between the change in the old and new minimum hourly rates.

(Sec. 8, 52 Stat. 1064, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 208)

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 25th day of June 1958.

CLARENCE T. LUNDQUIST,
Acting Administrator.

PART 683—WHOLESALING, WAREHOUSING, AND OTHER DISTRIBUTION INDUSTRY IN PUERTO RICO

WAGE ORDER GIVING EFFECT TO RECOMMENDATIONS

R. 2384) appointed, convened, and gave notice of the hearing of Industry Committee No. 39–C to recommend the minimum wage rate or rates to be paid under section 6 (c) of the act to employees in the wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution industry in Puerto Rico who are engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce.

Subsequent to an investigation and a hearing conducted pursuant to the notice, the committee filed with the Acting Administrator a report containing its findings and recommendations with respect to the matters referred to it. The committee recommended a new wage rate for the industry, as defined in Administrative Order No. 505, and discontinuance of the classifications contained in the present wage order (29 CFR Part 683) for this industry.

Accordingly, as authorized and required by section 8 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended (52 Stat. 1064 as amended, 29 U. S. C. 208), Reorganization Plan No. 6 of 1950 (64 Stat. 1263; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp., p. 165), General Orders Nos. 45–A (15 F. R. 3290) and 85–A (22 F. R. 7614) of the Secretary of Labor, the recommendations of the committee are hereby published in this order amending Part 683, Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations, effective July 16, 1958, to read as follows:

683.1 Definition of the industry.
683.2 Wage rates.
683.3 Notices.

AUTHORITY: §§ 683.1 to 683.3 issued under sec. 8, 52 Stat. 1064, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 208. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 52 Stat. 1062, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 205.

§ 683.1 Definition of the industry. The wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution industry in Puerto Rico to which this part shall apply is defined as follows: The wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution of commodities, including, but without limitation, the wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution activities of jobbers, importers and exporters, manufacturers' sales branches and offices engaged in distributing products manufactured outside of Puerto Rico, industrial distributors, mail order and retail selling establishments, brokers and agents, and public warehouses: Provided, however, That the industry shall not include the activities of employees who are engaged in wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution of products manufactured by their employer in Puerto Rico, or any activities included in the communications, utilities, and transportation industry in Puerto Rico (Part 671 of this chapter), or in the tobacco industry in Puerto Rico (Part 657 of this chapter), or in the food and related products industry in Puerto Rico (Part 673 of this chapter).

§ 683.2 Wage rates. Wages at a rate of not less than $1.00 an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution industry in Puerto Rico, who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce.

§ 683.3 Notices. Every employer subject to the provisions of § 683.2 shall post in a conspicuous place in each department of his establishment where employees subject to the provisions of § 683.2 are working such notices of this part as shall be prescribed from time to time by the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, and shall give such other notice as the Administrator may prescribe.

PART 695—HOMEWORKERS IN INDUSTRIES IN THE VIRGIN ISLANDS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Notice was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (23 F. R. 3355) on May 17, 1958, that the Acting Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, proposed to amend Part 695 of Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations. Interested persons were given fifteen (15) days in which to submit to the Acting Administrator any written data, views, or arguments pertaining to the proposal.

All relevant information submitted has been considered, together with all other available information, and it appears that the adoption of the proposed amendments is appropriate. Their purposes are to prescribe minimum piece rates for homeworkers in the Virgin Islands that are commensurate with the minimum hourly rates established under section 8 of the act for industries in the Virgin Islands (23 F. R. 2375) and to provide for the time when the rates prescribed are no longer commensurate with the minimum hourly rates so established.

Accordingly, in accordance with section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238, 5 U. S. C. 1003) and pursuant to section 6 (a) (2) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended (52 Stat. 1062; 29 U. S. C. 206 (a) (2)), Reorganization Plan No. 6 of 1950 (64 Stat. 1263; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp., p. 165), and General Orders Nos. 45–A (15 F. R. 3290) and 85–A (22 F. R. 7614) of the Secretary of Labor, I hereby adopt the amendments as proposed and set forth below.

1. Section 695.8 is amended to read as follows:

§ 695.8 Minimum piece rates prescribed by the Administrator. Pursuant to the provisions of section 6 (a) (2) of the act, each homeworker shall be paid, in lieu of the applicable hourly rate established by wage order, not less than the piece rates prescribed in § 695.12 for the operations described therein. On or after the effective date of any change in the minimum hourly rates established by wage order and until the effective date of compensating revisions of the rates contained in § 695.12, the minimum piece rates which shall be paid are those listed in § 695.12 adjusted in ratio to the relation between the change in the old and new minimum hourly rates.

TITLE 6—AGRICULTURAL CREDIT

Chapter IV—Commodity Stabilization Service and Commodity Credit Corporation, Department of Agriculture

Subchapter C—Export Programs

[Amdt. 1]

PART 484—FEED GRAINS

SUBPART—FEED GRAIN EXPORT PROGRAM PAYMENT IN KIND (GR-368)

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

The Terms and Conditions of the Feed Grain Export Program Payment in Kind (GR-368) (23 F. R. 3226) are amended as follows:

1. Section 484.105 is amended by adding the words "of a quantity of feed grain" and ":of the same quantity of feed grain" in the first and last sentences of paragraph (d) so that the paragraph shall read as follows:

(d) To be eligible for payment under this program, the exporter shall furnish documentary evidence of export of a quantity of feed grain as required in § 484.116, which has not been used, or will not subsequently be used as evidence of export of the same quantity of feed grain in connection with any other contract entered into pursuant to § 484.107 of this program or in connection with any other export program under which CCC has paid or has agreed to pay an export allowance, or in connection with any other export program which involves the sale of feed grains for export at prices which reflect any export allowance. Nothing herein shall be construed as precluding exportation of feed grain under this program from fulfilling sales under Purchase Authorizations pursuant to Public Law 480, 83d Congress. Documentary evidence of export of a quantity of feed grain submitted under § 484.127 in connection with purchases of feed grains from CCC may also be submitted to CCC as evidence of export of the same quantity of feed grain in connection with Applications for Feed Grain Export Payments.

2. Section 484.108 is amended by adding the words "except as provided in § 484.109" to the fourth sentence of paragraph (c) so that the sentence shall read as follows: "Moreover, if the exporter does not export the quantity of feed grain specified in the exporter's contract with CCC, except as provided in § 484.109, such breach shall give rise to liquidated damages."

3. Section 484.109 is hereby added as a new section to read as follows:

§ 484.109 Quantity tolerance. In the event an exporter exports or causes exportation in accordance with the requirements of § 484.108 of a net quantity of feed grain less than the net quantity provided in the exporter's contract with CCC, but not less than 95 percent of such quantity and submits a statement which establishes to the satisfaction of CCC that his failure to export the contract quantity is attributable to normal trade practices and not for the purpose of applying the quantity undershipped to a contract with CCC providing a higher export payment, he shall not be required to pay liquidated damages for failure to export the undershipped quantity. In the event, an exporter exports or causes exportation in accordance with the requirements of § 484.108 of a net quantity greater than the net quantity provided in the exporter's contract with CCC, but not in excess of 105 percent of such quantity and submits a statement which establishes to the satisfaction of CCC that exportation of the excess quantity is attributable to normal trade practices and not for the purpose of obtaining a higher export payment rate on the excess quantity than would otherwise be applicable, he may include such quantity in his application for export payment and receive payment for the quantity overshipped at the same rate as provided in his contract with CCC.

4. Section 484.116 is amended as follows:

a. Amend paragraph (a) (3) to read as follows:

(3) One copy of a grain inspection certificate issued by an inspector licensed under the United States Grain Standards Act which is properly identified to each cargo or carlot indicated in the bill of lading, or other form of documentary evidence of export.

b. Add the following new paragraph (d):

(d) In case a single bill of lading or other documentary evidence of export covers more than the net quantity of feed grain which is applied against the exporter's contract with CCC, and such documentary evidence of export is to be used as evidence of export of such excess quantity in connection with a different contract with CCC under this program or under any other export program of CCC pursuant to which CCC has paid or agreed to pay an export allowance, each copy of such documentary evidence of export submitted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section shall be accompanied by a statement certified by the exporter identifying all contracts with CCC to which the documentary evidence of export has been or will be applied and the quantity applicable to each contract.

5. Section 484.120 is amended by deleting paragraph (b) in its entirety.

6. Section 484.126 (a) is amended by deleting the words "except that when feed grain is delivered to a Gulf of Mexico port exportation must be from the same port."

7. Section 484.127 is amended as follows:

a. At the end of the first sentences in § 484.127 (a) (1) and (2) delete the words "and the P. L. 480, 83d Congress, Purchase Authorization number, if applicable."

b. Section 484.127 (a) (3) is amended to read as follows:

(3) One copy of a grain inspection certificate issued by an inspector licensed under the United States Grain Standards Act which is properly identified to each cargo or carlot indicated in the bill of lading, or other form of documentary evidence of export.

8. Section 484.137 is amended by changing the section reference therein from "484.116" to "484.117."

9. Section 484.143 is deleted in its entirety.

10. Section 484.150 is amended by inserting "Canada" between "Alaska" and "Hawaii" so that the amended section shall read as follows:

§ 484.150 Eligible country. "Eligible country" means any destination outside the continental limits of the United States, excluding Alaska, Canada, Hawaii or Puerto Rico, and also excluding (a) any country or area listed as Sub-Group A of Group R of the Comprehensive Export Schedule issued by the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, U. S. Department of Commerce unless a license for shipment or transshipment thereto has been obtained from such Bureau; (b) Macao unless specific license for shipment or transshipment thereto has been obtained from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, U. S. Department of Commerce; or (c) Hong Kong in the case of any commodity for which a specific license is required by regulations of the U. S. Department of Commerce under the Export Control Act of 1949, unless such specific license for shipment or transshipment thereto has been obtained from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, U. S. Department of Commerce.

11. Section 484.151 is amended to read as follows:

§ 484.151 Export and exportation. "Exportation" and "export" means, except as hereinafter provided, a shipment from the continental United States destined to another area excluding Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. The feed grain so shipped shall be deemed to have been exported on the date which appears on the applicable on board ship ocean bill of lading, or if shipment from the continental U. S. is by truck or rail, the date the shipment clears United States Customs. If feed grain is lost, destroyed or damaged after loading on board an export ship, exportation shall be deemed to have been made as of the date of the on board ship ocean bill of lading or the latest date appearing on the loading tally sheet or similar documents if the loss, destruction or damage occurs subsequent to loading aboard ship but prior to issuance of on board ship ocean bill of lading.

(Note to Exporter: Since the export payment on any given quantity of feed grains is conditioned upon the timely exportation thereof to an eligible country, exporters may find it desirable to carry insurance on the full domestic value of feed grain against any loss which may occur prior to the feed grain leaving this country by rail or truck or prior to loading on the export vessel.)

Executive Vice President,
Commodity Credit Corporation.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter I—Agricultural Marketing Service (Standards, Inspections, Marketing Practices), Department of Agriculture

PART 52—PROCESSED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES, PROCESSED PRODUCTS THEREOF, AND CERTAIN OTHER PROCESSED FOOD PRODUCTS [1]

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

On June 3, 1958, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (23 F. R. 3815) regarding proposed amendments to existing regulations (7 CFR 52.1 to 52.87) governing the inspection and certification of processed fruits and vegetables, processed products thereof, and certain other food products.

After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposal set forth in the aforesaid notice, the following amendments of the aforesaid existing regulations governing inspection and certification of processed fruits and vegetables, processed products thereof, and certain other processed food products are hereby promulgated pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087 et seq., as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.).

1. In § 52.3 delete the definition of "Official device" and insert in lieu thereof the following:

Official device. "Official device" means a stamping appliance, branding device, stencil, printed label, or any other mechanically or manually operated tool that is approved by the Administrator for the purpose of applying any official mark or other identification to any product or the packaging material thereof; or any device approved and designated by the Administrator as a USDA official device for use as a color standard, defect guide, or other similar aid to interpret the United States Department of Agriculture grade standards and to facilitate conduct of the inspection service.

2. In § 52.53 Approved identification, add the following new paragraph:

(e) Licensing and identification of certain official devices. The Administrator may issue licenses permitting the manufacture, identification, distribution, and sale of any official device designated as a USDA color standard, defect guide or other similar aid under such terms and conditions as may be specified by the Administrator. Licenses shall be available to all persons meeting conditions prescribed by the Administrator, shall be nonexclusive, and shall be revocable for cause. No person shall manufacture, identify, distribute or sell any such official device except at the direction of or under license from the Administrator. Such official devices may be marked, tagged or otherwise designated with the prefix "USDA" together with other identifying words or symbols, as prescribed by the license.

For reasons hereinafter set forth it is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making these revisions to the regulations effective immediately on publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Since publication of these revisions in the exact form that they appear herein in the FEDERAL REGISTER of June 3, 1958, as a notice of proposed rule making, no adverse comments or suggestions have been received concerning them. The nature of the provisions contained in the revision of the regulations is well known to all persons who have shown any interest therein and no preparation is required prior to their effective date. Packers and other interested parties are urging that the Department make provision for the manufacture of inspection aids and other official devices as provided for in this revision. Accordingly, it is impractical and contrary to the public interest to postpone the effective date of these revisions beyond the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 205, 60 Stat. 1090, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1624)

Dated: June 26, 1958.

[SEAL] FRANK E. BLOOD,
Acting Deputy Administrator,
Marketing Services.

C. 1621–1627), including but not limited to the development and promulgation of grade standards, the inspection and certification, and improvement of transportation facilities and rates for fish and shellfish and any products thereof." In accordance with this determination the said regulations governing inspection of processed fruits and vegetables and processed products thereof and certain other processed food products (7 CFR 52.1 to 52.87) are hereby further amended, as follows:

a. In footnote 1 which applies to the heading "Part 52—Processed Fruits and Vegetables, Processed Products Thereof, and Certain Other Processed Products," delete the words "fishery products, except oil."

b. In § 52.38 in the title of Table I delete the words "Fishery Products."

c. In § 52.38 in the title of Table II delete the words "Fishery Products."

Notice of proposed rule making, public procedure thereon, and postponement of the effective time of this document later than July 1, 1958 (see Section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) are impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest for the reasons that: (1) Legislation provides that the fees charged shall be reasonable and shall as nearly as possible cover the cost of the service rendered; (2) the cost of such service is peculiarly within the knowledge of the Department and the fees set forth herein are necessary to more nearly cover such cost including, but not limited to increased salaries to Federal employees, required by recent legislation (Pub. Law 462, 85th Cong., 2d Sess., approved June 20, 1958); (3) it is imperative that the increase in fees become effective with the commencement of the new fiscal year; and (4) additional time is not required in order for the industry to make preparation for compliance with this amendment.

Dated: June 24, 1958, to become effective at 12:01 a. m., July 1, 1958.

Chapter III—Agricultural Research Service, Department of Agriculture

PART 354—OVERTIME SERVICES RELATING TO IMPORTS AND EXPORTS

OVERTIME, NIGHT, AND HOLIDAY INSPECTION AND QUARANTINE ACTIVITIES AT BORDER, COASTAL, AND AIRPORTS

Section 354.1 of Part 354, Title 7, Code of Federal Regulations, is further amended to read as follows:

§ 354.1 Overtime work at border ports, seaports, and airports. (a) Any person, firm, or corporation having ownership, custody or control of plants, plant products, or other commodities or articles subject to inspection, certification, or quarantine under this chapter, and who requires the services of an employee of the Plant Quarantine Division on a holiday or at any other time outside the regular tour of duty of such employee, shall sufficiently in advance of the period of overtime request the Division inspector in charge to furnish inspection, quarantine or certification service during such overtime period, and shall pay the Government therefor at the rate of $5.40 per man-hour per employee as follows: A minimum charge of two hours shall be made for any unscheduled overtime duty performed by an employee on a day when no work was scheduled for him or which is performed by an employee on his regular work day beginning either at least one hour before his scheduled tour of duty or at least one hour after he has completed his scheduled tour of duty, and has left his place of employment. In addition, each period of unscheduled overtime work which requires an employee to perform additional travel for which he would otherwise not be compensated, and each period of holiday duty, may include a commuted travel time period, not in excess of three hours. The amount of this period shall be prescribed in administrative instructions to be issued by the Director of the Plant Quarantine Division for the ports, stations, and areas in which the employees are located, and shall be established as nearly as may be practicable to cover the time necessarily spent in reporting to and returning from the place at which the employee performs such overtime duty if such travel is performed solely on account of such overtime duty. It will be administratively determined from time to time which days constitute holidays.

(b) The Division inspector in charge, in honoring a request to furnish inspection, quarantine, or certification service, shall assign employees to such overtime or holiday duty with due regard to the work program and availability of employees for such duty.

The purpose of this amendment is to increase the hourly rate for overtime services from $5.00 to $5.40 commensurate with salary increases provided in the Federal Employees Salary Increase Act of 1958 (Public Law 85-462).

The purpose of this amended section is to prescribe conditions under which a minimum charge may be made for unscheduled overtime duty, and to provide for a commuted travel time period for any such overtime duty involving additional and otherwise uncompensated travel. Determination of these conditions and travel time period depends entirely upon facts within the knowledge of the Department of Agriculture. It is to the benefit of the public that this amendment be made effective at the earliest practicable date. Accordingly, pursuant to the provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238), it is found upon good cause that notice and public procedure on this amendment are impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest and good cause is found for making this amendment effective less than thirty days after publication.

The foregoing amendment shall be effective June 29, 1958.

PART 992—IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN WASHINGTON

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 992.313 Limitation of shipments—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 113 and Order No. 92 (7 CFR Part 992), regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the State of Washington, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047), and upon the basis of the recommendations and information submitted by the State of Washington Potato Committee, established pursuant to said marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby found that it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule making procedure, and that good cause exists for not postponing the effective date of this section for 30 days or any other period beyond the date specified (5 U. S. C. 1007 et seq.) in that (i) the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, (ii) more orderly marketing in the public interest, than would otherwise prevail, will be promoted by regulating the shipment of potatoes, in the manner set forth below, on and after the effective date of this section, (iii) compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of handlers which cannot be completed by the effective date, (iv) a reasonable time is permitted under the circumstances for such preparation, and (v) information regarding the committee's recommendations has been made available to producers and handlers in the production area.

(b) Order. (1) Except as otherwise provided in this section, during the period from June 30, 1958, through May 31, 1959, no handler shall ship potatoes of any variety unless such potatoes are "fairly clean" and (i) if they are of the round varieties (including, but not limited to, Kennebec, Irish Cobbler, Bliss Triumph, and Pontiac varieties), such potatoes meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 2, or better, grade, 1⅞ inches minimum diameter, and (ii) if they are of the long varieties (including, but not limited to, White Rose, Russet Burbank, and Early Gem varieties), such potatoes meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 2, or better, grade, and are of a weight not less than 5 ounces: Provided, That potatoes of the U. S. Commercial, or better, grade, may be shipped if they are 2 inches minimum diameter or 4 ounces minimum weight, as such terms, grades, and sizes are defined in the United States Standards for Potatoes (§§ 51.1540 to 51.1559 of this title), including the tolerances set forth therein.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this section, during the period from June 30, 1958, through May 31, 1959, no handler shall ship (i) any lot of potatoes of the round varieties (including, but not limited to, Kennebec, Irish Cobbler, Bliss Triumph, Pontiac varieties) if more than 20 percent of the potatoes in such lot have more than one-half of the skin missing or "feathered," as such terms are used in the said United States Standards, or (ii) any lot of potatoes of the long varieties (including, but not limited to, White Rose, Russet Burbank, and Early Gem varieties) if such potatoes are more than "moderately skinned," which means that not more than 10 percent of the potatoes in such lot have more than one-half of the skin missing or "feathered," as such terms are used in the said United States Standards for Potatoes.

(3) Each handler may ship up to, but not exceed, 5 hundredweight of potatoes per day without regard to the inspection and assessment requirements of this part, but this exception shall not apply to any portion of a shipment of over 5 hundredweight of potatoes.

Subchapter D—Exportation and Importation of Animals and Animal Products

PART 97—OVERTIME SERVICES RELATING TO IMPORTS AND EXPORTS

OVERTIME, NIGHT AND HOLIDAY INSPECTION AND QUARANTINE ACTIVITIES AT BORDER, COASTAL AND AIRPORTS

Pursuant to the authority conferred by the Act of August 28, 1950 (64 Stat. 561; 5 U. S. C. 576) § 97.1 of Part 97, Title 9, of the Code of Federal Regulations is further amended to read as follows:

§ 97.1 Overtime work at border ports, seaport, and airports. Any person, firm, or corporation having ownership, custody or control of animals, animal byproducts, or other commodities subject to inspection, certification, or quarantine under this subchapter and Subchapter F of this chapter, and who requires the services of an employee of the Animal Inspection and Quarantine Division on a holiday, or at any other time outside the regular tour of duty of such employee, shall sufficiently in advance of the period of overtime request the Division inspector in charge to furnish inspection, certification or quarantine service during such overtime period and shall pay the Administrator, of the Agricultural Research Service at the rate of $5.40 per man hour per employee as follows: A minimum charge of two hours shall be made for any unscheduled overtime duty performed by an employee on a day when no work was scheduled for him or which is performed by an employee on his regular work day beginning either at least one hour before his scheduled tour of duty or at least one hour after he has completed his scheduled tour of duty, and has left his place of employment. In addition, each such period of unscheduled overtime work which requires an employee to perform additional travel for which he would otherwise not be compensated, and each period of holiday duty, may include a commuted travel time period, not in excess of three hours. The amount of this period shall be prescribed in administrative instructions to be issued by the Director of the Animal Inspection and Quarantine Division for the ports, stations, and areas in which the employees are located, and shall be established as nearly as may be practicable to cover the time necessarily spent in reporting to and returning from such overtime duty if such travel is performed solely on account of such overtime duty. It will be administratively determined from time to time which days constitute holidays.

Purpose. The purpose of this amendment is to increase the hourly rate for overtime services from $5.00 to $5.40 commensurate with salary increases provided in the Federal Employees Salary Increase Act of 1958 (Public Law 85-462). It is to the benefit of those who require such overtime services, as well as the public generally, that this amendment be made effective at the earliest practicable date. Accordingly, pursuant to the provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238), it is found upon good cause that notice and public procedure on this amendment are impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest, and good cause is found for making this amendment effective less than 30 days after publication.

Effective Date. The foregoing amendment shall be effective June 29, 1958.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 27th day of June 1958.

PART 39—MONTHLY RETURNS AND PAYMENT OF EMPLOYMENT TAXES

PARAGRAPH 1. The following regulations, relating to monthly returns and payment of certain employment taxes imposed by subtitle C of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, are hereby prescribed under those administrative provisions of subtitle F of such Code which are applicable to such taxes:

Sec.
39.1-1 Introduction.
39.1-2 Monthly tax returns.
39.1-3 Payment of tax.
39.1-4 Information returns or statements.
39.1-5 Extensions of time for filing information returns.
39.1-6 Application of regulations.

AUTHORITY: §§ 39.1-1 to 39.1-6 issued under sec. 7805, 68A Stat. 917; 26 U. S. C. 7805.

§ 39.1-1 Introduction. (a) The purpose of the regulations in this part is to provide rules for (1) the filing by employers, under certain circumstances, of monthly returns of employment taxes in lieu of quarterly returns, (2) the payment of the taxes required to be reported on such monthly returns, (3) the filing of quarterly information returns disclosing information similar to the information called for in Schedule A of Form 941, Form 941PR, or Form 941VI, and (4) the filing of Forms W-3 or similar statements, together with the district director's copies of Forms W-2, by employers who are required to file such monthly returns.

(b) The terms used in the regulations in this part have the same meaning as when used in the Employment Tax Regulations (Part 31 of this chapter), and as when used in Regulations 120 (26 CFR (1939) Part 406), and Regulations 128 (26 CFR (1939) Part 408), whichever is appropriate, to the extent such Regulations 120 and 128 are not superseded by such Employment Tax Regulations.

§ 39.1-2 Monthly tax returns—(a) Requirement. (1) The provisions of this section are applicable in respect of the taxes reportable on Form 941, Form 941PR, or Form 941VI pursuant to § 406.601 of Regulations 120 (26 CFR (1939) 406.601) or § 408.601 of Regulations 128 (26 CFR (1939) 408.601). An employer who is required by such § 406.601 or § 408.601 to make quarterly returns on any such form shall, in lieu of making such quarterly returns, make returns of such taxes in accordance with the regulations in this part if he is so notified in writing by the district director. The district director may so notify any employer (i) who, by reason of notification as provided in § 301.7512-1 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration), is required to comply with the provisions of such § 301.7512-1, or (ii) who has failed to (a) make any such return on Form 941, Form 941PR, or Form 941VI, (b) pay tax reportable on any such form, or (c) deposit any such tax pursuant to regulations relating to section 6302 (c) of the Code, at the time and in the manner prescribed by applicable regulations. Every employer so notified by the district director shall make a return for the calendar month in which the notice is received and for each calendar month thereafter (whether or not wages are paid in any such month) until he has filed a final return or is required to make quarterly returns pursuant to notification as provided in paragraph (b) of this section. However, if the notice provided for in this subparagraph is received after the close of the first month of a calendar quarter, the first return under this section shall be made for the period beginning with the first day of such quarter and ending with the last day of the month in which the notice is received.

(2) Each return required under this section shall be made on the form prescribed for making the return which would otherwise be required of the employer under the provisions of § 406.601 of Regulations 120 (26 CFR (1939) 406.601) or § 408.601 of Regulations 128 (26 CFR (1939) 408.601), except that, if some other form is furnished by the district director for use in lieu of such prescribed form, the return shall be made on such other form.

(3) Each return required under this section shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day following the period for which it is made. No extension of time for filing such return may be granted by the district director.

(b) Termination of requirement. The district director, in his discretion, may notify the employer in writing that he shall discontinue the filing of monthly returns under this section. If the employer is so notified, the last month for which a return shall be made under this section is the last month of the calendar quarter in which such notice of discontinuance is received. Thereafter, the employer shall make quarterly returns in accordance with the provisions of § 406.601 of Regulations 120 (26 CFR (1939) 406.601) or § 408.601 of Regulations 128 (26 CFR (1939) 408.601).

§ 39.1-3 Payment of tax. (a) The taxes required to be reported on each return required pursuant to § 39.1-2 are due and payable to the district director at the time prescribed in paragraph (a) (3) of § 39.1-2 for filing such return.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (b) of § 406.606 of Regulations 120 (26 CFR (1939) 406.606) and of paragraph (b) of § 408.607 of Regulations 128 (26 CFR (1939) 408.607), relating to deposits of taxes pursuant to section 6302 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, do not apply to taxes for the month in which the employer receives notice from the district director that returns are required under § 39.1-2, or for any subsequent month for which such a return is required.

§ 39.1-4 Information returns or statements—(a) Federal Insurance Contributions Act. (1) Every employer who is required under § 39.1-2 to make a return of tax under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act for any period within a calendar quarter shall make an information return for such calendar quarter. The information reported on such return shall include, with respect to each employee to whom the employer pays wages as defined in the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, the account number of the employee, the employee's name, the total amount of such wages paid by the employer to the employee during the calendar quarter, and such other information as may be called for on the form provided for making such return.

(2) Each return required under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall be made on Schedule A of Form 941, or the equivalent schedule of Form 941PR or Form 941VI, except that, if some other form or schedule is furnished by the district director for the purpose of making the return required by subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the return shall be made on such other form or schedule.

(3) Each information return required under this paragraph shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day following the calendar quarter for which it is made, except that, if a tax return under § 39.1-2 is made as a final return for a period ending prior to the last day of a calendar quarter, the information return shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day following the period for which the tax return is filed.

(b) Income tax withheld from wages. (1) Every employer who is required under § 39.1-2 to make a return of income tax withheld from wages for a period ending December 31, or for any period for which such return is made as a final return, shall make an information statement for the calendar year which includes such period.

(2) Each information statement required under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall be made on Form W-3, except that, if some other form is furnished by the district director for use in lieu of Form W-3, the information statement shall be made on such other form. The information statement shall be accompanied by the district director's copy of each withholding statement on Form W-2 required to be furnished by the employer with respect to wages paid during the calendar year (as well as such copy of each corrected statement for a prior year).

(3) Each information statement required by this paragraph shall be filed on or before January 31 following the calendar year, except that, if a return under § 39.1-2 is filed as a final return for a period ending prior to December 31, the information statement shall be filed on or before the last day of the month following such period.

§ 39.1-5 Extensions of time for filing information returns. The district director may, upon application of the employer, grant an extension of time in which to file any information return required under paragraph (a) of § 39.1-4. Such extension of time shall not extend beyond the last day of the calendar month in which occurs the due date prescribed in paragraph (a) of § 39.1-4 for filing the information return. Each application for an extension of time for filing an information return shall be made in writing, shall be addressed to the district director with whom the employer will file the return, and shall contain a full recital of the causes for the delay. The application shall be filed with the district director on or before the due date prescribed in paragraph (a) of § 39.1-4 for filing the return.

§ 39.1-6 Application of regulations. The regulations in this part supplement and modify provisions of existing regulations relating to returns, deposits, and payments of employment taxes, and shall be applicable after June 30, 1958, notwithstanding any existing regulation to the contrary.

PART 149—MONTHLY RETURNS AND PAYMENT OF EXCISE TAXES

PAR. 2. The following regulations, relating to monthly returns and payment of certain excise taxes imposed by subtitle D of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, are hereby prescribed under those administrative provisions of subtitle F of such Code which are applicable to such taxes:

Sec.
149.1-1 Introduction.
149.1-2 Monthly tax returns.
149.1-3 Payment of tax.
149.1-4 Application of regulations.

AUTHORITY: §§ 149.1-1 to 149.1-4 issued under sec. 7805, 68A Stat. 917; 26 U. S. C. 7805.

§ 149.1-1 Introduction. The purpose of the regulations in this part is to provide rules for (a) the filing, under certain circumstances, of monthly returns of excise taxes in lieu of quarterly returns, and (b) the payment of the taxes required to be reported on such monthly returns.

§ 149.1-2 Monthly tax returns—(a) Requirement. (1) The provisions of this section are applicable in respect of the taxes reportable on Form 720 pursuant to § 477.3 (a) of Treasury Decision 6025, approved July 3, 1953 (26 CFR (1939) 1957 Supp., 477.3 (a)). A person who is required by such § 477.3 (a) to make quarterly returns on Form 720 shall, in lieu of making such quarterly returns, make returns of such taxes in accordance with the regulations in this part if he is so notified in writing by the district director. The district director may so notify any person (i) who, by reason of notification as provided in § 301.7512-1 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration), is required to comply with the provisions of such § 301.7512-1, or (ii) who has failed to (a) make any such return on Form 720, (b) pay any tax reportable on Form 720, or (c) deposit any such tax pursuant to regulations relating to section 6302 (c) of the Code, at the time and in the manner prescribed by applicable regulations. Every person so notified by the district director shall make a return for the calendar month in which the notice is received and for each calendar month thereafter (whether or not tax liability is incurred in any such month) until he has filed a final return or is required to make quarterly returns pursuant to notification as provided in paragraph (b) of this section. However, if a person filing returns on a quarterly basis receives the notice provided for in this subparagraph after the close of the first month of a calendar quarter, the first return under this section shall be made for the period beginning with the first day of such quarter and ending with the last day of the month in which the notice is received.

(2) Each return required under this section shall be made on Form 720, except that, if some other form is furnished by the district director for use in lieu of Form 720, the return shall be made on such other form.

(3) Each return required under this section shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day following the period for which it is made. No extension of time for filing such return may be granted by the district director.

(b) Termination of requirement. The district director, in his discretion, may notify the person in writing that he shall discontinue the filing of monthly returns under this section. If the person is so notified, the last month for which a return shall be made under this section is the last month of the calendar quarter in which such notice of discontinuance is received. Thereafter, the person shall make quarterly returns in accordance with the provisions of § 477.3 (a) of Treasury Decision 6025 (26 CFR (1939) 1957 Supp., 477.3 (a)).

§ 149.1-3 Payment of tax. (a) The taxes required to be reported on each return required pursuant to § 149.1-2 are due and payable to the district director at the time prescribed in paragraph (a) (3) of § 149.1-2 for filing such return.

(b) The provisions of § 477.4 (c) of Treasury Decision 6025 (26 CFR (1939) 1957 Supp., 477.4 (c)), relating to deposits of taxes pursuant to section 6302 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, do not apply to taxes for any month, required to be reported on a return made pursuant to § 149.1-2, unless the due date prescribed in such § 477.4 (c) for making the deposit for such month occurs prior to the due date prescribed in paragraph (a) (3) of § 149.1-2 for filing such return.

§ 149.1-4 Application of regulations. The regulations in this part supplement and modify provisions of existing regulations relating to returns, deposits, and payments of excise taxes, and shall be applicable after June 30, 1958, notwithstanding any existing regulation to the contrary. However, any notice in effect under the provisions of § 477.3 (b) of Treasury Decision 6025 (26 CFR (1939) 1957 Supp., 477.3 (b)) requiring the filing of a return for the month in which the regulations in this part are published in the FEDERAL REGISTER shall continue in effect as a notice under § 149.1-2 received in the month following the month of such publication.

PART 301—PROCEDURE AND ADMINISTRATION

PAR. 3. The Regulations on Procedure and Administration (Part 301) are amended to conform to the amendments made to chapter 77 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 by the Act of February 11, 1958 (Public Law 85-321, 72 Stat. 5), relating to separate accounting for certain collected taxes, by inserting immediately after § 301.7511 the following new sections:

§ 301.7512 Statutory provisions; separate accounting for certain collected taxes, etc.

SEC. 7512. Separate accounting for certain collected taxes, etc.—(a) General rule. Whenever any person who is required to collect, account for, and pay over any tax imposed by subtitle C or by chapter 33—

(2) Is notified, by notice delivered in hand to such person, of any such failure, then all the requirements of subsection (b) shall be complied with. In the case of a corporation, partnership, or trust, notice delivered in hand to an officer, partner or trustee, shall, for purposes of this section, be deemed to be notice delivered in hand to such corporation, partnership, or trust and to all officers, partners, trustees, and employees thereof.

(b) Requirements. Any person who is required to collect, account for, and pay over any tax imposed by subtitle C or by chapter 33, if notice has been delivered to such person in accordance with subsection (a), shall collect the taxes imposed by subtitle C or chapter 33 which become collectible after delivery of such notice, shall (not later than the end of the second banking day after any amount of such taxes is collected) deposit such amount in a separate account in a bank (as defined in section 581), and shall keep the amount of such taxes in such account until payment over to the United States. Any such account shall be designated as a special fund in trust for the United States, payable to the United States by such person as trustee.

(c) Relief from further compliance with subsection (b). Whenever the Secretary or his delegate is satisfied, with respect to any notification made under subsection (a), that all requirements of law and regulations with respect to the taxes imposed by subtitle C or chapter 33, as the case may be, will hereafter be complied with, he may cancel such notification. Such cancellation shall take effect at such time as is specified in the notice of such cancellation.

[Sec. 7512 as added by sec. 1, Act of Feb. 11, 1958 (Pub. Law 85-321, 72 Stat. 5)]

(2) Deposit the taxes so collected, not later than the end of the second banking day after collection, with a bank, as defined in section 581, in a separate account established in accordance with paragraph (c) of this section; and

In the case of a trade or business carried on other than as a sole proprietorship, such as a corporation, partnership, or trust, notice delivered in hand to an officer, partner, or trustee shall be deemed to be notice delivered in hand to such corporation, partnership, or trust and to all officers, partners, trustees, and employees thereof.

(e) Cancellation of notice. The district director may relieve a person to whom notice requiring separate accounting has been given pursuant to section 7512 and this section from further compliance with such separate accounting requirements whenever he is satisfied that such person will comply with all requirements of the Code and the regulations applicable, in respect of the taxes to which the notice relates, in the case of persons not required to comply with the provisions of section 7512 (b). Notice of cancellation of the requirement for separate accounting shall be made in writing and shall take effect at such time as is specified in the notice of cancellation.

(f) Penalties. For criminal penalty for failure to comply with any provision of section 7512, see section 7215. Chapter II—Civil Aeronautics Administration, Department of Commerce

[Amdt. 76]

PART 609—STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES

PROCEDURE ALTERATIONS

The standard instrument approach procedures appearing hereinafter are adopted to become effective when indicated in order to promote safety. Compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and therefore is not required.

Part 609 is amended as follows:

NOTE: Where the general classification (L/MFR, ADF, VOR, TerVOR, VOR/DME, ILS, or RADAR), location, and procedure number (if any) of any procedure in the amendments which follow, are identical with an existing procedure, that procedure is to be substituted for the existing one, as of the effective date given, to the extent that it differs from the existing procedure; where a procedure is cancelled, the existing procedure is revoked; new procedures are to be placed in appropriate alphabetical sequence within the section amended.

1. The low or medium frequency range procedures prescribed in § 609.100 (a) are amended to read in part:

LFR STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURE

Bearings, headings, courses and radials are magnetic. Elevations and altitudes are in feet MSL. Ceilings are in feet above airport elevation. Distances are in nautical miles unless otherwise indicated, except visibilities which are in statute miles.

If an instrument approach procedure of the above type is conducted at the below named airport, it shall be in accordance with the following instrument approach procedure, unless an approach is conducted in accordance with a different procedure for such airport authorized by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics. Initial approaches shall be made over specified routes. Minimum altitudes shall correspond with those established for en route operation in the particular area or as set forth below.

TITLE 33—NAVIGATION AND NAVIGABLE WATERS

Chapter IV—Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation

PART 401—OPERATING REGULATIONS

The Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, a Corporate agency of the United States, created by Public Law 358, 83d Congress, approved May 13, 1954 (68 Stat. 92; 33 U. S. C. 981) hereby promulgates operating regulations governing the use by vessels and persons of the St. Lawrence Seaway, in the area approximately between Tibbetts Point and the Raquette River on the St. Lawrence River, and as shown on the General Seaway Plan. These regulations will be cited as United States Seaway Operating Regulations of July 1, 1958.

Sec.
401.1 Definitions.
401.2 General provisions.
401.3 Equipment, trim and manning of vessels.
401.4 Communications.
401.5 Navigating instructions.
401.6 Vessel traffic control.
401.7 Lockages.
401.8 Dangerous cargo.
401.9 Access to Corporation property.

AUTHORITY: §§ 401.1 to 401.9 issued under sec. 4, 68 Stat. 94, as amended; 33 U. S. C. 984.

§ 401.1 Definitions. As used in the regulations in this part the following words will have the meaning ascribed:

(a) "Act" means the Enabling Act of the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, as amended. (68 Stat. 92; 33 U. S. C. 981)

(b) "Anchorage" means a place to anchor shown on the General Seaway Plan or designated by competent authority.

(c) "Downbound" means proceeding downstream, generally in an easterly direction, towards Montreal;

(d) "Lock supervisor" means the person in immediate charge of a lock;

(e) "Master" means the person in charge of a vessel;

(f) "Mooring wall" means a prescribed wall in a lock on which a vessel's lines may be fastened when passing through;

(g) "Navigation season" means the period prescribed by the Corporation for navigation on the Seaway, from the date of the official opening to the date of the official closing of the season;

(h) "Passing through" means the operation of going through or using a lock;

(i) "Station" means a radio station installed at a prescribed point;

(j) "Tie-up" means a prescribed wall where vessels may tie-up prior to or after passing through;

(k) "Transit" means the use of the Seaway in whole or in part;

(l) "Upbound" means proceeding upstream, generally in a westerly direction, towards Lake Ontario;

(m) "Vessel" means every type of water craft or artificial contrivance used, or capable of being used, as a means of transportation on water.

§ 401.2 General provision. (a) All vessels using the United States portion of the Seaway and their owners and other persons having immediate possession and control thereof, pursuant to contract, lease, charter or other arrangement, their masters, agents and representatives, shall comply with the regulations in this part as well as rules and directions issued hereunder by appropriate authority. In addition to other applicable penalties or sanctions, vessels in violation of applicable laws, regulations or local rules or directions are subject to having passage of locks denied them.

(b) Subject to the act and the regulations in this part, the Corporation's Administrator, Deputy Administrator, or the Superintendent of Marine and Engineering Operations, or the designee of any of them, shall have authority to issue operational and transiting instructions to all vessels using the St. Lawrence Seaway in United States waters generally between Tibbetts Point and Raquette River and as shown on the General Seaway Plan. Such instructions may be issued to all concerned by published rules, or in the event of emergency, or where otherwise required by circumstances, may be issued orally to an individual person or vessel.

(c) The regulations in this part shall not be construed as affecting directly or by implication the application of regulations or rules made under other acts by other agencies. All requirements, including but not limited to requirements relating to navigation or radio communication under such other acts or regulations, remain unaffected.

§ 401.3 Equipment, trim and manning of vessels. (a) All transiting vessels shall be properly trimmed and in safe and satisfactory condition for passage through.

(b) Masters shall ascertain, before transiting, that deck loads, if any, are stowed in such a manner as not to affect dangerously the vessel's stability and not to impede materially the crew in the exercise of their functions when transiting.

(c) In order to assure safety of life and property, as well as to assure safe and expeditious use of the Seaway, the Corporation may deny a vessel passage through when, in its opinion, the vessel is manned with a crew whom it deems to be insufficient or incompetent, or when the vessel, its crew, equipment or machinery is, in any respect, in such a condition as to preclude or endanger the safe or expeditious transiting of any vessel through the Seaway.

(d) For the purpose of enforcing the regulations in this part, a lock supervisor, or other person designated by authority of the Administrator, may stop any vessel before it enters a lock and examine the vessel or check the crew.

(e) A vessel shall not be allowed to transit unless it is equipped in the manner prescribed herein, or in the manner prescribed by competent authority of the Corporation pursuant to § 401.2 (b), and unless it is provided with adequate operating and safety equipment including, but not limited to:

(1) Two good and sufficient lines, one at the bow and one at the stern, one line leading forward and the other leading aft, when the vessel does not exceed 150 feet in length or 200 registered gross tons;

(2) Four good and sufficient lines, two leading forward and two leading aft, all so arranged that they may be used from either side of the vessel, and each of these lines runs from the main drum of a power driven winch, when the vessel exceeds 150 feet in overall length or 200 registered gross tons;

(3) Winches of sufficient power to allow full control of the vessel during the passage through.

(4) Fair-leads fitted on both sides of the vessel for the proper leading of the lines;

(5) Adequate fenders where the vessel carries dangerous cargo or where any structural part of the vessel protrudes, such fenders to be of buoyant material and securely fastened to the vessel;

(6) Radio equipment otherwise prescribed by United States law or United States regulations, and as prescribed by the Corporation, and

(7) Navigation lights required by United States law and regulations relating to navigation on the Great Lakes and their Connecting and Tributary Waters. (33 U. S. C. 241-295; 33 CFR Part 90.)

§ 401.4 Communications. (a) All vessels fitted with radio telephone shall, upon reaching a calling-in point prescribed by the Corporation, give notice of arrival in the manner prescribed. All vessels not fitted with radio telephone shall give notice of arrival in the manner prescribed by competent authority.

(b) Between the call-in points on both sides of a lock, as shown on the General Seaway Plan, or as specially designated.

(c) When the vessel is to use the Seaway, the master shall give notice of his intention to do so at a station and shall furnish all the prescribed information.

(d) Notice of arrival shall not be deemed to have been given until it has been acknowledged by the station.

(e) When the master intends to pass through, he shall be subject to all instructions given by the station in connection with passage through.

(f) The Corporation exercises full discretion with respect to the relative order of passing through; it may have a vessel wait or tie-up and, if it deems it warranted, refuse permission to approach a lock, tie-up or pass through.

(g) Communications between vessels in the Seaway and the Vessel Traffic Controller at Eisenhower Lock shall be conducted via voice radio, using the proper frequencies in either the MF or VHF range which have been established by the respective Agreements between the United States and Canadian Governments effective May 13, 1954, and August 20, 1957.

(h) Eisenhower Lock Radio Station—Vessel Traffic Control Station No. 3

	2003 kc	Working.
VHF frequency (FM)	156.8 mc	Safety/Calling.
	156.7 mc	Primary Working (Preferred).
	156.6 mc	Secondary Working.

(i) The order of priority of radio communications to be transmitted on 2182 kc or 156.8 mc is as follows:

(1) Distress
(2) Urgency
(3) Safety
(4) Vessel Traffic Control—St. Lawrence Seaway

(j) (1) Each vessel shall maintain a continuous Listening Watch on the safety-calling frequencies for which it is equipped (2182 kc, 156.8 mc) in accordance with Article 7 of the Agreement of November 13, 1954.

(2) Permission to break Listening Watch may be granted when a vessel requests permission of the Vessel Traffic Controller to break the Listening Watch for other reasons than communication with the Vessel Traffic Controller.

(3) Each vessel shall keep a "Record of Use (Log) of the Radio Telephone Installation for Safety Purposes" in accordance with Regulation 4 (1) of the Agreement of November 13, 1954. This record shall be available for examination in accordance with Regulation 4 (2) and also by the Seaway Development Corporation officials. Time shall be expressed in Eastern Standard Time or Eastern Daylight Time, counted from 000 to 2400 hours starting at midnight.

(4) The frequencies used for contacting and communicating with the Vessel Traffic Controller shall be used only to transmit information essential to expedite the safe and speedy transportation of vessel traffic through the Seaway, and shall take precedence over all commercial messages.

§ 401.5 Navigating instructions. (a) Navigational rules required by United States Laws and Regulations relating to navigation on the Great Lakes and their Connecting and Tributary Waters (33 U. S. C. 241-295; 33 CFR Part 90) apply to any vessel in United States waters transiting the Seaway.

(b) No vessel shall exceed the speeds indicated with respect to certain zones shown on the General Seaway Plan, or as specially indicated by the Corporation.

(c) When a master has been instructed to proceed forward to a tie-up wall or to pass through, he shall not have his vessel overtake another vessel unless expressly instructed to do so.

(d) The Corporation assumes no responsibility when providing aids to navigation.

(e) Whenever a buoy or a marker or other type of aid to navigation appears to a master to have been damaged or to be other than indicated on the General Seaway Plan, he shall report it as soon as possible to the nearest station.

(f) No vessel shall pass through unless expressly instructed or allowed to do so by the lock supervisor.

(g) Passing through and the procedure for locking shall be conducted in the manner prescribed by the Corporation.

(h) The master is responsible at all times for the control of his vessel to avoid collision with other vessels or damage to any Corporation property.

(i) The crew of a vessel shall assist in the passing through.

(j) Loading or unloading of goods and cargo and going-ashore of crew members are prohibited within a lock and shall only be allowed at a tie-up wall when the lock supervisor, or higher authority in the Corporation has granted permission.

(k) A vessel shall not leave a mooring wall until the order has been given by the lock supervisor to cast off the mooring lines.

§ 401.6 Vessel traffic control. (a) The Corporation directs marine traffic through the Vessel Traffic Controller (Dispatcher) who is located in the Upper Control Tower, Eisenhower Lock. This has been designated as Vessel Traffic Control Station Number 3.

(b) (1) Tie-up berths are indicated on the General Seaway Plan, Appendix I to Rules.

(2) Vessels using tie-up berths will use their own personnel to handle lines.

(c) Except in an emergency, or when specifically directed to do so, vessels shall not anchor in the approaches to locks, in the channel of the St. Lawrence River south of Cornwall Island, in the "Intermediate Pool" or in the upper reaches of Wiley-Dondero Ship Canal. Vessels shall not overtake and pass other vessels proceeding in the same direction in the upper reaches of the Wiley-Dondero Ship Canal, in the Intermediate Pool, or in South Channel (Cornwall Island), without first obtaining permission of the Vessel Traffic Controller. Upbound vessels shall give way and keep clear of downbound vessels in the turns of South Channel (Cornwall Island).

(d) (1) On passing Vessel Reporting Station Number 6 (VRS No. 6), off Hamilton Island Light, report to Vessel Traffic Controller, Eisenhower Lock, giving name of vessel and any change in estimated time of arrival (ETA); thence proceed as directed.

(2) If unable to establish contact, continue attempts to do so passing through Reporting Stations 6a and 6b located as follows:

6a—Off East and St. Regis Island.
6b—When coming on Raquette River Range.

(e) (1) On passing Vessel Reporting Station Number 7 (VRS No. 7), off Bradford Island Light No. 71, report to Vessel Traffic Controller, Eisenhower Lock, giving name of vessel and any change in estimated time of arrival (ETA), thence proceed as directed.

(2) In event contact is not made, continue trying when passing through Vessel Reporting Stations 7a and 7b located as follows:

7a—Off Wilson Hill Island Light No. 63.
7b—Off Richards Point Light No. 55.

(f) When vessels find it necessary or desirable to anchor, the master shall so advise the Vessel Traffic Controller.

(g) Due to inclement weather, poor visibility or other conditions, traffic through locks may be temporarily suspended. In such event, adjacent Canadian locks will be notified and every effort will be made to notify all vessels en route to U. S. locks.

§ 401.7 Lockages. (a) The authority of the Corporation over vessels in locks is exercised through the Lockmaster at each lock. The Lockmaster is responsible for the lockage of vessels through his lock, the Master, however, remains in control of the movement of his vessel in the locks. Instructions from the Lockmaster will be accepted and carried out by the Master unless, in his opinion, compliance with such instructions would jeopardize the vessel.

(b) Light signal meanings:

Red Light—Stand Off.
Flashing Red Light—Locks Being Readied.
Green Light—Enter Lock.

(c) (1) Loudspeakers located at extreme ends of tie-up walls and power pack loud hailers may be used by the Lockmaster for purposes of additional instructions, or in event of signal light failure.

(2) Horns are located on lock control houses, pointed upstream and downstream. They may be used to sound danger signal, five (5) or more short blasts. In such case, the vessel will hold off regardless of lights until "secure", two (2) long blasts, is sounded.

(d) (1) Master observes flashing red light while locks are being readied to receive lockage. Prepare to enter lock.

(2) When locks are readied, green light will show on single lockage. Enter lock at slow speed.

(3) When vessel's bridge clears the inbound lock signal light, light turns to red.

(4) Tandem lockage, light stays green until second or last vessel's bridge clears the inbound lock signal light.

(e) (1) When it appears to either the Lockmaster or vessel's master that the vessel is out of control, or the headway of the vessel is such as to endanger the gates or fender, either may order an emergency (full) check of the vessel.

(2) When such is ordered by either, the vessel's master shall sound four (4) or more short blasts on the whistle in rapid succession, and if such is possible, shall back down on the vessel's engine until the vessel is dead in the water.

(3) The Lockmaster will order lines placed on the nearest snubbing buttons (bollards) so that lines can serve as spring-lines leading aft from the vessel. Thereafter the master will use lines to the maximum extent possible without parting the lines so as to check the forward movement of his vessel. The Lockmaster will reposition lines as may be desired by the vessel's master.

(f) Vessels will not be released from a lock until clearance has been obtained from the Vessel Traffic Controller (Dispatcher). When gates and fender booms are fully opened, Lockmaster shall issue instructions to release lockage.

§ 401.8 Dangerous cargo. (a) Pursuant to the regulations in this part, the master of a vessel who is subject to the Dangerous Cargo Act (46 U. S. C. 170) or the Tanker Act (46 U. S. C. 391a) and the U. S. Coast Guard regulations issued thereunder, shall disclose such fact to the station when giving notice of arrival.

(b) The ship's agent shall warrant in writing on a prescribed form that dangerous cargo is properly loaded, charged, stowed, handled and disclosed, as the case may be, in accordance with applicable United States Law and regulations.

(c) The Corporation reserves the right to verify compliance of vessels with the provisions of the Dangerous Cargo Act and the Tanker Act and to verify proper stowage of such cargo, and reserves the right to deny passage through the Seaway in such cases where, in the opinion of the Corporation's representatives, such passage would endanger life or property.

§ 401.9 Access to corporation property. (a) There shall be no access by anyone to any property of the Corporation except when expressly authorized.

(b) The Corporation may prescribe local rules for the use and leasing of any of its property and for the control of all traffic over its property, including bridges, roads and parking area.

Effective dates. The regulations in this part are effective on and after July 1, 1958.

Public notice of rule making. The nearness of the date on which vessels may transit the Seaway makes it impracticable, unnecessary and contrary to the public interest to give notice and to follow routine public and rule making procedure looking toward the establishment of these regulations and a delay of not less than thirty (30) days in their effectiveness subsequent to publication.

TOLERANCES AND EXEMPTIONS FROM TOLERANCES FOR PESTICIDE CHEMICALS IN OR ON RAW AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

NOTICE OF FILING OF PETITION FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF TOLERANCES FOR RESIDUES OF MANEB

Pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408 (d) (1), 68 Stat. 512; 21 U. S. C. 346a (d) (1)), the following notice is issued:

A petition has been filed by E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, Inc., Wilmington 98, Delaware, proposing the establishment of tolerances of 10 parts per million for residues of maneb (manganous ethylenebisdithiocarbamate), calculated as zinc ethylenebisdithiocarbamate, in or on each of the raw agricultural commodities broccoli, brussels sprouts, cauliflower, kohlrabi.

The analytical method proposed in the petition for determining residues of maneb is that described by H. L. Pease in "Determination of Dithiocarbamate Fungicide Residues," published in the Journal of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists, Volume 40, pages 1113–1118 (November 1957).

U. S. STANDARDS FOR APPLES[1]

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering amendments to the United States Standards for Apples (7 CFR 51.300 to 51.327), as hereinafter set forth, pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946

[1] Packing of the product in conformity with the requirements of these standards shall not excuse failure to comply with the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

(60 Stat. 1087 et seq., as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.).

All persons who desire to submit written data, views or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed amendments to the standards should file the same with the Chief, Fresh Products Standardization and Inspection Branch, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, South Building, Washington 25, D. C., not later than July 31, 1958.

It is proposed that § 51.302 be amended to permit apples of the Yellow Newtown or similar varieties to have an aggregate area not to exceed 25 percent of the surface of an apple to be covered with smooth solid russeting including any russeting in the stem cavity or calyx basin.

It is proposed that § 51.306 be amended so as to require Combination U. S. Extra Fancy and U. S. Fancy grade to have at least 50 percent of apples that meet the requirements of U. S. Extra Fancy grade, and that paragraphs (b) and (c) in § 51.310, pertaining to application of tolerances to the Combination grades be reworded to reflect this change in a new paragraph designated (b).

It is proposed that the title preceding and in § 51.317 be changed from "Standards for Export" to "Standards for Condition."

It is also proposed that the wording in § 51.325 (b) (3) pertaining to damage by hail marks, drought spots and other similar scars or depressions be changed so as to permit hail marks up to one-fourth inch in diameter, where the skin has been broken, provided the injury is well healed and not more than slightly depressed.

GRADES

§ 51.300 U. S. Extra Fancy. "U. S. Extra Fancy" consists of apples of one variety which are mature, but not overripe, carefully hand-picked, clean, well formed; free from decay, internal browning, internal breakdown, scald, scab, bitter pit, Jonathan spot, freezing injury, broken skins and bruises (except those that are slight and incident to proper handling and packing), and visible water core. The apples shall also be free from injury caused by russeting, sunburn or spray burn, limb rubs, hail, drought spots, scars, stem or calyx cracks, other disease, insects, or mechanical or other means. Each apple of this grade shall have the amount of color specified in § 51.308 for the variety. (See §§ 51.308, 51.310, and 51.313.)

§ 51.301 U. S. Fancy. "U. S. Fancy" consists of apples of one variety which are mature but not overripe, carefully hand-picked, clean, fairly well formed; free from decay, internal browning, internal breakdown, bitter pit, Jonathan spot, scald, freezing injury, broken skins and bruises (except those incident to proper handling and packing), and visible water core. The apples shall also be free from damage caused by russeting, sunburn, or spray burn, limb rubs, hail, drought spots, scars, stem or calyx cracks, other diseases, insects, or mechanical or other means. Each apple of this grade shall have the amount of color specified in § 51.308 for the variety. (See §§ 51.308, 51.310, and 51.313.)

§ 51.302 U. S. No. 1. The requirements for this grade are the same as U. S. Fancy except for color and russeting. In this grade less color is required for all varieties except yellow and green varieties, for which the requirements for both grades are the same. Apples of this grade shall be free from excessive damage caused by russeting which means that they shall meet the russeting requirements for U. S. Fancy as defined under the definitions of "damage by russeting" except for the following:

(a) The aggregate area of an apple which may be covered by smooth net-like russeting shall not exceed 25 percent; and,

(b) The aggregate area of an apple which may be covered by smooth solid russeting shall not exceed 10 percent: Provided, That in the case of the Yellow Newtown or similar varieties the aggregate area of an apple which may be covered with smooth solid russeting shall not exceed 25 percent including any russeting in the stem cavity or calyx basin. (See §§ 51.308, 51.310, and 51.313.)

§ 51.303 U. S. No. 1 Cookers. "U. S. No. 1 Cookers" consist of apples of one variety which meets the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade except as to color. This grade is provided for apples which are mature but which may not have sufficient color to meet the specifications of U. S. No. 1. (See §§ 51.310 and 51.313.)

§ 51.304 U. S. No. 1 Early. "U. S. No. 1 Early" consists of apples of one variety which meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade except as to color, maturity and size. Apples of this grade have no color requirements, need not be mature, and shall be not less than 2 inches in diameter. This grade is provided for varieties such as Duchess, Gravenstein, Red June, Twenty Ounce, Wealthy, Williams, Yellow Transparent, and Lodi, or other varieties which are normally marketed during the summer months. (See §§ 51.310 and 51.313.)

(1) Combination U. S. Extra Fancy and U. S. Fancy.

(2) Combination U. S. Fancy and U. S. No. 1.

(3) Combination U. S. No. 1 and U. S. Utility.

(b) Combinations other than these are not permitted in connection with the United States apple grades. When any one of the above combinations is packed, at least 50 percent of the apples in any lot shall meet the requirements of the higher grade in the combination. (See §§ 51.308, 51.310, and 51.313.)

§ 51.307 U. S. Hail grade. "U. S. Hail grade" consists of apples which meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade except that hail marks where the skin has not been broken and well healed hail marks where the skin has been broken shall be permitted, provided the apples are fairly well formed. (See §§ 51.308, 51.310, and 51.313.)

COLOR

§ 51.308 Color requirements. In addition to the requirements specified for the grades set forth in §§ 51.300 to 51.307, apples of these grades shall have the percentage of color specified for the variety in Table I appearing in this section. For the solid red varieties the percentage stated refers to the area of the surface which must be covered with a good shade of solid red characteristic of the variety: Provided, That an apple having color of a lighter shade of solid red or striped red than that considered as a good shade of red characteristic of the variety may be admitted to a grade, provided it has sufficient additional area covered so that the apple has as good an appearance as one with the minimum percentage of good red characteristic of the variety required for the grade. For the striped red varieties the percentage stated refers to the area of the surface in which the stripes of good shade of red characteristic of the variety shall predominate over stripes of lighter red, green, or yellow. However, an apple having color of a lighter shade than that considered as a good shade of red characteristic of the variety may be admitted to a grade: Provided, That it has sufficient additional area covered so that the apple has as good an appearance as one with the minimum percentage of stripes of a good red characteristic of the variety required for the grade. Faded brown stripes shall not be considered as color except in the case of the Gray Baldwin variety.

UNCLASSIFIED

§ 51.309 Unclassified. "Unclassified" consists of apples which are not graded in conformity with any of the foregoing grades. The term "unclassified" is not a grade within the meaning of these standards but is provided as a designation to show that no definite grade has been applied to the lot.

TOLERANCES

§ 51.310 Tolerances. (a) In order to allow for variations incident to proper grading and handling, not more than a total of 10 percent of the apples in any lot may fail to meet the requirements of the grade: Provided, That not more than one-half of this amount, or 5 percent, shall be allowed for apples which are seriously damaged by insects and including not more than 1 percent for apples affected by decay or internal breakdown or both.

(b) When applying the foregoing tolerances to the Combination grades, no part of any tolerance shall be allowed to reduce, for the lot as a whole, the 50 percent of apples of the higher grade required in the combination but individual containers shall have not less than 40 percent of the higher grade.

§ 51.311 Application of tolerances to individual packages. The contents of individual packages in the lot, based on sample inspection, are subject to the following limitations provided the averages for the entire lot are within the tolerances specified for the grade:

(a) For packages which contain more than 10 pounds, and a tolerance of 10 percent or more is provided (as in the case of size, where a tolerance of 15 percent is provided) individual packages in any lot shall have not more than one and one-half times the tolerance specified. For packages which contain more than 10 pounds and a tolerance of less than 10 percent is provided, individual packages in any lot shall have not more than double the tolerance specified, except that at least one apple which is seriously damaged by insects or affected by decay or internal breakdown may be permitted in any package.

(b) For packages which contain 10 pounds or less, individual packages in any lot are not restricted as to the percentage of defects: Provided, That not more than one apple which is seriously damaged by insects or affected by decay or internal breakdown may be permitted in any package.

§ 51.312 Basis of calculating percentages. (a) When the numerical count is marked on the container, percentages shall be calculated on the basis of count.

(b) When the minimum diameter or minimum and maximum diameters are marked on the container, percentages shall be calculated on the basis of weight.

(c) When the apples are in bulk, percentages shall be calculated on the basis of weight.

CONDITION

§ 51.313 Condition after storage or transit. Decay, scald, or any other deterioration which may have developed on apples after they have been in storage or transit shall be considered as affecting condition and not the grade.

SIZE

§ 51.314 Size requirements. (a) The numerical count or the minimum diameter of the apples packed in a closed container shall be indicated on the container.

(b) When the numerical count is marked on the container the minimum size of the largest apple shall be not more than one-fourth inch larger than the minimum size of the smallest apple.

(c) When the numerical count is not shown the minimum diameter shall be plainly stamped, stenciled, or otherwise marked on the container in terms of whole inches, whole and half inches, whole and quarter inches, or whole and eighth inches, as 2½ inches minimum, 2¼ inches minimum, or 2⅝ inches minimum, in accordance with the facts. It is suggested that both minimum and maximum diameters be marked on the container, as 2¼ to 2¾ inches, or 2½ to 2¾ inches, as such marking is especially desirable for apples marketed in the export trade.

(d) The measurement for minimum size shall be the largest diameter of the apple taken at right angles to a line from the stem end to the blossom end. The measurement for maximum size shall be the smallest dimension of the apple determined by passing the apple through a round opening.

(e) In order to allow for variations incident to proper sizing, not more than 5 percent of the apples in any lot may not meet the size requirements: Provided, That, when the maximum and minimum sizes are both stated, an additional 10 percent tolerance shall be allowed for apples which are larger than the maximum size stated.

PACKING AND MARKING

§ 51.315 Packing requirements.—(a) Representative face packing. Each package shall be packed so that the apples on the shown face shall be reasonably representative in size, color and quality of the contents of the package.

(b) Boxes. (1) Apples packed in the standard northwestern apple boxes shall be arranged in the containers according to the approved and recognized methods with the stem pointing toward the ends of the boxes, except when jumbled. All packages shall be well filled but not to the extent as to cause excessive or unnecessary bruising to the apples because of overfilled packages. Apples packed in the standard northwestern apple boxes shall be tightly packed with sufficient bulge to prevent any appreciable movement of the apples within the containers when lidded. Each wrapped apple shall be completely enclosed by its individual wrapper.

(2) Apples packed in other type boxes, such as nailed wooden boxes, wirebound boxes, and fibreboard boxes, may be place packed, jumbled packed faced, or jumble packed, and all packs shall be well filled.

(3) Apples packed in boxes equipped with cell compartments or molded trays shall be of the proper size for the cells or the molds in which they are packed.

(4) Apples packed in consumer unit cartons and packed into shipping containers shall completely fill the shipping container.

(c) Baskets. Apples packed in U. S. standard bushel baskets, one-half bushel baskets and five-eighths bushel baskets may be ring faced and shall be tightly packed with sufficient bulge to prevent any appreciable movement of the apples within the containers when lidded.

(d) Tolerances. In order to allow for variations incident to proper packing, not more than 5 percent of the containers in any lot may not meet these requirements.

§ 51.316 Suggestions for marking containers. (a) In order to conserve space, abbreviations may be used for marking United States grade names on containers. The following abbreviations are suggested where it is not desired to use the full grade name:

(1) U. S. Ex. Fcy. for U. S. Extra Fancy.
(2) U. S. Fcy. for U. S. Fancy.
(3) U. S. No. 1 for U. S. No. 1.
(4) U. S. Util. for U. S. Utility.

(5) Combination grades may be designated by abbreviations of the grades preceded by the abbreviation "Comb.", as "Comb. U. S. Fcy.-U. S. No. 1".

STANDARDS FOR CONDITION

§ 51.317 Standards for condition. (a) The apples in any lot shall be generally tightly packed when in baskets, and generally fairly tightly or tightly packed when in boxes.

(b) Not more than 5 percent of the apples in any lot shall be further advanced in maturity than firm ripe.

(c) Not more than 5 percent of the apples in any lot shall be damaged by storage scab.

(d) Not more than a total of 5 percent of the apples in any lot shall be damaged by bitter pit, Jonathan spot, scald, internal breakdown, water core, freezing, decay, or other such condition factors: Provided, That:

(1) Not more than 2 percent shall be allowed for apples affected by decay;

(2) Not more than 2 percent shall be allowed for damage by internal breakdown; and,

(3) Not more than 2 percent of slight scald shall be permitted for apples properly packed in oiled paper or which have been especially treated with oil to prevent scald; otherwise, the apples must be free from scald.

(e) Any lot of apples shall be considered as meeting the standards for conditions if the entire lot averages within the requirements specified: Provided, That no sample from the containers in any lot is found to exceed double the percentages specified, except that for packages which contain 10 pounds or less, individual packages in any lot are not restricted as to the percentage of defects if the entire lot averages within the tolerances specified.

DEFINITIONS

§ 51.318 Mature. "Mature" means that the apples have reached the stage of growth which will insure the proper completion of the ripening process. Before a mature apple becomes overripe it will show varying degrees of firmness, depending upon the stage of the ripening process. The following terms are used for describing these different stages of firmness of apples:

(a) "Hard" means apples with a tenacious flesh and starchy flavor.

(b) "Firm" means apples with a tenacious flesh but which are becoming crisp with a slight starchy flavor, except the Delicious variety.

(c) "Firm ripe" means apples with crisp flesh except that the flesh of the apples of the Gano, Ben Davis, and Rome Beauty varieties may be slightly mealy.

(d) "Ripe" means apples with mealy flesh and soon to become soft for the variety.

§ 51.319 Overripe. "Overripe" means apples which are dead ripe, with flesh very mealy or soft, and past commercial utility.

§ 51.320 Carefully hand-picked. "Carefully hand-picked" means that the apples do not show evidence of rough handling or of having been on the ground.

§ 51.321 Clean. "Clean" means that the apples are free from excessive dirt, dust, spray residue and other foreign material.

§ 51.322 Well formed. "Well formed" means that the apple has the normal shape characteristic of the variety, except that the shape may be slightly irregular, provided, it does not detract from the general appearance of the apple.

§ 51.323 Injury. "Injury" means any defect which more than slightly affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality of the apples.

(a) Russeting in the stem cavity or calyx basin which cannot be seen when the apple is placed stem end or calyx end down on a flat surface, shall not be considered in determining whether or not an apple is injured by russeting, except that rough or bark-like russeting in the stem cavity or calyx basin shall be considered as injury when the appearance of the apple is materially affected. The following types and amounts of russeting outside of the stem cavity or calyx basin, shall be considered as injury:

(1) Smooth net-like russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 5 percent of the surface is covered, and the color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous net-like russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(2) Smooth, solid russeting which covers an aggregate area of more than one-half inch in diameter, and the pattern and color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous solid russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.[1]

(3) Slightly rough russeting which covers an aggregate area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(4) Rough russeting, unless it is well within the stem cavity or calyx basin and is not readily apparent.

(b) Any one of the following defects, on any combination thereof, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as injury:

(1) Sunburn or spray burn, when the discolored area does not blend into the normal color of the fruit.

(2) Dark brown or black limb rubs which affect a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter, except that light brown limb rubs of a russet character shall be considered under the definition of injury by russeting.[1]

(3) Hail marks, drought spots or other similar depressions or scars where there is appreciable discoloration other than russeting, or when the indentations are not superficial, or when an individual indentation exceeds one-eighth inch in diameter, or the total affected area exceeds one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(4) Stem or calyx cracks which are not well healed, or well healed stem or calyx cracks which exceed a length of one-eighth inch.

(5) Diseases:

(i) Cedar rust infection which affects a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter.[1]

(ii) Sooty blotch or fly speck which is thinly scattered over more than 5 percent of the surface, or dark, heavily concentrated spots which affect an area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(iii) Red skin spots which are thinly scattered over more than one-tenth of the surface, or dark, heavily concentrated spots which affect an area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(6) Insects:

(i) Any healed sting or healed stings which affect a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter including any encircling discolored rings.[1]

(ii) Worm holes.

§ 51.324 Fairly well formed. "Fairly well formed" means that the apple may be slightly abnormal in shape but not to an extent which detracts materially from its appearance.

§ 51.325 Damage. "Damage" means any defect which materially affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality of the apples.

(a) Russeting in the stem cavity or calyx basin which cannot be seen when the apple is placed stem end or calyx end down on a flat surface shall not be considered in determining whether or not an apple is damaged by russeting, except that excessively rough or bark-like russeting in the stem cavity or calyx basin shall be considered as damage when the appearance of the apple is materially affected. The following types and amounts of russeting outside of the stem cavity or calyx basin, shall be considered as damage:

(1) Russeting which is excessively rough on Roxbury Russet and other similar varieties.

(2) Smooth net-like russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 15 percent of the surface is covered, and the color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous net-like russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(3) Smooth solid russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 5 percent of the surface is covered, and the pattern and color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous solid russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(4) Slightly rough russeting which covers an aggregate area of more than one-half inch in diameter.[1]

(5) Rough russeting which exceeds one-fourth inch in diameter, unless it is well within the stem cavity or calyx basin and is not readily apparent.[1]

(b) Any one of the following defects, or any combination thereof, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as damage:

(1) Sunburn or spray burn which has caused blistering or cracking of the skin, or when the discolored area does not blend into the normal color of the fruit unless the injury can be classed as russeting.

(2) Limb rubs which affect a total area of more than one-half inch in diameter, except that light brown limb rubs of a russet character shall be considered under the definition of damage by russeting.[1]

Office of Business Economics

SURVEY OF AMERICAN BUSINESS INVESTMENTS IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES

INSTRUCTIONS AND REGULATIONS

SECTION I. Introduction. The Survey of American Business Investments in Foreign Countries is being conducted by the Department of Commerce to provide a complete and accurate account of the amount of such investments at the end of 1957, the net increase in investments during the year, the return on these investments, and certain aspects of their contributions to foreign economies as well as to our own.

The need for accurate information of this type has been recognized since the early 1920's when private investment funds from the United States began to flow to foreign countries in considerable volume. As a result of the demand for accurate statistics thus created, the Department of Commerce conducted the first survey of foreign direct investments covering the year 1929. Subsequent surveys were taken by the Commerce Department for the years 1936, 1940, and 1950.

Since 1950, the volume of foreign investments has been unprecedented, and the need for accurate statistics has been more widespread than ever. Since the last complete survey in 1950, there has been a considerable change in the pattern and distribution of foreign investments. The growing economic significance of foreign investments has further enhanced the demand for these data, both from Federal executive agencies responsible for the administration of various phases of the Government's program for international technical assistance and economic development, and from industrial and business groups. In addition, international organizations and others abroad concerned with foreign trade and economic development greatly need accurate information on the extent of and gains from private business investments.

The data collected in this survey, in addition to providing complete statistics of American foreign business investments for 1957, will serve as a base from which current data collected in sample surveys can be expanded to reliable total estimates of capital and income movement. These current statistics constitute an important part of the total United States balance of payments.

The information requested in this survey has been set up on questionnaire Forms A, B, and C, described in detail in section II, B-1 of these instructions.

Pursuant to Executive Order 10033 of February 8, 1949 (14 F. R. 561), issued under Section 8 of the Bretton Woods Agreements Act (59 Stat. 515, 22 U. S. C. 286f), the National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems, having consulted with the Director of the Bureau of the Budget, has determined that data for 1957 on private American investments abroad are essential in order that the United States Government may continue to comply with official requests from the International Monetary Fund for balance-of-payments information.

In accordance with sections 2 (b) and 2 (c) of Executive Order 10033, the Director of the Bureau of the Budget has designated the Commerce Department as the Federal executive agency to collect the required data and the Secretary of Commerce has assigned this responsibility to the Office of Business Economics, Department of Commerce.

Replies on Form A, Form B (except for Part III) and Form C are therefore mandatory under section 8 (b) of the Bretton Woods Agreement Act cited above.

No reporter is required or requested to submit replies to any specific question on these forms, if by so doing the security laws of a foreign country are violated.

This survey has been approved by the Bureau of the Budget under the Federal Reports Act (Pub. Law No. 831, 77th Cong.). All replies will be held in confidence by the Balance of Payments Division, Office of Business Economics, under the provisions of section 4 (b) of that Act and section 8 (c) of the Bretton Woods Agreements Act cited above.

Inasmuch as the Survey involves a foreign affairs function of the United States, section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act does not apply. In any event it is found that because of the nature of the Survey, the fact that it is required under the Bretton Woods Agreements Act upon appropriate request, and that, consequently, the Instructions and Forms are merely declaratory of that Act and Executive Order above mentioned, no useful purpose would be served by notice and public procedure thereon, the same being impracticable and unnecessary. Inasmuch as the required reports will not be due for at least 30 days from publication of these instructions, there is no need for postponement of their effective date, and such instructions are, therefore, effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

SINCLAIR WEEKS,
Secretary of Commerce.

SEC. II. General instructions—A. Who must report. 1. Basic requirement: A report is required from every corporation, partnership, estate or trust, individual, or any other person, or closely related group of persons subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, and ordinarily residing within the United States, having at the close of business on December 31, 1957:

a. Control of a foreign business organization owned directly or in conjunction with an affiliated person, foreign or domestic. (For complete description see subsection E-5, E-6 and E-7.)

b. Outright ownership of real property located outside of the United States, except real property held for personal use and not productive of income.

c. Ownership of a sole proprietorship type of business enterprise, located outside of the United States.

d. Ownership of the voting stock of a foreign corporation to the extent of at least 10 percent, but less than 25 percent, or an analogous interest in an unincorporated foreign enterprise (see section V).

Reports are required covering the above types of property if ownership certificates or the equivalent were legally in existence and held by the reporter on December 31, 1957, even though the assets may have been destroyed or expropriated by government action prior to that date. Such holdings are to be reported as of the last date that information relating to the foreign organization is available.

2. Estates and trusts: Direct foreign investments held by a domestic estate or trust, i. e., an estate or trust created under the laws of the United States or any subdivision thereof, shall be reported by the fiduciary and not by a beneficiary. Such property must be reported whether or not any beneficiary is subject to the laws of the United States or any subdivision thereof. Any trust actually created in the United States, even though the trust instrument provides that the trust shall be subject to the laws of a foreign country, must report.

3. Persons beneficially interested in property: If direct foreign investments beneficially owned by a person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States were held by or in the name of another, only the person having the beneficial interest shall report, except as specifically provided above regarding domestic estates and trusts.

4. More than one person owning an interest in the same foreign organization or foreign property.

a. Form B. Each person is required to report if the aggregate ownership of the affiliated persons in the allied foreign organization totals 25 percent or more of the voting securities unless affiliated through an estate or trust as provided in subsection A-2 above.

b. Form C. Each person owning an interest of 10 percent or more in an associated foreign enterprise is required to report.

5. United States branches and offices of foreign persons: A branch or office in the United States of a person within a foreign country shall report with respect to property in foreign countries allocated to, held for the use of, or claimed by such branch or office, but shall not report other property of the foreign person.

B. Forms to be used.[1] 1. Each reporter is required under the law to submit reports on three types of forms. These three forms are:

Form A. This form is to provide, in addition to certain information identifying the reporting organization, a complete list of all foreign organizations allied or associated with the reporter.

Form B. One Form B is required for each allied foreign organization listed by the reporter on Form A. In the case of affiliated persons allied with the same foreign organization, reports on Form B are required from each. However, only one of the affiliated persons is required to complete part II of Form B. Part II may be omitted only if the reporter has definite knowledge that one of the affiliates is completing that part of the form, and all reporters remain fully liable for the complete report. In the event that part II of Form B is omitted, the reporter is required to indicate, in the space provided on the form, the name of the affiliate who is including part II with its report. Part III of this form is voluntary.

Form C. One Form C is required for each associated foreign organization listed by the reporter on Form A. In the case of affiliated persons associated with the same foreign organization, reports on Form C are required from each. However, a consolidated report on Form C may be submitted by one of the affiliated persons, provided that the names and proportionate interests of all affiliated persons are listed. (Note that Form C is to be used only when the combined interest of affiliated persons totals less than 25 percent; where the combined interest is 25 percent or more a report on Form B is required.)

C. Property not to be reported. 1. Basic requirement: Properties not specifically included in subsection A-1 are to be excluded from the scope of this survey and are not to be reported. Properties excluded from this survey include:

a. Foreign currency, foreign government bonds, or other foreign government securities, except as they are included among the assets of a foreign allied or associated organization.

b. Notes, bonds, or other documents of indebtedness issued by a foreign organization, not allied with the reporter nor with any affiliates of the reporter, except as they are included among the assets of an allied or associated foreign organization.

c. Real or personal property held for the reporter's personal use, e. g., hunting lodges, homes, automobiles, etc., retained for personal use and not productive of income.

D. Exemptions. 1. Exemption based on value of property: An individual whose property in foreign countries otherwise subject to reporting has an aggregate value of less than $25,000 is not required to report. Value is to be determined by the cost, reporter's estimated market value, or the book value as carried on the books of the foreign organization converted into United States dollars, whichever is the greatest. Corporations, partnerships, and all other persons except individuals are required to report irrespective of the value of their foreign investments.

2. Certain persons exempted regardless of the amount or kind of property. Report need not be made by any person who is within any of the following categories on or after December 31, 1957, regardless of the amount or kind of property otherwise reportable by such persons: (1) Members of the Armed Forces of the United States serving outside continental United States; (2) citizens of the United States who permanently reside in a foreign country; (3) officers or employees of foreign governments and members of the immediate families of such persons, provided they are not citizens of the United States; (4) religious bodies, charitable organizations and other nonprofit organizations, except for the interests of such groups in foreign organizations conducting business for profit.

E. Definitions. For the purpose of this Survey and any instructions or rulings issued hereunder, the following definitions are prescribed:

1. "Person" shall include an individual, partnership, association, corporation, estate or trust, or other organization.

2. "Person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States" shall mean (1) any citizen of the United States (but only citizens ordinarily resident in the United States are required to report); (2) any corporation or other organization created or organized under the laws of the United States or any State, territory, district or possession thereof; (3) any individual resident in the United States on December 31, 1957, except as specifically excluded in subsection D–2 above.

3. "United States" shall mean the 48 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Panama Canal Zone, and any territory or possession of the United States.

4. "Affiliates" shall mean (1) (a) individuals married to each other, their direct forebears, and their children; (b) brothers and sisters; (c) estates of persons, or trusts for the benefit of or created by persons, are deemed to be affiliates of such persons and of each other. (2) Any group of United States persons who ordinarily exercise their voting rights in a foreign organization as a unit. (3) In relation to any corporation or other organization issuing stock or similar securities, any person who, directly or indirectly, owned, controlled, or held with power to vote, 10 percent or more of the outstanding voting securities thereof. (4) As to any other organization, any person who owned or controlled 10 percent or more of the comparable ownership rights therein.

Any corporation or other United States organization of which a person was an affiliate also shall be deemed to have been an affiliate of such person, and all persons who were direct affiliates of the same United States person shall be deemed to have been affiliates of each other.

5. "Controlled" organization. The ownership of 25 percent or more of the voting securities of a corporation, or of similar certificates of ownership in other types of organizations, shall constitute control of that organization for the statistical purposes of this survey. Note that reports are required for each such "allied" foreign organization as defined immediately below. Please note that organizations in Canada are foreign organizations and are therefore reportable.

6. "Primary allied foreign organization" shall include the following organizations located in or under the jurisdiction of a foreign country:

a. Foreign corporation: A foreign corporation shall be said to be a "primary allied foreign organization" if any one of the following conditions is met:

First. The reporting organization owns 25 percent or more of the voting securities of the foreign corporation.

Second. The reporting organization owns less than 25 percent of the voting securities of the foreign corporation; however, affiliates, either domestic or foreign, of the reporting organization own additional voting securities in the foreign corporation which when added to the amount owned by the reporter after giving effect to the proportionate interest of the reporting organization in foreign affiliates total 25 percent or more.

Third. The reporting organization owns none of the voting securities of a foreign corporation, but does own bonds, notes, or other certificates of indebtedness of the foreign corporation, or has direct dealings with the foreign corporation by exchange of merchandise or rendering services, or the foreign organization owns securities or obligations of the reporting company or its affiliates; and 25 percent or more of the voting securities of the foreign corporation are owned by affiliates (domestic or foreign) of the reporter.

Examples—First. A United States corporation (company DX) owns 25 percent or more of the voting securities of a foreign corporation (company FZ). Company FZ must be reported by company DX as a "primary allied foreign organization."

Second. A United States corporation (company DX) owns some, but less than 25 percent of the voting securities of a foreign corporation (company FZ). A second corporation (company DFY) either domestic or foreign, is affiliated with company DX and owns voting securities of the foreign corporation (company FZ) which when added to the voting securities owned by company DX total 25 percent or more of voting interests of company FZ. Company FZ must be reported as a "primary allied foreign organization" by the United States company DX. If the affiliated company DFY is a United States corporation, the foreign company FZ must be reported as a "primary allied foreign organization" by both companies DX and DFY. If the affiliated company DFY is a foreign organization, company FZ must be reported as a "secondary allied foreign organization" as well as a "primary allied foreign organization." (See subsection E–7.)

Third. A United States corporation (company DX) owns none of the voting securities of a foreign corporation (company FZ). Company DX owns bonds or notes of indebtedness issued by company FZ, or sells merchandise to or buys merchandise from company FZ, or renders services to company FZ. An affiliate, or a group of affiliates (either domestic or foreign), of company DX owns a total of 25 percent or more of the voting securities of the foreign corporation (company FZ). Company FZ must be reported as a "primary allied foreign organization" by company DX and by each of the United States affiliates who own certificates of indebtedness or have dealings with the foreign corporation. If any or all of the affiliates of company DX are foreign organizations, company FZ must also be reported as a "secondary allied foreign organization." (See subsection E–7.)

b. Partnership: A partnership in which a person under the jurisdiction of the United States is one of the partners, whether general, special, limited, or otherwise.

c. Branch: The interest of any person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States in property in any foreign country allocated to or held in the name or for the use of any branch, depot, or office outside the United States maintained by such person for the transaction of any of his business. Foreign operations conducted by United States corporations in their own names and not through foreign incorporated companies are to be reported as branch operations.

d. A business enterprise or real property owned outright by a resident of the United States.

7. "Secondary allied foreign organization" shall be defined as follows:

a. A foreign organization allied with the reporter through the ownership of at least 25 percent of its voting securities or other certificates of ownership, through a primary or other secondary allied foreign organization, after giving effect to the proportionate interest of the reporter in the voting securities of the primary or other secondary allied foreign organization. (For example: ownership by reporter of 50 percent of the voting stock of a primary allied foreign organization, which in turn owns 50 percent of the voting stock of a second foreign organization, would cause the second foreign organization to be reportable as a secondary allied foreign organization.)

b. A branch of a primary allied foreign organization or of a secondary allied foreign organization engaged in a different type of business or located in a country foreign to the country of the primary (or the secondary) allied foreign organization.

c. If a foreign organization qualifies as a primary allied foreign organization under subsection 6a, Second and Third above, it must also be reported as a secondary allied foreign organization to each of the reporting organization's foreign affiliates owning any of the voting securities of that foreign organization (see Second and Third examples under subsection 6a).

d. Branches or subsidiaries of a primary allied foreign organization located in the same country and engaged in the same type of business as the primary organization may be combined and one report submitted covering the activities of all of these organizations. The report must be a consolidated report showing the total activities of all organizations and not a report of the primary organization showing only the investment of the primary in the secondary organizations. Provide a list of all organizations included in such consolidations.

8. "Parent" organization. For the purpose of this survey, the parent organization is defined as the organization which owns direct interest in the allied foreign organization. In the case of a "secondary allied foreign organization" the parent organization is the "primary allied foreign organization" which owns voting securities of the "secondary allied foreign organization."

9. "Associated" foreign organization. The ownership of at least 10 percent but less than 25 percent of the voting securities of a corporation, or of similar certificates of ownership in an unincorporated foreign organization, held directly by the reporter and its United States affiliates, shall constitute association with that organization for the purposes of this survey. Note that separate reports are required for each "associated foreign organization." (When the ownership of the foreign organization is 25 percent or more, either entirely by the reporter or in conjunction with affiliates, the foreign organization is an "allied" foreign organization, as defined above, and reports on Form B are required.)

F. Space on form insufficient. When space does not permit a full answer to any question on the form, the information required should be submitted on supplementary sheets appropriately labeled and incorporated by reference under the question. To assist respondents in fulfilling this requirement, continuation sheets have been provided. All supplementary sheets, including continuation sheets, should be attached to the form to which they pertain.

G. Required information not available. All reasonable efforts should be made to obtain information required for reporting. When communication is impossible, or when properties have been expropriated or seized, the latest available information should be used. In case only partial information is available, it should be given with an appropriate indication. If any information not available at the time of reporting is obtained thereafter, a supplementary report should be filed promptly with a full explanation.

Every question on each form which a person is required to use in rendering his report must be answered. However, in property summaries and schedules, space not needed for supplying required information should be left entirely blank. When there is nothing to report under any question or if information is entirely lacking, state "no," "none" or "unknown," as the case may be, with an explanation if requisite to an understanding of the circumstances.

If disclosure of the information required on any form would violate the security regulations of the country in which the foreign allied or associated organization is located, reporters are specifically exempted from the requirement to report that information. If information is omitted for this reason, a note to that effect should be entered on the form.

If certain information can not be supplied because the accounts of the foreign organization can not be obtained, indicate this in the appropriate items of the form.

H. Currency conversions and rounding of amounts. In all items requiring financial data from the accounts of foreign allied or associated organizations, the currency customarily used in such accounts must be used in reporting. The same items must also be given in the currency of the parent organization if such conversions are ordinarily made. If such conversions are not ordinarily made, do not complete the columns referring to the books of the allied or associated foreign organization as converted by the parent organization.

Amounts may be given to the nearest thousand dollars or units of foreign currency. All amounts reported in this manner must be clearly marked, and the rounding must be done as in the following example: (Example: $1,033,033.30 would be reported as $1,033).

I. Number of copies. A single original copy shall be filed. In addition, each person reporting should retain a copy of his report.

J. Time and place of filing reports. Reports shall be filed on or before August 31, 1958, with the Department of Commerce, Office of Business Economics, Balance of Payments Division, Washington 25, D. C.

K. Information regarding preparation of reports. Anyone desiring information concerning this survey may direct inquiries to the United States Department of Commerce, Office of Business Economics, Balance of Payments Division, Washington 25, D. C., or to any Field Office of the United States Department of Commerce.

On October 25, 1954, Sunray Oil Corporation filed a protest to the sale of natural gas by Applicant in the Jake Hamon Field, McMullen County, Texas, to Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, assignee of Wilcox Trend Gathering System, Inc., as shown in the tabulation above.

Sunray states that it is the operator and sells Applicant's working interests in the gas production in the lease under contract with Wilcox Trend Gathering System, Inc., and Atlantic does not sell to Sunray but that Atlantic's share of the gas is sold pursuant to Sunray's sales contract with Texas Eastern, to which contract Atlantic is not a signatory party.

By letter filed January 31, 1955, Atlantic states that Sunray's contention that Atlantic does not sell to Sunray is correct. Thus, this portion of Atlantic's application is subject to dismissal pursuant to Section 154.91 (d) of the Commission's rules.

Applicant was authorized in Docket No. G–10486 by order issued October 4, 1956, to abandon service to United from the Jeanerette Field, St. Mary Parish, Louisiana.

[Docket No. G–15105]

PACIFIC NORTHWEST PIPE LINE CORP.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

JUNE 25, 1958.

Take notice that Pacific Northwest Pipe Line Corporation (Applicant), a Delaware corporation, with its principal place of business in Salt Lake City, Utah, filed an application on May 13, 1958, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing the construction and operation of natural gas facilities for the delivery and sale of natural gas as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant seeks authority to construct and operate a tap with metering appurtenances on its main 26-inch high pressure transmission line in Daggett County, Utah, approximately 1,500 feet north of the community of Flaming Gorge, Utah, in order to sell and deliver natural gas to Utah Gas Service Company (Utah Gas) for resale in Flaming Gorge and environs.

The application states that Utah Gas is an existing customer of Applicant at other locations in Utah and that it has now obtained a franchise from Daggett County, a certificate from the Public Service Commission of Utah and a license from the United States of America, Department of the Interior, Bureau of Reclamation, to construct and operate its proposed distribution system upon property of the United States designated as the Flaming Gorge Unit of the Colorado River Storage Project.

Applicant estimates the requirements of Utah Gas for the first three years of service to Flaming Gorge as follows:

[Based on 1,000 Btu per cubic feet of gas]

Years of service	1	2	3
Peak day (Mcf)	192	200	200
Annual (Mcf)	19,200	20,000	20,000

Applicant states that the gas will be used for residential and commercial purposes, including a school and laboratory.

Applicant estimates the cost of the proposed tap and metering station will be $18,190, to be paid from currently available funds.

The application states that Utah Gas will construct a lateral transmission line from the proposed meter station of applicant and will in addition construct a local distribution system at an estimated cost of $45,000.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on August 26, 1958, at 9:30 a. m., e. d. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. [Docket No. G–15336]

PERMIAN BASIN PIPELINE CO.

ORDER PROVIDING FOR HEARING AND SUSPENDING PROPOSED REVISED TARIFF SHEETS

JUNE 25, 1958.

On May 26, 1958, Permian Basin Pipeline Company (Permian) tendered for filing Second Revised Sheet No. 5 and [1] J. A. Chapman and the other parties named above are signatory parties to the gas sales contract with Consolidated, and co-owners of the well involved herein.

First Revised Sheet No. 6 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, proposing to increase charges to Northern Natural Gas Company (Northern) under Permian's "cost of service" type Rate Schedule P-1 (available to Northern exclusively) by an amount estimated as $762,000, or about 3.0 percent, annually. Permian requests that such Revised Sheets become effective July 1, 1958.

In support of the proposed increased rates and charges, Permian claims the necessity for adjustment of its costs, including estimated increased costs of purchased gas, estimated increases in other operating expenses, increase in the allowance made in its rate base for working capital, increase in annual rate of return from 6 percent to 6.5 percent, and increase in income taxes. In connection with its proposal, Permian has submitted a cost of service study covering actual sales for the 12-month period ended December 31, 1957, adjusted for estimated and known changes through August 31, 1958.

By order issued October 3, 1957, under the authority of sections 5 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, the Commission instituted an investigation of Permian's rates, charges and classifications to determine inter alia whether any of such items are unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential. Among other questionable items appearing in Permian's present proposals are (a) claimed increases in Permian's cost of purchased gas which are effective subject to refund or under suspension, (b) Permian's classification of costs which deviates from methods heretofore approved by the Commission, and (c) the necessity for the allowance of a 6.5 percent rate of return and associated income taxes, in lieu of the present 6 percent rate.

The increased rates and charges and the amended rate filings proposed in Second Revised Sheet No. 5 and First Revised Sheet No. 6 to Permian's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1 have not been shown to be justified and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing, pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of such Act, concerning the lawfulness of the rates, charges, classifications, and services contained in Permian's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, as proposed to be amended by Second Revised Sheet No. 5 and First Revised Sheet No. 6 thereto, and that the aforementioned rate filings be suspended as hereinafter ordered and the use thereof be deferred pending hearing and decision thereon, except as they may become effective as provided by the Natural Gas Act.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, a public hearing be held at a date to be designated by notice from the Secretary of the Commission, in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the lawfulness of the rates, charges, classifications, and services contained in Permian's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, as proposed to be amended by Second Revised Sheet No. 5 and First Revised Sheet No. 6 thereto.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, Second Revised Sheet No. 5 and First Revised Sheet No. 6 to Permian's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, are hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 1, 1958, and until such further time as they may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Interested State Commissions may participate as provided by Section 1.8 and 1.37 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

By the Commission.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

JUNE 27, 1958.

Notice is hereby given that Barton Distilling Company (the Company) has filed an application under Clause (ii) of section 310 (b) (1) of the Trust Indenture Act of 1939 for a finding by the Commission that trusteeship of American Bank and Trust Company of Chicago (American) under one indenture dated October 1, 1957, and two indentures to be dated as of July 1, 1958 of the same obligor is not so likely to involve a material conflict of interest as to make it necessary in the public interest or for the protection of investors to disqualify American from acting as Trustee under any one of the three indentures. The indentures are hereinafter referred to as the 1957 and the two 1958 indentures, respectively. The 1957 indenture has been qualified under the Trust Indenture Act and application has been filed to qualify the two 1958 indentures.

Section 310 (b) of the act provides in part that if an indenture trustee under an indenture qualified under the Act has or shall acquire any conflicting interest (as defined in the section), it shall, within ninety days after ascertaining that it has such conflicting interest, either eliminate such conflicting interest or resign. Subsection (1) of this section provides, with certain exceptions not here applicable that a trustee is deemed to have a conflicting interest if it is acting as trustee under a qualified indenture of an obligor and becomes trustee under another indenture of the same obligor. However, pursuant to clause (ii) of subsection (1), there may be excluded from the operation of this provision another indenture or indentures under which other securities of such obligor are outstanding, if the issuer shall have sustained the burden of proving, on application to the Commission and after opportunity for hearing therein, that trusteeship under a qualified indenture and another indenture or indentures is not so likely to involve a material conflict of interest as to make it necessary in the public interest or for the protection of investors to disqualify such trustee from acting as trustee under any of such indentures. This provision was incorporated in the 1957 indenture and is to be incorporated in the two 1958 indentures.

The application shows that:

1. Barton Distilling Company, a Delaware corporation, has outstanding under the 1957 indenture $1,000,000 aggregate principal amount of its 6½ percent Notes, due October 1, 1962 secured by the pledge of separate whiskey warehouse receipts for 1,250,000 gallons of whiskey, (the "Old Notes") which notes are not in default.

2. Warrants to purchase whiskey warehouse receipts for 5,000 barrels of whiskey exercisable from January 2, 1961 through March 1 1961 (the "warrants") were issued under the 1957 indenture.

3. The 1957 indenture was qualified under the Trust Indenture Act of 1939 effective February 27, 1958, as of February 16, 1958, and the two 1958 indentures are to be so qualified.

4. $300,000 aggregate principal amount of 6 percent Notes due July 1, 1963, are to be issued under one of the 1958 indentures and will be secured by the pledge of whiskey warehouse receipts for 375,000 gallons of whiskey.

5. $1,000,000 aggregate principal amount of 6 percent Notes due July 1, 1964, are to be issued under the other 1958 indenture and will be secured by the pledge of whiskey warehouse receipts for 1,250,000 gallons of whiskey.

6. Aside from differences between the 1957 and the two 1958 indentures as to the issuance of warrants, amounts, dates, interest rates and the elimination of any reference to warrants under the two 1958 indentures, most of the provisions of said indentures are substantially identical, and the differences existing between the indentures are not likely to involve a conflict of interest in the trustee.

7. The Company expects to issue and sell additional series of secured notes in the future, each such series to be issued under a separate indenture and to be secured by completely separate and distinct collateral, consisting of whiskey warehouse receipts. Because of the number of indentures which will be involved, the Company believes it would be impractical and too expensive for it to engage in such program unless the same trustee is allowed to serve as such under each of the indentures.

For a more detailed statement of the matters of fact and law asserted, all persons are referred to said application which is on file in the offices of the Commission at 425 Second Street NW., Washington, D. C.

Notice is further given that an order granting the application may be issued by the Commission at any time after July 9, 1958, unless prior thereto a hearing upon the application is ordered by the Commission, as provided in clause (ii) of section 310 (b) (1) of the Trust Indenture Act of 1939. Any interested person, may not later than July 7, 1958 at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., in writing, submit to the Commission his views and any additional facts bearing upon this application or the desirability of a hearing thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., and should state briefly the nature of the interest of the person submitting such information or requesting a hearing, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact and law raised by the application which he desires to controvert.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

poration, except that a loan may be made by an approved lending agency if requested by the borrower upon specific approval of the Executive Vice President, Commodity Credit Corporation, or the Deputy Administrator for Operations, CSS. An approved lending agency shall be any bank, corporation, partnership, individual, or other legal entity which has entered into a lending agency agreement for storage loans, on the form prescribed by CCC.

§ 474.724 Eligible borrowers. Loans will be made only to eligible borrowers. An eligible borrower shall be any person, who as tenant, share-landlord, or landowner-operator produces one or more of the eligible commodities listed in § 474.725 (a). The term "person" means an individual, partnership, corporation or other legal entity. If two or more eligible borrowers join together in the purchase and erection or construction of an eligible structure each such eligible borrower shall sign all documents, and shall be liable jointly and severally with respect to the loan.

§ 474.725 Eligible structures. (a) Loans will be made only for the purchase or construction of movable or immovable storage facilities which qualify as eligible structures. The term "movable storage facility" means a storage facility which can be dismantled and moved without demolishing it, and which it is practicable to dismantle, move, and reconstruct on another site. All other storage facilities shall be considered to be "immovable". The term "storage facility" includes the operating equipment which the county committee determines is necessary for the proper handling and conditioning of the agricultural commodity to be stored and without which the facility cannot be operated.

(b) A storage facility shall qualify as an eligible structure if all the following requirements are met:

(1) The facility must be either (i) a new farm storage facility of movable or immovable type (including an addition to an existing immovable facility) which meets the requirements for eligible storage under the CCC price support loan programs and which, prior to date of application for the loan, has not been purchased or constructed; or (ii) a used farm storage facility which CCC has acquired by foreclosure or other means under this program. A downpayment will not be deemed to be a purchase which will preclude consideration of an application filed thereafter. Similarly, the installation of the foundation will not be deemed to be construction.

(2) The structure must be for use solely for the storage of corn, wheat, rye, oats, barley, grain sorghums, soybeans, cottonseed, rice, dry edible beans, dry peas, peanuts, pasture seeds, hay seeds or winter cover crop seeds produced by an eligible borrower on the particular land with respect to which the application for a loan is made.

(3) If the structure is an immovable facility for the storage of cottonseed, soybeans, dry edible beans, dry peas, peanuts, flaxseed, pasture seeds, hay seeds, or winter cover crop seeds it must be located in an area in which the State committee determines that existing commercial storage facilities for such commodity or commodities are not adequate.

(4) The county committee must have determined that the storage facility is needed and that the bushel capacity proposed is in keeping with the additional farm storage requirements of the producer for the storage of eligible commodities taking into consideration existing permanent storage facilities of the producer. Storage capacity to store one year's crop shall be considered sufficient for cottonseed and storage capacity to store one year's crop plus one crop year's carryover shall be considered sufficient for all other eligible commodities.

(5) It must not appear because of the type of construction, design, size, equipment, location or otherwise, that the structure may be attached to, or become part of, or made use of, in connection with any commercial operation, including but not limited to elevators, warehouses, driers and processing plants. Any facility which is located in working proximity to any commercial operation shall be deemed to be a part of such operation for the purposes of this program.

(c) A loan will not be available (1) for the refinancing, repair, remodeling, or maintenance of existing facilities, (2) for the purchase of secondhand facilities (except as specifically provided in paragraph (b) (1) (ii) of this section, or (3) to provide storage facilities for commodities which the borrower intends to purchase or store for others.

§ 474.726 Terms and conditions of loans—(a) Term of loan. The maximum term of the loan will be approximately four years from the first anniversary date of the first disbursement of the loan, except that the term of an individual loan may be extended and reextended for terms of not to exceed one year each if the county committee determines in writing that the borrower is unable to meet the current payment when due, because of catastrophic loss of crops or other comparable condition beyond the control of the borrower. Such extensions, as authorized in this paragraph, shall merely defer the date upon which each of the respective payments shall become due and payable. Loans will be secured (1) by chattel mortgage on the storage facility, which shall constitute the sole lien on such facility, or (2) by a first lien in the form of a real estate mortgage, deed of trust, or other security instrument, approved by CCC, on the borrower's farm or other property on which the facility is to be located, or on such acreage of the farm as will, in the judgment of the county committee, (i) make the site easily accessible for use of other farmers in the area, and (ii) constitute a saleable unit. A first lien on the real estate will be required in connection with all loans relating to immovable facilities, and may be required in connection with any other loan at the discretion of the person authorized by CCC to approve the loan, provided, however, that such first lien may be obtained through a subordination agreement where the real estate is subject to any other lien. In case of chattel mortgage loans, a severance agreement must be executed and acknowledged by all persons having an interest in the land on which the structure will be placed, except that a severance agreement will not be required if the storage structure is movable, not attached to a permanent foundation, and (a) is not in excess of 2,500 bushels capacity, or (b) in the case of a structure for storage of cottonseed is not in excess of 60 ton capacity. The cost of recording or filing all documents required in connection with the loan shall be paid by the borrower. Upon approval of the application for loan, the county committee will execute a commitment for the loan. Unless the loan has been totally disbursed, the loan commitment shall become null and void in four months after its date unless extended in writing by the county committee on or before its expiration date. Every application for a farm storage facility loan secured by a chattel mortgage shall be accompanied by an instrument, duly acknowledged for recording purposes, under which the owner of the premises on which the facility is to be located consents that if the farm storage facility is acquired by CCC through foreclosure or other means, such facility may, at the option of CCC, remain on the property for a period not to exceed six months at no expense to CCC. Such covenant may be included in a severance agreement or in such other instrument as may be approved by the attorney in charge in cases where the severance agreement is not required.

(b) Amount of loan. (1) The maximum amount loaned on any new storage facility shall not exceed the maximum amount authorized by the State committee, but in no event shall exceed eighty percent of the actual out-of-pocket cost paid by the borrower. The borrower shall be required before the loan is disbursed to furnish receipted bills showing, among other things, the cost of the structure, equipment if any, and amount of down-payment. The cost incurred shall include the expenditures of the borrower which are necessary for the purchase, delivery, and erection of the facility, and the cost of that operating equipment which the county committee determines is necessary for the proper handling and conditioning of the eligible commodity to be stored and without which the facility cannot be operated. In computing the cost incurred, the labor performed by the applicant and other labor usually employed on the farm, the cost of all equipment placed in the facility which is not necessary for its operation, and the cost of foundations for movable facilities shall be excluded.

(2) The county committee may approve loan applications, issue loan commitments, and make disbursement of loans, without prior approval of the State committee, except as specifically provided herein, if the loan is not in excess of $2,500. Any loan in excess of $2,500 must be approved by the State committee or designated employee of the State committee prior to the issuance of loan commitment. Each application for a loan on a movable storage facility in the amount of $15,000 or over, and each application for a loan on an immovable storage facility in the amount of $25,000 or over, shall be forwarded by the county committee, together with its recommendations, to the State committee and the State committee shall forward such applications with its recommendations to the Deputy Administrator for Operations. A loan on a movable storage facility in an amount ranging from $15,000 to $25,000 shall not be made unless it is approved by the Deputy Administrator for Operations, and no loan commitment shall be issued in connection with such a loan prior to such approval. If the application is for a loan in excess of $25,000, the application shall be submitted by the Deputy Administrator for Operations to the Board of Directors of CCC. A loan in excess of $25,000 shall not be made unless approved by the Board of Directors, and no loan commitment shall be issued in connection with an application for a loan in excess of $25,000 unless the loan has been approved by the Board of Directors. If more than one application for loan is filed by the same person or in connection with the same farm operation, the aggregate amount of such loan applications, together with the outstanding balance of any prior loan to such person or in connection with such farm operation shall be considered as one application for the purposes of determining the foregoing amounts which may be approved by the respective above-named committees and officials.

(3) The maximum amount loaned on any farm storage facility which CCC has previously acquired by foreclosure or other means under the program shall not exceed the maximum amount authorized by the State committee and in no event shall exceed eighty percent of the price of purchase from Commodity Credit Corporation.

(c) Repayment of loan. The principal of the loan shall be repayable in equal annual installments with interest at four percent per annum on the unpaid balance. The first installment including interest shall be payable during the twelve months period beginning on the first anniversary date of the first disbursement of the loan, out of amounts due the borrower under any price support loan or purchase agreement operation carried out by the Department of Agriculture and a like installment shall be similarly payable during the twelve months following each anniversary date thereafter until the principal together with the interest thereon has been paid in full. Payment out of such amounts shall be obtained by deduction therefrom, except that such deduction shall not exceed that portion of the proceeds remaining after deduction of service charges and amounts due prior lienholders. Each installment must be paid out of price support proceeds, in cash, or otherwise not later than the end of the applicable twelve months pay period, and upon failure to pay any installment by the thirtieth day after the end of such period the loan may be declared delinquent and at the option of the county committee upon authorization of the State committee the loan may be called and the entire unpaid amount of the loan shall become immediately due and payable. Any delinquent loan or any past due amount on any annual payment may be deducted and paid out of any amounts due the borrower under any program carried out by the Department of Agriculture, utilizing CCC funds when the loan is held by a lending agency, or utilizing any funds available to the Department when the loan is held by CCC. Any payments for storage of commodities in farm storage structure under a price support or reseal program due from Commodity Credit Corporation to a borrower shall be applied (1) to any delinquent amount(s), and, (2) to the borrower's storage facility loan installment which is due and payable when the storage payment is due, and (3) to any extended installment(s), each including interest. Upon breach by the maker of the note of any covenants or agreements on his part to be performed under this Bulletin, or under the mortgage or other security instruments securing the note, or under any other instruments executed in connection with the loan, or if the facility is used in connection with any commercial operation including but not limited to elevators, warehouses, dryers or processing plants, during the life of the loan, the holder at his option may declare the entire indebtedness immediately due and payable. The loan may be paid in full or in part by the borrower at any time before maturity. Upon payment of farm storage facility loans secured by mortgages or deeds to secure debts which are held by CCC or secured by deeds of trust under which CCC is beneficiary, the county committee should be requested by the borrower to release or obtain the release of such instruments of record. Upon payment of loans secured by instruments held by a lending agency or under which a lending agency is beneficiary, the lending agency should be requested by the borrower to release or obtain the release of such instrument or instruments.

(d) Renegotiation. The term "renegotiation", as used herein, means any extension of the time for repayment of the loan or any installment thereof (other than a simple extension under paragraph (a) of this section or any change in the amount of installment payment.

(1) The security position of CCC with regard to any lien securing the original note shall not be impaired. To insure that this condition is met and that all renegotiation instruments are legally sufficient, such instruments submitted to the State committee shall be submitted to the Attorney in Charge for review.

(2) Renegotiation of a loan shall be authorized by the State committee if it determines, upon review of data satisfactory to the State committee (which data shall be provided through the county committee) showing, in addition to any other information desired by the State committee, that renegotiation of the loan is in the best interests of CCC, taking into consideration (i) the financial position of the borrower, (ii) the prospective income of the borrower, particularly under price support programs, (iii) prior efforts in good faith to repay the loan, (iv) whether the borrower has maintained the facility in good condition, (v) whether the facility has been used for any purpose other than the storage of eligible commodities, (vi) probable net return from foreclosure and resale of bin, (vii) whether CCC price support programs would be benefited by such renegotiation.

(3) The amount of a renegotiated loan shall be the unpaid balance of the original note plus accrued interest and expenses paid by CCC which are chargeable to the borrower, as of the date of renegotiation.

(4) The renegotiated loan shall bear interest at the rate of 4 percent on the unpaid balance.

(5) A loan may be renegotiated for such period, in the light of information obtained under subparagraph (2) (i) and (iii) of this paragraph, as is deemed reasonably necessary to effect repayment but in no event shall the maturity date of the renegotiated loan be extended beyond 10 years following the date of first disbursement of the original loan.

(6) The insurance requirements specified in paragraph (e) of this section shall be applicable to loans renegotiated in accordance with this part.

(7) A renegotiated loan must be approved also by the Deputy Administrator, Operations, CSS, or by the Executive Vice President, CCC, if the renegotiated loan balance is in excess of (i) $15,000 for movable facilities and (ii) $25,000 for immovable facilities. The Deputy Administrator, Operations, CSS, is authorized to approve renegotiated loan balances not in excess of $25,000; all renegotiated loan balances in excess of $25,000 are subject to the approval of the Executive Vice President, CCC.

(e) Insurance. Insurance shall be maintained on all immovable storage facility loans, regardless of the amount of the loan, and with coverage for fire and other hazards existent in the area. Insurance shall also be maintained on all movable facility loans on which the amount loaned was $1,000 or more, and on loans under $1,000 when required by the State committee of any State. All insurance shall be maintained during the life of the loan and for the face value of the loan, and the cost shall be borne by the borrower. The policy shall contain a clause making any loss thereunder payable to CCC and to any other holder of the note secured by the storage facility as their interests may appear. If any insurance is not in effect at any time during the life of the loan, the loan shall be called immediately unless such lapse is due to the failure of the effective date of the insurance to coincide with the date of disbursement.

(f) Taxes. The borrower must covenant to pay all personal property taxes, and all taxes that become due and payable on the real estate covered by the mortgage securing the note evidencing the loan. CCC, if it deems it desirable for the purpose of protecting its interests, may pay any unpaid taxes and add the amount of such payments to the borrower's indebtedness and may provide in the loan instruments for increasing the lien on the facility by the amount of such payments.

(g) Maintaining storage facility. The borrower shall be required to maintain the storage facility in condition and keep it available for storage until the loan is paid in full. The borrower shall not use the facility for any purpose other than the storage of the commodities listed in § 474.725 (a) in the production of which he has an interest without the written consent of the county committee, except that a landlord borrower may include the facility in a lease of the land on which the facility is located conditioned upon use of the facility for the storage of eligible commodities.

§ 474.727 Disbursement of loan. In the case of movable storage facilities, disbursement will be made in full at the time of completion of the facility and after the facility has been inspected and approved by the county committee or designated employee. In the case of immovable storage facilities, disbursement will be made either in full at the time of completion and approval of the facility by the county committee or designated employee or on a partial advance plan as elected by the borrower in his application for a loan. Under the partial advance plan, the proceeds of the loan will be disbursed in the following manner: 10 percent upon the execution of the security instrument, an additional 20 percent when the construction is one-half completed, an additional 20 percent when the construction is three-fourths completed, and the remainder when the construction is fully completed. Final and complete disbursement of the loan proceeds on movable or immovable structures will not be made under any plan until the borrower furnishes satisfactory evidence of the payment of any debts on the facility in excess of the amount discharged with the loan.

§ 474.728 Service charge. There shall be collected from the applicant at the time the application is made, a service charge of $5.00 or one (1) percent of the loan, whichever is greater, but in no case shall the charge be less than $5.00. If the loan is rejected or is not completed, the minimum charge of $5.00 shall be retained by the county committee and the balance returned to the applicant.

§ 474.729 Sale or conveyance of security. When the borrower desires to sell or convey the facilities or other property securing a loan without repaying the loan in full, he shall apply to the Chairman of the county committee for approval of the sale or conveyance on behalf of CCC. If such approval is granted, the borrower and the purchaser shall execute an assumption agreement in form prescribed by CCC. Approval of the transaction on behalf of CCC shall be shown by signature of the Chairman of the county committee in the space provided in the assumption agreement. The Chairman of each county committee is authorized to approve such transactions on behalf of CCC with respect to facilities located within the county, by executing the consent provision in the assumption agreement. The assumption agreement form may be obtained from the county committee office.

Issued this 25th day of June 1958.

Acting Executive Vice President,
Commodity Credit Corporation.

Subchapter D—Regulations Under Soil Bank Act

PART 485—SOIL BANK

SUBPART—VIOLATIONS PROCEDURE

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

The Soil Bank regulations applicable to violations, 22 F. R. 2411, as amended, are hereby further amended as follows:

1. The following new section is added immediately following § 485.279:

§ 485.279a Additional refund when certificate was redeemed in grains. In any case where a refund is required under an Acreage Reserve Agreement, and the producer has exchanged all or a part of the certificate of compensation for grain, the market value of the grain as of the date of exchange shall be determined. If such market value is in excess of the certificate or portion thereof used for exchange, the producer shall also be required to refund the amount of such excess: Provided, That if the producer redeemed "loan grain" the amount of such excess shall not exceed the difference between the face value of the certificate and the principal amount of the loan, plus accrued interest on the quantity of such grain redeemed in exchange for the certificate.

2. The first sentence of § 485.280 is amended to read as follows: "If any producer who requested a hearing before the county committee in accordance with this subpart and appeared or was represented at the hearing held in response to such request feels aggrieved by a determination of the State committee which (a) requires the producer to forfeit all rights to compensation under an Acreage Reserve Agreement and to refund all compensation received thereunder, (b) provides for termination of a Conservation Reserve Contract, or (c) calls for the assessment of a civil penalty under an Acreage Reserve Agreement or a Conservation Reserve Contract, he may obtain judicial review pursuant to section 107 (d) of the Soil Bank Act, by filing a complaint with the United States District Court for the district in which the land covered by the agreement or contract is located, within 90 days after the delivery of notice of such determination, requesting the court to set aside such determination."

3. Section 485.282 is amended by adding the following new paragraph (c):

(c) The State committee on its own motion, or upon the request of the producer, may, within 90 days after the delivery of the notice of its determination (but not after the filing of a complaint to set aside the determination, unless such complaint be dismissed), reopen the hearing before the State committee for any reason. If the State committee reopens the hearing, and renders another determination, affirming or modifying the prior determination, a producer eligible to judicial review under the provisions of § 485.280 shall have 90 days after the delivery of notice of the latter determination in which to file a complaint in the proper district court.

4. The following new section is added immediately following § 485.286:

§ 485.286a Failure to set aside sufficient acreage. Where the acreage set aside by the producer is less than the acreage which he agreed to place in the acreage reserve and it is determined that he did not make a reasonable effort to set aside such acreage and after notice fails to set aside such acreage, the entire amount payable or paid to all producers under the agreement shall be forfeited or refunded. (In addition to the forfeiture or refund prescribed in this section, if the producer knowingly and willfully harvests a crop from or grazes the acreage which he agreed to place in the acreage reserve, the civil penalty imposed by section 123 of the Soil Bank Act shall apply.)

5. The following new section is added immediately following § 485.289:

§ 485.289a Failure to control wind or water erosion. Effective with respect to

1958 agreements, where there has been a failure to exercise reasonable diligence to take steps prescribed by the county committee to control wind or water erosion on the acreage reserve, the entire amount payable or paid to the operator shall be forfeited or refunded. In such case, the entire amount payable or paid to any other producer (including tenants and sharecroppers who did not sign the agreement) shall also be forfeited or refunded by such producer: Provided, That such forfeiture or refund shall not apply to a producer (other than the operator) if it is determined that such producer did not cause or contribute to the failure to take such steps.

6. Section 485.290 (b) is amended by adding the following at the end thereof: "(Effective with respect to 1958 agreements covering spring-planted commodities, the provisions of this subparagraph shall not apply to a cash tenant, standing-rent tenant, or fixed-rent tenant, unless such tenant was living on the farm in 1957 or received 50 per centum or more of his income in 1957 from the farm covered by the agreement.)"

7. Section 485.291 is amended by inserting "(a)" immediately after the heading and by adding a new paragraph (b) at the end thereof as follows:

(b) Effective with 1958 agreements, it shall be considered a scheme or device to defeat the purposes of the program for a producer having an agreement for a commodity on the farm to exceed the allotment for the commodity on another farm if he knowingly exceeds by a substantial amount the acreage normally devoted to the commodity on such farm. The regulations governing the spring-planted commodities provide specifically that in the case of agreements covering spring-planted commodities, a producer shall be considered to have exceeded by a substantial amount the acreage normally devoted to a commodity on a farm if he has exceeded by more than ten (10) percent the larger of (1) the allotment, or (2) the highest acreage devoted to the commodity on the farm in either of the years 1956 or 1957.

8. The following new sections are added immediately following § 485.291:

§ 485.291a Scheme or device to evade maximum payment limitation. If any producer adopts or participates in adopting, any scheme or device, including the dissolution, reorganization, revival, formation, or use of any corporation, partnership, estate, trust, or by any other means, designed to evade the maximum payment limitation, such producer shall forfeit or refund the entire amount of the compensation payable or paid to him.

§ 485.291b Failure to permit access to farm. Where there has been a failure to permit the county committeemen or their representative, or any other authorized representative of the Secretary, to enter the farm at any reasonable time in order to measure the acreage or determine the production of any agricultural commodity on the farm and to examine any records pertaining to the farm, the entire amount payable or paid to the operator shall be forfeited or refunded. In such case, the entire amount payable or paid to any other producer (including tenants and sharecroppers who did not sign the agreement) shall also be forfeited or refunded by such producer.

9. The first sentence of § 485.295 is amended to read as follows: "If an acreage reserve agreement is knowingly and willfully violated in any one or more of the following respects: (a) Harvesting an acreage of the commodity in excess of the acreage permitted to be harvested under the agreement, (b) harvesting a crop from the acreage reserve, (c) grazing the acreage reserve, or (d) failing to set aside and refrain from harvesting or grazing the acreage which he agreed to place in the acreage reserve—there shall be assessed a civil penalty equal to 50 per centum of the total compensation payable for compliance with the agreement."

(Sec. 124, 70 Stat. 198; 7 U. S. C. 1812)

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 30th day of June 1958.

Acting Secretary.

MAILING OF ARTICLES ABROAD

The Department has been receiving numerous inquiries from business firms and individuals domiciled in the United States concerning the legality of mailing, or having mailed on their behalf, in other countries various publications, advertising matter, or circulars addressed to persons or firms in the United States.

Article VII of the Final Protocol of the Universal Postal Convention states:

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[Docket Nos. 12223, 12224; FCC 58–610]

ARMIN H. WITTENBERG, JR., AND PASADENA PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER AMENDING ISSUES

In re applications of Armin H. Wittenberg, Jr., Los Angeles, California, Docket No. 12223, Filed No. BPH–2170; Pasadena Presbyterian Church, Pasadena, California, Docket No. 12224, File No. BPH–2179; for construction permits.

1. The Commission has under consideration (1) a petition to enlarge issues filed on November 14, 1957, by Armin H. Wittenberg, Jr. (Wittenberg); (2) a reply to said petition filed on December 6, 1957, by the Broadcast Bureau; and (3) an opposition to said petition filed on December 6, 1957 by Pasadena Presbyterian Church (Pasadena).

2. Wittenberg and Pasadena are mutually exclusive applicants for Class B FM station construction permits on Channel 294 at Los Angeles and Pasadena, California respectively, which applications have been designated for consolidated hearing on stated issues (22 F. R. 8546).

3. Wittenberg seeks the addition of an issue to determine which applicant would make better use of the Class B FM channel, as well as to inquire whether Pasadena cannot utilize a Class A channel just as well for its purpose which, alleges Wittenberg, is to serve Pasadena primarily. The question of which applicant will make better use of the instant Class B channel is already present in the stated issues. As to whether Pasadena's needs can be served just as well by a Class A channel, we do not conceive that question to be before the Commission. The Commission's policy against enlargement of issues to show the availability of an alternative frequency (channel) is now well established. Dorsey Eugene Newman, et al., 11 RR 977 (1955).

4. We note, however, that the Broadcast Bureau while opposing the addition of Wittenberg's requested issue (par. 3, supra) suggests the inclusion of issues as follows:

> To determine the areas and populations within the 50 uv/m and 1 mv/m contours of the proposed operations and the availability of other FM broadcast services to such areas and populations.
> To determine, in the light of the nature of the respective operations proposed and of the areas and populations to be served, together with the other evidence presented under (the previous) issue * * *, whether considerations with respect to Section 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, are applicable to the above-entitled proceeding, and, if so, whether a choice between the applications herein can be reasonably based thereon and, if so, whether a grant to one of the other of the applicants would provide the more fair, efficient and equitable distribution of service to the communities involved.

With the Broadcast Bureau we are inclined to agree since, while the applications are for different cities, the question of whether or not they form parts of the same community may more properly be determined in this adjudicatory proceeding.

5. Wittenberg further proposes an additional issue as to whether Pasadena is legally, financially and otherwise qualified. In this connection, Wittenberg contends that it does not appear from Pasadena's application, or its amendment thereto, that its governing body has authorized the expenditure of funds for the facility requested. We find no merit in this contention. It appears clear that Pasadena's amended application reflects the will of the corporate body. As regards the corporate authorization for the expenditure of funds, we presume that the Board of Trustees, acting by and through Mr. Nootbaar, intends the natural consequences of its act in the absence of any showing to the contrary. A reexamination of the financial status of Pasadena reveals a net worth of $2,500,000, cash of $69,000 and a projected expenditure of $17,300 for construction and operation for the first year. Insofar as it may be pertinent at this stage of the proceeding, we remain satisfied that Pasadena is financially qualified.

6. Wittenberg further seeks the addition of an issue to determine whether Pasadena's proposed operation will comply with 47 CFR 3.204 (a) which defines in general terms the service area for a Class B station, and 47 CFR 3.311 (c) which specifies signal strengths which must be placed in particular portions of the service area in order to comply with the Commission's minimum "service" definition. Wittenberg argues that Channel 294 is assigned in our FM table of allocations to the Los Angeles Metropolitan District and that under 47 CFR 3.311 (c) Pasadena fails to:

a. Place a 3 mv/m signal over the entire principal city of the metropolitan district which, claims Wittenberg, is Los Angeles City.

b. Place a 1 mv/m signal over the business district of all cities of 10,000 or greater within the Los Angeles Metropolitan District, e. g. Costa Mesa and Newport Beach, California.

c. Place a 1 mv/m signal over all city, business or factory areas within the City of Los Angeles (e. g. part of Van Nuys, Canoga Park, Northridge, Reseda, Woodland Hills and Tarzana), or the metropolitan district (e. g. Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, Laguna Beach and San Clemente).

7. Pasadena opposes the proposed additional issue alleging that it construes "the principal city to be served" within the purview of 47 CFR 3.311 to be Pasadena and that it does furnish a 3 mv/m signal to all of Pasadena (par. 6, a, supra). As to the allegations of insufficient coverage set forth by Wittenberg in pars. 6, b and 6, c, supra, Pasadena argues that it has never been Commission policy or practice to require a Class B station in a metropolitan district to cover the entire district but only a substantially greater portion than would be covered by a community station. The Broadcast Bureau concurs and cites a public notice (10 F. R. 12006) of September 1945 to the foregoing effect.

8. In our view Wittenberg's thesis is unsound. If his interpretation of the rules were adopted, it might frequently have the effect of depriving a sizable community of needed service from a Class B station merely because such community is not the principal city of the metropolitan district wherein it is located. Pasadena, with a 1950 population of 104,000 persons is surely a major city, regardless of its relative rank among the cities comprising the Los Angeles Metropolitan District. We further agree with Pasadena that it has not been our practice heretofore to demand full coverage of the farthest reaches of the metropolitan district provided that the applicant in good faith sought to serve a major or substantial portion thereof in furtherance of the general scheme underlying our establishment of Class B stations.

In view, therefore, of the foregoing reasons:

It is ordered, That petitioner Wittenberg's petition to enlarge issues is in all respects denied, and

It is further ordered, That the Commission amends its cited order to renumber existing issue 2 as issue 4 and adds the following issues:

> 2. To determine the areas and populations within the 50 uv/m and 1 mv/m contours of the proposed operations and the availability of other FM broadcast services to such areas and populations.
> 3. To determine, in the light of the nature of the respective operations proposed and of the areas and populations to be served, together with the other evidence presented under issue No. 2, whether considerations with respect to section 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, are applicable to the above-entitled proceeding, and, if so, whether a choice between the applications herein can be reasonably based thereon and, if so, whether a grant to one of the other of the applicants would provide the more fair, efficient and equitable distribution of service to the communities involved.

It further appearing that examination of the files discloses that applicant Wittenberg's application as amended is in error in its engineering section in that applicant has stated his antenna gain as 8.4 decibels whereas the correct figure for the technical equipment specified is 8.4 (which, converted to decibels, equals 9.2), and the error so existing has resulted in erroneous statements of coverage, contours, populations, etc.,

It is further ordered, By the Commission on and of its own motion, that applicant Wittenberg be and he hereby is directed to submit a corrected engineering amendment and to make and submit corrected exhibits and other documents rendered erroneous by the above-described error.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G-15335]

NORTHERN NATURAL GAS CO.

ORDER PROVIDING FOR HEARING AND SUSPENDING PROPOSED REVISED TARIFF SHEETS

JUNE 25, 1958.

On May 26, 1958, Northern Natural Gas Company (Northern) tendered for filing Third Revised Sheets Nos. 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 14, 15 and 16 to Northern's FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, proposing to make effective as of June 27, 1958, increased rates and charges for the sale of natural gas for resale. Such revised tariff sheets would effect an increase in rates and charges of about $8,137,000 annually, or 8.0 percent based on sales for the year 1957 as adjusted for the test period.

Northern claims that the increased rates proposed are necessary to cover increased costs. Among such claimed costs are (1) increased cost of purchased gas, including the effects of Northern's increases in purchases of high priced gas, and Northern's shifts in supply sources, (2) additional labor costs, (3) rate of return to Northern of 6.5 percent annually, in lieu of the currently established 6 percent return, (4) increased income taxes associated with such higher return, (5) an income tax credit to working capital of 33⅓ percent in lieu of the 62 percent credit currently established, and (6) the inclusion in working capital of minimum bank balances.

Northern proposes to allocate such increases to the demand component of its rate schedules in each of its three established zones, leaving the commodity and overrun component of such rate schedules unchanged.

Inter alia, it appears that: Increased costs of Northern's purchased gas are referable in part to prices being collected under bond and subject to possible refund to Northern; insufficient basis, absent public hearing, exists for Northern's claim for an increase in its rate of return; Northern's proposed classification and allocation of costs may not be justified; and Northern's proposed adjustments of working capital allowances may not be justified. It also appears that by order issued March 6, 1957, in Docket No. G-12153 the Commission suspended certain prior proposed increased rates tendered by Northern on February 5, 1957, and that the hearing on the lawfulness of such rates has not been held, although such rates became effective, subject to refund, on August 27, 1957, pursuant to Commission order duly issued in said Docket No. G-12153.

The customer companies and the Kansas State Corporation Commission were invited to submit comments on the proposed increases. Responses protesting against the proposed increases have been received from 12 customer companies and the Kansas Commission.

On June 9, 1958, a joint motion was filed by 12 of Northern's customers seeking the rejection and return of the May 26, 1958, tender made by Northern on the grounds that (1) the only lawful rates chargeable by Northern are the rates made effective pursuant to the settlement of Docket No. G-2505 as provided in the Commission's order issued July 26, 1956, on consent of all customers; (2) such rates may not be changed unilaterally by Northern's tariff filings, and (3) costs of purchased gas presented by Northern reflect in part rates prescribed by an invalid Kansas minimum price statute. Insofar as the joint motion is based upon the Mobile and Memphis cases, it is our view, in the present posture of the Memphis case that the motion is premature. El Paso Natural Gas Company, Opinion No. 308, issued January 24, 1958; Colorado Interstate Gas Co., Opinion No. 313, issued June 21, 1958. Further, the allegation in the motion that the proposed increase is in some part predicated on the Kansas minimum price is not a basis for rejection of the filing.

The increased rates and charges provided for in the revised tariff sheets tendered by Northern on May 26, 1958, have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest, and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act, that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the rates, charges, classifications, and services contained in Northern's FPC Gas Tariff, as proposed to be amended by Third Revised Sheets Nos. 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 14, 15 and 16 to First Revised Volume No. 1 thereof, and that said proposed revised tariff sheets and the rates contained therein be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter provided.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the rates, charges, classifications, and services contained in Northern's FPC Gas Tariff, as proposed to be amended by Third Revised Sheets Nos. 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 14, 15 and 16 to First Revised Volume No. 1 thereof, tendered for filing May 26, 1958.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, Northern's proposed Third Revised Sheets Nos. 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 14, 15 and 16 to Northern's FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, are each hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until November 27, 1958, and until such further time as they are made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Interested state commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

By the Commission.

J. S. RUSHING AND HARRY W. BASS

NOTICE OF APPLICATIONS AND DATE OF HEARING

JUNE 26, 1958.

In the matters of J. S. Rushing, Docket No. G-6085; Harry W. Bass, Docket No. G-9389.

Take notice that Harry W. Bass (Bass), an independent producer of natural gas, filed an application on September 22, 1955, as supplemented November 23, 1955, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing the sale of natural gas as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the amended application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Bass seeks authority to sell natural gas in interstate commerce to Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company (Arkansas Louisiana) for resale from the 598.03 acre Rickerson Gas Unit in the Ada Field, Webster Parish, Louisiana, under the gas sales contract dated January 25, 1950, between The Atlantic Refining Company (Atlantic), seller, and Arkansas Louisiana, buyer, as amended. Bass acquired the interest of Atlantic [1] and J. S. Rushing (Rushing) in said Unit through an agreement dated May 27, 1955. No production had been sold from the unit prior to the assignment.

On November 23, 1955, Bass amended his application and submitted an agreement dated September 20, 1955, between Bass and Arkansas Louisiana, in substitution for the contract of January 25, 1950. Said contract of September 20, 1955, provides for the sale of gas on the same terms and conditions embodied in the Atlantic contract.

On February 7, 1958, Rushing filed a petition to amend the certificate issued to him on December 6, 1956, in Docket No. G-6085, authorizing his sale of gas from the Rickerson Unit, to delete his interest in said unit assigned to Bass.

These related matters should be heard on a consolidated record and disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on August 21, 1958 at 9:30 a. m., e. d. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such applications: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a noncontested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicants to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. J. S. RUSHING AND HARRY W. BASS

NOTICE OF APPLICATIONS AND DATE OF HEARING

JUNE 26, 1958.

In the matters of J. S. Rushing, Docket No. G-6085; Harry W. Bass, Docket No. G-9389.

Take notice that Harry W. Bass (Bass), an independent producer of natural gas, filed an application on September 22, 1955, as supplemented November 23, 1955, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing the sale of natural gas as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the amended application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Bass seeks authority to sell natural gas in interstate commerce to Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company (Arkansas Louisiana) for resale from the 598.03 acre Rickerson Gas Unit in the Ada Field, Webster Parish, Louisiana, under the gas sales contract dated January 25, 1950, between The Atlantic Refining Company (Atlantic), seller, and Arkansas Louisiana, buyer, as amended. Bass acquired the interest of Atlantic and J. S. Rushing (Rushing) in said Unit through an agreement dated May 27, 1955. No production had been sold from the unit prior to the assignment.

On November 23, 1955, Bass amended his application and submitted an agreement dated September 20, 1955, between Bass and Arkansas Louisiana, in substitution for the contract of January 25, 1950. Said contract of September 20, 1955, provides for the sale of gas on the same terms and conditions embodied in the Atlantic contract.

On February 7, 1958, Rushing filed a petition to amend the certificate issued to him on December 6, 1956, in Docket No. G-6085, authorizing his sale of gas from the Rickerson Unit, to delete his interest in said unit assigned to Bass.

These related matters should be heard on a consolidated record and disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on August 21, 1958 at 9:30 a. m., e. d. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such applications: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a noncontested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicants to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before July 21, 1958. ORDER FOR HEARING AND SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

JUNE 25, 1958.

Perry E. Larson & Max L. Thomas (Operator) et al. (Larson & Thomas), on May 26, 1958, tendered for filing a proposed change in their presently effective rate schedule for the sale of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate and charge, is contained in the following designated filing:

Description: Notice of Change, undated.
Purchaser: Loan Star Gas Company.
Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 6 to Larson & Thomas' FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1.
Effective date: July 1, 1958 (effective date is the effective date proposed by Larson & Thomas).

In support of the proposed favored-nation rate increase, Larson & Thomas submits a copy of Lone Star Gas Company's favored-nation letter dated May 13, 1958, specifying the 14.0 cents per Mcf base rate, which they cite as authority for the increased rate. No further support is offered.

The increased rate and charge so proposed has not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that Supplement No. 6 to Larson & Thomas' FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1 be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

UNITED PRODUCING COMPANY, INC.

ORDER FOR HEARING AND SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

JUNE 26, 1958.

United Producing Company, Inc. (United), on May 29, 1958, tendered for filing a proposed change in its presently effective rate schedule for the sale of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate and charge, is contained in the following designated filing:

Description: Notice of Change dated May 28, 1958.
Purchaser: Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America.
Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 3 to United's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 20.
Effective date: July 1, 1958 (effective date is the effective date proposed by United).

In support of the proposed two-step periodic rate increase, United cites the pricing provision of the contract and states that the contract was made at arm's-length; that the price schedule represents the negotiated contract price, and that such an arrangement is common in long-term contracts and is economically desirable to the buyer because it enables the securing of assured reserves and the receipt of low price gas when the buyer's unamortized investment is high. United also states that the increase is necessary to offset increased costs and other producers in the area are receiving 16.4 cents per Mcf.[1]

The increased rate and charge so proposed has not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that Supplement No. 3 to United's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 20 be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rate and charge contained in Supplement No. 3 to United's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 20.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, said supplement be and it is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 1, 1958, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Neither the supplement hereby suspended nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(D) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

[1] The cited rates are initial rates not subject to suspension.

By the Commission (Commissioner Hussey dissenting).

Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 4 to Langford's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1.
Effective date: July 1, 1958 (effective date is the effective date proposed by Langford).

In support of the proposed favored-nation rate increase, Langford submits a copy of Lone Star Gas Company's favored-nation letter dated May 13, 1958, specifying the 14.0 cents per Mcf rate, which it cites as authority for the increased rate. No further support is offered.

The increased rate and charge so proposed has not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that Supplement No. 4 to Langford's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1 be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rate and charge contained in Supplement No. 4 to Langford's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, said supplement be and it is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 1, 1958, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Neither the supplement hereby suspended nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

REAGAN J. CARAWAY ET AL.

ORDER FOR HEARING AND SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

JUNE 26, 1958.

Reagan J. Caraway (Operator) et al. (Caraway), on June 3, 1958, tendered for filing a proposed change in his presently effective rate schedule for the sale of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate and charge, is contained in the following designated filing:

Description: Notice of Change, dated June 2, 1958.
Purchaser: Lone Star Gas Company.
Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 4 to Caraway's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 2.
Effective date: July 4, 1958 (effective date is the effective date proposed by Caraway).

In support of the proposed favored-nation rate increase, Caraway submits a copy of Lone Star Gas Company's favored-nation letter dated May 13, 1958, specifying the 14.0 cents per Mcf rate, which he cites as authority for the increased rate. Caraway states that the contract was negotiated at arm's-length; that the increased price is just and reasonable and is necessary to recover the extremely high cost of drilling the wells.

The increased rate and charge so proposed has not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that Supplement No. 4 to Caraway's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 2 be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rate and charge contained in Supplement No. 4 to Caraway's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 2.

L. O. MCMILLAN

JUNE 26, 1958.

L. O. McMillan (McMillan) on June 9, 1958, tendered for filing a proposed change in his presently effective rate schedule for the sale of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate and charge, is contained in the following designated filing:

Description: Notice of Change, dated June 6, 1958.
Purchaser: Lone Star Gas Company.
Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 7 to McMillan's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1.
Effective date: July 10, 1958 (effective date is the first day after expiration of the required thirty days' notice).

In support of the proposed favored-nation rate increase, McMillan submits a copy of Lone Star Gas Company's favored-nation letter dated May 13, 1958, specifying the 14.0 cents per Mcf rate, which he cites as authority for the increased rate. In addition, McMillan states that all intrastate contracts now being entered into by Lone Star Gas Company in the area call for the 14.0 cents per Mcf price for the first five years with such price to be increased to 16.0 cents per Mcf for the succeeding five-year period and to deny his increased price would be inequitable.

The increased rate and charge so proposed has not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that Supplement No. 7 to McMillan's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1 be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rate and charge contained in Supplement No. 7 to McMillan's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, said supplement be and it is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 10, 1958, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Neither the supplement hereby suspended nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(D) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

The Superior Oil Company (Superior) on June 2, 1958, tendered for filing proposed changes in its presently effective rate schedules[1] for sales of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed changes, which constitute increased rates and charges, are contained in the following designated filings:

The increased rates and charges so proposed have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed changes, and that Supplement No. 7 to Superior's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 8; Supplement No. 8 to Superior's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 9; Supplement No. 10 to Superior's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 10, and Supplement No. 5 to Superior's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 30, be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 812-1159]

INTER-CANADIAN CORP.

NOTICE OF AND ORDER FOR HEARING REGARDING ACQUISITION OF STOCK OF INSURANCE COMPANY FROM AFFILIATES AND OTHERS AND ISSUANCE OF NOTES

JUNE 25, 1958.

Notice is hereby given that Inter-Canadian Corporation ("Applicant"), a non-diversified closed-end investment company, registered as such under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("act") has filed an application pursuant to section 6 (c) and 17 (b) of the Act for an exemption from sections 12 (d) (1), 12 (d) (2), 17 (a) and 18 (a) of the Act to permit Applicant to acquire capital stock of Northwestern Fire and Marine Insurance Company ("Northwestern") as a preliminary step looking toward the acquistion by Applicant of Northwestern's portfolio, the acquisition of certain shares of said stock from affiliates of Applicant, and the issuance of certain notes the proceeds of which will be used to purchase the Northwestern capital stock.

The application may be summarized as follows:

Applicant's investment policy provides, among other things, for the concentration of its assets in Canadian businesses or assets located in Canada. It has recently disposed of a large holding of stock of a Canadian company, so that its assets, amounting to approximately $1,800,000, are now comprised of approximately $1,200,000 in cash and $600,000 of various Canadian securities.

As a possible vehicle for investment of its cash and because of the favorable rate of exchange of Canadian currency, Applicant's management determined to attempt to purchase a controlling interest in Northwestern. Accordingly, under date of May 16, 1958, Applicant entered into a contract with Hartford Fire Insurance Company ("Hartford"), which owns or controls 19,800 shares of Northwestern's common stock of a total of 125,000 shares outstanding. Said contract provides, among other things, that Applicant offers to purchase, at a price of $41 per share, all stock of Northwestern tendered to it, subject to the following conditions: (i) that such acquisition shall have been approved by this Commission and approved by the Inter-Canadian stockholders; and (ii) that on or before June 30, 1958, there will be deposited shares, which together with 1,005 shares owned by Inter-Canadian, aggregate $66\frac{2}{3}$ percent of the outstanding shares of Northwestern. Inter-Canadian reserved the right to purchase all stock tendered even though less than $66\frac{2}{3}$ percent.

Hartford, pursuant to said contract is obligated, inter alia (i) to tender the 19,800 shares of Northwestern which it owns or controls; and (ii) to give notice of termination effective as of January 1, 1959 of certain contracts between itself and Northwestern relating to its management and operation of Northwestern and reinsurance between the two companies; and (iii) to assume all liabilities of Northwestern in any way connected with its insurance business upon payment by Northwestern to Hartford of an amount equal to 65 percent of Northwestern's unearned premium reserve.

Pursuant to said contract between Hartford and Inter-Canadian, the latter, on May 20, 1958, made the requisite offer to the Northwestern stockholders and Hartford has given notice of termination of its contracts with Northwestern. As of June 12, 1958, there were on deposit 48,081 shares pursuant to the offer; an officer and certain directors of Inter-Canadian have agreed to sell 12,537 shares which they own and to assign options on 3,565 shares which they hold.

Northwestern is a corporation organized and existing under the insurance and corporation laws of Minnesota, and authorized to write fire and casualty insurance in all forty-eight states. Since 1915 Northwestern's insurance business has been conducted and managed by Hartford, pursuant to contracts.

When the contracts between the two companies are terminated Northwestern's assets will continue to be contingently liable for such insurance originally written in its name. Inter-Canadian has agreed to assume such contingent liability in the event the same shall become necessary or desirable to liquidate and dissolve Northwestern as described herein.

If Inter-Canadian acquires $66\frac{2}{3}$ of the Northwestern stock it will exchange its own newly issued shares for the assets of Northwestern and thereafter cause Northwestern to be liquidated and dissolved. Such exchange of stock for assets would be on a tax-free basis. Inter-Canadian states that if it cannot acquire $66\frac{2}{3}$ percent of the stock it will only acquire a lesser number provided such number plus shares to which it holds irrevocable voting rights constitute a majority of the Northwestern stock. In such event Inter-Canadian will cause Northwestern to be liquidated and dissolved without an exchange of stock for assets and Northwestern would probably be required to pay capital gains taxes upon the liquidation of its portfolio. It is stated that complete liquidation and dissolution of Northwestern can only be carried out in a proceeding instituted in the courts of Minnesota which may not be commenced until after January 1, 1959. It is further stated that the Insurance Commissioner of the State of Minnesota has announced his intended opposition to such liquidation and dissolution so long as any liability remains under any policy of insurance written in the name of Northwestern.

Northwestern's balance sheet as of March 31, 1958, shows a net worth of $6,234,514.00, resulting in a book value of $49.88 for each of the outstanding 125,000 shares of Northwestern stock. The actual market value of the bonds included in Northwestern's portfolio on March 31, 1958 was approximately $318,000.00 less than the amortized value reflected in said balance sheet. After adjusting for this amount, the book value for each of Northwestern's outstanding shares on March 31, 1958, would be $47.33.

The pro forma balance sheet of Northwestern as of March 31, 1958, reflects the assumption by Hartford of Northwestern's liabilities. Said pro forma balance sheet discloses a net worth of $6,548,597.00 resulting in a book value of $52.31 per share. After adjustment to reflect the market value of bonds referred to in the preceding paragraph, said pro forma balance sheet would disclose a book value of $49.84 per share.

Included in such net worth is the voluntary reserve of Northwestern which constitutes the unrealized appreciation of its portfolio of securities upon which a federal income tax of 25 percent would be payable if Northwestern were to be liquidated on a no-tax-free basis. If the pro forma March 31, 1958, balance sheet of Northwestern were to be further adjusted to reflect liability for such federal income taxes, as well as the adjustment of bond values to market, the book value of Northwestern stock would be reduced to $45.59 per share. Since March 31, 1958 there has been further appreciation in the market value of Northwestern's portfolio of securities.

As stated, an officer and certain directors of Inter-Canadian own an aggregate of 12,537 shares of Northwestern. These shares were acquired in contemplation of Applicant's consummation of the proposed transactions after Inter-Canadian made its offer of May 20, 1958. It is stated that such acquisitions were made from persons who were unwilling to tender stock pursuant to a conditional offer. Applicant proposes to acquire these shares from such affiliated persons at their cost of $41 per share plus interest on funds borrowed by such persons to effect the purchases of these Northwestern shares.

In order to provide funds in addition to its own assets to enable it to make purchases of shares tendered pursuant to the offer Applicant has obtained a written commitment from the First National Bank of Minneapolis for a loan of up to $3,200,000 subject to the conditions, among others, that at least a majority of the Northwestern shares will be acquired, that Applicant will expend in such acquisition at least $1,600,000 of its own funds, that the loan will be repaid within two years, and that the notes will bear 4¼ percent interest for the first year which rate will be the subject of renegotiation thereafter.

In the event that Inter-Canadian is unable to cause the liquidation and dissolution of Northwestern prior to the maturity of the bank loan in order to repay the same in its entirety, Inter-Canadian intends to cause Northwestern to distribute during 1959 sufficient of its assets so that Inter-Canadian will be able to reduce such bank loan to the extent that the asset coverage for the unpaid balance will be at least 300 percent.

Applicant proposes to hold a special meeting of its stockholders prior to the issuance of any order herein for the purpose of seeking their approval of (1) the purchase by Applicant of the Northwestern stock, (2) a change in Applicant's investment policy which, among other things, woud permit such investment, and (3) a change in Applicant's name.

Section 12 (d) (2) of the act, insofar as here relevant, makes it unlawful for a registered investment company to acquire more than 10 percent of the total outstanding voting stock of an insurance company. Accordingly, Inter-Canadian may only make the proposed acquisition of Northwestern shares if exempted, pursuant to section 6 (c) of the act, from the provisions of section 12 (d) (2). The offer to Northwestern stockholders is stated to be subject to the condition that "the purchase of shares pursuant hereto is approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission upon an application for such approval." The application herein seeks an exemption pursuant to section 6 (c) of the act which authorizes the Commission, conditionally or unconditionally, to exempt any person, security or transactions, from any provision or provisions of the act if and to the extent that such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the act. The exemption from section 12 (d) (2), if granted, would not involve the Commission's passing upon the investment merits of the acquisition of the Northwestern stock by Applicant or the fairness of the consideration to be paid or received therefor.

Section 12 (d) (1) of the act, insofar as here relevant, makes it unlawful for a registered investment company to acquire more than 3 percent of the total outstanding stock of another investment company. Subsequent to January 1, 1959, and prior to its dissolution, Northwestern will be an investment company. Section 18 (a) (1) of the act makes it unlawful for a registered closed-end investment company to issue debt obligations, with certain minor exceptions, unless the asset coverage for this debt immediately after such issuance, is equal to at least 300 percent. This percentage of asset coverage will not be attained upon the effectuation of the proposed bank loan to be made by Northwestern. An exemption, pursuant to section 6 (c) of the act is, therefore, also sought from the provisions of section 12 (d) (1) and 18 (a) (1) of the act.

Section 17 (a) (1), to the extent pertinent, makes it unlawful for an affiliated person (officers and directors) of a registered investment company (Inter-Canadian) to sell securities to such registered investment company unless exempted pursuant to section 17 (b). Section 17 (b) provides that an exemption may be granted if the evidence establishes that the terms of the proposed transaction, including the consideration to be paid or received, are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned; and the proposed transaction is consistent with the investment policy of such registered investment company and the general purposes of the act.

It appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors that a hearing be held with respect to the application pursuant to sections 6 (c) and 17 (b);

It is ordered, Pursuant to section 40 (a) of the act that a hearing on the aforesaid application under the applicable provisions of the act and of the rules of the Commission thereunder be held on the 10th day of July 1958, at 10:00 a. m., in the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At such time the Hearing Room Clerk will advise as to the room in which such hearing will be held. Any person desiring to be heard or otherwise wishing to participate in the proceedings is directed to file with the Secretary of the Commission his application as provided by Rule XVII of the Commission's rules of practice, on or before the date provided in the rule setting forth any issues of law or fact which he desires to controvert or any additional issues which he deems raised by this Notice and Order or by such application.

It is further ordered, That Robert N. Hislop, or any officer or officers of the Commission, designated by it for that purpose, shall preside at said hearing. The officer so designated is hereby authorized to exercise all the powers granted to the Commission under sections 41 and 42 (b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 and to a hearing officer under the Commission's rules of practice.

The Division of Corporate Regulation having advised the Commission that it has made a preliminary examination of the application and that upon the basis thereof the following matters and questions are presented for consideration, without prejudice to its specifying additional matters and questions upon further examination:

(1) Whether the requested exemptions from sections 12 (d) and 18 (a) are necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the act;

(2) Whether the terms of the sale to Applicant by its affiliates of the shares of Northwestern stock, including the consideration to be paid by Applicant, are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned; whether such transaction is consistent with Applicant's policy as stated or as will be stated in its registration statement; and whether such transactions are consistent with the general purposes of the act;

(3) Whether any order of exemption issued herein should be subject to conditions and, if so, the terms thereof.

It is further ordered, That at the aforesaid hearing attention be given to the foregoing matters and questions.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall give notice of the aforesaid hearing by mailing a copy of this notice and order by registered mail to Inter-Canadian and the Insurance Commissioner of the State of Minnesota, that notice to all other persons be given by publication of this notice and order in the FEDERAL REGISTER and that a general release of this Commission in respect of this notice and order be distributed to the press and mailed to the mailing list for releases.

By the Commission.

TARIFF COMMISSION

HATTERS' FUR

REPORT TO THE PRESIDENT

JUNE 26, 1958.

The Tariff Commission today submitted a report to the President of its finding in an investigation of hatters' fur. The investigation was undertaken pursuant to paragraph 2 of Executive Order 10401, of October 14, 1952, to determine whether and to what extent the increased duty on hatters' fur, established in February 1952 by "escape clause" action, needs to be continued in order to prevent serious injury or threat thereof to the domestic industry producing hatters' fur.

The duty now in effect on hatters' fur, as a result of the escape-clause action, is 47½ cents per pound but not less than 15 percent or more than 35 percent ad valorem. The duty in effect before the "escape clause" action was the trade-agreement rate of 15 percent ad valorem.

The Commission found that continuation of the increased duty is no longer necessary to prevent serious injury or the threat thereof. It accordingly recommended to the President that the concession rate of 15 percent ad valorem be restored.

Copies of the Commission's report are available upon request as long as the limited supply lasts. Address requests to the United States Tariff Commission, Eighth and E Streets NW., Washington 25, D. C.

DONN N. BENT, Secretary.

PETITION TO REDEFINE COMMERCIAL ZONE LIMITS

JUNE 27, 1958.

The following petition relative to the limits of the zone adjacent to and commercially a part of a municipality within the meaning of section 203 (b) (8) of the Interstate Commerce Act has been received and will be processed in the manner hereinafter indicated.

In Ex Parte No. MC–37, Commercial Zones and Terminal Areas, a petition has been filed on April 18, 1958, by Allegheny Freight Lines, Inc., of Winchester, Va., seeking redefinition of the limits of the commercial zone of Ravenswood, W. Va., in a manner to expand them.

The limits of the commercial zone of Ravenswood, W. Va., are now determined by application of the population-mileage formula enunciated in Ex Parte No. MC–37, Commercial Zones and Terminal Areas, 46 M. C. C. 665 (49 CFR 170.15, 170.16, and 170.17), and include the base municipality of Ravenswood, all unincorporated areas within 2 miles of Ravenswood corporate limits, and all of any other municipality any part of which is within 2 miles of the corporate limits of Ravenswood.

Petitioner seeks enlargement of the above-described zone limits, to an extent not specifically stated but sufficiently to include the site of the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Company plant.

No oral hearing is contemplated with respect to the petition, but an informal investigation with respect to redefinition of the zone limits as requested, and in other respects, will be conducted. Subsequent to such investigation, the Commission will either (1) enter an order denying the petition or (2) if any change is considered, a notice of proposed rule making will be published. Persons supporting or opposed to any change in the present zone limits, who desire to participate in future proceedings on this petition or be notified of any action taken thereon, should notify the Commission and the individual petitioner of their desire on or before 30 days from the date of this publication.

By the Commission.

Chapter I—Bureau of Customs, Department of the Treasury

[T. D. 54627]

PART 14—APPRAISEMENT

EXAMINATION OF MERCHANDISE

The Bureau has decided in line with an employee suggestion that it should be within the appraiser's discretion to dispense with preliminary examinations currently required under § 14.2 (e) of the Customs Regulations before the collector grants permission to remove such imported articles as machinery, altars and the like to the place of erection or assembly for final examination.

To reflect in the Customs Regulations the adoption of this suggestion and, in addition, to give effect to another suggestion that the collector of customs be given exclusive authority to grant applications for extensions beyond the 90-day period initially given the importer within which to notify customs the article is set up and ready for examination, § 14.2 (e) is amended as follows:

The word "may" and the words "he deems" are substituted for the word

"shall" and the words "may be", respectively, in the third sentence.

The words "any necessary" are substituted for the word "the" between the words "and" and "preliminary" in the fourth sentence.

The words "or appraiser" where they first appear in the last sentence are deleted.

PART 52—REGULATIONS UNDER TRADING WITH THE ENEMY ACT

REVOCATION OF LICENSES FOR CERTAIN CUSTOMS ENTRIES AND EXAMINATION OF TANGIBLE COMMUNICATIONS

Part 51 of the Customs Regulations dispenses with Treasury licenses for certain customs entries in cases where a foreign country is specified in Executive Order No. 8389, dated April 10, 1940, as amended, or a national thereof has an interest in the merchandise. Part 52 is the regulation governing the examination of tangible communications under section 3 (c) of the Trading With the Enemy Act, approved October 6, 1917 (50 U. S. C. App. 3 (c)). As Parts 51 and 52 have no present applicability, they are hereby revoked.

TITLE 10—ATOMIC ENERGY

Chapter I—Atomic Energy Commission

PART 2—RULES OF PRACTICE

PART 55—OPERATORS' LICENSES

NEW MAILING ADDRESS

These amendments to Title 10, Chapter 1, eliminate the former address of the Atomic Energy Commission and substitute therefor the new mailing address. They specify that petitions for leave to intervene shall be deemed to have been filed with the Commission as of the time they are received in the Office of the Secretary, at Germantown, Maryland, or in the case of petitions filed in person in the AEC Public Document Room, located at 1717 H Street, NW., Washington, D. C., when they are received in that room, and that medical forms filed pursuant to Part 55 should be mailed to the Atomic Energy Commission at its new address.

Because of the procedural nature of these amendments, and because interested persons will not be adversely affected, the Atomic Energy Commission has found that general notice of proposed rule making and public procedure thereon are unnecessary; and that good cause exists why these amendments should be made effective without the customary period of prior notice.

Effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER:

1. Paragraph (a) of § 2.705 is amended to read as follows:

(a) Any person whose interest may be affected by a proceeding may file a petition to intervene, describing his interest, how it may be affected by AEC action, and the position he is taking in the matter. Service of copies of the petition shall be made upon all parties to the proceeding. The licensee or applicant upon prompt notice and motion, and other parties by leave, may contest the right of the petitioner to intervene. Petitions for leave to intervene, whether filed by mail, telegraph or otherwise, shall be deemed to have been filed with the AEC as of the time received in the Office of the Secretary at the AEC's offices in Germantown, Maryland, or in the AEC Public Document Room, 1717 H Street NW., Washington, D. C.

2. The first note at the end of § 55.60 is amended to read as follows: "This form should be mailed by the physician to the United States Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D. C., Attention: Director, Division of Licensing and Regulation."

(Sec. 161, 68 Stat. 984, as amended; 42 U. S. C. 2201)

Dated at Germantown, Md., this 23d day of June 1958.

In furtherance of the inspection and certification program for processed fishery products and upon recommendations by the Fish and Wildlife Service, the Department of Agriculture has heretofore promulgated standards for fishery products as follows:

Subpart—United States Standards for Grades of Frozen Fried Fish Sticks, issued July 18, 1956; published July 21, 1956 (21 F. R. 5475; 7 CFR, 52.3141–52.3151); effective August 21, 1956.

As found and determined by the Director of the Bureau of the Budget on March 22, 1956 (23 F. R. 2304), all functions of the Department of Agriculture which pertain to fish, shellfish and any products thereof, performed under the authority of Title II of the Agricultural Marketing Act of August 14, 1946, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1621–1627), including but not limited to the development and promulgation of grade standards for fishery products, the inspection and certification of such products, and the improvement of transportation facilities and rates for fish and shellfish and any products thereof, were transferred to the Department of the Interior by section 6 (a) of the act of August 8, 1956, popularly known as the Fish and Wildlife Act of 1956 (16 U. S. C. Sec. 742e).

By notice of proposed rule making published on May 30, 1958 (23 F. R. 3780), notice was given of the intention of the Commissioner of Fish and Wildlife to recommend to the Secretary of the Interior the adoption of regulations, set forth therein in tentative form, to be codified as Title 50, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 170—Inspection and Certification and constituting an adaptation, without substantive change, of regulations currently codified as Title 7, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 52, to fit the needs of a fishery products standards program to be administered by the Department of the Interior in substitution for the Department of Agriculture. The public was informed that consideration would be given to any data, views, or arguments relating to the regulations which were received by the Commissioner, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington 25, D. C., not later than June 16, 1958.

No data have been received from the public in response to the notice of proposed rule making. It has been determined, however, that the regulations set forth below to govern inspection and certification (Part 170) and prescribing grade standards for the fishery products identified in Parts 171, 172, and 173 are necessary and desirable to facilitate the administration of a fishery product inspection and certification service by the Department of the Interior.

The adoption of these regulations with an effective date of July 1, 1958, is necessary to implement the transfer from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of the Interior of functions relating to the promulgation of grade standards and the inspection and certification of fishery products. By virtue of an administrative agreement concluded between the two agencies, the Department of Agriculture will discontinue the exercise of primary responsibility for the inspection and certification of fishery products at the close of business on June 30, 1958, and the Department of the Interior will begin to exercise primary responsibility for these functions on July 1, 1958. All persons who currently are parties to contracts with the Department of Agriculture for the furnishing of inspection and certification services for fishery products have been notified in writing of the intention to substitute the Department of the Interior for the Department of Agriculture as the administering agency effective July 1, 1958, and have been given ample opportunity to prepare for the effective date of the regulations being adopted herein. No substantive changes have been made in these regulations and only those revisions are being accomplished which are necessary to codify them under Title 50, Code of Federal Regulations. In the circumstances, it has been determined that the 30-day advance publication requirement imposed by section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act of June 11, 1946, 60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003 (c), may be waived under the exemptions provided in that section. Accordingly, the regulations set forth below are adopted pursuant to the authority contained in Title II, section 205, of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1624), and shall become effective on July 1, 1958.

Dated: June 30, 1958.

FRED A. SEATON,
Secretary of the Interior.

§ 170.23 Postponing inspection service. If the inspector determines that it is not possible to accurately ascertain the quality or condition of a processed product immediately after processing because the product has not reached equilibrium in color, sirup density, or drained weight, or for any other substantial reason, he may postpone inspection service for such period as may be necessary.

§ 170.24 Financial interest of inspector. No inspector shall inspect any processed product in which he is directly or indirectly financially interested.

§ 170.27 Issuance of corrected certificates. A corrected inspection certificate may be issued by the inspector who issued the original certificate after distribution of a certificate if errors, such as incorrect dates, code marks, grade statements, lot or car numbers, container sizes, net or drained weights, quantities, or errors in any other pertinent information require the issuance of a corrected certificate. Whenever a corrected certificate is issued, such certificate shall supercede the inspection certificate which was issued in error and the superseded certificate shall become null and void after the issuance of the corrected certificate.

§ 170.28 Issuance of an inspection report in lieu of an inspection certificate. A letter report in lieu of an inspection certificate may be issued by an inspector when such action appears to be more suitable than an inspection certificate: Provided, That, the issuance of such report is approved by the Secretary.

APPEAL INSPECTION

§ 170.36 When appeal inspection may be requested. An application for an appeal inspection may be made by any interested party who is dissatisfied with the results of an inspection as stated in an inspection certificate, if the lot of processed products can be positively identified by the inspection service as the lot from which officially drawn samples were previously inspected. Such application shall be made within thirty (30) days following the day on which the previous inspection was performed, except upon approval by the Secretary the time within which an application for appeal inspection may be made may be extended.

§ 170.37 Where to file for an appeal inspection and information required. (a) Application for an appeal inspection may be filed with:

(1) The inspector who issued the inspection certificate on which the appeal covering the processed product is requested; or

(2) The inspector in charge of the office of inspection at or nearest the place where the processed product is located.

(b) The application for appeal inspection shall state the location of the lot of processed products and the reasons for the appeal; and date and serial number of the certificate covering inspection of the processed product on which the appeal is requested, and such application may be accompanied by a copy of the previous inspection certificate and any other information that may facilitate inspection. Such application may be made orally (in person or by telephone), in writing, or by telegraph. If made orally, written confirmation shall be made promptly.

§ 170.38 When an application for an appeal inspection may be withdrawn. An application for appeal inspection may be withdrawn by the applicant at any time before the appeal inspection is performed: Provided, That, the applicant shall pay at the hourly rate prescribed in § 170.76, for the time incurred by the inspector in connection with such application, any travel expenses, telephone, telegraph, or other expenses which have been incurred by the inspection service in connection with such application.

§ 170.39 When appeal inspection may be refused. An application for an appeal inspection may be refused if:

(a) The reasons for the appeal inspection are frivolous or not substantial;

(b) The quality or condition of the processed product has undergone a material change since the inspection covering the processed product on which the appeal inspection is requested;

(c) The lot in question is not, or cannot be made accessible for the selection of officially drawn samples;

(d) The lot relative to which appeal inspection is requested cannot be positively identified by the inspector as the lot from which officially drawn samples were previously inspected; or

(e) There is noncompliance with the regulations in this part. Such applicant shall be notified promptly of the reason for such refusal.

§ 170.40 Who shall perform appeal inspection. An appeal inspection shall be performed by an inspector or inspectors (other than the one from whose inspection the appeal is requested) authorized for this purpose by the Secretary and, whenever practical, such appeal inspection shall be conducted jointly by two such inspectors: Provided, That the inspector who made the inspection on which the appeal is requested may be authorized to draw the samples when another inspector or licensed sampler is not available in the area where the product is located.

§ 170.41 Appeal inspection certificate. After an appeal inspection has been completed, an appeal inspection certificate shall be issued showing the results of such appeal inspection; and such certificate shall supersede the inspection certificate previously issued for the processed product involved. Each appeal inspection certificate shall clearly identify the number and date of the inspection certificate which it supersedes. The superseded certificate shall become null and void upon the issuance of the appeal inspection certificate and shall no longer represent the quality or condition of the processed product described therein. The inspector or inspectors issuing an appeal inspection certificate shall forward notice of such issuance to such persons as he considers necessary to prevent misuse of the superseded certificate if the original and all copies of such superseded certificate have not previously been delivered to the inspector or inspectors issuing the appeal inspection certificate. The provisions in the regulations in this part concerning forms of certificates, issuance of certificates, and disposition of certificates shall apply to appeal inspection certificates, except that copies of such appeal inspection certificates shall be furnished all interested parties who received copies of the superseded certificate.

§ 170.47 Who may become licensed sampler. Any person deemed to have the necessary qualifications may be licensed as a licensed sampler to draw samples for the purpose of inspection under the regulations in this part. Such a license shall bear the printed signature of the Secretary, and shall be countersigned by an authorized employee of the Department. Licensed samplers shall have no authority to inspect processed products under the regulations in this part except as to identification and condition of the containers in a lot. A licensed sampler shall perform his duties pursuant to the regulations in this part as directed by the Director.

§ 170.48 Application to become a licensed sampler. Application to become a licensed sampler shall be made to the Secretary on forms furnished for that purpose. Each such application shall be signed by the applicant in his own handwriting, and the information contained therein shall be certified by him to be true, complete, and correct to the best of his knowledge and belief, and the application shall contain or be accompanied by:

(a) A statement showing his present and previous occupations, together with names of all employers for whom he has worked, with periods of service, during the ten years previous to the date of his application;

(b) A statement that, in his capacity as a licensed sampler, he will not draw samples from any lot of processed products with respect to which he or his employer is an interested party;

(c) A statement that he agrees to comply with all terms and conditions of the regulations in this part relating to duties of licensed samplers; and

(d) Such other information as may be requested.

§ 170.49 Inspectors. Inspections will ordinarily be performed by employees under the Secretary who are employed as Federal Government employees for that purpose. However, any person employed under any joint Federal-State inspection service arrangement may be licensed, if otherwise qualified, by the Secretary to make inspections in accordance with this part on such processed products as may be specified in his license. Such license shall be issued only in a case where the Secretary is satisfied that the particular person is qualified to perform adequately the inspection service for which such person is to be licensed. Each such license shall bear the printed signature of the Secretary and shall be countersigned by an authorized employee of the Department. An inspector shall perform his duties pursuant to the regulations in this part as directed by the Director.

§ 170.50 Suspension or revocation of license of licensed sampler or licensed inspector. Pending final action by the Secretary, the Director may, whenever he deems such action necessary, suspend the license of any licensed sampler, or licensed inspector, issued pursuant to the regulations in this part, by giving notice of such suspension to the respective licensee, accompanied by a statement of the reasons therefor. Within seven days after the receipt of the aforesaid notice and statement of reasons by such licensee, he may file an appeal, in writing, with the Secretary supported by any argument or evidence that he may wish to offer as to why his license should not be suspended or revoked. After the expiration of the aforesaid seven days period and consideration of such argument and evidence, the Secretary shall take such action as he deems appropriate with respect to such suspension or revocation.

§ 170.51 Surrender of license. Upon termination of his services as a licensed sampler or licensed inspector, or suspension or revocation of his license, such licensee shall surrender his license immediately to the office of inspection serving the area in which he is located. These same provisions shall apply in a case of an expired license.

SAMPLING

§ 170.57 How samples are drawn by inspectors or licensed samplers. An inspector or a licensed sampler shall select samples, upon request, from designated lots of processed products which are so placed as to permit thorough and proper sampling in accordance with the regulations in this part. Such person shall, unless otherwise directed by the Secretary, select sample units of such products at random, and from various locations in each lot in such manner and number, not inconsistent with the regulations in this part, as to secure a representative sample of the lot. Samples drawn for inspection shall be furnished by the applicant at no cost to the Department.

§ 170.58 Accessibility for sampling. Each applicant shall cause the processed products for which inspection is requested to be made accessible for proper sampling. Failure to make any lot accessible for proper sampling shall be sufficient cause for postponing inspection service until such time as such lot is made accessible for proper sampling.

§ 170.59 How officially drawn samples are to be identified. Officially drawn samples shall be marked by the inspector or licensed sampler so such samples can be properly identified for inspection.

§ 170.60 How samples are to be shipped. Unless otherwise directed by the Secretary, samples which are to be shipped to any office of inspection shall be forwarded to the office of inspection serving the area in which the processed products from which the samples were drawn is located. Such samples shall be shipped in a manner to avoid, if possible, any material change in the quality or condition of the sample of the processed product. All transportation charges in connection with such shipments of samples shall be at the expense of the applicant and wherever practicable, such charges shall be prepaid by him.

§ 170.61 Sampling plans and procedures for determining lot compliance. (a) Except as otherwise provided for in this section in connection with in-plant inspection and unless otherwise approved by the Secretary, samples shall be selected from each lot in the exact number of sample units indicated for the lot size in the applicable single sampling plan or, at the discretion of the inspection service, any comparable multiple sampling plan: Provided, That at the discretion of the inspection service the number of sample units selected may be increased to the exact number of sample units indicated for any one of the larger sample sizes provided for in the appropriate plans.

(b) Under the single sampling plans with respect to any specified requirement:

(1) If the number of deviants (as defined in connection with the specific requirement) in the sample does not exceed the acceptance number prescribed for the sample size the lot meets the requirement;

(2) If the number of deviants (as defined in connection with the specific requirement) in the sample exceeds the acceptance number prescribed for the sample size the lot fails the requirement.

(c) Under the multiple sampling plans inspection commences with the smallest sample size indicated under the appropriate plan and with respect to any specified requirement:

(1) If the number of deviants (as defined in connection with the specific requirement) in the sample being considered does not exceed the acceptance number prescribed for that sample size, the lot meets the requirement;

(2) If the number of deviants (as defined in connection with the specific requirement) in the sample being considered equals or exceeds the rejection number prescribed for that sample size, the lot fails the requirement; or

(3) If the number of deviants (as defined in connection with the specific requirement) in the sample being considered falls between the acceptance and rejection numbers of the plan, additional sample units are added to the sample so that the sample thus cumulated equals the next larger cumulative sample size in the plan. It may then be determined that the lot meets or fails the specific requirement by considering the cumulative sample and applying the procedures outlined in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph or by considering successively larger samples cumulated in the same manner until the lot meets or fails the specific requirement.

(d) If in the conduct of any type of in-plant inspection the sample is examined before the lot size is known and the number of sample units exceeds the prescribed sample size for such lot but does not equal any of the prescribed larger sample sizes the lot may be deemed to meet or fail a specific requirement in accordance with the following procedure:

(1) If the number of deviants (as defined in connection with the specific requirement) in the nonprescribed sample does not exceed the acceptance number of the next smaller sample size the lot meets the requirements;

(2) If the number of deviants (as defined in connection with the specific requirement) in the nonprescribed sample equals the acceptance number prescribed for the next larger sample size additional sample units shall be selected to increase the sample to the next larger prescribed sample size;

(3) If the number of deviants (as defined in connection with the specific requirement) in the nonprescribed sample exceeds the acceptance number prescribed for the next larger sample size the lot fails the requirement.

(e) In the event that the lot compliance determination provisions of a standard or specification are based on the number of specified deviations instead of deviants the procedures set forth in this section may be applied by substituting the word "deviation" for the word "deviant" wherever it appears.

(f) Sampling plans referred to in this section are those contained in Tables I, II, III, IV, V, and VI which follow or any other plans which are applicable. For processed products not included in these tables, the minimum sample size shall be the exact number of sample units prescribed in the table, container group, and lot size that, as determined by the inspector, most closely resembles the product, type, container size and amount of product to be sampled.

§ 170.62 Issuance of certificate of sampling. Each inspector and each licensed sampler shall prepare and sign a certificate of sampling to cover the samples drawn by the respective person, except that an inspector who inspects the samples which he has drawn need not prepare a certificate of sampling. One copy of each certificate of sampling prepared shall be retained by the inspector or licensed sampler (as the case may be) and the original and all other copies thereof shall be disposed of in accordance with the instructions of the Secretary.

§ 170.63 Identification of lots sampled. Each lot from which officially drawn samples are selected shall be marked in such manner as may be prescribed by the Secretary, if such lots do not otherwise possess suitable identification.

FEES AND CHARGES

§ 170.69 Payment of fees and charges. Fees and charges for any inspection service shall be paid by the interested party making the application for such service, in accordance with the applicable provisions of the regulations in this part, and, if so required by the person in charge of the office of inspection serving the area where the services are to be performed, an advance of funds prior to rendering inspection service in an amount suitable to the Secretary, or a surety bond suitable to the Secretary, may be required as a guarantee of payment for the services rendered. All fees and charges for any inspection service performed pursuant to the regulations in this part shall be paid by check, draft, or money order payable to the Treasurer of the United States and remitted to the office of inspection serving the area in which the services are performed, within ten (10) days from the date of billing, unless otherwise specified in a contract between the applicant and the Secretary, in which latter event the contract provisions shall apply.

§ 170.70 Schedule of fees. (a) Unless otherwise provided in a written agreement between the applicant and the Secretary, the fees to be charged and collected for any inspection service performed under the regulations in this part at the request of the United States, or any agency or instrumentality thereof, shall be at the rate of $4.50 per hour.

(b) Unless otherwise provided in the regulations in this part, the fees to be charged and collected for any inspection service performed under the regulations in this part shall be based on the applicable rates specified in this section.[2]

§ 170.76 When charges are to be based on hourly rate not otherwise provided for in this part. When inspection is for condition only or when inspection services or related services are rendered and formal certificates are not issued or when the services rendered are such that charges based upon the foregoing sections would be inadequate or inequitable, charges may be based on the time consumed by the inspector in performance of such inspection service at the rate of $4.50 per hour.

[4] When any of these analyses are made at the request of an applicant and are not in connection with an inspection to determine the quality or condition of the product, the listed fees shall be increased by 30 percent.

[4] When these analyses are made in connection with an inspection to determine the quality or condition of the product no fee shall be charged for the analyses.

§ 170.77 Fees for score sheets. If the applicant for inspection service requests score sheets showing in detail the inspection of each container or sample inspected and listed thereon, such score sheets may be furnished by the inspector in charge of the office of inspection serving the area where the inspection was performed; and such applicant shall be charged at the rate of $2.25 for each twelve sample units, or fraction thereof, inspected and listed on such score sheets.

§ 170.78 Fees for additional copies of inspection certificates. Additional copies of any inspection certificate other than those provided for in § 170.29, may be supplied to any interested party upon payment of a fee of $2.25 for each set of five (5) or fewer copies.

§ 170.79 Travel and other expenses. Charges may be made to cover the cost of travel and other expenses incurred in connection with the performance of any inspection service, including appeal inspections: Provided, That, if charges for sampling or inspection are based on an hourly rate, an additional hourly charge may be made for travel time including time spent waiting for transportation as well as time spent traveling, but not to exceed eight hours of travel time for any one person for any one day: And provided further, That, if travel is by common carrier, no hourly charge may be made for travel time outside the employee's official work hours.

§ 170.80 Charges for inspection service on a contract basis. (a) Irrespective of fees and charges prescribed in foregoing sections, the Secretary may enter into contracts with applicants to perform continuous inspection services or other inspection services pursuant to the regulations in this part and other requirements as prescribed by the Secretary in such contract, and the charges for such inspection service provided in such contracts shall be on such basis as will reimburse the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries of the Department for the full cost of rendering such inspection service including an appropriate overhead charge to cover as nearly as practicable administrative overhead expenses as may be determined by the Secretary.

(b) Irrespective of fees and charges prescribed in the foregoing sections, the Secretary may enter into a written memorandum of understanding or contract, whichever may be appropriate, with any administrative agency charged with the administration of a marketing agreement or a marketing order effective pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as revised (16 U. S. C. 661 et seq.) for the making of inspections pursuant to said agreement or order on such basis as will reimburse the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries of the Department for the full cost of rendering such inspection service including an appropriate overhead charge to cover as nearly as practicable administrative overhead expenses as may be determined by the Secretary. Likewise, the Secretary may enter into a written memorandum of understanding or contract, whichever may be appropriate, with an administrative agency charged with the administration of a similar program operated pursuant to the laws of any State.

(c) No Member of, or Delegate to Congress, or Resident Commissioner, shall be admitted to any share or part of any contract provided for in this section or to any benefit that may arise therefrom, but this provision shall not be construed to extend to such contract if made with a corporation for its general benefit, and shall not extend to any benefits that may accrue from the contract to a Member of, or Delegate to Congress, or a Resident Commissioner in his capacity as a fisherman.

(a) The making or filing of an application for any inspection service;

(b) The submission of samples for inspection;

(c) The use of any inspection report or any inspection certificate, or appeal inspection certificate issued under the regulations in this part;

(d) The use of the words "Packed under continuous inspection of the U. S. Department of the Interior," any legend signifying that the product has been officially inspected, any statement of grade or words of similar import in the labeling or advertising of any processed product;

(e) The use of a facsimile form which simulates in whole or in part any official U. S. certificate for the purpose of purporting to evidence the U. S. grade of any processed product; or

(f) Any wilful violation of the regulations in this part or supplementary rules or instructions issued by the Secretary.

§ 170.88 Political activity. All inspectors and licensed samplers are forbidden, during the period of their respective appointments or licenses, to take an active part in political management or in political campaigns. Political activities in city, county, State, or national elections, whether primary or regular, or in behalf of any party or candidate, or any measure to be voted upon, are prohibited. This applies to all appointees or licensees, including, but not limited to, temporary and cooperative employees and employees on leave of absence with or without pay. Wilful violation of this section will constitute grounds for dismissal in the case of appointees and revocation of licenses in the case of licensees.

§ 170.89 Interfering with an inspector or licensed sampler. Any further benefits of the act may be denied any applicant or other interested party who either personally or through an agent or representative interferes with or obstructs, by intimidation, threats, assault, or in any other manner, an inspector or licensed sampler in the performance of his duties.

§ 170.91 Identification. Each inspector and licensed sampler shall have in his possession at all times and present upon request, while on duty, the means of identification furnished by the Department to such person.

REQUIREMENTS FOR PLANTS OPERATING UNDER CONTINUOUS INSPECTION ON A CONTRACT BASIS [5]

§ 170.97 Plant survey. (a) Prior to the inauguration of continuous inspection service on a contract basis, the Secretary will make, or cause to be made, a survey and inspection of the plant where such service is to be performed to determine whether the plant and methods of operation are suitable and adequate for the performance of such services in accordance with:

(1) The regulations in this part, including, but not limited to, the requirements contained in §§ 170.97 through 170.103; and

(2) The terms and provisions of the contract pursuant to which the service is to be performed.

§ 170.98 Premises. The premises of the plant shall be free from conditions objectionable to food processing operations; and such conditions include, but are not limited to, the following:

(a) Strong offensive odors;

(b) Litter, waste, and refuse (e. g., garbage, viner refuse, and damaged containers) within the immediate vicinity of the plant buildings or structures;

(c) Excessively dusty roads, yards, or parking lots; and

(d) Poorly drained areas.

§ 170.99 Buildings and structures. The plant buildings and structures shall be properly constructed and maintained in a sanitary condition, including, but not being limited to, the following requirements:

(a) There shall be sufficient light (1) consistent with the use to which the particular portion of the building is devoted and (2) to permit efficient cleaning. Belts and tables on which picking, sorting, or trimming operations are carried on shall be provided with sufficient nonglaring light to insure adequacy of the respective operation.

[5] Compliance with the above requirements does not excuse failure to comply with all applicable sanitary rules and regulations of city, county, State, Federal, or other agencies having jurisdiction over such plants and operations.

(b) If practicable, there shall be sufficient ventilation in each room and compartment thereof to prevent excessive condensation of moisture and to insure sanitary and suitable processing and operating conditions. If such ventilation does not prevent excessive condensation, the Secretary may require that suitable facilities be provided to prevent the condensate from coming in contact with equipment used in processing operations and with any ingredient used in the manufacture or production of a processed product.

(c) There shall be an efficient waste disposal and plumbing system. All drains and gutters shall be properly installed with approved traps and vents, and shall be maintained in good repair and in proper working order.

(d) There shall be ample supply of both hot and cold water; and the water shall be of safe and sanitary quality with adequate facilities for its (1) distribution throughout the plant, and (2) protection against contamination and pollution.

(e) Roofs shall be weather-tight. The walls, ceilings, partitions, posts, doors, and other parts of all buildings and structures shall be of such materials, construction, and finish as to permit their efficient and thorough cleaning. The floors shall be constructed of tile, cement, or other equally impervious material, shall have good surface drainage, and shall be free from openings or rough surfaces which would interfere with maintaining the floors in a clean condition.

(f) Each room and each compartment in which any processed products are handled, processed, or stored (1) shall be so designed and constructed as to insure processing and operating conditions of a clean and orderly character; (2) shall be free from objectionable odors and vapors; and (3) shall be maintained in a clean and sanitary condition.

(g) Every practical precaution shall be taken to exclude dogs, cats, and vermin (including, but not being limited to, rodents and insects) from the rooms in which processed products are being prepared or handled and from any rooms in which ingredients (including, but not being limited to, salt, sugar, spices, flour, syrup, and fishery products) are handled or stored. Screens, or other devices, adequate to prevent the passage of insects shall, where practical, be provided for all outside doors and openings. The use of poisonous cleansing agents, insecticides, bactericides, or rodent poisons shall not be permitted except under such precautions and restrictions as will prevent any possibility of their contamination of the processed product.

§ 170.100 Facilities. Each plant shall be equipped with adequate sanitary facilities and accommodations, including, but not being limited to, the following:

(a) There shall be a sufficient number of adequately lighted toilet rooms, ample in size, and conveniently located. Such rooms shall not open directly into rooms or compartments in which processed products are being manufactured or produced, or handled. Toilet rooms shall be adequately screened and equipped with self-closing doors and shall have independent outside ventilation.

(b) Lavatory accommodations (including, but not being limited to, running water, single service towels, and soap) shall be placed at such locations in or near toilet rooms and in the manufacturing or processing rooms or compartments as may be necessary to assure the cleanliness of each person handling ingredients used in the manufacture or production of processed products.

(d) No product or material which creates an objectionable condition shall be processed, handled, or stored in any room, compartment, or place where any processed product is manufactured processed, or handled.

(e) Suitable facilities for cleaning (e. g., brooms, brushes, mops, clean cloths, hose, nozzles, soaps, detergent, sprayers, and steam pressure hose and guns) shall be provided at convenient locations throughout the plant.

§ 170.101 Equipment. All equipment used for receiving, washing, segregating, picking, processing, packaging, or storing any processed products or any ingredients used in the manufacture or production thereof, shall be of such design, material, and construction as will:

(a) Enable the examination, segregation, preparation, packaging and other processing operations applicable to processed products, in an efficient, clean, and sanitary manner, and

(b) Permit easy access to all parts to insure thorough cleaning and effective bactericidal treatment. Insofar as is practicable, all such equipment shall be made of corrosion-resistant material that will not adversely affect the processed product by chemical action or physical contact. Such equipment shall be kept in good repair and sanitary condition.

§ 170.102 Operations and operating procedures. (a) All operations in the receiving, transporting, holding, segregating, preparing, processing, packaging and storing of processed products and ingredients, used as aforesaid, shall be strictly in accord with clean and sanitary methods and shall be conducted as rapidly as practicable and at temperatures that will not tend to cause (1) any material increase in bacterial or other micro-organic content, or (2) any deterioration or contamination of such processed products or ingredients thereof. Mechanical adjustments or practices which may cause contamination of foods by oil, dust, paint, scale, fumes, grinding materials, decomposed food, filth, chemicals, or other foreign materials shall not be conducted during any manufacturing or processing operation.

(b) All processed products and ingredients thereof shall be subjected to continuous inspection throughout each manufacturing or processing operation. All processed products which are not manufactured or prepared in accordance with the requirements contained in §§ 170.97 through 170.103 or are not fit for human food shall be removed and segregated prior to any further processing operation.

(c) All ingredients used in the manufacture or processing of any processed product shall be clean and fit for human food.

(d) The methods and procedures employed in the receiving, segregating, handling, transporting, and processing of ingredients in the plant shall be adequate to result in a satisfactory processed product. Such methods and procedures include, but are not limited to, the following requirements:

(1) Containers, utensils, pans, and buckets used for the storage or transporting of partially processed food ingredients shall not be nested unless rewashed before each use;

(2) Containers which are used for holding partially processed food ingredients shall not be stacked in such manner as to permit contamination of the partially processed food ingredients;

(3) Packages or containers for processed products shall be clean when being filled with such products; and all reasonable precautions shall be taken to avoid soiling or contaminating the surface of any package or container liner which is, or will be, in direct contact with such products. If, to assure a satisfactory finished product, changes in methods and procedures are required by the Secretary, such changes shall be effectuated as soon as practicable.

§ 170.103 Personnel; health. In addition to such other requirements as may be prescribed by the Secretary with respect to persons in any room or compartment where exposed ingredients are prepared, processed, or otherwise handled, the following shall be complied with:

(a) No person affected with any communicable disease (including, but not being limited to, tuberculosis) in a transmissible stage shall be permitted;

(b) Infections or cuts shall be covered with rubber gloves or other suitable covering;

(c) Clean, suitable clothing shall be worn;

(d) Hands shall be washed immediately prior to starting work and each resumption of work after each absence from the work station;

AUTHORITY: §§ 171.1 to 171.31 issued under sec. 205, 60 Stat. 1090, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1624.

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION AND GRADES

§ 171.1 Product description. Frozen fried fish sticks are clean, wholesome, rectangular-shaped portions of breaded, pre-cooked, and frozen fish flesh. The portions of fish flesh, composed primarily of large pieces, are coated with a suitable batter and breading; are cooked by frying in suitable oil or fat; and are frozen in accordance with good commercial practice and maintained at temperatures necessary for the preservation of the product. Frozen fried fish sticks contain not less than 60 percent, by weight, of fish flesh. All sticks comprising an individual package are prepared from the flesh of only one species of fish.

§ 171.2 Grades of frozen fried fish sticks. (a) "U. S. Grade A" is the quality of frozen fried fish sticks that possess a good flavor and odor, that possess a good appearance, that are practically free from defects, that possess a good character, and that for those factors which are rated in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this part the total score is not less than 85 points: Provided, That the frozen fried fish sticks may possess a reasonably good appearance and a reasonably good character if the total score is not less than 85 points.

(b) "U. S. Grade B" is the quality of frozen fried fish sticks that possess a reasonably good flavor and odor, that possess a reasonably good appearance, that are reasonably free from defects, that possess a reasonably good character, and that for those factors which are rated in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this part the total score is not less than 70 points: Provided, That the frozen fried fish sticks may fail to possess a reasonably good appearance and fail to possess a reasonably good character if the total score is not less than 70 points.

(c) "Substandard" is the quality of frozen fried fish sticks that fail to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade B.

WEIGHTS AND DIMENSIONS

§ 171.6 Recommended weights and dimensions. The recommended weights and dimensions of frozen fried fish sticks are not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since weights and dimensions, as such, are not factors of quality for the purposes of these grades. It is recommended that the largest dimension of a fish stick be at least three times that of the next largest dimension and that the average weight of the individual sticks be not less than ¾ ounce and not greater than 1¼ ounces.

FACTORS OF QUALITY

§ 171.11 Ascertaining the grade—(a) General. In addition to considering other requirements outlined in the standards, the following quality factors are evaluated in ascertaining the grade of the product:

(1) Factor not rated by score points. (i) Flavor and odor.

(2) Factors rated by score points. The relative importance of each factor which is rated is expressed numerically on the scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given such factors are:

Factors:	Points
Appearance	35
Defects	40
Character	25
Total score	100

(b) Ascertaining of grade. The grade of frozen fried fish sticks is ascertained by observing the product in the frozen state and after it has been heated in a suitable manner.

(c) Good flavor and odor. "Good flavor and odor" means that the product has the good flavor and odor of properly prepared breaded fish sticks. The flesh portion has the good flavor and odor of properly prepared fish of the particular species. The coating has the good flavor and odor obtained when all components have been properly prepared, used, and maintained. The product is free from rancidity, bitterness, and staleness, from bacterial spoilage flavors and odors, and from off-flavors and off-odors of any kind.

(d) Reasonably good flavor and odor. "Reasonably good flavor and odor" means that the product may be somewhat lacking in good flavor and odor, but is free from rancidity and from objectionable bacterial spoilage flavors and odors, and from off-flavors and off-odors of any kind.

§ 171.12 Ascertaining the score for the factors which are rated. The essential variations within each factor which is rated are so described that the value may be ascertained for each factor and expressed numerically. The numerical range within each factor which is rated is inclusive. (For example, "21 to 25 points" means 21, 22, 23, 24, or 25 points.)

§ 171.13 Appearance—(a) General. The factor of appearance refers to the uniformity of size and shape of the frozen sticks, the color of the heated sticks, and the continuity of the coating of the product after heating.

(b) (A) classification. Frozen fried fish sticks that possess a good appearance may be given a score of 30 to 35 points. "Good appearance" means that the sticks are practically uniform in size and shape; that the product after heating possesses a practically uniform light brown to golden brown color or reddish-brown color characteristic of properly prepared frozen fried fish sticks; and that the sticks, after heating, possess a continuity of the coating not more than slightly affected by cracking or slipping.

(c) (B) classification. Frozen fried fish sticks that possess a reasonably good appearance may be given a score of 25 to 29 points. "Reasonably good appearance" means that the sticks are reasonably uniform in size and shape; that the product after heating possesses a reasonably uniform light brown to golden-brown color or reddish-brown color characteristic of properly prepared frozen fried fish sticks; and that the sticks, after heating, possess a continuity of the coating not materially affected by cracking or slipping.

(d) (SStd.) classification. Frozen fried fish sticks which fail to meet the requirements of paragraph (c) of this section may be given a score of 0 to 24 points, and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B regardless of the total score of the product (this is a partial limiting rule).

§ 171.14 Defects—(a) General. The factor of defects refers to the degree of freedom from bones, broken sticks, damaged sticks, and from blemishes.

(1) Bones. "Bones" means any bones that can be separated from the product, can be identified, and are of such character as to be potentially harmful.

(2) Broken stick. "Broken stick" means a fish stick which is separated in two or more parts or is strained apart to the extent that it cannot be readily handled as one stick.

(3) Damaged stick. "Damaged stick" means a fish stick which has been crushed or otherwise mutilated to the extent that its appearance is materially affected.

(4) Blemished. "Blemished" means the presence (in or on the fish flesh) of blood spots, bruises, skin, protein curd spots, and objectionable dark layer fat, and (on or in the coating) of burned material, dark carbon specks, and other harmless extraneous material.

(5) Seriously blemished. "Seriously blemished" means blemished to the extent that the appearance is seriously affected.

(b) (A) classification. Frozen fried fish sticks that are practically free from defects may be given a score of 34 to 40 points. "Practically free from defects" means that:

(1) None of the sticks are broken;

(2) The sticks may be blemished to only a minor degree; and

(3) Not more than a total of 20 percent, by count, of the sticks may be damaged or contain bones; Provided, That bones may be present in not more than 10 percent, by count, of all the sticks.

(c) (B) classification. Frozen fried fish sticks that are reasonably free from defects may be given a score of 28 to 33 points. Frozen fried fish sticks that fall into this classification may not be graded above U. S. Grade B regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably free from defects" means that not more than a total of 30 percent, by count, of the sticks may be defective because of bones, or are damaged sticks, broken sticks, or seriously blemished sticks; Provided, That

(1) Not more than 10 percent, by count, may be broken sticks;

(2) Not more than 30 percent, by count, may be damaged sticks;

(3) Not more than 20 percent, by count, of the sticks may contain bones; and

(4) Not more than 10 percent, by count, of the sticks may be seriously blemished.

(d) (SStd.) classification. Frozen fried fish sticks that fail to meet the requirements of paragraph (c) of this section may be given a score of 0 to 27 points, and may not be graded above substandard regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

§ 171.15 Character—(a) General. The factor of character refers to the presence or absence of free oil in the package and its effect on the condition of the package; the ease of separating the frozen sticks without damaging the coating or breaking the sticks; the tendency of the sticks to remain whole and unbroken when they are heated, handled, and served in the normal manner; the degree of freedom of the breading from either an oiliness or crumbliness; the tenderness and moistness of the flesh; the consistency of the breading in the heated product; and the adherence of the coating of the heated product.

(b) (A) classification. Frozen fried fish sticks that possess a good character may be given a score of 21 to 25 points. "Good character" means that oil from the product does not more than slightly damage the package; that there may be present not more than a very small amount of loose breading in the package; that the sticks may be separated easily; that the sticks are not more than very slightly damaged by the normal handling incident to heating and serving; that no excess oil remains on the cooking utensil; that the breading is not more than slightly oily; that the flesh after heating has a good texture which is firm, tender and moist, characteristic of properly fried fish sticks for the species used; and that after heating the coating has a good crisp, tender texture not more than slightly affected by blistering or wrinkling.

(c) (B) classification. Frozen fried fish sticks that possess a reasonably good character may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Reasonably good character" means that oil from the product does not materially damage the package; that there may be present not more than a reasonable amount of loose breading in the package; that the sticks may be separated with only moderate damage to the coating; that the sticks are not more than moderately damaged by the normal handling incident to heating and serving; that the breading is not more than moderately oily; that the flesh after heating has a reasonably good texture which is not more than moderately tough, stringy, crumbly, mushy or spongy; and that after heating the coating has a reasonably good texture which may be not more than moderately pasty, mushy, tough, or crumbly and is not materially affected by blistering or wrinkling.

(d) (SStd.) classification. Frozen fried fish sticks that fail to meet the requirements of paragraph (c) of this section may be given a score of 0 to 16 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B regardless of the total score for the product (this is a partial limiting rule).

DEFINITIONS AND METHODS OF ANALYSIS

§ 171.21 Definitions and methods of analysis—(a) Percent of fish flesh. "Percent of fish flesh" means the percent, by weight, of fish flesh in an individual package as determined by the following method:

(1) Equipment needed. (i) Water bath (2 to 3 liter beaker).

(ii) Balance, accurate to 0.05 gm.

(iii) Paper towels.

(iv) Spatula, small with curved tip.

(2) Procedure. (i) Remove from 0° F. storage and obtain the weight of each stick in the package while still in a hard frozen condition.

(ii) Place each stick individually in the water bath (maintained at 17° to 30° C.—63° to 86° F.) and allow to remain for 25 seconds. Remove from the bath; blot off lightly with double thickness paper toweling; scrape off coating with spatula; and weigh the fish flesh portion of the stick.

(iii) Calculate the percent of fish flesh in the package by the following formula:

$$\frac{\text{Total weight of fish flesh}}{\text{Total weight of frozen sticks}} \times 100 = \text{percent fish flesh.}$$

(c) Heating in a suitable manner. "Heating in a suitable manner" means heating in accordance with the recommendations accompanying the product. However, if specific instructions are lacking, the product should be heated as follows:

(1) Place the product while still in the frozen state on a flat or shallow pan of sufficient size that at least 10 ounces of the product can be spread evenly on the pan with no portion of a stick closer than ¼ inch to another or to the edge of the pan.

(2) Place the pan and frozen contents in a properly ventilated oven pre-heated to 400 degrees Fahrenheit and remove when the product is thoroughly heated.

LOT INSPECTION AND CERTIFICATION

§ 171.25 Tolerances for certification of officially drawn samples. The grade of a lot of the processed product covered by these standards is determined by the procedures set forth in the regulations governing inspection and certification of processed fishery products, processed products thereof, and certain other processed food products (§§ 170.1 to 170.103).

FACTORS OF QUALITY

§ 172.11 Ascertaining the grade—(a) General. In addition to considering other requirements outlined in the standards, the following quality factors are evaluated in ascertaining the grade of the product:

(b) Factor not rated by score points: acceptability of flavor and odor. A product with an acceptable flavor and odor is one that is free from any abnormal flavor and odor. The acceptability of flavor and odor is determined on the product after it has been cooked in a suitable manner.

(c) Factors rated by score points. The quality of the product with respect to factors scored is expressed numerically on the scale of 100. Weighted deductions from the maximum possible score of 100 are assessed for essential variations of quality within each factor. The score of frozen raw breaded shrimp is determined by observing the product in the frozen and thawed states.

§ 172.12 Factors evaluated on product in frozen breaded state. Factors affecting qualities which are measured on the product in the frozen state are: loose breading or frost; ease of separation; uniformity of size; condition of coating; and damaged or fragmented breaded shrimp. For the purpose of rating the factors which are scored in the frozen state, the schedule of point deductions in Table I applies. This schedule of point deductions is based on the examination of one complete individual package (sample unit) regardless of the net weight of the contents of the package.

DEFINITIONS AND METHODS OF ANALYSIS

§ 172.21 Definitions and methods of analysis—(a) Halo. "Halo" means an easily recognized fringe of excess batter and breading extending beyond the shrimp flesh and adhering around the perimeter or flat edges of a split (butterfly) breaded shrimp.

(b) Balling up. "Balling up" means the adherence of lumps in the breading material to the surface of the breaded coating, causing the coating to appear rough, uneven, and lumpy.

(c) Holidays. "Holidays" means voids in the breaded coating as evidenced by bare or naked spots.

(d) Damaged frozen raw breaded shrimp. "Damaged frozen raw breaded shrimp" means a frozen raw breaded shrimp which has been separated into two or more parts or that has been crushed or otherwise mutilated to the extent that its appearance is materially affected.

(e) Fragmented shrimp. "Fragmented shrimp" means a breaded unit containing less than one headed, peeled, deveined shrimp.

(f) Black spot. "Black spot" means any blackened area which is markedly apparent on the flesh of the shrimp.

(g) Sand vein. "Sand vein" means any black or dark sand vein that has not been removed, except for that portion under the shell segment adjacent to the tail fin when present.

(h) Loose breading and frost. "Loose breading and frost" is determined by use of a balance and by following the steps given below:

(1) Remove the overwrap.

(2) Weigh carton and all contents.

(3) Remove breaded shrimp, and weigh shrimp alone.

(4) Weigh carton less shrimp but including waxed separators (if used), crumbs and frost.

(5) Remove crumbs and frost from carton and separators.

(6) Weigh cleaned carton and separators.

(7) Calculate loose breading and frost:

$$\text{Percent loose breading and frost} = \frac{\text{weight carton less breaded shrimp material (4)} - \text{weight cleaned carton (6)}}{\text{weight of carton and all contents (4)} - \text{weight cleaned carton (6)}} \times 100$$

(i) Percent of shrimp material. "Percent of shrimp material" means the percent by weight of shrimp material in a sample as determined by the method described below or other methods giving equivalent result. Results are commonly expressed as percent of breading which is calculated by difference.

(1) Equipment needed. (i) Two-gallon container approximately nine inches in diameter;

(ii) Two vaned wooden paddle, each vane measuring approximately one and three fourths inches by three and three fourths inches;

(iii) Stirring device capable of rotating the wooden paddle at 120 rpm;

(iv) Balance accurate to 0.01 ounce (or 0.1 gram);

(v) U. S. standard sieve—ASTM—No. 20, twelve-inch diameter;

(vi) U. S. standard sieve—one-half inch sieve opening, twelve-inch diameter;

(vii) Forceps, blunt points;

(viii) Shallow baking pan.

(2) Procedure. (i) Weigh sample to be debreaded. Fill container three-fourths full of water at 70–80 degrees Fahrenheit. Suspend the paddle in the container leaving a clearance of at least five inches below the paddle vanes, and adjust speed to 120 rpm. Add shrimp and stir for ten minutes. Stack the sieves, the one-half inch mesh over the No. 20, and pour contents of container onto them. Set the sieves under a faucet, preferably with spray attached, and rinse shrimp with no rubbing of flesh, being careful to keep all rinsings over the sieves and not having the stream of water hit the shrimp on the sieve directly. Lay the shrimp out singly on the sieve as rinsed, remove top sieve and drain of a slope for two minutes, then remove shrimp to weighing pan. Rinse contents of the No. 20 sieve onto a flat pan and collect any particles other than breading (flesh, tail fin or extraneous material) and add to shrimp on balance pan and weigh.

(ii) Calculate percent shrimp material:

$$\text{Percent shrimp material} = \frac{\text{weight of debreaded sample}}{\text{weight of sample}} \times 100 + {}^{1}5$$

(iii) Calculate percent breading:

$$\text{Percent breading} = 100 - \text{percent shrimp material.}$$

(j) Cooked in a suitable manner. "Cooked in a suitable manner" means cooked in accordance with the instructions accompanying the product. However, if specific instructions are lacking, the product for inspection is cooked as follows:

(1) Place the sample to be cooked while still frozen in a wire mesh deep fry basket sufficiently large to hold the shrimp in a single layer without touching each other;

(2) Lower the basket into suitable liquid oil or hydpogenated vegetable oil at 350–375 degrees Fahrenheit. Fry for three minutes, or until the shrimp attain a pleasing golden brown color; and

(3) Remove basket from oil and allow to drain for fifteen seconds. Place the cooked shrimp on a paper napkin or towel to absorb excess oil.

LOT INSPECTION AND CERTIFICATION

§ 172.25 Ascertaining the grade of a lot. The grade of a lot of Frozen Raw Breaded Shrimp covered by these standards is determined by the procedures set forth in the regulations governing inspection and certification of processed fishery products, processed products thereof, and certain other processed food products.

[1] A tentative correction factor of five percent is employed pending completion of definitive studies.

AUTHORITY: §§ 173.1 to 173.31 issued under sec. 205, 60 Stat. 1090, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1624.

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION AND GRADES

§ 173.1 Product description. Frozen fish blocks are rectangular-shaped masses of cohering frozen fish flesh of a single species consisting of adequately drained whole, wholesome, skinless fillets or pieces of whole, wholesome, skinless fillets cut into small portions but not ground or comminuted. They are frozen, but not glazed, and maintained at temperatures necessary for the preservation of the product.

[1] Compliance with the provisions of these standards shall not excuse failure to comply with the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

§ 173.2 Grades of frozen fish blocks. (a) "U. S. Grade A" is the quality of frozen fish blocks that possess a good flavor and odor; and for those factors which are rated in acordance with the scoring system outlined in these standards have a total score of 85 to 100 points.

(b) "U. S. Grade B" is the quality of frozen fish blocks that possess at least a reasonably good flavor and odor; and for those factors which are rated in accordance with the scoring system outlined in these standards have a total score of 70 to 84 points: Provided, That no factor receives maximum point score deduction.

(c) "Substandard" is the quality of frozen fish blocks that fail to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade B.

WEIGHTS AND DIMENSIONS

§ 173.6 Recommended weights and dimensions. (a) The recommendations as to weights and dimensions of frozen fish blocks are not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since weights and dimensions, as such, are not factors of quality for the purpose of the grades. The degree of uniformity of size and shape among units of the finished product is rated since it is a definite factor affecting the quality of the end product prepared from the blocks.

(b) It is recommended that the thickness or depth (smallest dimension) of the frozen fish block be not greater than 10 centimeters (4.0 inches) and that the average weight be not less than 2.3 kilograms (5.0 pounds) and not greater than 22.7 kilograms (50.0 pounds).

FACTORS OF QUALITY

§ 173.11 Ascertaining the grade—(a) General. In addition to considering other requirements outlined in the standards, the following factors are evaluated in ascertaining the grade of the product:

(1) Factors not rated by score points. Flavor and odor.

(2) Factors rated by score points. The relative importance of each factor which is rated is expressed numerically on the scale of 100. The four factors and the maximum number of points that may be given each are as follows:

Factors:	Points
Appearance	25
Uniformity of size and shape	20
Defects	40
Character	15
Total score	100

(b) Condition of product for evaluation. The grade of frozen fish blocks is ascertained by observing the product in the frozen state and after representative portions have been heated in a suitable manner.

§ 173.12 Evaluation of the unscored factor of flavor and odor—(a) Good flavor and odor. "Good flavor and odor" (essential requirement for a Grade A product) means that the product has the good flavor and odor characteristic of the species of fish; and that the product is free from staleness, and from off-flavors and off-odors of any kind.

(b) Reasonably good flavor and odor. "Reasonably good flavor and odor" (minimum requirement of a Grade B product) means that the fish flesh may be somewhat lacking in the good flavor and odor characteristic of the species of fish; is reasonably free from rancidity; and is free from objectionable off-flavors and objectionable off-odors of any kind.

§ 173.13 Ascertaining the score for those factors which are rated. The essential variations within each factor which is rated are so described that the value may be ascertained for each factor and expressed numerically. Point deductions are allotted for each degree or amount of variation within each factor. The value for each factor is the maximum points allotted for the factor less the sum of the deviation deduction-points within the factor.

§ 173.14 Appearance—(a) General. The factor of appearance refers to the color of the fish flesh, and to the degree of surface dehydration of the product.

(b) For the purpose of rating the factor of appearance the schedule of deviation deduction-points in Tables I and II apply.

TABLE I—SCORE DEDUCTIONS FOR COLOR SUBFACTOR

Condition of the surface of the block		Deduction Points
"Light" portion of fish flesh [1]	No discoloration	0
"Dark" portion of fish flesh [2]	No discoloration
"Light" portion of fish flesh	No discoloration	3
"Dark" portion of fish flesh	Slight yellowing
"Light" portion of fish flesh	Slight yellowing	4
"Dark" portion of fish flesh	Moderate yellowing; no rusting
"Light" portion of fish flesh	Moderate yellowing; slight rusting	7
"Dark" portion of fish flesh	Excessive yellowing; slight rusting
"Light" portion of fish flesh	Excessive yellowing; moderate rusting	14
"Dark" portion of fish flesh	Excessive yellowing; moderate rusting
"Light" portion of fish flesh	Excessive yellowing and rusting	[3] 25
"Dark" portion of fish flesh	Excessive yellowing and rusting

[1] "Light" portion refers to fish fillet flesh comprising the main portion of the fillet.
[2] "Dark" portion refers to the dark-colored portion of the fillet appearing under the skin, the main part of which occurs along the lateral line.
[3] Fish blocks which receive 25 deduction points for this subfactor shall not be graded above Substandard regardless of the total score for the product. This is a limiting rule.

NOTE: Color of the block should be normal to that of the species of fish used. Deviations from the normal color result from oxidation or other changes that have taken place in the fish prior to freezing and after freezing and storage. Ordinarily, the type of discoloration observed is due to oxidation and results in yellowing and "rusting" of the fish surfaces.

TABLE II—SCORE DEDUCTIONS FOR "DEHYDRATION" SUBFACTOR

Condition of surface of block		Deduction points
Surface area affected	Degree of dehydration
Percent
Up to 50	Slight	0
Greater than 50 and up to 100	Slight	1
Greater than 0 and up to 25	Moderate	3
Greater than 25 and up to 50	Moderate	4
Greater than 0 and up to 25	Marked
Greater than 50	Moderate
Greater than 25 and up to 50	Marked	7
Greater than 0 and up to 25	Excessive
Greater than 50	Marked	10
Greater than 25 and up to 50	Excessive
Greater than 50	Excessive	[1] 25

[1] Fish blocks which receive 25 deduction points for this subfactor shall not be graded above Substandard regardless of the total score for the product. This is a limiting rule.

NOTE: Dehydration is classified in four degrees:
(a) Slight. Shallow and not color masking;
(b) Moderate. Deep but just deep enough to mask color of fish flesh;
(c) Marked. Deep and easily scraped off with finger nail, and masks color of flesh; and
(d) Excessive. Deep dehydration not easily scraped off.

§ 173.15 Uniformity of size and shape—(a) General. The factor of uniformity of size and shape refers to the degree of conformity to declared dimensions and to rectangular shape.

(1) "Angles" of a block. There are 12 angles considered to form a block. Right angles are formed by the intersection of the four sides with the top and bottom (the two largest surfaces); and four angles are formed by the intersection of the four sides with one another. In a perfect block the surfaces form into a right angle (90 degrees).

(b) For the purpose of rating the factor of uniformity of size and shape, the schedule of deviation deduction-points in Tables III and IV apply.

TABLE III—SCORE DEDUCTIONS FOR DIMENSIONS SUBFACTOR

Greater than 12 and up to 16	Greater than 8 and up to 11	13	12
Greater than 12 and up to 16	Greater than 11 and up to 14	16	14
Greater than 16	Greater than 14		[2] 20

[1] These values refer to deviations of any one of the four readings taken for the thickness of the individual block from the declared thickness of the block.
[2] Fish blocks which receive 20 deduction points for this subfactor shall not be graded above Substandard regardless of the total score for the product. This is a limiting rule.

NOTE: Measurements are made in millimeters. Two readings are taken for the length; three for the width; and four for the thickness. Each group is averaged.

TABLE IV—SCORE DEDUCTIONS FOR "ANGLES" SUBFACTOR

Number of "unacceptable" angles	Deduction points
8	10

NOTE: There are 12 angles considered to form a block. Right angles (edge) are formed by the intersection of the four sides within the top and bottom; four angles (corner) are formed by the intersection of the four sides with one another.

An "acceptable" edge angle is one in which the two surfaces forming the angles are within 1.0 cm. (3/4 inch) of the apex of a carpenter's square placed along the surfaces (use 3 readings for each edge angle measurement, 1 or 3 must meet the requirement). An "unacceptable" edge angle is one showing greater deviation than the 1.0 cm. (3/4 inch).

An "acceptable" corner angle is one in which at least one edge surface is within 1.3 cm. (1/2 inch) of the apex of a carpenter's square placed on the edge surfaces (use 1 reading for each corner angle). An "unacceptable" corner angle is one showing greater deviation than the 1.3 cm. (1/2 inch).

§ 173.16 Defects—(a) General. The factor of defects refers to the degree of freedom from damage, blemishes, improper fill, and bones.

(1) "Damaged." Damaged means crushed or mutilated block, and imbedding of the packaging material into the block, to the extent that the usability of that portion of the block has been adversely affected; and cut or separation of the masses of fish flesh in the block.

(2) "Blemish." Blemish means a piece of skin, scales, blood spot, a bruise, a black belly lining, a fin, or harmless extraneous material. One "piece of skin" consists of one piece 3.3 square centimeters (1/2 square inch) in area; except that skin patches larger than 9.9 square centimeters shall be considered as two pieces of skin. "Blood spot" is one of such size and degree as to be considered objectionable. "Black belly lining" is any piece longer than 1.3 centimeters (1/2-inch). "Fin" is one fin or one identifiable part of a fin. "Scales" are aggregates of one or more scales of such degree as to be considered objectionable.

(3) "Improper fill." Improper fill means the frozen block does not form a completely solid mass as evidenced by presence of air spaces, ice, depressions, and ragged edges (pieces of fish protrude or recede at the edges of the block).

(4) "Bones." Bones means any bones that can be separated from the product, can be identified, and are objectionable. One instance of bone means one bone or one group of bones occupying or contacting a circular area of 6.45 square centimeters (one square inch).

(b) For the purpose of rating the factor of defects, the schedule of deviation-deduction-points in Tables V, VI, VII, and VIII apply.

TABLE V—SCORE DEDUCTIONS FOR "DAMAGE" SUBFACTOR

Amount of damage to block	Deduction points
0 to 0.30 percent	0
For each 0.20 percent above 0.30 percent and up to 8.10 percent	1
8.11 percent and over	40

NOTE: Damage is measured by volume of the block affected. The area of damage is measured in cubic centimeters using a millimeter rule to determine the exact length, width, and thickness of the block affected.

Calculate damage in "percent" using the following formula:

$$\text{Total damage in "percent" (volume/weight)} = \frac{\text{(Total damage)}}{\text{(Weight of block)}} \times 100$$

TABLE VII—SCORE DEDUCTIONS FOR "IMPROPER FILL" SUBFACTOR

Amount of "improper fill" in block [1]	Deduction points
0 to 0.30 percent	0
For each 0.20 percent above 0.30 percent and up to 8.10 percent	1
8.11 percent and over [2]	40

[1] Air spaces, ice spaces, depressions, and ragged edges.

NOTE: Improper fill is measured by the volume of the block affected. Air spaces and ice spaces are measured by filling these spaces with water or other material and measuring the volume. Spaces less than 3 ml. in volume or less than 2 mm. deep are not considered. Depressions and ragged edges are measured by exact volume of the block affected using a mm. rule to determine the length, width, and thickness of the block affected. Calculate the total "improper fill" in "percent" from the following formula:

$$\text{Total "improper fill" in "percent" (volume/weight)} = \frac{\text{(Total volume of "improper fill")}}{\text{(Weight of block)}} \times 100.$$

§ 173.17 Character—(a) General. The factor of character refers to the tenderness and to the moistness of the properly heated fish flesh, and to the tendency of the pieces of fish or fillets in the block to remain as a unit when the block or portions of the block are heated.

(b) For the purpose of rating the factor of character, the schedule of deviation deduction-points in Tables IX and X apply.

Objectionably tough, rubbery, dry or mushy	[1] 15

TABLE X—SCORE DEDUCTIONS FOR COHESION SUBFACTOR

	Points
The pieces comprising the cooked sample cohere very tightly. They can be separated only by significant tearing of the flesh	0
The pieces comprising the cooked sample cohere fairly tightly and they can be separated only by moderate tearing of the flesh	1

The pieces comprising the cooked sample show no tendency to cohere. They can be separated very easily	6

DEFINITIONS AND METHODS OF ANALYSIS

§ 173.21 Definitions and methods of analysis—(a) "Heating in a suitable manner." Heating in a suitable manner means heating the product as follows:

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 721; 15 U. S. C. 46. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719, as amended; 15 U. S. C. 45) [Cease and desist order, Advance Spectacle Company, Inc., et al., Chicago, Ill., Docket 6285, June 3, 1958]

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission charging a Chicago firm with representing falsely in advertising that eyeglasses made according to prescriptions furnished by customers using its "14 Lens Sample Card" and other devices would correct defects in vision of all persons.

A cease and desist order was issued May 22, 1955, 20 F. R. 4943, but was subsequently vacated and set aside on respondents' assertion of a misunderstanding on their part as to its scope. On rehearing, the matter was disposed of without formal proceedings. The hearing examiner made his initial decision containing an order agreed to by the parties, which was adopted as the decision of the Commission on June 3, 1958. The present consent order clarifies that originally issued by insertion of the words "or reducing" before the final word ("lenses") of the original order.

Said order to cease and desist is now as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent Advance Spectacle Company, Inc., a corporation, and its officers, and respondent Michael M. Egel, individually and as an officer of said corporation, and respondents' agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in conection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of eyeglasses, do forthwith cease and desist from:

1. Disseminating, or causing to be disseminated, any advertisement by means of the United States mails, or by any means in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, which advertisement represents, directly or by implication, that the eyeglasses sold by respondents, made pursuant to the results of tests of the eyes using respondents' devices, will correct, or are capable of correcting, defects in vision of persons unless expressly limited to those persons approximately forty years of age and older who do not have astigmatism or diseases of the eye and who require only simple magnifying or reducing lenses.

2. Disseminating, or causing to be disseminated, any advertisement by any means, for the purpose of inducing, or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly, the purchase of their eyeglasses in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, which advertisement contains the representation prohibited in paragraph 1 hereof.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondents herein shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: June 3, 1958.

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission charging three affiliated New York City and Philadelphia concerns with violating the Wool Products Labeling Act by falsely tagging as "100% cashmere" and labeling also with a facsimile of the British flag and the significant English historical name "Drake", sweaters which were knitted in Philadelphia, Pa., of yarn imported from Japan, and with failing in other respects to comply with the labeling requirements of the act; and with representing falsely, by use of respondent partnership's trade name "Drake Knitting Mills" and the phrase "manufacturers of sweaters and knitted sportswear" on invoices, that the partnership was the manufacturer of sweaters imported from England by corporate respondent and for which it was merely the selling agent.

Following acceptance of an agreement containing consent order, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist which became on June 6 the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

In the Matter of Federal Credit Bureau of the United States, Inc., a Corporation, and Cornelius J. Kelleher, Leonard W. Zinck, Alyce Kelleher and Harriet Zinck, Individually and as Officers of Said Corporation

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission charging operators of a collection agency which maintained a single office in Chicago, with representing falsely on printed forms, in sales manuals furnished their agents, and by oral statements, that they had a nationwide departmentalized organization with local bonded collectors and attorneys in various States who would personally contact each debtor; that they would make prompt periodic reports on all accounts assigned for collection; that they maintained a credit reporting system available without cost to clients; that they would charge a maximum of 33⅓ percent of accounts they collected; that clients would receive their share of collections every 90 days or less; and, through use of their corporate name, that they were connected with the United States Government; and with using misleading form letters to obtain by subterfuge information concerning alleged debtors.

Following acceptance of an agreement for a consent order, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist in which he departed from the order agreed upon by rewording the paragraph numbered "2". The Commission, being of the opinion that the hearing examiner has no authority to change the language of an order contained in an agreement of the parties, even for the purpose of clarification, modified paragraph "2", and on May 24 adopted the initial decision as so modified as the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist, as modified, is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent Federal Credit Bureau of the United States, Inc., a corporation, and its officers, and respondents Cornelius J. Kelleher, Leonard W. Zinck, Alyce Kelleher and Harriet Zinck, individually and as officers of said corporation, and respondents' representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the business of collecting accounts owed to others or in obtaining information concerning delinquent debtors, in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist:

1. Representing, directly or indirectly, that:

(a) Respondents operate a nationwide organization or employ bonded collectors, investigators or attorneys in the various States of the United States, unless such is a fact.

(b) Debtors, whose accounts are assigned or turned over to respondents for collection, will be personally contacted.

(c) Status reports or accounts will be made at specific periods of time, unless such is the fact.

(d) Respondents are a credit reporting organization, either local or national.

(e) A maximum of 33⅓ percent, or any other percentage less than that actually charged, will be retained by respondents from accounts collected.

(f) Respondents will remit to clients their share of all accounts respondents collect within any specific time, unless such is the fact.

(g) That respondents' business is departmentalized.

2. Failing to remit money due clients within the time agreed upon, if no time has been agreed upon, within a reasonable time.

3. Using the corporate name Federal Credit Bureau of the United States, Inc., or any other corporate or trade name indicating that respondents, or any of them, are connected with or are an agency of the United States Government or representing, in any manner, that they are connected with or are an agency of the United States Government.

4. Using, or causing to be used in their behalf, in connection with the collection of accounts or in obtaining information concerning delinquent debtors, any forms, letters, questionnaires, or material printed or written, which do not expressly state that the information requested is for the purpose of collecting accounts and obtaining information concerning delinquent debtors.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is further ordered, That the respondents, Federal Credit Bureau of the United States, Inc., a corporation, and Cornelius J. Kelleher, Leonard W. Zinck, Alyce Kelleher and Harriet Zinck, individually and as officers of said corporation, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this decision, file with the Commission a report, in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order contained in the aforesaid initial decision as modified.

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission charging an individual in New York City with violating the Wool Products Labeling Act by tagging as "wool" interlining materials which contained substantial amounts of nonwoolen fibers, and failing to label such products as required by the act.

Upon respondent's default of answer and of other appearance prior to or at the scheduled hearing, the allegations were found by the hearing examiner to be sustained by the evidence. He accordingly made his initial decision, including findings, conclusions, and order to cease

Said order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent Martin Berdy, his agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the introduction into commerce, or the offering for sale, sale, transportation or distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Wool Products Labeling Act of woven interlining materials or other "wool products" as such products are defined and subject to the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, which products contain, purport to contain or are in any way represented as containing "wool," "reprocessed wool," or "reused wool," as those terms are defined in said act, do forthwith cease and desist from misbranding such products by:

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 721; 15 U. S. C. 46. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719, as amended; 15 U. S. C. 45) [Cease and desist order, North American Nut Co., Inc., et al., New York, N. Y., Docket 7050, May 31, 1958]

In the Matter of North American Nut Co., Inc., a Corporation, Nut-o-Matic Co., Inc., a Corporation, Martin Richmond, and George Weinstein, Individually and as Officers of Said Corporations

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission charging distributors in New York City of vending machines and vending machine supplies, with representing falsely in advertising in newspapers, periodicals, letters, etc., and through promotional material furnished their salesmen and agents, that they offered employment to selected persons who would operate their vending machines and must have working capital for the purchase of merchandise to be dispensed therefrom, that such investment was secured and without risk and would earn excessive profits, that they would provide supervisory and financial assistance, and that they were representatives of a large New York company.

Following acceptance of an agreement containing consent order, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist which became on May 31 the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents, North American Nut Co., Inc., a corporation, and Nut-O-Matic Co., Inc., a corporation, and their officers, and Martin Richmond and George Weinstein, individually and as officers of each of the aforesaid corporations, and their agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of vending machines, vending machine supplies or similar kinds of merchandise, in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from representing, directly or indirectly, that:

1. Employment is offered either generally or to specially selected persons either by respondents or by any other person, firm or corporation;

2. Persons will be selected to operate and service vending machines owned by respondents;

3. Persons must own an automobile or furnish references in order to purchase respondents' vending machines;

4. The cash investment required to purchase respondents' said vending machines is to provide working capital for the purchase of an inventory of merchandise to be dispensed in said vending machines;

5. The cash investment required to purchase respondents' vending machines is secured by an inventory of merchandise worth the amount invested or there is no risk of losing said investment;

6. Persons purchasing respondents' said vending machines will not be required to engage in selling or soliciting;

7. The earnings or profits derived from the operation of respondents' said vending machines will be of any greater amount than that usually and customarily earned by operators of respondents' said vending machines;

8. Profitable or satisfactory vending machine locations will be secured, the said vending machines will be installed in profitable or satisfactory locations or the vending machine routes of purchasers will be otherwise established or supervised to assure their profitable or satisfactory operation;

9. The sale of merchandise by respondents' vending machines is a permanent business or is unaffected by economic depression;

10. Respondents are the agents or representatives of or affiliated with the A. L. Bazzini Co., Inc., New York, New York, or any other person, firm or corporation when such is not the fact.

By "Decision of the Commission," etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents herein shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: May 29, 1958.

TITLE 38—PENSIONS, BONUSES, AND VETERANS' RELIEF

Chapter I—Veterans Administration

PART 21—VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION AND EDUCATION

SUBPART B—VETERANS' READJUSTMENT ASSISTANCE ACT OF 1952

CONDITIONS GOVERNING PAYMENT OF EDUCATION AND TRAINING ALLOWANCE

In § 21.2051, paragraphs (b) (1) and (c) are amended to read as follows:

§ 21.2051 Conditions governing payment of education and training allowance. * * *

(b) * * *

(1) Where a veteran completes his final examinations and departs from the school prior to the official closing date of the school term, he may be permitted to complete his monthly certification of training on the last day of scheduled attendance in that term certifying as to attendance through the end of such term and to submit the form to the school prior to departure. In such a case the certification to cover attendance in a nonaccredited course will show the succeeding days in that term as days of nonattendance and the certification covering an accredited course will be deemed to show the veteran to have been enrolled in and pursuing his course to the end of the term.

(c) Upon receipt by the Veterans Administration of an enrollment certification from the institution showing that the veteran has entered or reentered training, the veteran will be notified of the official Veterans Administration authorization of his training status. Educational institutions organized on a term, quarter, or semester basis may certify a veteran's enrollment period as being for a term, quarter, semester, or the regular ordinary school year, as the case may be. Such period of enrollment may not include a summer session as part of the enrollment for the regular school year. In all other types of training the enrollment certification will be for the length of the course. Since payments may be made by the Veterans Administration only to veterans pursuing a course during a term of enrollment in accordance with the regularly established policies and regulations of the institution, enrollment for the regular ordinary school year is encouraged and will reduce administrative effort for the school, the veteran, and the Veterans Administration. Where the educational institution is organized on a term, quarter, or semester basis and the educational institution certifies the veteran's enrollment on the enrollment certification to be for an ordinary school year, the veteran and the institution may certify that the veteran was enrolled in and pursuing his course during the regular school vacation periods and recess periods between terms, quarters, or semesters (excluding summer sessions), and the education and training allowance will be paid for such periods unless the veteran fails to return to school at the end of such period, in which event the provisions of § 21.2056 (b) (10) will apply. Where the veteran's enrollment in such an institution is certified by the institution to be only for the term, quarter, or semester, the veteran and the institution shall not certify on the monthly certification of training that the veteran was enrolled in and pursuing his course during periods between terms, quarters, or semesters, and no education and training allowance will be paid for such interim periods.

3. No application for the lands may be allowed under the homestead, desert-land, small tract, or any other nonmineral public land law unless the lands have already been classified as valuable or suitable for such type of application, or shall be so classified upon the consideration of an application. Any application that is filed will be considered on its merits. The lands will not be subject to occupancy or disposition until they have been classified.

4. Subject to any valid existing rights and the requirements of applicable law, the lands are hereby opened to filing of applications, selections, and locations in accordance with the following:

a. Applications and selections under the nonmineral public-land laws may be presented to the Manager mentioned below, beginning on the date of this order. Such applications and selections will be considered as filed on the hour and respective dates shown for the various classes enumerated in the following paragraphs:

All applications presented by persons other than those referred to in this paragraph will be subject to the applications and claims mentioned in this paragraph.

(2) All valid applications under the Homestead, Desert Land, and Small Tract Laws by qualified veterans of World War II or of the Korean Conflict, and by others entitled to preference rights under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279-284 as amended), presented prior to 10:00 a. m., on August 2, 1958, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such preference right applications filed after that hour will be governed by the time of filing,

(3) All valid applications and selections under the non-mineral public land laws, other than those coming under paragraphs (1) and (2) above, presented prior to 10:00 a. m., on November 1, 1958, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such applications and selections filed after that hour will be governed by the time of filing.

5. The lands have been open to applications and offers under the mineral-leasing laws, and to location for metalliferous minerals. They will be open to location for non-metalliferous minerals under the United States mining laws beginning at 10:00 a. m., on November 1, 1958.

6. Persons claiming veterans preference rights must enclose with their applications proper evidence of military or naval service, preferably a complete photostatic copy of the certificate of honorable discharge. Persons claiming preference rights based upon valid settlement, statutory preference, or equitable claims must enclose properly corroborated statements in support of their claims. Detailed rules and regulations governing applications which may be filed pursuant to this notice can be found in Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

Inquiries concerning the lands shall be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Cheyenne, Wyoming.

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 12295; FCC 58-620]

PART 10—PUBLIC SAFETY RADIO SERVICES

PART 11—INDUSTRIAL RADIO SERVICES

PART 16—LAND TRANSPORTATION RADIO SERVICES

CHANGE IN EFFECTIVE DATE OF CERTAIN TECHNICAL STANDARDS

In the matter of amendment of Parts 10, 11, and 16 of the Commission's rules to change the effective date of narrow-band technical standards in the 25-50 and 152-162 Mc bands; Docket No. 12295.

1. Introduction. The Commission adopted, on January 22, 1958, a Notice of Proposed Rule Making in the above-entitled proceeding. This Notice of Proposed Rule Making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of January 29, 1958 (23 F. R. 598), and ample opportunity was afforded interested persons to submit comments in support of or in opposition to the rule amendments proposed. The time for filing of both original and reply comments in regard to the proposed rule changes has now expired.

A substantial number of comments were filed in this proceeding by organizations representing large numbers of users, by individual users, and by other interested parties. Although all comments are not individually discussed herein, every properly filed comment has been considered and the merits thereof given appropriate weight by the Commission in reaching its determinations.

The Commission's primary purpose in initiating this proceeding was to provide maximum opportunity for early utilization of newly assignable frequencies made available as a result of the Commission's decision in Docket Numbers 12169 and 11253 reducing the frequency separation between assignable frequencies in the 25-50 Mc and 152-162 Mc bands.

In order to effectuate the above-stated purpose, the Commission proposed:

(a) To make all "split-channels" in those portions of the 25-50 Mc and 152-162 Mc bands allocated to Public Safety, Industrial, and Land Transportation Radio Services, created by reduction of the frequency separation between assignable frequencies, available for immediate assignment.

(b) To provide that all new radio communications systems licensed in the Public Safety, Industrial, and Land Transportation Radio Services subsequent to the effective date of the proposed rules would be allowed to use only that equipment which meets the technical specifications prescribed in Docket Number 11253.[1]

(c) In those instances where the Commission's rules governing the particular service involved require coordination, to require that assignment of frequencies in the 25-50 Mc and 152-162 Mc bands including "split channels", be made only where coordination has been effected with respect to all stations in the same or other services located in the same area and authorized to operate within 30 kc of the requested frequency or frequencies.

(d) To permit continued use of equipment not meeting the "narrow-band" standards without cut-off date provided:

(1) The equipment shall have been placed in use prior to the effective date of this proposed action, or shall have been added to an existing radio communications system which was authorized prior to the effective date of this proposed action; and

(2) Whenever interference is caused to stations complying with the narrow-band technical standards by the operation of stations using equipment not meeting those standards, the deviation of such non-complying transmitting equipment shall be reduced to the point that the bandwidth occupied by the emission of the station plus an allowance for the frequency tolerance of the equipment does not exceed the bandwidth specified in the narrow-band technical standards. Licensees of both narrow-band equipment and wide-band equipment modified as above shall thereafter accept any residual interference encountered.

2. Comments filed. The great majority of those comments which opposed adoption of the proposed amendments were filed by police radio service users or by associations of such users.[2]

The Commonwealth of Virginia, Department of State Police, in opposing the proposed amendments stated:

> The Virginia Department of State Police feels that the proposals of this docket would impose undue hardships on many tax supported police agencies.
> Many of the large area agencies will redesign their systems in order to compensate for the coverage lost by changing from 40 kc to 20 kc channels. These same agencies will find it necessary to replace equipment which is not practical to convert to narrow band. Practically all agencies will have to replace crystals.
> Since all are tax supported agencies, the necessary funds must be appropriated by the governing body. For state agencies this means that the money must come from the legislature which, in many cases, meets every two years. Docket 12295 was not announced in time for these agencies to include the necessary funds in their budget which was presented to the 1958 legislature.
> For the above reason, many departments cannot ask for necessary funds until their legislature meets in 1960. It is well known that after funds are available, it will take considerable time to effect all the changes necessary.

The Virginia Department of State Police, therefore, feels that the Commission's approach is unrealistic; that all present users should be protected until November 1, 1963, and that the proposed amendments, as set forth in this docket, should not be adopted.

Further arguments in opposition to the Commission's proposals are typified by the comments of the Indiana State Police, which read, in part, as follows:

> In our state, as in many others, the Police Services provide the only full-time, full-emergency communication service. The Indiana Police Net is comprised of each and every police radio station in the state. This highly integrated network performs extremely valuable service to law enforcement activities every day. During times of emergency, whether due to natural disaster or a national emergency, this network would be of even greater importance to the citizens of the State of Indiana.
> Any action which would affect efficient operation of the system definitely would not be in the public interest.
> In as far as the Police Services in Indiana are concerned, any new police system using narrow-band equipment could not participate in the state-wide network, due to incompatible equipment standards. The changeover to narrow-band operation must be on a state-wide basis with an overall plan coordinating the change among all police agencies. It is for this reason, we believe that any new police licensee planning to operate in an existing network should not be designated as a new system under the proposed rules.

In addition, the comment of the Oregon State Highway Department represents another argument in opposition to the Commission's proposal. This comment states, in part:

> We have conducted tests to determine relative system efficiency under "wide band" and "narrow band" modes of operation. These tests, and reports of similar tests by others, have proven to us that a definite degradation of service will result from "narrow band" operation. Our coverage to mobile units will be decreased by as much as 15 percent in many critical areas, requiring establishment of many new remote station sites and mobile repeaters if coverage is to be restored to that now enjoyed. Those costs must also be considered.
> Tentative allocations made for the new Business Radio Service under Docket No. 12169 places a channel for this service on the frequency 42.96 Mc, the adjacent split channel to the frequency 42.94 Mc, which is currently used under the A. P. C. O. geographical assignment plan by Utah, Oregon and Nevada State Police or organizations. There is no doubt that intolerable interference would be caused to these State agencies immediately upon release of this frequency to licensees qualifying in the Business Radio Service. Paragraph 5 (b) of Docket 12295, if adopted, would require the State agencies to immediately protect small business users, with no protection to the States from interference detrimental to their operation in the public interest and necessity.

Comments supporting adoption of the proposed amendments were filed by a substantial number of parties[2] and, in contrast to those opposing the proposed amendments, come from a wide variety of users. Many of the comments echo the arguments of the Communications and Radio Committee of the American Municipal Association which reads, in part, as follows:

> • • • The Committee feels that postponing the effective date until 1963 will preclude the utilization of any "split" channels until that date. The radio spectrum as assigned to the Public Safety, Industrial, and Land Transportation Radio Services is much too valuable a natural resource to have outmoded restrictions due only to a desire to retain obsolete equipment for more than a five year period. This is forcing proposed users to either come under other portions of the rules and regulations which are not acceptable or logical services but also, would inhibit the use of the radio spectrum by local governments in the necessary operation of their day to day functions. Equipment presently in use and equipment purchased since 1955 permits conversion to narrow band transmission. The only possible interference to this type of newer equipment would be from wide band receivers which undoubtedly have been amortized over the years and therefore should be replaced.
> In some areas even adjacent channels on 60 kilocycle spacing are being assigned geographically due to the utilization by licensees of outmoded 120 kilocycle equipment. This is equipment which is within the limits of deviation permitted by the Commission for transmitting but does not have the necessary selectivity in receiving that is required of the present 60 kilocycle stations. As a result the various services are suffering from an overcrowding in some channels and a lack of complete utilization in other channels.

In addition a number of individual letters in support of the foregoing comments were received after the time allowed for the submission of comments in this proceeding.

In addition to the foregoing, the Caterpillar Tractor Company requested clarification of terms and conditions in the proposed rules with respect to interference between stations; the Wisconsin Chapter of the Associated/Police Communications Officers filed a Resolution offering to extend the services of its Frequency Advisory Committees to all existing and prospective Wisconsin licensees of radio communications systems in the Public Safety Radio Services; and the Electronic Industries Association filed comments and certain technical data which had been requested by the Notice in this proceeding.

• • • Present 60 kilocycle equipment normally can be modified without any serious problems. The old 120 kilocycle equipment should have been written off years previously as inefficient and out of date. We feel that radios are similar to automobiles and that they should be replaced on the basis of a "wearout" of not more than 8 years duration. Radio users should plan for this. On a performance type budgeting or capital equipment type budget funds should be available for such replacement of equipment within a normal wearout period.

The comment of the City of San Diego in supporting the proposals stated:

This is an appropriate time for most users to change their mobile radio equipment to meet the new narrow-channel standards inasmuch a we are going through a transition period of replacing automotive vehicles having 6 volt electrical systems with 12 volt systems. Since the old radios in many cases can only be modified to the 12 volt at considerable expense, this would seem to be a proper time to purchase new equipment.

The comments of the County of San Diego in support of the Commission's proposal contained the following contention:

It would appear that the request for comments by present users would not necessarily be the criterion upon which a decision of this nature should be made. We believe if a poll were taken of the non-users who cannot now use radio for communications because of the lack of frequency assignments, they would vote unanimously in favor of immediate action. It does not appear that we, who are now users and have enjoyed the privilege of radio communications for many years, should, by our selfish interest, deny an equal privilege to those who have the need equal to the present users, by requesting your Commission to delay the requirement of meeting the new narrow-band standards.

A large number of the comments received in this proceeding emphasize the difficulty which the frequency advisory committees and the Commission may expect if the users of "wide-band" equipment are permitted to continue the transmission of "wide-band" signals until cases of interference to adjacent "narrow-band" installations are identified, investigated and adjudicated, and recommend the establishment of a specific date beyond which all "wide-band" transmitters will be limited to a narrow-band modulation deviation. The suggested limits of such modulation deviation vary from ±5 kc to ±10 kc, and the suggested time to be allowed for that action varies from six months after Commission action in this matter to the previous cut-off date of November 1, 1963. The arguments of the National Committee for Utilities Radio are typical and read, in part, as follows:

• • • if the only time a broad-band user is required to reduce the modulation deviation of his transmitting equipment is in the event he interferes with a narrow-band adjacent channel user, NCUR believes that the result will be confusion, intolerable interference in many cases and serious hindrance in the utilization of the new "split channel" frequencies. Additionally, the lack of a uniform modulation limit during the transition period will make the work of the Frequency Advisory Committees exceedingly difficult.

The comment of the Special Industrial Radio Service Association states in part:

The three problems which cause us concern under this proposal are: (1) It would appear that if an existing user employing equipment not meeting the new narrow-band technical standards were to move to a split channel adjacent to another user employing non-complying equipment, neither would be required to protect the other since neither would be complying with the narrow-band technical standards and the proposal only envisions the necessity for reducing deviation where "interference is caused to stations complying with the narrow-band technical standards." (2) It is not clear from the Commission's proposal whether the word "interference" in paragraph 5 (b) will be interpreted to apply only to local interference, or is broad enough to require a reduction in deviation by one operating broadband equipment who is giving interference to a user employing narrow-band equipment on an adjacent split-channel as a result of so-called "skip" or sky-wave propagation. (3) It would appear that the absence of any cut-off date whatsoever would not be conducive to the standardizing of equipment in prompt order, and could lead to interminable delay in such standardization despite the Commission's urging in paragraph 7 of its Notice to the effect that "all licensees (should) modify or replace all wide-band equipment as rapidly as possible to conform with narrow-band technical standards."

Other questions raised by comments received in this proceeding and on which definitive action was recommended by one or more interested parties, include the following:

(a) Whether present users of "wide-band" equipment would be permitted to move to and use that equipment on the new "split channel", and if so under what circumstances.

(b) Whether the user of "wide-band" equipment on a given frequency would be required to reduce the modulation deviation of his transmitting equipment if interference developed to the user of "narrow-band" equipment on the same frequency.

(c) Whether the term "interference" is to be interpreted to include so-called "nuisance interference" or "monkey chatter" which is only heard when the desired signals are off the air, and thus do not actually interfere with desired communications.

The Electronic Industries Association (EIA) submitted a summary of technical data resulting from a joint industry-wide study of the areas of interference involved when older type wide-band equipment and newer narrow-band equipment are operated on adjacent narrow-band frequencies, as requested in paragraph 6 of the Notice of Proposed Rule Making, and in addition submitted, in part, the following comments:

It is an ideal objective to implement a program so that existing users do not have to convert systems unnecesarily or make unscheduled modifications. However, the Associations' study discloses that for technical reasons it is impractical to encourage co-channel or adjacent channel operation of intermixed systems of 5 and 15 kc deviation.

It is the industry's experience that in cases where 5 kc systems have been installed, useable communications could not be attained due to destructive interference from co-channel 15 kc users. Many such 5 kc systems were replaced with 15 kc equipment because of this interference.

In addition to the co-channel problem, the potential interference that an existing 15 kc system will cause to an adjacent split channel 5 kc receiver must be considered. To this end a system study shows that part of the spectrum of an existing 15 kc transmitter meeting all of the Commission's technical standards, falls within the narrow selectivity of a new split-channel 5 kc receiver, 20 kc removed from the 15 kc station. Sufficient geographic spacing will minimize interference on a local area basis. However, the probability of skip interference aggravates the problem.

From an operational standpoint, as reported by JTAC, and subsequent studies, it is apparent that the coverage of existing wide-band 15 kc systems is not materially affected if all transmitters are reduced to a maximum 5 kc deviation. Although the signal-to-noise ratio remains almost the same, the audio level is reduced about 16 db.[4] Therefore, it would be in the user's interest to reduce the deviation of all units in his system over as short a period of time as possible. This reduction can be accomplished during routine servicing with little or no cost to the user.

3. Findings. The comments reveal that the only outright opposition to the major premise[5] underlying this proceeding came from the Police and Taxicab Radio Service users. The bulk of such outright opposition was interposed by Police Radio Service users. The primary argument of these parties is that adoption of rules necessary to effectuate this premise would require "many of the large area agencies" to "redesign their systems in order to compensate for the coverage lost by changing" to the narrower channels and that the necessary public funds cannot be procured immediately. These parties further contend that assignment of the "split channels" prior to the date when all equipment would, by rule, be required to comply with "narrow-band" standards would, nevertheless, as a practical matter, require individual licensees to comply with such standards at the time that "split channels" adjacent to the frequency being used are assigned to stations operating in the same area.

The Commission recognizes that tax supported users require substantial time in which to procure the funds that would be required to bring all their equipment into conformity with the "narrow-band" standards promulgated by the decision rendered in Docket Number 11253. However, the Commission believes that this problem can be substantially alleviated by allowing users to continue utilization of present equipment for a specific time, subject to the condition that the modulation frequency[6] deviation of such equipment is reduced to the point where it does not exceed the deviation specified

[4] The JTAC report to which reference was made by the EIA, includes the following notations: "The audio volume drops off approximately 10 db, but in the average case, the intelligibility of the desired signal is not degraded. Most receivers have sufficient reserve audio gain to take up this difference."

[5] That the Commission's rules should provide for immediate assignment of "split channels" in the 25–50 Mc and 152–162 Mc bands without protecting present users of the so-called "primary" channels from interference which may be caused by stations operating on such split channels.

[6] Hereinafter referred to as "deviation" or "frequency deviation."

in the narrow-band standards, as is provided above. The Commission believes that the benefits derived from making the "split channels" in the 25–50 Mc and 152–162 Mc band immediately available outweigh any disadvantages which presently licensed users of so-called "primary" frequencies may experience. However, in order to further alleviate any burden which may result to existing licensees in the Public Safety Radio Service, "split-channels" allocated to these services will be assigned prior to November 1, 1963, only where it is established either that harmful interference will not be caused to the operation of existing stations or that licensees of all stations in the same area and operating within 30 kc of the requested frequency have concurred with the requested assignment.

Accordingly, "split-channels" in the 25–50 Mc band and in the 152–162 Mc band will be available for assignment upon the effective date of this action as originally proposed. However, "split-channels" allocated to Public Safety Radio Services will be assigned prior to November 1, 1963, only where the application is accompanied by a satisfactory engineering report indicating that harmful interference will not be caused to the operation of existing stations or is accompanied by a statement certifying that all licensees of stations authorized to operate with 30 kc of the requested frequency and located within 75 miles of the proposed station location have concurred with the requested assignment.

The comments filed reveal little opposition to the proposal that would require all new radio communications systems, those licensed subsequent to the effective date of this action, in the Public Safety, Industrial, and Land Transportation Radio Services to utilize only equipment which meets the technical specifications prescribed in Docket Number 11253. However, the comments included requests (a) that licensees of radio communication systems authorized prior to the effective date of this action whose systems must be moved to a different frequency, due to re-allocation of the frequency previously assigned, be allowed to utilize "wide-band equipment" and (b) that "any new police licensee planning to operate in an existing network should not be designated as a new system."

The Commission believes, as hereinbefore stated, that the public interest requires immediate usage of the new frequencies derived from "channel-splitting." Consideration of all information available to it, including the comments filed in this proceeding, causes the Commission to believe that effective usage of such channels can be obtained only by substantial elimination of adjacent channel interference. Furthermore, adoption of the proposal which would require radio communication systems licensed subsequent to the effective date of this action to utilize only "narrow-band" equipment will aid materially in the elimination of such interference. Nevertheless, it appears equitable that those licensees forced to move their operations to different frequencies, due to re-allocation of the frequencies now being used, should be accorded substantially the same right to utilize their present equipment as would be permitted if operation were continued on the same frequency. Accordingly, while the above-stated proposal is being adopted, an exception is being made to allow licensees forced to change frequencies due to a re-allocation of the frequencies presently used, to operate "wide-band" equipment on the frequencies to which they are moved, provided the deviation of such equipment is immediately reduced to the point where it does not exceed the deviation specified in the "narrow-band" technical standards.

With respect to the comments regarding what constitutes a new system, it may be noted that the term "system", as used in the present rules governing the Public Safety, Land Transportation, and Industrial Radio Services, is normally construed to mean the operationally integrated radio facilities of a single licensee that are utilized in rendering a communications service encompassed within the scope of "permissible communications" which stations licensed in the particular radio service may transmit. Adequate reasons for according the term a different meaning in this proceeding have not been adduced by the comments. Therefore, the radio facilities of a new licensee will constitute a new radio communication system even though such licensee may "be planning to operate in an existing network".

The proposal which would provide that assignment of frequencies in the 25–50 Mc and 152–162 Mc bands, including "split-channels", be made, to stations in those services where frequency coordination is required, only after "coordination has been effected with respect to all frequencies assigned to stations in the same or other services within 30 kc" of the requested frequency engendered little adverse comment. However, several parties emphasize that the use of "split channels" should be coordinated by industry frequency advisory committees in all cases. While it may be desirable to employ frequency advisory committees in effecting coordination, such committees do not presently exist for all services. In any event, it is not presently the Commission's policy to require this means of coordination exclusively.

Accordingly, the Commission is adopting the principle that in those instances where the Rules governing the Public Safety, Land Transportation, and Industrial Radio Services require coordination, such coordination shall be effected with respect to all stations in the same or other services located in the same area and authorized to operate within 30 kc of the requested frequency or frequencies.

The Notice of Proposed Rule Making proposed to allow continued use, "without cut-off date", of equipment not meeting the "narrow-band" technical standards in systems licensed prior to the effective date of this action provided that "whenever interference is caused to stations complying with the narrow-band technical standards by the operation of stations using equipment not meeting those standards, the deviation of such non-complying transmitting equipment shall be reduced to the point that the bandwidth occupied by the emission of the station plus an allowance for the frequency tolerance of the equipment does not exceed the bandwidth specified in the narrow-band technical standards. Licensees of both narrow-band equipment and wide-band equipment modified as above shall thereafter accept any residual interference encountered."

Upon consideration of all factors involved, the Commission has concluded that adoption of that part of this proposal which would specify that "the deviation of non-complying transmitters shall be reduced to the point that the bandwidth occupied by the emission of the station plus an allowance for the frequency tolerance of the equipment does not exceed the bandwidth specified in the narrow band technical standards" would result in certain inequities. Compliance with the proposed requirement cannot invariably be met by a simple reduction in frequency deviation unless the frequency stability is also improved which is a relatively expensive procedure. If the proposed requirement were modified to provide only that the deviation of non-complying transmitters be reduced to the point where it does not exceed the deviation specified in the "narrow-band" technical standards (±5 kc) the necessary adjustment of transmitters operating in both the 25–50 Mc and 152–162 Mc bands is a relatively inexpensive operation. Furthermore it appears that adoption of such a requirement will accomplish substantially the same results as would be accomplished by the proposed requirement because it will, in nearly all cases, provide reasonable receiver audio response in "wide-band" receivers utilized in the 25–50 Mc and 152–162 Mc bands, while at the same time avoiding the majority of "adjacent channel" interference problems since it appears that the reduction in modulation frequency deviation will normally result in an emission occupying a bandwidth less than 20 kc. Moreover, information available to the Commission leads it to believe that a large percentage of the transmitters operating in the 25–50 Mc and 152–162 Mc ranges have a frequency stability better than that presently required. Therefore, it appears probable that only in isolated cases will the combination of the transmitter instability and the modulation deviation (at ±5 kc) produce "splatter" in narrow-band receivers on channels 20 or 30 kc removed in the respective bands. In such cases, the Commission will expect cooperative action on the part of all licensees concerned to alleviate any interference caused thereby.

Accordingly, the Commission concludes that the proposal relating to the point to which frequency deviation of "wide-band" transmitters must be reduced should not be adopted. However, the Commission also concludes that a modified version thereof should be adopted which would require that the deviation of non-complying transmitters be reduced to the point where it does not exceed the deviation specified in the "narrow band" standards (±5 kc).

As pointed out above, a number of comments suggest that this proposal be further modified so as to require that the deviation of all "wide-band" transmitters used by radio communications systems licensed in the Public Safety, Land Transportation, and Industrial Radio Services, prior to the effective date of this action be reduced to the point specified above by a specific date rather than requiring that the deviation of such transmitters be reduced only when interference is caused. The comments, in support of this requested modification, allege that "piecemeal" reduction of the frequency deviation as proposed by the Commission is impracticable because such a procedure: "will result in confusion, intolerable interference in many cases and serious hindrance in the utilization of the new split-channel frequencies"; and will impose an intolerable administrative burden on the Commission and industry frequency advisory committees.

The comments of some parties object to the "absence of any cut-off date" on the ground that this situation will act as a deterrent "to the standardizing of equipment in prompt order, and could lead to interminable delay in such standardization."

The Commission is persuaded, upon consideration of all factors involved, that it should not adopt that part of its proposal in the form proposed but should provide a specific date beyond which the use of "wide-band" equipment in systems licensed prior to the effective date of this action will be permitted only if the frequency deviation is reduced to the point where it does not exceed the deviation specified in the "narrow-band" technical standards (±5 kc). The Commission is also persuaded that a cut-off date should be specified beyond which only equipment meeting the "narrow-band" standards may be used.

The Commission believes that the reduction in frequency deviation required can be accomplished, in a large percentage of cases, during routine servicing at a nominal cost to the user. Accordingly, the Commission concludes that a period of six months from the effective date of this action is sufficient to allow existing systems, other than those licensed in the Public Safety Radio Services, to reduce the frequency deviation to the point specified above. In the case of systems licensed in the Public Safety Radio Services the reduction in deviation will not be required until two years from the effective date of this action. Furthermore, the Commission believes that the "cut-off" date beyond which all equipment must comply with the "narrow-band" standards should be that previously specified in Docket Number 11253; namely, October 31, 1963.

Subsequent to the date when the deviation of "wide-band" equipment is required to be reduced so as not to exceed that specified in the "narrow-band" standards, the Commission will not consider that interference caused to "wide-band" receivers constitutes "harmful interference".

While the Commission has reached the foregoing conclusions with respect to the application of the "narrow-band" technical standards in the continental United States, several comments pointed out that geographical separation of the territories and possessions from the continental United States appears to make unnecessary any immediate reduction in modulation frequency deviation of stations operating in these areas for the purpose of reducing adjacent-channel interference, because it is unlikely that the "split channels" will be needed in the Public Safety, Land Transportation, and Industrial Radio Services in such areas before 1963. The Commission concurs with that contention and concludes that it is in the public interest to provide that existing radio communication systems located wholly within any of the territories or possessions of the United States will be exempt from the requirements regarding reduction of frequency deviation provided by this action, until further order of the Commission. If at some future date, prior to November 1, 1963, it should become necessary to reexamine the situation in this regard as a result of interference situations which develop in the intervening period, the Commission may, at that time, extend those requirements to the areas or in the services where found necessary.

4. Summary. In summary, the Commission has decided that it is in the public interest to:

(1) Make "split-channels" in the 25–50 and 152–162 Mc bands available for immediate assignment in the Public Safety, Industrial and Land Transportation Radio Services upon the effective date of this action when not already so available; Provided that, in the Public Safety Radio Service, the "split-channels" will be assigned prior to November 1, 1963, only where the application for such assignment is accompanied by a satisfactory engineering report indicating that harmful interference will not be caused to the operation of existing stations or is accompanied by a statement certifying that all licensees of stations authorized to operate within 30 kc of the requested frequency and located within 75 miles of the proposed station location have concurred with the requested assignment.

(2) Require that all radio communication systems first authorized subsequent to the effective date of this action in the Public Safety, Industrial or Land Transportation Radio Services for operation in the 25–50 and 152–162 Mc bands, utilize only equipment which meets the "narrow-band" technical standards established in Docket No. 11253. The foregoing requirement will apply to the transmitters utilized in the radio communication system of any new licensee and to the transmitters utilized in the system of any previous licensee proposing to be operated on a frequency or in an area not previously authorized except as indicated below. It will not apply to the equipment of a licensed radio communication system authorized prior to the effective date of this action when that system is required to move to a different frequency due to the reallocation of the frequency previously assigned, provided the deviation of the transmitters of such equipment is immediately reduced to the point that it does not exceed the deviation (±5 kc) specified in the "narrow-band" technical standards.

(3) Specify that, in all cases where the Commission's rules governing the particular services involved require frequency coordination, the assignment of any frequency in the 25–50 or 152–162 Mc bands, including "split-channels", may be made only when coordination of the frequency selection has been effected with respect to all stations in the same or other services located in the same area and authorized to operate within 30 kc of the requested frequency or frequencies.

(4) Require that the frequency deviation of all transmitters in the Industrial and Land Transportation Radio Services, operated on frequencies in the 25–50 or 152–162 Mc bands, be reduced to the point where it does not exceed the deviation specified in the "narrow-band" technical standards (±5 kc) not later than six months from the effective date of this action, and that the frequency deviation of all transmitters in the Public Safety Radio Services, operated on frequencies in the 25–50 or 152–162 Mc bands, be reduced to the same figure not later than two years from the effective date of this action.

(5) Reaffirm that, on and after November 1, 1963, the equipment of all stations in the Public Safety, Industrial, and Land Transportation Radio Services, operated on frequencies in the 25–50 or 152–162 Mc bands, must meet all requirements of the "narrow-band" technical standards prescribed in Docket No. 11253.

(6) Exempt from the requirements of paragraphs (2) and (4) above, until further order of the Commission but not beyond November 1, 1963, the transmitters of all radio communication systems in the Public Safety, Industrial or Land Transportation Radio Services operated on frequencies in the 25–50 or 152–162 Mc bands at locations wholly within the limits of one or more of the territories or possessions of the United States.

Authority for the amendments of Parts 10, 11 and 16 of the Commission's rules ordered hereby is contained in sections 4 (i) and 303 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

In accordance with the foregoing: It is ordered, That effective August 1, 1958, Parts 10, 11 and 16 of the Commission's rules, Public Safety, Industrial and Land Transportation Radio Services are amended to conform with the foregoing conclusions. Formal codification of these amendments will be accomplished by subsequent order of the Commission.

LEASING OF OSAGE RESERVATION LANDS FOR OIL AND GAS MINING

Basis and purpose. Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of the Interior by section 3 of the act of June 28, 1906 (34 Stat. 539–543), it is proposed to amend 25 CFR, §§ 183.4, 183.16, 183.42, and 183.43 as set forth below. The purpose of these amendments is to require that the annual rental in lieu of drilling on oil and gas leases on the Osage Indian Reservation shall be paid annually in advance, and to permit the appointment of a local representative of a lessee or assignee of an Osage oil and gas lease to be located any place within the State of Oklahoma instead of only within the City of Pawhuska.

All interested persons are hereby given an opportunity to submit in triplicate written comments, suggestions, or objections with respect to the proposed amendments to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C., within thirty days of the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

ROGER ERNST,
Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

JUNE 26, 1958.

1. The present text of § 183.4 is amended to provide that rental in lieu of drilling shall be paid annually in advance and to read as follows:

§ 183.4 Drilling obligations. (a) Lessee shall drill at least one well to the Mississippi Lime, unless oil or gas is found in paying quantities at a lesser depth, on the land covered by his lease, within 12 months from the date of approval of the lease, or the lease may be held for the full five-year primary term without drilling, upon payment to the Superintendent for the lessor of rental at the rate of one dollar per acre per annum, payable annually in advance, beginning one year after the date of approval of the lease. This lease shall terminate as to both parties unless such advance rental shall be received at the Osage Agency or shall have been mailed as indicated by postmark, on or before the due date: Provided, That the time within which a well shall be drilled shall not begin to run on any restricted homestead selection until the consent of the Superintendent to drilling on such homestead shall have been given, nor shall advance rental become due until the next anniversary date of the lease following the date of such consent: Provided further, That the Superintendent in his discretion may direct the drilling of any undrilled lease, if in his opinion the interests of the Osage Tribe warrant: Provided further, That whenever the Commissioner of Indian Affairs shall consider the marketing facilities inadequate to take care of the production he may direct the suspension of drilling operations on this lease. The completion of a well to the Mississippi Lime, or production of oil or gas in paying quantities from a lesser depth than the Mississippi Lime, for such time as such production shall continue, after the lease has entered a rental status, shall relieve the lessee from any further payment of rentals for the balance of the primary term of the lease for which rental has not been paid. Should such production cease, rental shall commence on the next anniversary date of the lease. Rental shall be paid on the basis of a full year, and no refund will be made of advance rental paid in compliance with the regulations in this part.

(b) Prior to the expiration of a term of a lease, the Osage Tribal Council may, with the approval of the Superintendent, and a finding by him that such action is in the best interest of the Osage Tribe, grant an extension of the term of the lease for a period of not to exceed six months for the purpose of enabling the lessee to drill a well to the Mississippi Lime unless oil or gas is found in paying quantities at a lesser depth.

2. The present text of § 183.16 is amended to conform to the proposed provisions of § 183.4 and to provide that no refund of annual rental will be made if a lease is cancelled during the year, and to read as follows:

§ 183.16 Surrender of lease. The oil lessee may at any time, by paying to the Superintendent the sum of one dollar, surrender all or any quarter-section or fractional part of quarter-section where the lease does not cover the full quarter-section, and have the lease cancelled as to the lands surrendered; and be relieved from all further obligations and liabilities thereunder, as to the part surrendered; Provided, That if this lease has been recorded, the lessee shall execute a release and record the same in the proper office. Such surrender shall not entitle the lessee to a refund of the unused portion of rental paid in lieu of development, nor shall it relieve the lessee and his sureties of any obligation incurred prior to such surrender.

3. Section 183.42 is deleted for the reason that its provisions are included in Sec. 183.4, as amended.

4. The present text of § 183.43 is amended to permit a local representative of a lessee or assignee to be located any place within the State of Oklahoma instead of the City of Pawhuska, and to read as follows:

§ 183.43 Lessee's process agents. (a) Before actual drilling or development operations are commenced on leased lands, the lessee or assignee shall appoint a local or resident representative within the State of Oklahoma, on whom the Superintendent or other authorized representative of the Department may serve notice, or otherwise communicate with in securing compliance with the regulations in this part, and shall notify the Superintendent of the name and post office address of the representative so appointed.

(b) Where several parties own a lease jointly, only one representative or agent need be designated, whose duties shall be to act for all parties concerned. Designation of such representative should be made by the party in charge of operations.

(c) In the event of the incapacity or absence from the State of such designated local or resident representative, the lessee shall appoint some person to serve in his stead, and in the absence of such representative or of notice of the appointment of a substitute any employee of the lessee upon the leased premises, or the contractor or other person in charge of drilling or related operations thereon, shall be considered the representative of the lessee for the purpose of service of orders or notices as herein provided and service upon any such employee, contractor, or other person shall be deemed service upon the lessee.

2. In an increasing number of broadcast cases designated for comparative hearing competing applications are being amended or dismissed upon agreement for the payment of some consideration or for consolidation of interests, leaving the remaining application free for an unopposed grant. The Commission is concerned that these practices may tend to defeat the purpose of hearings on applications for broadcast facilities and encourage the filing of marginal or "strike" applications in the hope that payment may be exacted in consideration of amendment or dismissal of such applications. In many instances these practices may also represent an abuse of the Commission's hearing processes. Hence, in order to discourage these practices, it is proposed to amend §§ 1.311, 1.312, and 1.363 of the Commission's rules as set forth below so that whenever consideration (including an agreement for consolidation of interests) is paid or promised in connection with the default, dismissal or amendment of an application in hearing status, the applications of all applicants who are parties to the agreement will be dismissed with prejudice.

3. Authority for the adoption of the amendments proposed herein is contained in sections 4 (i) and 303 (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

4. Any interested party who is of the view that the proposed amendments should not be adopted, or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein, may file with the Commission on or before July 28, 1958, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. Comments or briefs in support of the proposed amendments may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments or briefs in reply to the original comments may be filed within fifteen days from the last day for filing said original comments. No additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) good cause for the filing of such additional comments is established.

5. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.54 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: June 26, 1958.

Released: June 30, 1958.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS,
Secretary.

1. Section 1.311 (b) of the Commission's rules is amended to read as follows:

(b) Requests to amend an application after it has been designated for hearing will be considered only upon written petition properly served upon the parties of record, and will be granted only for good cause shown. If the granting of such petition would permit a grant of the amended application or an application theretofore in conflict with the amended application, such petition must be accompanied by an affidavit as to whether or not consideration has been promised to or received by petitioner, directly or indirectly, in connection with the filing of such petition for amendment. The affidavit shall be executed by the applicant, if an individual; a partner of applicant, if a partnership; or an officer of applicant having personal knowledge of the facts, if a corporation or association. If consideration has been received or promised, the application shall be dismissed with prejudice.

2. Section 1.312 (c) of the Commission's rules is amended to read as follows:

(c) Requests to dismiss an application without prejudice after it has been designated for hearing will be considered only upon written petition properly served upon all parties of record and will be granted only for good cause shown. Each petition for dismissal must be accompanied by an affidavit as to whether or not consideration (including an agreement for consolidation of interests) has been promised to or received by petitioner, directly or indirectly, in connection with the filing of such petition for dismissal of the application. The affidavit shall be executed by the applicant, if an individual; a partner of applicant, if a partnership; or an officer of the applicant having personal knowledge of the facts, if a corporation or association. If such consideration has been paid or promised, the application shall be dismissed with prejudice.

3. Section 1.363 (b) is amended to read as follows:

(b) When an application is so retained in hearing status, the applicant shall submit an affidavit as to whether or not consideration (including an agreement for the consolidation of interests) has been paid or promised in connection with the default, dismissal or amendment of the conflicting application. The affidavit should be executed by the applicant, if an individual; a partner, if a partnership; or an officer of the applicant having personal knowledge of the facts, if a corporation or association. If such consideration has been paid or promised, the application shall be dismissed with prejudice.

4. Section 1.363 (c) is deleted and § 1.363 (d) becomes 1.363 (c) and is amended to read as follows:

(c) An application for a broadcast facility which has been designated for hearing and which is amended so as to eliminate the need for hearing or further hearing on the issues specified, other than as provided for in § 1.311 (b), will be removed from hearing status.

5. Mobile stations, Civil Air Patrol Land, temporary fixed, and temporary base stations would be excluded from these procedures in view of their relatively low power, intermittent operation, and frequently changing locations.

All of the land is extremely steep, with generally north facing slopes with a cover of oakbrush and other shrubs, or south slopes with a sparse cover of juniper trees. The soil is shallow and rocky. None of the land can be farmed. None of it is suitable for small tracts.

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Colorado State Supervisor, Bureau of Land Management, effective February 19, 1958 (23 F. R. 1008) the lands described in paragraphs 1, 2, and 3 of this order are hereby opened, subject to valid existing rights and the requirements of applicable law, to filing of applications, selections and locations in accordance with the following, provided, however, that this opening so far as it affects the lands in paragraph 3 hereof shall be subject to the provisions of section 24 of the Federal Power Act of June 10, 1920 (supra), and with respect to all the lands opened by this order, shall be subject to application by the State of Colorado for a period of 90 days from date of this order for rights-of-way for public highways or as a source of material for the construction and maintenance of such highways, as provided by section 24 of the Federal Power Act.

No application for the lands described in paragraph 4 will be allowed under the homestead, desert land, small tract, or any other non-mineral public land law, unless the lands have already been classified as valuable, or suitable for such type of application, or shall be so classified upon consideration of an application. Any application that is filed will be considered on its merits. The lands will not be subject to occupancy or disposition until they have been classified.

Subject to any existing valid rights and the requirements of applicable law, the lands described above are hereby opened to filing of applications and selections in accordance with the following:

a. Applications and selections under the non-mineral public land laws may be presented to the Manager mentioned below, beginning on the date of this order. Such applications and selections will be considered as filed on the hour and respective dates shown for the various classes enumerated in the following paragraphs:

(1) Applications by persons having prior existing valid settlement rights, preference rights conferred by existing laws, or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation will be adjudicated on the facts presented in support of each claim or right. All applications presented by persons other than those referred to in this paragraph will be subject to the applications and claims mentioned in this paragraph.

(2) All valid applications under the Homestead, Desert Land, and Small Tract Laws by qualified veterans of World War II or of the Korean Conflict, and by others entitled to preference rights under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279–284), as amended, presented prior to 10:00 a. m. on July 30, 1958, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such preference right applications filed after that hour and before 10:00 a. m. on October 29, 1958, will be governed by the time of filing.

(3) All valid applications and selections under the non-mineral public land laws, other than those coming under paragraphs (1) and (2) above, presented prior to 10:00 a. m. on October 29, 1958, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such applications and selections filed after that hour will be governed by the time of filing.

(b) The lands have been open to applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws. They have also been open to location under the United States Mining Laws pursuant to the act of August 11, 1955 (66 Stat. 683; 30 U. S. C. 621–625).

Persons claiming veteran's preference rights under paragraph a (2) above must enclose with their applications proper evidence of military or naval service, preferably a complete photostatic copy of the certificate of honorable discharge. Persons claiming preference rights based upon valid settlement, statutory preference, or equitable claims must enclose properly corroborated statements in support of their applications, setting forth all facts relevant to their claims. Detailed rules and regulations governing applications which may be filed pursuant to this notice can be found in Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

Inquiries concerning these lands shall be addressed to the Land Office Manager, Bureau of Land Management, 371 New Custom House, P. O. Box 1018, Denver 1, Colorado.

COLORADO

SMALL TRACT OFFER

1. Effective immediately, paragraphs 1 through 14 of Federal Register Document 55-1170 appearing on page 868 of the issue for February 10, 1955, so far as they affect the lands described below, are hereby revoked and the following paragraphs substituted therefor:

2. Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Colorado State Supervisor of the Bureau of Land Management, effective February 19, 1958 (23 F. R. 1098), I hereby offer the following described lands which were classified by Classification Order No. 14 dated February 2, 1955 (20 F. R. 868) as amended, for public sale under the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938 (52 Stat. 609; 43 U. S. C. 682a), as amended:

NEW MEXICO PRINCIPAL MERIDIAN, COLORADO

T. 34 N., R. 9 W., North of the Ute Line,
Sec. 11, $E\frac{1}{2}SW\frac{1}{4}NE\frac{1}{4}NE\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}$, $NE\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}SE\frac{1}{4}NE\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}$, $SE\frac{1}{4}SW\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}$ and $S\frac{1}{2}NE\frac{1}{4}SW\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}$.
Containing 5.62 acres subdivided into two small tracts.

3. Classification of the above described lands by this order segregates them from all appropriations, including locations under the mining laws, except as to applications under the mineral leasing laws.

4. For convenience of description, the two tracts have been assigned a reference number as follows:

	Tract reference
Section 11: $E\frac{1}{2}SW\frac{1}{4}NE\frac{1}{4}NE\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}NE\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}$ $SE\frac{1}{4}NE\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}$	4
$SE\frac{1}{4}SW\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}S\frac{1}{2}NE\frac{1}{4}SW\frac{1}{4}$ $NW\frac{1}{4}NW\frac{1}{4}$	32

These tracts are about 7 miles southeast of Durango, Colorado, about one mile east of the junction of U. S. Highways 550 and 160. Electrical power is available near each tract. There is no culinary water available on either tract. However, drilled wells have provided domestic water on nearby homesites. Schools, stores, and churches are available in Durango. The tracts have been surveyed and marked by a local surveyor. Tract reference No. 4 containing a total of 1.87 acres slopes gently north with frontage on U. S. Highway 160. The soil is shallow and underlain by rock. Weeds, a few native shrubs, and pinon trees cover the tract. A gravel road occupies the east side of the tract, providing direct access to U. S. Highway 160. Two shallow gullies run north through the tract and some leveling for a building site would be necessary. Most of tract reference No. 32, containing a total of 1.75 acres, is on a steep northeast facing slope with coarse gravel and boulders exposed. A heavy growth of pinon-pine, oakbrush, and other shrubs occupy the entire tract and obscure the view to the east. There is a desirable building site in the northeast corner and clearing of a few trees would enlarge the view considerably. A road extends to the northeast corner of the tract. A small scale map showing the approximate location of these tracts can be obtained by writing the Land Office Manager, Colorado Land Office, 371 New Custom House, Post Office Box 1018, Denver 1, Colorado. The appraised fair market value of tract reference No. 4 is $450, and of tract reference No. 32 is $400. These tracts will be sold subject to all existing rights-of-way of record. A right-of-way 33 feet in width is reserved along the east and south boundary of tract reference 4 for road purposes and public utilities, in accordance with 43 CFR 257.17 (b). All minerals in the land are reserved to the United States.

5. Veterans preference rights in accordance with the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279-284) were provided for by Small Tract Classification No. 14 (20 F. R. 868), dated February 2, 1955. This sale is therefore open to the general public irrespective of qualifications upon which veterans preference is based.

The above described tracts will be sold at public auction at a public sale to be held in room 383, New Custom House, Denver 1, Colorado, at 9:30 a. m., July 16, 1958. Bids may be made personally by an individual or his agent at the sale or by mail. Bids sent by mail will be considered only if received at the Land Office, Denver, Colorado, prior to 10:00 a. m., July 15, 1958. No sealed bid will be accepted if it is less than the appraised value of the tract. Sealed bids will be opened in the presence of the public in Room 367, New Custom House, Denver 1, Colorado, beginning at 10:00 a. m. on July 15, 1958. A list of the highest sealed bids received for each tract will be posted for public inspection at the sale. Sealed bids must be in units of $5. Oral bidding will be in increment to be announced at the sale. See paragraph 4 for appraised values.

6. Persons who have previously acquired a tract under the Small Tract Act are not qualified to secure a tract at the sale unless they can make a satisfactory showing to the Bureau of Land Management that the acquisition of another tract is warranted in the circumstances.

7. Each bid sent by mail must clearly show: (a) The name and mailing address of the bidder; (b) Offer No. 14; (c) the reference number and legal description of the tract for which the bid is made, described in accordance with paragraph 4 of this order. Each bid must be accompanied by the full amount bid in the form of a certified or cashier's check, post office money order, or bank draft made payable to the Bureau of Land Management. All unsuccessful bids will be promptly returned after the sale. Bids for separate tracts must be enclosed in separate envelopes but payment need only accompany the highest bid, providing all other bids designate the envelope containing the payment. Each envelope must be addressed to the Manager, Colorado Land Office, 371 New Custom House P. O. Box 1018, Denver 1, Colorado, and carry in the lower left-hand corner of its face the following information and nothing else: (a) "Bid for Small Tract"; (b) "Offer No. 14"; and (c) the reference number and legal description of the tract for which the bid is made, described in accordance with paragraph 4 above. Sender's name and return address should be shown on reverse side of envelope.

8. Each tract will be awarded to the highest qualified bidder. If the highest bid is oral the bidder will be required to make payment for the tract at the close of the bidding, and a personal check will be acceptable for this purpose. Any person who is declared high bidder for any tract will automatically be disqualified for consideration of other tracts at the sale unless he is an agent acting for one or more persons.

9. Inquiries concerning these lands should be addressed to the Land Office Manager, Bureau of Land Management, 371 New Custom House, P. O. Box 1018, Denver 1, Colorado.

J. ELLIOTT HALL,
Land and Minerals Officer.

ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION

[Docket No. 50-37]

GENERAL DYNAMICS CORP.

NOTICE OF ISSUANCE OF UTILIZATION FACILITY LICENSE; AMENDMENT

Please take notice that the Atomic Energy Commission has issued the following amended License CX-3 authorizing General Dynamics Corporation to perform additional experiments and make modifications in the General Dynamics Corporation's critical experiments facility located at Torrey Pines Mesa, California. The Commission has found that prior public notice of proposed issuance of this amendment is not necessary in the public interest since the conduct of the proposed additional experiments does not present any substantial changes in the hazards to the health and safety of the public from those presented by the previously approved operation of the facility.

The principal change in the experiments from the series previously authorized is the use of metal tubes filled with solid poisons which will be placed in the water channels between fuel elements and internally in certain fuel elements. With the exception of modifying the water filling system, no modifications will be made to the facility as it is now constructed.

In accordance with the Commission's rules of practice (10 CFR Part 2), the Commission will direct the holding of a formal hearing on the matter of the issuance of the amended license upon receipt of a request therefor from the licensee or an intervener within 30 days after the issuance of the amended license. For further details see (1) the application submitted by General Dynamics Corporation, and amendments thereto, and (2) a hazards analysis of the proposed experiments prepared by the Division of Licensing and Regulation, both on file at the Commission's Public Document Room, 1717 H Street NW., Washington, D. C. A copy of item (2) above may be obtained at the Commission's Public Document Room or upon request addressed to the Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D. C., Attention: Director, Division of Licensing and Regulations.

Dated at Germantown, Md., this 27th day of June 1958.

For the Atomic Energy Commission.

H. L. PRICE,
Director, Division of Licensing and Regulation.

4. This license shall be deemed to contain and be subject to the conditions specified in § 30.34 of Part 50 and § 70.32 of Part 70; is subject to all applicable provisions of the act and rules, regulations and orders of the Commission now or hereafter in effect, and is subject to the additional conditions specified or incorporated below:

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[Docket No. 12498; FCC 58–611]

FALL RIVER BROADCASTING CORP. (KOBH)

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATION FOR HEARING ON STATED ISSUES

In re application of Fall River Broadcasting Corporation (KOBH), Hot Springs, South Dakota, Docket No. 12498, File No. BP–11281; for construction permit.

1. The Commission has before it for consideration a (1) "Protest and Petition For Reconsideration" filed on May 26, 1958, pursuant to sections 309 (c) and 405 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, by Peoples Broadcasting Corporation (WNAX hereinafter), licensee of Station WNAX, Yankton, South Dakota (570 kc, 5 kw, unlimited time), and directed to the Commission's action of April 23, 1958 (Public Notice released April 24, 1958) in granting without hearing the above-captioned application of Fall River Broadcasting Corporation (KOBH hereinafter) for a construction permit for a new standard broadcast station (KOBH) to operate on 580 kilocycles with a power of 1 kilowatt, daytime only, at Hot Springs, South Dakota; (2) "Brief in Support of Protest", filed on May 26, 1958 by WNAX; (3) "Opposition And Petition To Dismiss 'Protest And Petition For Reconsideration' ", filed on June 5, 1958 by KOBH; and (4) a reply thereto filed on June 12, 1958 by WNAX.[1]

2. In its Protest And Petition For Reconsideration, WNAX requests that the Commission (1) designate the KOBH application for hearing on issues specified by WNAX, "together with such further issues as may be prescribed by the Commission"; (2) place the burden of proof as to such issues on KOBH; (3) make WNAX a party to the hearing; and (4) postpone the effective date of the KOBH grant to the effective date of the Commission's decision after such a hearing.

3. WNAX claims that it is a "party in interest" or "person aggrieved or whose interests are adversely affected by the KOBH grant)" within the meaning of sections 309 (c) and 405, respectively, of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, to have standing to file its instant pleading. This claim is based on allegations (1) that WNAX sells advertising on the basis of coverage beyond its 0.5 mv/m normally protected primary service area and KOBH's operation would diminish such coverage thereby causing economic injury to WNAX; and (2) that KOBH's operation would cause objectionable interference to WNAX within its 0.5 mv/m normally protected service area.

4. In support of its claim of economic injury, WNAX submits an affidavit by the vice president of the national sales agency which allegedly has represented WNAX for almost twenty years. The affiant states that the "broadcast services of Station WNAX have been and are sold on the basis of the Station's wide area coverage, and that, in determining such coverage, time buyers rely substantially on surveys made by national market research organizations"; that such an organization made a survey in March–May 1956 which shows that WNAX has listeners in a number of counties outside its 0.5 mv/m normally protected primary service area; that this survey is confirmed by mail responses to WNAX programs; and that "any impairment or limitation of WNAX's present wide area coverage would adversely affect WNAX's ability to attract advertising revenues." WNAX states that the area which it serves "extends far inside (KOBH's) proposed 0.5 mv/m contour—to within seventy miles of Hot Springs—and from the listener's standpoint—even includes Hot Springs"; and that KOBH "will deprive WNAX of listeners far beyond its normally protected contour."

5. As to interference, WNAX submits field intensity measurements made along a radial from its transmitter site directly toward KOBH in support of its claim that the WNAX 0.5 mv/m contour extends 210 miles toward Hot Springs. WNAX did not take measurements to establish the location of KOBH's 0.5 mv/m contour. Instead, WNAX utilized the ground conductivity of 20 mmhos/m obtained from its measurement data from its own site toward Hot Springs to establish the location of KOBH's 0.5 mv/m contour. On this basis, WNAX placed the KOBH 0.5 mv/m contour at 135 miles in the direction of Yankton. Since the distance between Hot Springs and Yankton is 313 miles, WNAX claims that the 0.5 mv/m contours of WNAX and KOBH would include a common elliptical area having a width of 32 miles at its widest point. Since WNAX and KOBH are only 10 kilocycles apart, both stations would have separate areas of interference within said elliptical area. Since WNAX's claim of interference is premised on its assumption of a ground conductivity of 20 mmhos/m from the KOBH transmitter site in the direction of Yankton, WNAX states further that the "reliability of this higher conductivity"—higher than the 15 and 8 mmhos/m conductivities shown in Figure M–3 of the Commission's Rules—is confirmed by proof-of-performance data submitted to the Commission by Station KOTA, Rapid City, South Dakota, "just to the northeast of Hot Springs."

[1] In substance, the WNAX reply claims that the KOBH opposition does not controvert the allegations made by WNAX in its Protest And Petition For Reconsideration.

6. WNAX claims that the KOBH application should not have been granted because, in addition to the issue of interference described above, listeners in the area will be deprived of what it terms WNAX's "superior" programming; that the programming proposal of KOBH is "inconsistent and ambiguous" because its broadcast schedule is shown as 90 hours a week in one part of the application and 84 hours in another part; that KOBH's proposed staff of manager, chief engineer, two announcers, and bookkeeper is insufficient "to discharge radio's basic informational programming and community responsibilities" and that "without a sales staff, it is highly questionable whether (KOBH) will actually obtain its anticipated revenue"; that there "is a question of whether (KOBH) is financially qualified to construct and operate" its proposed station because its estimated cost of construction is $20,136 and it "shows only $20,000 on deposit" with deferred credit from the equipment manufacturer, but the agreement with the manufacturer is not verified as required by the application form.

7. On the basis of the foregoing, WNAX argues that the KOBH grant should be postponed pending a decision after hearing because "both the public and (WNAX) would be injured—seriously and irreparably"; that WNAX "would not only lose advertisers and revenues to its competitors by reason of the inauguration of (KOBH's) service but these might never be recaptured"; and that "at the same time, the programming service lost to the public attendant on commencement of (KOBH's) service would be lost irrevocably." WNAX concludes that KOBH "is a newcomer to the broadcast field", is not an existing station, and that there are no "reasons whatsoever • • • to establish a new service in the instant circumstances."

8. In its opposition and petition to dismiss the WNAX pleading, KOBH contends that WNAX does not have standing to file said pleading because it has failed to show that WNAX would receive from KOBH's operation interference which is considered objectionable under the Commission Rules. In an attached engineering affidavit KOBH points out that, while WNAX did take field intensity measurements from WNAX to KOBH to establish the ground conductivity in the direction of Hot Springs, WNAX did not take measurements from KOBH toward WNAX to establish the ground conductivity in the direction of Hot Springs; that WNAX relies upon measurement data in the KOTA proof-of-performance "made probably some time in 1945" to show the extent of the KOBH 0.5 mv/m contour toward WNAX; that KOTA is located 46 miles north of KOBH at Rapid City, South Dakota, and thus the KOTA measurements are inadequate to establish the ground conductivity of the path from Hot Springs to Yankton; that the KOTA proof-of-performance measurements on two radials in a southerly direction toward Hot Springs show the ground conductivity to be 8 rather than 20 mmhos/m as claimed by WNAX; that WNAX has failed to submit any data which shows that the KOBH 0.5 mv/m contour extends toward WNAX to the point that the 0.5 mv/m contours of the two stations overlap; that, in the absence of pertinent measurements, the ground conductivities in Figure M–3 of the Commission Rules must be used to establish the location of the KOBH 0.5 mv/m contour and that, locating the KOBH 0.5 mv/m contour on this basis and accepting WNAX's measured 0.5 mv/m contour at 210 miles, the two contours are separated by 11.7 miles; and that, therefore, "there will be no interference under the present Rules and Regulations of the Standard Broadcast Technical Standards of the Federal Communciations Commission, caused to WNAX by the proposed Radio Station KOBH in Hot Springs, South Dakota."

9. KOBH makes the further contention, that the facts in the instant situation are distinguished from those in Robert Hecksher v. Federal Communications Commission, 16 Pike and Fischer RR 2031, wherein the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit held that measurements submitted by the protestant, while not fully in accordance with the Commission Rules, were sufficient to indicate that interference might obtain. KOBH states that the "Hecksher case involved a question of measurements from an existing to the proposed station"; that "here we have no dispute as to the measurements of conductivity on the path from protestant's station"; and that "rather, this is a situation where protestant has not made a valid showing as to conductivity in the reverse direction." Consequently, KOBH claims that "having failed to establish that WNAX would receive objectionable interference, the protestant has failed to show standing" and that the WNAX protest and petition for reconsideration should be dismissed.

10. With respect to the other matters raised by WNAX, KOBH argues that "the Commission's original determination that Fall River is financially qualified has been affirmed by actual events occurring since the grant" because station KOBH "has been substantially constructed"; that the KOBH staff of 6 is adequate and the fact "that WNAX chooses to operate with 45 people, is not proof that (KOBH) cannot operate with 6"; and that the KOBH grant should be kept in effect because it would provide Hot Springs, South Dakota with its first and only local radio outlet.

11. WNAX has shown in its instant pleading that it is an existing station in Yankton, South Dakota; that it has listeners in areas beyond its 0.5 mv/m normally protected contour; that WNAX sells advertising on the basis of coverage beyond its 0.5 mv/m contour; and that interference from KOBH to WNAX would diminish such coverage and thereby cause WNAX economic injury. We are of the opinion that the showing made by WNAX is sufficient to indicate that it would suffer economic injury from the operation of KOBH; WNAX is, therefore, a "party in interest" and "person aggrieved or whose interests are adversely affected" by the KOBH grant, within the meaning of sections 309 (b) and 405, respectively, of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, to have standing to file the instant pleading pursuant thereto. See Metropolitan Television Co. (KOA) v. United States et al., 12 Pike and Fischer, RR 2001, 2008. Having found WNAX to be a "party in interest" on the grounds of economic injury, we need not evaluate WNAX's claim that it has standing to protest on the ground that it would receive interference within its 0.5 mv/m normally protected contour from the operation of KOBH.

12. WNAX specifies ten issues on which it requests an opportunity to present evidence at a hearing and requests that the burden of proceeding with the introduction of evidence and burden of proof on these issues, as well as any other issues the Commission may add, be placed on KOBH. The issues specified by WNAX are set forth in paragraph 15, infra. While we are of the opinion that the facts alleged by WNAX do not support the inferences and conclusions which it draws therefrom to indicate that the KOBH grant was improperly made or would otherwise not be in the public interest, we find that the facts themselves have been specified with sufficient particularity and relevancy within the meaning of section 309 (c) of the act to require our designating the application in question for hearing. Accordingly, we are designating the application in question for evidentiary hearing on the issues specified by WNAX. However, we are not adopting these issues, and the burden of proof on each of the issues will be on the protestant. Also, by including these issues we do not determine or imply that, even if the facts with respect thereto are as alleged by WNAX, the issues are such that they could result in a determination that said grant was improper, contrary to the public interest, and should be set aside.

13. A final question is presented as to whether we should stay the effective date of the KOBH grant pending final decision after a hearing, as requested by WNAX. In this connection, section 309 (c) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, provides that:

> • • • pending hearing and decision (in cases arising under this section of the statute) the effective date of the Commission's action to which protest is made shall be postponed to the effective date of the Commission's decision after hearing, unless the authorization involved is necessary to the maintenance or conduct of an existing service, or unless the Commission affirmatively finds for reasons set forth in the decision that the public interest requires that the grant remain in effect, in which event the Commission shall authorize the applicant to utilize the facilities or authorization in question pending the Commission's decision after hearing.

14. No station is presently licensed to serve Hot Springs, South Dakota. Hot Springs is located 169 miles southwest of Pierre, South Dakota and has a population of 5,030 according to the 1950 U. S. Census. Thus, KOBH would provide the first local radio outlet to Hot Springs, giving it a vehicle of expression for local issues and providing radio time for local charitable, educational, religious, and civic programs of special interest to the community. Moreover, it is to be noted that there is no broadcast station located within 45 miles of Hot Springs, South Dakota and that the nearest stations to Hot Springs are as follows:

Station	Location	Facilities	Miles to Hot Springs
KRSD	Rapid City, S. Dak.	1340 kc, 250 w, U.	46
KCTA	Rapid City, S. Dak.	1380 kc, 5 kw, DA-N, U.	46
KASL	Newcastle, Wyo...	1240 kc, 250 w, U.	45
KCSR	Chadron, Nebr....	1450 kc, 250 w, U.	48

Therefore, we affirmatively find that the public interest requires that the authorization in question for the first local station in Hot Springs, South Dakota remain in effect pending a decision in the hearing provided for below. See In re Application of Letcher Broadcasting Corp. (WKNY), 14 Pike and Fischer RR 183, 187.

15. In view of the foregoing: It is ordered, That, pursuant to the provisions of section 309 (c) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant Protest And Petition For Reconsideration is granted to the extent provided for below and is denied in all other respects; and that the above-captioned application is designated for evidentiary hearing at the offices of the Commission in Washington, D. C., upon the following issues:

1. To determine whether or not applicant is financially qualified to establish and operate the proposed service.

2. To determine whether or not applicant will be able to effectuate its proposal.

3. To determine the area and population which would receive primary service from the applicant's proposal and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

4. To determine whether the operation of the proposed station at Hot Springs, South Dakota, would involve objectionable interference with the existing operation of Station WNAX, Yankton, South Dakota, or any other existing standard broadcast station, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

5. To determine the nature and extent of the interference applicant's proposal would receive from Station WNAX and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

6. To determine the populations both within and without the WNAX 0.5 mv/m normally-protected daytime groundwave contours who receive a groundwave signal from the Station.

7. To determine the type and character of program service rendered by Station WNAX, Yankton, South Dakota and whether this service meets the requirements of the populations and areas proposed to lose such service, if any.

8. To determine the type and character of program service proposed to be rendered and whether it would meet the requirements of the areas and populations proposed to be served.

9. To determine whether the staff proposed by applicant is adequate to fulfill its programming plans and to render a satisfactory programming service to the public.

10. To determine whether, in view of the evidence adduced under the foregoing issues, it would be in the public interest, convenience and necessity to grant the above-entitled application of Fall River Broadcasting Corporation.

It is further ordered, That the burden of proceeding with the introduction of evidence and the burden of proof as to each of the issues shall be on the protestant.

It is further ordered, That the protestant and the Chief of the Broadcast Bureau are made parties to the proceeding herein and that:

1. The appearances by the parties intending to participate in the above hearing shall be filed not later than July 7, 1958.

2. The hearing on the above issues is to commence at a time and place and before an Examiner to be specified in a subsequent Order.

3. The parties to the proceeding herein shall have fifteen (15) days after the issuance of the Examiner's decision to file exceptions thereto and seven (7) days thereafter to file replies to any such exceptions.

It is further ordered, That KOBH's above-described Motion To Dismiss the WNAX Protest And Petition For Reconsideration is denied.

2. To determine whether a grant of the application of Illiway Television, Inc., would be consistent with the provisions of § 3.636 (a) (1) of the rules, in view of the overlap which would result between the proposed station and Station WREX–TV, Rockford, Illinois.

3. To determine whether a grant of the application of Public Service Broadcasting Company would be consistent with the provisions of § 3.636 (a) (1) of the rules, in view of the overlap which would result between the proposed station and Station WMT–TV, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

4. To determine on a comparative basis which of the operations proposed in the above-captioned applications would best serve the public interest, convenience and necessity in light of the record made with respect to the significant differences among the applicants as to:

TARIFF COMMISSION

FARM TWINE

DISMISSAL OF "ESCAPE CLAUSE" APPLICATION

JUNE 30, 1958.

On June 25, 1958, the Tariff Commission dismissed, on jurisdictional grounds, an application for an "escape clause" investigation on farm twine, filed by the Cordage Institute. In this case the Commission was confronted with a question of whether the "escape clause" protective principle prevailed over an historic policy of Congress to admit farm twine free of import restrictions for the special and particular purpose of benefiting the American Farmer. The Commission held that the policy of Congress with respect to farm twine, which was established in 1894 and which was reaffirmed by Congress in legislation enacted in October 1951, precludes the application of the "escape clause" procedure to farm twine in the absence of a clear expression from Congress of a contrary intent.

TITLE 6—AGRICULTURAL CREDIT

Chapter IV—Commodity Stabilization Service and Commodity Credit Corporation, Department of Agriculture

Subchapter B—Loans, Purchases, and Other Operations

PART 464—TOBACCO

SUBPART—PRICE SUPPORT AND TOBACCO INSPECTION ON NEW MARKETS AND ADDITIONAL SALES

On May 28, 1958, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (23 F. R. 3671), regarding the issuance of concurrent and identical statements of agency policy, rules and regulations under 6 CFR Part 464 and 7 CFR Part 29, governing the extension of tobacco inspection and price support services to new markets and to additional sales on designated markets. The notice provided that all persons desiring to submit written data, views, and arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed rules and regulations should submit same not later than June 10, 1958. After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice, the following policy statement and rules and regulations are hereby promulgated, pursuant to the authority contained in the Tobacco Inspection Act (49 Stat. 731, 7 U. S. C. 511 et seq.), the Commodity Credit Corporation Charter Act (62 Stat. 1070, as amended, 15 U. S. C. 714 et seq.), and the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended (63 Stat. 1051; 7 U. S. C. 1421 et seq.).

It is found, for the reasons herein set forth, that good cause exists for making these rules and regulations effective upon their publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Production of the 1958 crop of tobacco is well advanced, as indicated by the fact that harvesting is under way in the sourthern portion of the flue-cured producing area. It also follows that the marketing season in this area will open within the next 30 days. Under these circumstances, it is most urgent that rules and regulations governing the extension of inspection and price support services to new markets and to additional sales be made public and effective at the earliest possible date. Also, any delay in the effectuation of these rules and regulations would work an unreasonable and unnecessary hardship on markets interested in applying for additional services as provided in the rules and regulations. Accordingly, the following policy statement and rules and regulations shall become effective immediately upon publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The amendment to Part 464, Title 6, is as follows:

SUBPART—PRICE SUPPORT AND TOBACCO INSPECTION ON NEW MARKETS AND ADDITIONAL SALES

who makes the opening bid on each lot; and a ticket marker who records the applicable sales data on each lot.

(b) "Adequate set of buyers" shall mean 5 or more buyers representing 5 or more companies or buying organizations who could reasonably be expected to purchase at least two-thirds of the total U. S. production of the kind of tobacco for which the additional services are requested.

(c) "New market" shall mean an auction market or sale, other than on a designated market, at which inspection service under the Tobacco Inspection Act was not provided on a regular basis during the preceding marketing season.

(d) "Additional sale" means a proposed additional auction sale as herein defined proposed to be conducted on a designated market.

(e) "Designated market" means a market designated for mandatory inspection service pursuant to the Tobacco Inspection Act and 7 CFR 29.73.

(f) "Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture or any officer or employee of the United States Department of Agriculture to whom he has delegated or may delegate the authority to act in the premises.

(g) "Hearing Clerk" means the Hearing Clerk of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 464.1017 Policy statement. Inspection and price support services currently provided in auction marketing areas are adequate and the lack of these services is not a limiting factor to accelerated marketings or the extension of price support to producers. Consequently, the extension of inspection and price support services, without limitation, would not contribute to the effectuation of the purposes of either of these services. The additional cost incident to the unlimited extension of these services would be unjustifiable and excessive in relation to the total quantity of tobacco available for market. Accordingly, inspection and price support services shall be made available on new markets and additional sales only as hereinafter provided. Also, since these services shall be made available to proposed new markets and additional sales only as herein provided, referenda incident to market designations shall not be conducted until markets seeking designation have qualified for inspection and price support services as herein provided.

(a) Reasonable inspection and price support services. The extension of tobacco inspection and price support services to new markets and additional sales will be conditioned upon the reasonableness of such services existing in the applicant market area. Transactions in tobacco as conducted at auction markets involve the sale of tobacco at a bona fide auction sale participated in by an adequate set of buyers. Determination with respect to reasonableness, and consequently with respect to granting or denying additional services, will be based on evidence (1) that the applicant market or sale will function as a bona fide auction sale and has firm commitments from an adequate set of buyers that they will participate in the sale if inspection and price support services are provided, and (2) that additional services are justifiable in relation to other market data, including the volume of tobacco produced in the area surrounding the applicant market or sale; the roads and road distances involved in moving tobacco to the proposed market or sale in relation to other tobacco marketing centers; the relative availability of facilities for redrying and packing tobacco handled or to be handled in the proposed market or sale; the location of other markets on which tobacco produced in the marketing area of the proposed market or sale may be marketed; the number of tobacco growers to be affected by the proposed market or sale; volume of tobacco likely to be sold in the market or sale; relationship of sales in the applicant market or sale to sales in other markets in the type-producing area; and other economic factors affecting the marketing of tobacco, by growers, in the area of the applicant market or sale and in the type-producing area.

(b) Order of priority. If the Secretary finds that there are insufficient qualified tobacco inspectors available to service adequately all applicants otherwise found to be qualified for additional inspection service pursuant to this subpart for a kind of tobacco, those applicants found to be eligible for additional services on markets designated for free and mandatory inspection shall be given priority over applicants for additional inspection service on a fee basis on other markets. If it becomes necessary to determine which of several qualified applicants having an equal order of priority under the preceding sentence shall receive additional inspection and price support services, those sales or markets where the greatest number of growers needing such service may be served with the qualified inspectors shall have priority. If an application for an additional sale on a designated market is denied for lack of qualified inspectors, the Secretary on application from such market, may temporarily suspend the requirement of inspection and certification on such market pursuant to section 5 of the Tobacco Inspection Act.

(c) Price support services to be through warehouses. Price support services on any market will be offered through tobacco auction warehouses operating in such market, and notwithstanding any provision of this subpart, the offering of price support services through any auction warehouse located on any market will be conditioned upon a qualified, responsible warehouseman entering into an approved auction warehouse contract under the applicable provisions of this part.

§ 464.1018 Procedures for filing, hearing and determination of applications.—(a) Time and place of filing. Applications for the extension of tobacco inspection and price support services to new markets and to additional sales on designated markets shall be filed, in triplicate, with the Hearing Clerk not later than April 30 in the case of flue-cured tobacco, December 1 in the case of Maryland tobacco, and July 31 in the case of Burley and all other kinds of tobacco: Provided, however, That applications relating to flue-cured tobacco for the 1958 crop may be filed not later than July 7, 1958.

(b) Form and content of application. The application shall be in writing and signed by the applicant or applicants. If an applicant is a corporation, the application shall be executed by a responsible officer of such corporation. The application shall include a statement of the name, address and form of business organization of each party to the application and the location of the proposed sale.

(c) Hearings on applications. Following the closing date for applications for each kind of tobacco, a hearing or hearings shall be held on the applications, if any, filed for additional inspection and loan services for the kind of tobacco in question. Such hearing or hearings shall be scheduled to begin not more than 30 days following the closing date for such applications. Notice of hearing shall be issued by the Secretary, filed with the Hearing Clerk, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER and a copy mailed by the Hearing Clerk to each applicant. Such publication and mailing shall be not less than 5 days prior to the opening of the hearing.

(d) Presiding officer. The presiding officer at each such hearing shall be a Hearing Examiner of the Office of Hearing Examiners of the United States Department of Agriculture or such other employee of the Department of Agriculture as the Secretary may designate to act as presiding officer at such hearing. The presiding officer shall determine the order of procedure at the hearing, shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations, to rule on and admit evidence, and following the opening of the hearing, to recess the hearing to such other times and places as he deems desirable or necessary.

(e) Scope of hearing and burden of proof. Each applicant shall have the burden of proving, by documentary evidence or by the testimony of buying organizations, which buying organizations are firmly committed to participate in the sale if inspection and price support services are provided. The question of whether the buying organizations so committed constitute an adequate set of buyers shall not be established at the hearing but shall be resolved on the basis of data and information relating to such buyers otherwise available to the Department, some of which data is or may be by law, confidential. Each applicant also shall have the burden of presenting evidence relative to the additional factors specified in § 464.1017 (a).

(f) Record and evidence. The proceedings at each such hearing shall be transcribed verbatim. All oral testimony shall be under oath or affirmation. All documentary exhibits shall be submitted in triplicate by the person offering the same. The presiding officer shall, insofar as possible, exclude testimony and exhibits which are irrelevant, immaterial, or not of the sort upon which responsible persons are accustomed to rely. Cross-examination shall be allowed only to the extent that the presiding officer in his discretion deems it desirable or necessary to develop the material facts.

(g) Briefs. If requested at the hearing, the presiding officer shall fix a time, not to exceed ten days from the close of the hearing, within which interested persons may mail briefs to the Hearing Clerk.

(h) Certification and referral. As soon as practicable following the close of the hearing, the presiding officer shall certify the transcript of the proceedings at the hearing together with all exhibits and shall transmit the same to the Hearing Clerk for referral to a review committee comprised of the Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service; the Administrator, Commodity Stabilization Service; and a representative of the Office of the Secretary to be designated by the Secretary.

(i) Recommended action. The review committee specified in paragraph (h) of this section shall review and consider the applications, hearing record, including exhibits, and all other available information and data relating to such applications for each kind of tobacco and shall submit a recommendation thereon to the Secretary.

(j) Final decision. The Secretary shall issue the decision on each application and such decision shall be final for the forthcoming marketing season: Provided, That any determination that additional services will be provided may be reviewed and may be vacated if it is subsequently found that any material fact upon which a determination to render such service was based was materially erroneous or false. Such decision shall be filed with the Hearing Clerk who shall mail a true copy thereof, by certified mail, to the applicant.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 2d day of July 1958.

[SEAL] TRUE D. MORSE,
Acting Secretary.

Chapter I—Agricultural Marketing Service (Standards, Inspections, Marketing Practices), Department of Agriculture

PART 29—TOBACCO INSPECTION

SUBPART A—POLICY STATEMENT AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE EXTENSION OF TOBACCO INSPECTION AND PRICE SUPPORT SERVICES TO NEW MARKETS AND TO ADDITIONAL SALES ON DESIGNATED MARKETS

On May 28, 1958, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (23 F. R. 3671), regarding the issuance of concurrent and identical statements of agency policy, rules, and regulations under 6 CFR Part 464 and 7 CFR Part 29, governing the extension of tobacco inspection and price support services to new markets and to additional sales on designated markets. The notice provided that all persons desiring to submit written data, views, and arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed rules and regulations should submit same not later than June 10, 1958. After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice, the following policy statement and rules and regulations are hereby promulgated, pursuant to the authority contained in the Tobacco Inspection Act (49 Stat. 731, 7 U. S. C. 511 et seq.), the Commodity Credit Corporation Charter Act (62 Stat. 1070, as amended, 15 U. S. C. 714 et seq.), and the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended (63 Stat. 1051, as amended, 1054; 7 U. S. C. 1421 et seq.).

It is found, for the reasons herein set forth, that good cause exists for making these rules and regulations effective upon their publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Production of the 1958 crop of tobacco is well advanced, as indicated by the fact that harvesting is under way in the southern portion of the flue-cured producing area. It also follows that the marketing season in this area will open within the next 30 days. Under these circumstances, it is most urgent that rules and regulations governing the extension of inspection and price support services to new markets and to additional sales be made public and effective at the earliest possible date. Also, any delay in the effectuation of these rules and regulations would work an unreasonable and unnecessary hardship on markets interested in applying for additional services as provided in the rules and regulations. Accordingly, the following policy statement and rules and regulations shall become effective immediately upon publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The amendment to Part 29, Title 7, is as follows:

Delete Subpart A, of Part 29, Title 7, consisting of §§ 29.1 and 29.2, and substitute therefor the following new subpart:

Sec.
29.1 Definitions.
29.2 Policy statement.
29.3 Procedure for filing, hearing and determination of applications.

AUTHORITY: §§ 29.1 to 29.3 issued under sec. 14, 49 Stat. 734; 7 U. S. C. 511m. Interpret or apply secs. 401, 403, 63 Stat. 1051, as amended, 1054, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1421, 1423.

§ 29.1 Definitions. As used in this subpart, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(a) "Bona fide auction sale" and "auction sale" are synonymous and shall mean the buying and selling of tobacco offered by farmers by the auction process which customarily and usually consists of an adequate set of buyers representing different companies which either will use the tobacco in the manufacture of tobacco products in this country or in foreign countries, or will pack and sell the tobacco later for use by manufacturers in this country or foreign countries, and who can be expected by reason of their normal purchases and use of tobacco to afford continuing competition for the duration of such sale for tobacco offered by producers thereon; an auctioneer who takes each buyer's bid; a sales starter who makes the opening bid on each lot; and a ticket marker who records the applicable sales data on each lot.

(b) "Adequate set of buyers" shall mean 5 or more buyers representing 5 or more companies or buying organizations who could reasonably be expected to purchase at least two-thirds of the total U. S. production of the kind of tobacco for which the additional services are requested.

(c) "New market" shall mean an auction market or sale, other than on a designated market, at which inspection service under the Tobacco Inspection Act was not provided on a regular basis during the preceding marketing season.

(d) "Additional sale" means a proposed additional auction sale as herein defined proposed to be conducted on a designated market.

(e) "Designated market" means a market designated for mandatory inspection service pursuant to the Tobacco Inspection Act and § 29.73.

(f) "Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture or any officer or employee of the United States Department of Agriculture to whom he has delegated or may delegate the authority to act in the premises.

(g) "Hearing Clerk" means the Hearing Clerk of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 29.2 Policy statement. Inspection and price support services currently provided in auction marketing areas are adequate and the lack of these services is not a limiting factor to accelerated marketings or the extension of price support to producers. Consequently, the extension of inspection and price support services, without limitation, would not contribute to the effectuation of the purposes of either of these services. The additional cost incident to the unlimited extension of these services would be unjustifiable and excessive in relation to the total quantity of tobacco available for market. Accordingly, inspection and price support services shall be made available on new markets and additional sales only as hereinafter provided. Also, since these services shall be made available to proposed new markets and additional sales only as herein provided, referenda incident to market designations shall not be conducted until markets seeking designation have qualified for inspection and price support services as herein provided.

(a) Reasonable inspection and price support services. The extension of tobacco inspection and price support services to new markets and additional sales will be conditioned upon the reasonableness of such services existing in the applicant market area. Transactions in tobacco as conducted at auction markets involve the sale of tobacco at a bona fide auction sale participated in by an adequate set of buyers. Determination with respect to reasonableness, and consequently with respect to granting or denying additional services, will be based on evidence (1) that the applicant market or sale will function as a bona fide auction sale and has firm commitments from an adequate set of buyers that they will participate in the sale if inspection and price support services are provided, and (2) that additional services are justifiable in relation to other market data, including the volume of tobacco produced in the area surrounding the applicant market or sale; the roads and road distances involved in moving tobacco to the proposed market or sale in relation to other tobacco marketing centers; the relative availability of facilities for redrying and packing tobacco handled or to be handled in the proposed market or sale; the location of other markets on which tobacco produced in the marketing area of the proposed market or sale may be marketed; the number of tobacco growers to be affected by the proposed market or sale; volume of tobacco likely to be sold in the market or sale; relationship of sales in the applicant market or sale to sales in other markets in the type-producing area; and other economic factors affecting the marketing of tobacco, by growers, in the area of the applicant market or sale and in the type-producing area.

(b) Order of priority. If the Secretary finds that there are insufficient qualified tobacco inspectors available to service adequately all applicants otherwise found to be qualified for additional inspection service pursuant to this subpart for a kind of tobacco, those applicants found to be eligible for additional services on markets designated for free and mandatory inspection shall be given priority over applicants for additional inspection service on a fee basis on other markets. If it becomes necessary to determine which of several qualified applicants having an equal order of priority under the preceding sentence shall receive additional inspection and price support services, those sales or markets where the greatest number of growers needing such service may be served with the qualified inspectors shall have priority. If an application for an additional sale on a designated market is denied for lack of qualified inspectors, the Secretary on application from such market, may temporarily suspend the requirement of inspection and certification on such market pursuant to section 5 of the Tobacco Inspection Act.

(c) Price support services to be through warehouses. Price support services on any market will be offered through tobacco auction warehouses operating in such market, and notwithstanding any provision of this subpart, the offering of price support services through any auction warehouse located on any market will be conditioned upon a qualified, responsible warehouseman entering into an approved auction warehouse contract under the provisions of the applicable tobacco price support program, published at 6 CFR Part 464.[1] crop may be filed not later than July 7, 1958.

(b) Form and content of application. The application shall be in writing and signed by the applicant or applicants. If an applicant is a corporation, the application shall be executed by a responsible officer of such corporation. The application shall include a statement of the name, address and form of business organization of each party to the application and the location of the proposed sale.

(c) Hearings on applications. Following the closing date for applications for each kind of tobacco, a hearing or hearings shall be held on the applications, if any, filed for additional inspection and loan services for the kind of tobacco in question. Such hearing or hearings shall be scheduled to begin not more than 30 days following the closing date for such applications. Notice of hearing shall be issued by the Secretary, filed with the Hearing Clerk, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER and a copy mailed by the Hearing Clerk to each applicant. Such publication and mailing shall be not less than 5 days prior to the opening of the hearing.

(d) Presiding officer. The presiding officer at each such hearing shall be a Hearing Examiner of the Office of Hearing Examiners of the United States Department of Agriculture or such other employee of the Department of Agriculture as the Secretary may designate to act as presiding officer at such hearing. The presiding officer shall determine the order of procedure at the hearing, shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations, to rule on and admit evidence, and following the opening of the hearing, to recess the hearing to such other times and places as he deems desirable or necessary.

(e) Scope of hearing and burden of proof. Each applicant shall have the burden of proving, by documentary evidence or by the testimony of buying organizations, which buying organizations are firmly committed to participate in the sale if inspection and price support services are provided. The question of whether the buying organizations so committed constitute an adequate set of buyers shall not be established at the hearing but shall be resolved on the basis of data and information relating to such buyers otherwise available to the Department, some of which data is or may be by law, confidential. Each applicant also shall have the burden of presenting evidence relative to the additional factors specified in § 29.2 (a).

(h) Certification and referral. As soon as practicable following the close of the hearing, the presiding officer shall certify the transcript of the proceedings at the hearing together with all exhibits and shall transmit the same to the Hearing Clerk for referral to a review committee comprised of the Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service; the Administrator, Commodity Stabilization Service; and a representative of the Office of the Secretary to be designated by the Secretary.

(i) Recommended action. The review committee specified in paragraph (h) of this section shall review and consider the applications, hearing record, including exhibits, and all other available information and data relating to such applications for each kind of tobacco and shall submit a recommendation thereon to the Secretary.

(j) Final decision. The Secretary shall issue the decision on each application and such decision shall be final for the forthcoming marketing season: Provided, That any determination that additional services will be provided may be reviewed and may be vacated if it is subsequently found that any material fact upon which a determination to render such service was based was materially erroneous or false. Such decision shall be filed with the Hearing Clerk who shall mail a true copy thereof, by certified mail, to the applicant.

(iii) All such pears are of a size not smaller than the size known commercially as size 180.

(2) Section 936.143 (§ 936.100 et seq.), sets forth the requirements with respect to the inspection and certification of shipments of Bartlett pears. Such section also prescribes the conditions which must be met if any shipment is to be made without prior inspection and certification. Notwithstanding that shipments may be made without inspection and certification, each shipper shall comply with all grade and size regulations applicable to the respective shipment.

Such committee meeting was held on July 1, 1958.

[7 CFR Part 320]

MEXICAN BORDER REGULATIONS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003) that the Administrator of the Agricultural Research Service, pursuant to the authority conferred by the Act of Congress approved January 31, 1942, entitled "An Act to provide for regulating, inspecting, cleaning, and, when necessary, disinfecting railway cars, other vehicles, and other materials entering the United States from Mexico" (56 Stat. 40; 7 U. S. C. 149) and section 106 of the Federal Plant Pest Act (Title I, Public Law 85–36, 71 Stat. 33; 7 U. S. C. 150ee) is considering the amendment of the regulations in Part 320 of Title 7 of the Code of Federal Regulations, in the following respects:

1. Amend § 320.3 by adding thereto the following new definition:

§ 320.3 Definitions. • • •

(h) Soil. The loose surface material of the earth in which plants grow, in most cases consisting of disintegrated rock with an admixture of organic material and soluble salts.

2. Amend Part 320 by adding thereto a new § 320.10 to read as follows:

§ 320.10 Soil. Soil may be imported, as such, from Mexico at any port on the Mexican border only as authorized under this section.

(a) Permits. The Director of the Plant Quarantine Division may issue permits for the importation of soil for research, analytical, religious, ceremonial, patriotic or similar purposes, or such other purposes as he shall deem consistent with the objectives of this part, specifying in the permit or in the related correspondence, the safeguards, including methods of treatment, or other conditions which he deems necessary for the purpose of preventing the introduction of insect pests and plant diseases.

(b) Applications for permits. Only persons resident in the United States may apply for permits to import soil from Mexico at a port on the Mexican border. Any such person contemplating such an importation shall first make application for a permit by using the form provided therefor by the Plant Quarantine Division or by submitting to the Division, in the form of a letter or other written communication, the following information: Origin of the shipment, destination, quantity, method of shipment, proposed port of first arrival in the United States, approximate date of arrival in the United States, intended use, measures to be employed to prevent danger of dissemination of insect pests and plant diseases, method of final disposition, and the number of parcels expected to be moved. In acting upon the application for permit for such importation of soil, the Director will follow the procedures outlined in § 330.202 for the consideration of applications for permits to move plant pests, insofar as they are applicable.

(c) Issuance of permits; special mailing labels for mail importations. Upon the approval of an application for a permit to import soil from Mexico under this part, the permit will be issued, including any conditions which, in the opinion of the Director, are necessary in order to prevent the introduction of insect pests and plant diseases. The Director may require the applicant to agree in writing to the conditions prior to the issuance of the permit. The importer will receive with the permit information on the manner in which the importation is to be made. All containers are to be stoutly constructed so as to prevent breakage in transit and danger of dissemination of insect pests and plant diseases and shall be appropriately labeled as to contents. If the soil is imported by mail, special mailing labels will be issued to the importer, with instructions for their use, which he is to send to the foreign shipper. The quantity of mailing labels issued will be sufficient for the foreign shipper to attach one to each parcel forwarded by mail. Such mailing labels will indicate to the postal and the plant quarantine officials that the importation is authorized under the conditions specified in the permit. Importations arriving by mail without labels will be subject to refusal of entry into the United States by the inspector unless treated, at the expense of the owner, in a manner to remove danger of introduction of insect pests and plant diseases. The Director may issue mailing labels for importations into the United States of earth other than soil when the importation might otherwise be impeded because of similarity to earth subject to regulation under this section.

The purpose of the proposed amendments is to regulate further the importation at Mexican border ports of soil from Mexico.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments in connection with this matter should file the same with the Director of the Plant Quarantine Division, Agricultural Research Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., within 30 days after the date of the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(v) Administrative instructions. Published documents relating to the enforcement of the regulations in this part, issued under authority of such regulations by the Director.

§ 330.101 Policy. The purpose of the regulations in this part is to prevent the dissemination of plant pests into the United States, or interstate, by regulating the movement of plant pests into or through the United States, or interstate, and the movement of means of conveyance, soil, garbage, and certain other products and articles into or through the United States, or from any Territory or possession into or through any other Territory or possession or the Continental United States. The Director shall employ procedures to carry out this purpose which will impose a minimum of impediment to foreign commerce and travel whenever practicable, consistent with proper precaution against plant pest dissemination. The same policy is to be applied in the case of interstate commerce and travel.

§ 330.102 Basis for certain regulations. Whereas the unregulated movement of means of conveyance, their stores, baggage, mail, plants, plant products, garbage, soil, and other products and articles into or through the United States from places outside thereof or from any Territory or possession into or through any other Territory or possession or the Continental United States may disseminate plant pests which are outside the scope of the Plant Quarantine Act, as well as pests within that act, and whereas authority to regulate the movement into or through the United States from foreign countries of means of conveyance and other nonplant products and articles, independently of plants or plant products, is not conferred by the Plant Quarantine Act, the regulations in this part are promulgated under the authority of the Federal Plant Pest Act.

§ 330.103 Documentation. Any notifications, reports, and similar documentation not specified in the regulations in this part, but necessary to carry out the purpose of the regulations, will be prescribed in administrative instructions.

§ 330.104 Ports of entry. Ports of entry for plant pests, means of conveyance, or other products or articles of any character whatsoever the entry or movement of which is regulated by the regulations in this part may be specified in administrative instructions or in the permits if permits are required by the regulations. Such ports shall be selected by the Director from ports named in 19 CFR 1.1 as "ports of entry" for the purpose of enforcing the customs laws or named in 19 CFR 6.13 as "international airports," or airports at which permission to land aircraft has been granted by the Commissioner of Customs or by the Collectors of Customs in accordance with 19 CFR 6.2. Except as otherwise provided by administrative instructions, or by permits issued in accordance with this part, the ports of entry shall be those named in 19 CFR 1.1 and 6.13. The port of entry in Guam shall be Agana unless otherwise specified in the permit by the Director.

§ 330.105 Inspection—(a) Inspection of foreign arrivals. In order to prevent the dissemination into the United States of plant pests and for the purpose of carrying out the regulations in this part, all plant pests; means of conveyance and their stores; baggage; mail; plants; plant products; soil; stone and quarry products under § 330.300; garbage; and any other product or article of any character whatsoever which an inspector considers may be infested or infected by or contain a plant pest, arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof for entry into or movement through the United States shall be subject to inspection by an inspector at the port of first arrival, except that mail will be handled in accordance with the joint customs and postal regulations for inspecting and handling mail. No such plant pests; means of conveyance or their stores; baggage; mail; plants; plant products; soil; stone or quarry products under § 330.300; garbage; or other products or articles which an inspector notifies the Customs authorities should be held for inspection shall be released by Customs officers for entry or onward movement until released by an inspector. The release of all means of conveyance, products and articles regulated under Parts 319, 320, 321, and 322 of this chapter shall be in accordance with the requirements of those parts and the applicable provisions in this part. Whenever it shall be deemed safe to modify the requirements of this section by exempting any class of means of conveyance, products or articles from the requirement that they be held for inspection and release of the inspector, the exemptions shall be specified in administrative instructions. Inspectors shall make local arrangements, in accordance with policies of the Division, with the Collector of Customs for the release by Customs officers on behalf of the inspector of any class of means of conveyance, their stores, baggage, mail, or other products or articles when such arrangements do not increase unduly the danger of plant pest dissemination and will facilitate clearance of means of conveyance, baggage, mail, or other products or articles.

(b) Inspection of domestic movements. For the purpose of preventing the interstate movement of plant pests, provisions requiring inspection of means of conveyance and products or articles moving interstate may be issued as regulations in association with quarantines in Part 301 of this chapter or in this part.

§ 330.106 Emergency measures. (a) Whenever inspection of any means of conveyance, stores, baggage, mail, plants, plant products, earth, garbage, or other products or articles of any character whatsoever, arriving in the United States from a place outside thereof, or in the Continental United States from any Territory or possession, or in a Territory or possession from any other Territory or possession, discloses a plant pest (other than one moving under permit in accordance with any conditions in the permit and the provisions in this part) which is new to, or not theretofore known to be widely prevalent or distributed within and throughout the United States, the inspector shall employ procedures necessary to prevent the dissemination of the plant pest. The inspector may follow administrative instructions containing procedures prescribed for certain situations, or he may follow a procedure selected by him from administratively approved methods known to be effective. The procedure may involve seizure, quarantine, treatment, application of other remedial measures, exportation, return to shipping point of origin, destruction, or other disposal, but no means of conveyance, stores, baggage, mail or other product or article, or plant pest owned by any person shall be destroyed, exported, or returned to shipping point of origin or ordered to be so handled, unless there is, in the opinion of the inspector, no less drastic action adequate to prevent the dissemination of the plant pest. In forming such an opinion that no less drastic action is adequate, the inspector shall be guided by specific and general instructions received from Division officers applicable in such cases. This section does not authorize action with respect to any means of conveyance, product, article, or plant pest which, at the time of the proposed action, is subject to disposal under the Plant Quarantine Act. In taking action with respect to any means of conveyance, product, article, or plant pest the inspector shall take cognizance of applicable requirements of the customs and postal laws and regulations.

(b) The inspector may order the owner of any means of conveyance, product, article, or plant pest, subject to disposal under paragraph (a) of this section, to treat, apply other remedial measures, destroy, or make other disposal thereof without cost to the Federal Government and in a manner specified in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) If the measures required by the inspector are not applied promptly by the owner within the time limits specified by the inspector, the inspector shall apply measures necessary to prevent the dissemination of the plant pests.

§ 330.107 Costs. All costs (including those incurred under § 330.106 by the government or the owner) incident to the inspection, handling, cleaning, safeguarding, treating, or other disposal of means of conveyance or products, articles, or plant pests under this part, except for the services of an inspector during regularly assigned hours of duty and at the usual places of duty, shall be borne by the owner.

§ 330.108 Authority to issue administrative instructions. The Director is authorized to issue the administrative instructions for which provision is made in the regulations in this part, for the purpose of preventing dissemination of plant pests into the United States or interstate.

§ 330.109 Caution. In applying treatments or taking other measures prescribed in administrative instructions or by the inspector, it should be understood that inexactness or carelessness may result in injury or damage.

SUBPART—MOVEMENT OF PLANT PESTS

§ 330.200 Movement of plant pests regulated; permits required. No person shall knowingly move any plant pest into or through the United States from any place outside thereof, or interstate, or knowingly accept delivery of any plant pest so moving unless such movement is authorized under permit under this part and is made in accordance with the conditions therein and the provisions in this part. The movement of snails and slugs, as well as other plant pests, is governed by such provisions. Biological specimens of plant pests, in preservative or dried, may be imported without further restriction under this part, but subject to inspection on arrival in the United States to confirm the nature of the material and freedom from risk of plant pest dissemination.

§ 330.201 Applications for permits to move plant pests—(a) Into or through the United States from any place outside thereof. Only persons resident in the United States may apply for permits to move plant pests into the United States from any place outside thereof. Persons resident in the United States proposing such movement into the United States, or any person proposing movement through the United States from any place outside thereof, of any plant pests shall first make application for permits authorizing such movement by submitting to the Division the form provided therefor by the Division, or by submitting in the form of a letter or other written communication the following information for each kind of pest for which a permit is requested: (1) Scientific name of the pest, (2) stage, (3) quantity, (4) origin, (5) destination, (6) whether the pest is established in the State, Territory or other jurisdiction of destination in the United States, (7) method of shipment, (8) proposed port of first arrival in the United States, (9) approximate date of arrival, (10) number of parcels expected to be moved, (11) intended use, (12) measures to be employed to prevent danger of plant pest dissemination, and (13) method of final disposition. In addition, if host materials must necessarily accompany the plant pests, the application shall show the name of the host materials and the reasons it is necessary for them to accompany the plant pests. Applications for permits to move plant pests through the United States from places outside thereof should state the name of the port of export instead of subparagraph (6) of this paragraph. Any applicant for a permit to move plant pests into or through the United States from any place outside thereof will facilitate the consideration of his application by furnishing any additional information known to him concerning the economic importance of the pests and the justification for the movement.

(b) Interstate (including interstate for export). Persons proposing to move plant pests interstate shall first make application for permits authorizing such movement by submitting to the Division the form provided therefor by the Division or by submitting the required information in the form of a letter or other written communication showing all pertinent information specified in paragraph (a) of this section and also the approximate date of the movement, except that persons desiring to move plant pests interstate to a port in the United States for export to a place outside of the United States[1] shall use the special form provided therefor by the Division or submit to the Division in the form of a letter or other written communication the following information for each kind of pest: Scientific name of the pest, stage, quantity, origin, destination, method of shipment, proposed port of export from the United States, approximate date of the movement, number of parcels to be moved, proposed use, and measures to be employed to prevent danger of plant pest dissemination during the interstate movement. In either case the applicant for a permit will facilitate the consideration of his application by furnishing any additional information known to him concerning the economic importance of the pests and the justification for the movement.

§ 330.202 Consideration of applications for permits to move plant pests. The Director, upon the receipt of an application, made in accordance with §§ 330.201 (a) or (b), for a permit for movement of a plant pest into or through the United States from any place outside thereof, or interstate, shall consider the application on its merits.

(a) Consultation. He may consult with any Federal officials, the appropriate officials of any State, Territory, or other jurisdiction in the United States in charge of research or regulatory programs relative to plant pests, and any other qualified governmental or private research laboratory, institution, or individual, for views on the danger of plant pest dissemination into the United States, or interstate, in connection with the movement proposed.

(b) Plant pests covered in any subpart of Part 301 of this chapter that affects movement within the continental United States. The Director shall refer to the Director of the Plant Pest Control Division of the Agricultural Research Service of the Department any application for movement of a plant pest which is also covered by any subpart of Part 301 of this chapter that regulates the movement of plants, plant products, and other articles within the continental United States, when the movement proposed is interstate within, or from, the area regulated by such subpart. The Director of the Plant Pest Control Division shall advise the Director whether the proposed movement is adverse to any plant pest eradication, suppression, control, or regulatory program of the Plant Pest Control Division. In the event such movement is approved, permits will be issued subject to such conditions as the Director of the Plant Pest Control Division shall prescribe.

[1] Persons contemplating the shipment of plant pests to places outside the United States should make prior arrangements directly, or through the recipient, with the country of destination for the receipt of the plant pests into the country of destination. Many countries have laws governing the movement of plant pests into those countries, and therefore it is advisable to make advance arrangements for attaching permits, etc., as may be required by the countries of destination.

(c) Inspection of premises. The Director may inspect the site where plant pests are proposed to be handled in connection with or after their movement under permit to determine whether existing or proposed facilities will be adequate to prevent plant pest dissemination in case a permit is issued, provided that the person in possession thereof is the applactn or such inspection is otherwise authorized.

§ 330.203 Action on applications for permits to move plant pests; form of and conditions in permits. The Director, having considered an application for permit to move a plant pest, shall approve or deny the application in accordance with § 330.204. If the application is denied, the applicant shall be furnished the reasons therefor. If the application is approved, the Director shall issue the permit including any conditions which, in the opinion of the Director, are necessary to prevent dissemination of plant pests into the United States or interstate. Such conditions may include requirements for inspection of the premises where the plant pests are to be handled, after their movement under the permits, to determine whether the facilities thereat are adequate to prevent plant pest dissemination and the conditions of the permit are otherwise being observed. Permits authorizing movement of plant pests through the United States will include shipping instructions as to routing, labelling, and similar requirements as conditions of the permits. Any applicable conditions prescribed in administrative instructions may be incorporated in a written permit by citation, but shall be applicable whether or not so cited. The Director may, prior to the issuance of the permit, require the applicant to agree in writing to the conditions under which the plant pests will be safeguarded. The permits may be issued in a prescribed form or in letter form, or a combination thereof. A permit without conditions may be issued orally.

§ 330.204 Denial or cancellation of permits; reconsiderations. (a) The Director will deny an application for a permit to move a plant pest when, in his opinion, such movement would involve a danger of dissemination of the pest. Danger of plant pest dissemination may be deemed to exist when:

(1) No acceptable safeguards adequate to prevent plant pest dissemination can be arranged;

(2) The destructive potential of the plant pest to plants, and parts and products thereof, should it escape despite proposed safeguards, outweighs the probable benefits to be derived from the proposed movement and use of the pest;

(3) The applicant, as a previous permittee, failed to maintain the safeguards or otherwise observe the conditions prescribed in a previous permit and failed to demonstrate his ability or intent to observe them in the future;

(4) The movement is adverse to the conduct of an eradication, suppression, control, or regulatory program of the Agricultural Research Service; or

(5) The movement is objected to in writing by an appropriate official of a State, Territory or possession, or the District of Columbia on the ground it will involve a danger of dissemination of the plant pest into the State, Territory or possession, or District.

(b) The Director may cancel any outstanding permit whenever:

(1) Information is received subsequent to the issuance of the permit of circumstances that constitute cause for the denial of an application for permit under paragraph (a) of this section; or

(2) The permittee has not maintained the safeguards or otherwise observed the conditions specified in the permit or in any applicable regulations or administrative instructions.

(c) Reconsiderations: Any person denied a permit, or whose permit has been cancelled, may request the Director in person or in writing for a reconsideration, and may submit any additional information he may have to support the original application.

§ 330.205 Disposal of plant pests when permits are cancelled. When an outstanding permit for the movement of a plant pest is cancelled by the Director and not reinstated under § 330.204 (c), the further movement of the plant pest covered thereby into or through the United States, or interstate, is prohibited by the act unless authorized in another permit. The permittee should arrange for disposal of the plant pest involved in a manner satisfactory to the Director to prevent plant pest dissemination. The Director may, whenever he deems it necessary as an emergency measure in order to prevent the dissemination of any plant pest new to or not theretofore known to be widely prevalent or distributed within and throughout the United States, seize, quarantine, treat, apply other remedial measures to, destroy, or otherwise dispose of, in such manner as he deems appropriate, any plant pest which is moving without compliance with any conditions in the permit or the provisions of this part or after the permit has been cancelled.

§ 330.206 Permits for plant pest movement associated with National Defense projects. The Director will facilitate research associated with National Defense projects through issuance of permits for movement of plant pests for such research, upon receiving assurance satisfactory to him that adequate safeguards will surround utilization of the plant pests to prevent their dissemination.

§ 330.207 Permits for movement of organisms issued by other agencies. Inspectors shall recognize permits for the movement of organisms issued under other acts by other Federal agencies. When such organisms are also plant pests, any further conditions of movement to carry out the purposes of the act which have been prescribed in administrative instructions, or in correspondence concerning a single shipment, shall be complied with but no additional permit will be required under this part.

§ 330.208 Courtesy permits. The Director may issue permits for the movement into or through the United States, or interstate, of organisms which are not subject to regulation under the act or any other act, as a courtesy to facilitate movement when the movement might otherwise be impeded because of the similarity of the organisms with others regulated under the act. He may likewise issue such permits on behalf of any agency requesting such action as a courtesy to facilitate movement for organisms not subject to regulation under the act but subject to regulation under some other act.

§ 330.209 Permits for means of conveyance. No permit shall be required for movement into or through the United States from any place outside thereof, or interstate, of a means of conveyance unless the primary purpose of such movement of the means of conveyance is to move plant pests.

§ 330.210 Packing materials and containers for plant pest movement; host materials. Plant pests moved into or through the United States, or interstate, must be free of soil, except when the Director approves in the permit the movement of soil with the plant pest. Subject to this exception, only approved packing materials are to be employed in the shipment of plant pests. Approved packing materials for the movement of plant pests under this part will be prescribed in administrative instructions or approved in specific cases by the Director. Such actions will be coordinated with and may supplement any requirements of the Post Office Department governing packing and packaging of any materials for movements covered by the postal laws and regulations. All containers shall be stoutly constructed so as to prevent breakage in transit and danger of plant pest dissemination and shall be labelled in accordance with § 330.211. The Director may allow the movement of host materials with plant pests under permits when they must necessarily accompany the pests, although such movement is otherwise barred under the Plant Quarantine Act.

§ 330.211 Labelling of plant pests for movement under permits—(a) Interstate movement. For interstate movements of plant pests a label shall be attached to each parcel containing the pests as evidence that the movement of the plant pests is authorized. Such label shall also disclose the contents of the parcel.

(b) Movement into or through the United States from places outside thereof by mail or cargo. (1) When a permit authorizing the movement of plant pests into the United States from any place outside thereof is issued to an applicant under this part, it will be accompanied by distinctive labels, with instructions for their use by the foreign shipper. Such labels will be issued in quantity sufficient to permit attaching one to each parcel to be moved. The labels will direct the parcels to specified inspection stations of the Division for clearance. The stations will be notified in advance of the expected arrival of the plant pests. Plant pests so moved by mail may be refused entry unless the containers thereof bear such labels. Cargo shipments of plant pests so moved may be refused entry unless they bear such labels or are otherwise plainly marked to identify the contents.

(2) Any labelling requirements with respect to the movement of plant pests through the United States from places outside thereof will be included in shipping instructions issued as conditions of the permits.

(c) Misuse of labels. No labels unused in accordance with the terms of the permit may be used for the movement of any other plant pest. The act provides a penalty* for the misuse of labels under this part. Any unauthorized movement of plant pests under a label shall be refused by the inspector, and the plant pests so moved may be destroyed or otherwise dealt with as set out in § 330.106 if deemed necessary as an emergency measure under that section.

§ 330.212 Movement of plant pests by baggage. Persons proposing to move plant pests into or through the United States from any place outside thereof, or from any Territory or possession into or through any other Territory or possession, or the Continental United States, by baggage, shall show the permit authorizing the movement to the inspector upon arrival at the port where the baggage is inspected. The conditions specified for the movement must be observed. The inspector will insure that the movement is handled in accordance with the terms of the permit. If it is necessary to move the plant pest to another place for clearance, the owner will be responsible for all costs incidental to such forwarding. Pending forwarding, the inspector will specify and supervise the application of safeguards against danger of plant pest dissemination and may retain custody of the pests until forwarded.

SUBPART—MOVEMENT OF SOIL, STONE, AND QUARRY PRODUCTS

§ 330.300 Soil from foreign countries or Territories or possessions. No soil shall be moved into or through the United States from any place outside thereof or from any Territory or possession into or through any other Territory or possession or the Continental United States, whether the soil is moved as such or incidentally adhering to means of conveyance or other articles, except as authorized in § 301.60, § 319.37–16a, or § 319.69, or Part 320 of this chapter; or this subpart.

(a) Permit authorized. The Director may issue permits under this section for movements of soil not governed by § 301.60, § 319.37–16a, or § 319.69, or Part 320 of this chapter, for research, analytical, religious, ceremonial, patriotic, or similar purposes, or such other purposes as he shall deem consistent with the objectives of this part, specifying in the permit or in the related correspondence, the safeguards, including methods of treatment, or other conditions which he deems necessary for the purpose of preventing the dissemination of plant pests into the United States or interstate. Whenever it is possible to formulate a general rule specifying such conditions, it shall be promulgated in administrative instructions and the applicable provisions thereof may be incorporated into a permit by citation, but shall be applicable whether or not so cited.

(b) Application for permits. Only persons resident in the United States may apply for permits under this section to move soil into the United States from any place outside thereof, or from any Territory or possession into or through any other Territory or possession or the Continental United States. Persons resident in the United States contemplating such movements, or any persons contemplating movement through the United States from any place outside thereof, of soil under this section shall first make application for permits authorizing such movement by submitting to the Division the form provided therefor by the Division or by submitting, in the form of a letter or other written communication, the following information: Origin of the shipment, destination, quantity, method of shipment, proposed port of first arrival in the United States, port of export (if applicable), approximate date of arrival in the United States, intended use, measures to be employed to prevent danger of plant pest dissemination, method of final disposition, and the number of parcels expected to be moved. In acting upon the application for permits for such movement of soil, the Director will follow the procedures outlined in § 330.202 for the consideration of applications for permits to move plant pests insofar as they are applicable.

(c) Issuance of permits; conditions of permits. Upon the approval of an application for a permit authorizing the movement of soil under this section, the permit will be issued. The permit may contain any conditions which are necessary, in the opinion of the Director, to prevent dissemination of plant pests into the United States or interstate, including conditions with respect to routing, packing, and labeling of the soil. The Director may require the applicant to agree in writing to such conditions prior to the issuance of the permit. The importer will receive, as a part of the permit, information on the manner in which the importation is to be made. A permit without conditions may be issued orally.

(d) Containers; labels. All containers for soil moved under this section shall be stoutly constructed so as to prevent breakage in transit and danger of plant pest dissemination and shall be appropriately labeled as to contents. If the soil is moved by mail, special mailing labels will be issued to the importer, with instructions for their use, which he is to send to the foreign shipper. The quantity of mailing labels issued will be sufficient for the foreign shipper to attach one to each parcel moved by mail. Such mailing labels will indicate to the postal and the plant quarantine officials that the movement is authorized under the conditions specified in the permit. Importations arriving by mail without labels will be subject to refusal of entry into the United States, or interstate movement, by the inspector unless treated, at the expense of the owner, in a manner to remove danger of plant pest dissemination. The Director may issue mailing labels for movement into or through the United States from any place outside thereof, or from any Territory or possession into or through any other Territory or possession or the Continental United States, of earth other than soil when the movement might otherwise be impeded because of the similarity to soil subject to this section.

§ 330.301 Stone and quarry products from certain areas in Canada. Stone and quarry products from areas in Canada infested with the gypsy moth may be moved from Canada into or through the United States only into or through areas regulated by the gypsy moth and brown-tail moth quarantine and regulations in §§ 301.45, 301.45–1 et seq. of this chapter; or into or through other areas in the United States under conditions paralleling the requirements of said quarantine and regulations for movement of stone and quarry products from said regulated areas into such other areas of the United States.

§ 330.302 Domestic movements of earth (including soil), stone, etc. The interstate movement from regulated areas in the Continental United States of earth (including soil), stone, quarry products, and similar substances is regulated in §§ 301.45, 301.48, 301.72, 301.77, 301.78, 301.79, 301.80, and 301.81 of this chapter and may be made only in accordance with the requirements of these sections. Any such movement of earth, stone, quarry products and similar substances which may hereafter be regulated in Part 301 of this chapter may likewise be made only in accordance with the requirements of said part. The interstate movement of such materials of United States origin, from any place in the Continental United States, is not regulated by this part.

SUBPART—GARBAGE

§ 330.400 Garbage. Garbage on or from any means of conveyance arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, or arriving in the Continental United States from any Territory or possession, or in any Territory or possession from any other Territory or possession, shall be subject to general surveillance by the inspectors to prevent the dissemination of plant pests. The Division will cooperate with other Federal, State, and municipal agencies in enforcing other statutes and regulations governing disposal of garbage to the end that such disposal shall be adequate to prevent the dissemination of plant pests. The inspectors, in maintaining surveillance over garbage movements and disposal, shall coordinate their activities with the activities of representatives of the other Federal, State, and local agencies also having jurisdiction over

*Section 108 of the Federal Plant Pest Act provides: "Any person who violates section 108 of this Act, or any regulation promulgated under this act, or who forges, counterfeits, or without authority from the Secretary uses, alters, or defaces any permit or other document provided for by this act or the regulations thereunder, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both."

such garbage. Any additional requirements for the disposal of garbage arriving in the United States from places outside thereof or in the Continental United States from any Territory or possession or in any Territory or possession from any other Territory or possession, found necessay in order to prevent plant pest dissemination, may be prescribed in administrative instructions.

The purpose of the proposed regulations is to prevent the dissemination of plant pests into the United States or interstate.

Adoption of these regulations would necessitate the amendment of certain sections of Parts 301, 319, and 320 in Title 7, Code of Federal Regulations, to conform them to the procedures prescribed in these regulations. The proposed regulations would also supersede regulations governing the entry of mollusks, effective October 22, 1952 (7 CFR 324.1 through 324.8).

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments in connection with this matter should file the same with the Director of the Plant Quarantine Division, Agricultural Research Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., within 30 days after the date of the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

PLANT PESTS

ADMINISTRATIVE INSTRUCTIONS EXEMPTING SOIL FROM CANADA FROM CERTAIN RESTRICTIONS

Notice is hereby given under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003) that the Director of the Plant Quarantine Division, contingent upon authority being delegated to him in §§ 330.108 and 330.300 of the proposed Plant Pest Regulations (see F. R. Doc. 58-5155, supra), under section 106 of the Federal Plant Pest Act of May 23, 1957 (Title I, Public Law 85-36, 71 Stat. 33; 7 U. S. C. 150ee), is considering issuing administrative instructions exempting soil from Canada from certain restrictions of the regulations. The instructions would appear as § 330.300a in the proposed new Part 330 under the heading "Plant Pests," in Title 7, Chapter III, of the Code of Federal Regulations, as follows:

§ 330.300a Administrative instructions exempting soil from Canada from certain restrictions. Soil of Canadian origin may be moved into or through the United States from Canada free from the permit requirements of § 330.300 and the release requirements of § 330.105 but subject to inspection under § 330.105 and disposal under § 330.106 if the inspection discloses any plant pest new to or not theretofore widely prevalent or distributed within and throughout the United States. Such soil is also subject to all applicable requirements under Part 319 of this chapter.[1]

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments in connection with this matter should file the same with the Director of the Plant Quarantine Division, Agricultural Research Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. MEAT INSPECTION REGULATIONS

DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY

Notice is hereby given in accordance with section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003 (a)) that pursuant to the authority conferred by the Meat Inspection Act, as amended and extended (21 U. S. C. 71-96) and section 306 (b) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U. S. C. 1306 (b)), it is proposed to amend Part 28 of the Meat Inspection Regulations (9 CFR Part 28, as amended) as follows:

1. Part 28 would be amended by adding the following section:

§ 28.4 Lard shortening; identity; optional ingredients; labeling. (a) Lard shortening is the food fat which is prepared by rendering by an approved process, fresh, clean, sound, fatty tissues from hogs in good state of health at the time of slaughter. Such tissues do not include bones, detached skin, head skin, ears, tails, organs, windpipes, large blood vessels, scrap fat, skimmings, settlings, pressings, and similar material, and are reasonably free from muscle tissue and blood. It shall contain one or more of the antioxidants, listed in § 18.7 of this subchapter and the amounts used shall be the maximums specified therein.

(b) Lard shortening may contain one or more of the following optional ingredients:

(1) Lard stearine.

The total weight of mono- and diglycerides, including diacetyl tartaric acid esters of mono- and diglycerides of fat-forming acids, used shall not exceed 20% by weight of the combination of the mono- and diglyceride mixture and the lard shortening, and the total amount of monoglyceride shall not exceed 8% by weight of the combination.
(4) Artificial coloring.

(c) (1) The label shall bear the name "lard shortening".

(2) When the optional ingredients permitted by paragraph (b) (3) of the section is used, the label shall bear the statement "Mono- and Diglycerides Added".

(4) Whenever the name "Lard Shortening" appears on the label so conspicuously as to be easily seen under customary conditions of purchase, the statements prescribed in subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph shall immediately and conspicuously precede or follow such name without intervening written, printed or other graphic matter.

Any person who wishes to submit written data, views or arguments concerning the proposed amendments may do so by filing them with the Director, Meat Inspection Division, Agricultural Research Service, U. SUGARCANE WAGES AND PRICES IN LOUISIANA

NOTICE OF HEARING AND DESIGNATION OF PRESIDING OFFICERS

Pursuant to the authority contained in subsections (c) (1) and (c) (2) of section 301 of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 929; 7 U. S. C. Sup. 1131), and in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure applicable to wage and price proceedings (7 CFR 802.1 et seq.), notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held in Thibodaux, Louisiana, in the City Hall Auditorium, on July 24, 1958, beginning at 10 a. m.

The purpose of such hearing is to receive evidence likely to be of assistance to the Secretary of Agriculture in determining (1), pursuant to the provisions of section 301 (c) (1) of said act, fair and reasonable wage rates for persons employed in the harvesting of the 1958 crop of sugarcane, and in the production and cultivation of sugarcane during the calendar year 1959, and (2), pursuant to the provisions of section 301 (c) (2) of said act, fair and reasonable prices for the 1958 crop of sugarcane to be paid, under either purchase or toll agreements, by producers who process sugarcane grown by other producers and who apply for payments under the act.

In the interest of obtaining the best possible information, all interested persons are requested to appear at the hearing to express their views and present appropriate data in regard to wages and prices. While testimony on all pertinent points is desired, it is especially requested that witnesses be prepared to offer information and recommendations on the following matters regarding fair prices for sugarcane:

Season's average price. The 1957 crop determination provided the period October 11, 1957, through February 27, 1958, for determining the season's average price of raw sugar or blackstrap molasses. Will a pricing period of about the same length of time also be equitable for the 1958 crop?

Salvage sugarcane and frozen sugarcane. (1) The 1957 crop determination provided that the price for salvage sugarcane be determined in the same manner as used by the processor for the 1956 crop or that the processor and producer might agree upon a different method of settlement upon written approval of the Louisiana State Committee. What methods of settlement for salvage sugarcane were used by Louisiana processors during the 1957 crop and which of the methods is most equitable to producers and processors?

(2) The 1957 crop determination provided with respect to frozen sugarcane, not otherwise defined as salvage sugarcane, that because of decreased boiling house efficiency deductions could be made from the payment for such frozen sugarcane at rates not in excess of 1.5 percent of the payment (computed without regard to the molasses payment) for each 0.1 cc. of acidity above 2.5 cc. not in excess of 4.75 cc. No payment for sugar was required for sugarcane containing acidity in excess of 4.75 cc. although a molasses payment was required as well as the absorption of hoisting, weighing, and transportation costs by the processor.

(a) Is the 1.5 percent deduction for each 0.1 cc. of acidity equitable within the acidity limits provided considering that the sugarcane is deemed to be of no value for sugar purposes if it contains more than 4.75 cc. acidity?

(b) Is it equitable to require a molasses payment on frozen sugarcane testing in excess of 4.75 cc. acidity?

(c) Should the hoisting, weighing, and transportation costs or allowances on high acidity sugarcane be borne by the processor or producer or shared between them?

(d) Would a tolling arrangement or some other basis be a more practical method of handling frozen sugarcane than applying deductions for excess acidity? If so, what standards should be established?

Transportation allowances. What is the most equitable basis for determining the amount of transportation allowances a processor shall make to a producer for delivering sugarcane direct from the field to the millyard?

The hearing, after being called to order at the time and place mentioned herein, may be continued from day to day within the discretion of the presiding officers and may be adjourned to a later day or to a different place without notice other than the announcement thereof at the hearing by the presiding officers.

T. O. Murphy, A. A. Greenwood, and William N. Garrott are hereby designated as presiding officers to conduct either jointly or severally the foregoing hearing.

Issued this 1st day of July 1958.

Director, Sugar Division,

MINIMUM WAGE DETERMINATION

FLOUR AND RELATED PRODUCTS INDUSTRY

A complete record of proceedings held under sections 1 and 10 of the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (41 U. S. C. 35 and 43a) to determine the prevailing minimum wages for persons employed in the flour and related products industry has been certified by the Hearing Examiner. The record, having been fully considered, the rules of practice, 41 CFR 203.21 (b), next require issuance of a proposed decision in the matter, including a statement of findings and conclusions, as well as the reasons and basis therefor, and the appropriate wage determination.

DEFINITION

The notice of hearing defined the flour and related products industry as follows: The milling of flour or meal from grain and the blending or other preparation of flour and dry flour mixes. Examples of products of the industry are flours made from wheat (white, durum, granular, wholewheat), rye, buckwheat, and corn, including blended, phosphated, bromated, self-rising, and other prepared flour and dry flour mixes; semolina and farina; cornmeal; corn grits, hominy, and flakes; and offals. The definition of this industry does not include flour and other products manufactured from rice, soybeans, and potatoes; those cereal preparations of the type generally called breakfast foods (except corn grits and hominy), baby foods, and coffee substitutes; and dry and prepared animal feeds (except offals which are included).

There were no comments or recommendations for any change in the definition as proposed. After full consideration of the record, I find that the definition as proposed is appropriate for this industry.

The Millers' National Federation takes the position that no prevailing minimum wage determination may, or should, be made for this industry. In support of its view that there is no authority to promulgate such a determination, the National Federation contends that Government contracts for flour and related products are "purchases of such materials * * * as may usually be bought in the open market," so as to be exempt from the act under its section 9. The National Federation points to evidence which it urges tends to show that the public generally, may buy such products in the open market. This evidence, however, shows that while some amount of such products is milled in anticipation of needs that, typically, commercial purchases are milled to order and are not filled from available stock. This and other evidence establishes that the Government purchases these products for future delivery by competitive bidding on the basis of specifications, which among other things require certain noncommercial packaging. The National Federation's evidence also shows that virtually none of the Government's purchases of the products of this industry are for immediate delivery to meet a public exigency.

A recent judicial decision combines with the longstanding regulation and interpretation of the Department to establish that the "open market" exemption has application only where the contracting officer is authorized by express language in a statute to purchase "in the open market," or where the purchase is made without advertising for bids under circumstances bringing it within the exception to the General Purchase Statute, Rev. Stat. 3709 (currently 5 U. S. C. 5) for cases where immediate delivery is required by public exigency. Ruth Elkhorn Coals, Inc. v. Mitchell, 12 W. H. Cases 696; 29 Labor Cases 69,565 (U. S. D. C., D. C.), affirmed 248 F. 2d 635 (C. A. D. C.), certiorari denied 355 U. S. 935, 41 CFR 211.2 (a); Rulings and Interpretations No. 3, section 13. So far as the "open market" exemption is concerned there is ample authority to make a determination for the flour and related products industry for the same reasons the United States Court of Appeals expressed in its opinion holding that there was authority to make one for the bituminous coal industry.

The National Federation also contends that no wage determination may be made now, because the notice of hearing was inadequate in failing to provide (1) for a hearing on the scope of the "open market" exemption and (2) for consideration of the prevailing minimum wages for persons employed on similar work in other industries.

It appears that the National Federation has not been prejudiced by the fact that the notice did not mention any issue as to the scope of the "open market" exemption. The National Federation was ready with the evidence which it considered pertinent to that issue. That evidence was received at the hearing. It is considered in this proposed determination. The National Federation's contentions based on that evidence are rejected solely on a reading of the statute at variance with the one urged by it.

It has been held that judicial review of the "applicability" of a wage determination, provided by section 10 (b) of the Act, may include consideration of the scope of the "open market" exemption. This does not imply, however, that the direction in section 10 (b) that "wage determinations under section 1 (b) of this act shall be made on the record after an opportunity for a hearing" requires any hearing on the scope of coverage of the act and the several exemptions, which limit the "applicability" of wage determinations only because they limit the "applicability" of the whole act. Nothing in Section 1 of the act, providing for its general coverage and the making of such determinations, nor in section 9, providing for the "open market" exemption, requires that there be any administrative hearing to settle the applicability of these exemptions.

In the administration of the act, the scope of these exemptions has long been settled by rules and regulations which it authorizes, and which have been promulgated in the manner required by the Administrative Procedure Act (act of June 11, 1946, c. 744, 60 Stat. 8066, 5 U. S. C. 1001). Whatever necessity for judicial review of these rules and regulations may be involved in the course of a suit questioning applicability of a wage determination by one claiming to be adversely affected and aggrieved, there is no requirement or need for administrative reconsideration of such questions each time there is occasion to determine or redetermine the prevailing minimum wage for a particular industry. These reasons suggest why the provision in section 10 (b) requiring wage determinations to be made on the record after a hearing, does not require that the hearing concern itself with "applicability", while a different portion of the same section providing for judicial review of wage determinations includes provision for consideration and review of their applicability as well.

Finally, the notice is challenged as inadequate because it puts in issue only the question of the prevailing minimum wages in this industry. The National Federation complains that its attempt to show by testimony a comparison of minimum wages paid by this industry with "wage rates" for similar labor paid by other industries, in the various local areas of its operations, was rejected. The National Federation points to the fact that section 1 (b) authorizes wage determinations for "similar work" without any limitation as to whether it must be confined to a particular industry. The act authorizes several types of wage determination. One type is for similar work and another type is for a particular industry. No guide is expressed or limitation placed on choice, which is committed to the judgment and discretion of the Secretary. The notice proposed a hearing limited to the subjects and issues involved in a proposed determination of the prevailing minimum wages for the flour and related products industry as defined in the notice.

The provision in section 1 (b) authorizing a "determination" of minimum wages actually "prevailing" in a "particular" industrial unit would be vitiated if the determination for a particular industry could be based on wages paid in other industries to which it would have no application on Walsh-Healey contracts. The act requires, therefore, that the determination to be applied in this particular industry be based solely on the wages paid in it, rather than those paid in other industries.

The wage determination for the bituminous coal industry, which followed hearing on notice restricting the issue to the minimum wages paid in that industry, was declared to be valid on judicial review, notwithstanding the objection, among others, that evidence as to the prevailing minimum wages for similar work in other industries was rejected. Central Pennsylvania Open-Pit Mining Association v. Mitchell, U. S. D. C., D. C., Civil No. 4962-55, decided May 23, 1956. The notice of hearing here is similar, in the characteristics criticized, with all of those that have been held to be adequate on judicial review. Objections to its adequacy are overruled.

The National Federation advanced the following reasons in support of its contention that no determination should be made as a matter of discretion:

1. Employers do not favor a determination.

2. The major portion of the contracts which would be subject to a determination are awarded to mills already paying all that would be required.

3. Many small mills are among those paying less than the prevailing minimum wage.

4. It might be difficult to raise wages in those small mills paying less than the prevailing minimum to qualify them for contracts subject to the determination without also raising wages for feed mills, which are frequently operated in conjunction with them.

5. Contracts which would be subject to the determination total only 13 to 20 million dollars annually.

6. Prevailing minimum wage determinations which are not needed to further the purposes of the act should not be made, because they are either inflationary or a waste of effort.

The National Soft Wheat Millers Association joins in the allegations set out as numbers 3 and 4 above, and Colorado Milling & Elevator Company in allegations numbered 2 and 3.

These contentions overlook the purpose of the act "to obviate the possibility that any part of our tremendous national expenditure would go to" the relatively low wage concerns (Perkins v. Lukens Steel Co., 310 U. S. 113, 128), and "to use the leverage of the Government's immense purchasing power to raise labor standards," (Endicott Johnson Corp. v. Perkins, 317 U. S. 501, 507). This is accomplished by channeling the Government business, with its attendant employment, to the employers who pay not less than the prevailing minimum wages in their respective industries.

The claim that the major portion of the contracts go to the major portion of the industry which pays its prevailing minimum wage, is no reason to permit the appreciable remainder of the contracts to go to those who pay less than the pervailing minimum wage, in view of the act's purpose to preclude "any" such use of public funds.

The fact that employers or any other group or person may not favor determination, is no reason to fail to implement the statutory purposes.

The average size of the individual mills which pay more and less than the prevailing minimum wages, does not relate to the statutory objective to eliminate low-wage competition. The fact that some manufacturers in this industry also make other products is of no pertinence, except insofar as it might relate to a proposal, which has not been made here, to extend the definition of the industry to include those products. Insuring "that any part of our tremendous national expenditure" not be spent to subsidize unfair wage competition certainly encompasses an industry in which annual Government expenditures are from 13 to 20 million dollars.

These objections also overlook the scheme of the act, which requires that the minimum wage stipulation, as well as the other representations and stipulations, "shall be included" in all contracts to which the act applies. The objections to a determination are overruled.

LOCALITY

The Millers' National Federation asserts that the pattern of competition in this industry will not permit either a single determination for all the area in which the industry operates or separate determinations for smaller geographic areas in which it operates. This objection again overlooks the scheme of the act, which contemplates a requirement for payment of prevailing minimum wages in all of the contracts to which it applies. This implies an appropriate basis for determination.

The testimony adduced by the National Federation describes the commercial movement of the principal product of this industry, hard wheat flour, east and west from the states of Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, and Colorado (called Area I B), with no mill east of this area shipping in a westerly direction and no mill west of it shipping in an easterly direction. At the outset, it should be noted that this testimony placed the States in area I B within virtually the entire area of competition for all Government contracts for the principal product of this industry. Furthermore, the witness who gave this evidence readily conceded that his testimony was not intended to contradict or qualify the evidence which had been introduced by the Government as to the localities in which flour had been offered to be produced, and, had been produced, to fill the requirements of contracts subject to the act. This Government evidence tabulated the bids and shipments received by the agencies responsible for nearly all of the Government procurement in this industry during representative periods of time.

The tables representing Government procurement experience in this industry (Govt's. Exh. 7 and 7A), divide the Nation into the seven areas, which were once suggested as localities for prevailing minimum wage determination in this industry. They are as follows:

Area I—Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming;

Area I A—Arizona, California, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, and Washington;
Area I B—Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, and Colorado;
Area II—Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, and South Dakota;
Area III—Oklahoma and Texas;
Area IV—Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, and Wisconsin;
Area V—Indiana, Michigan, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia; Area VI—Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia; Area VII—Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, Rhode Island, and Vermont.

It is apparent from these tables that there is keen competition for Government contracts in this industry. There are nearly eleven bids for each award by the Chicago Quartermaster who makes most of the purchases which would be subject to a wage determination here. The Secretary of Agriculture and the Chicago Quartermaster, who make nearly all of the purchases of wheat flour subject to this act, receive bids from mills in each of the seven geographic regions, and make awards for delivery in each of them. It is apparent that geographic propinquity is not prerequisite to success in the bidding. Bids which include the cost of transportation from points outside the region where delivery is made are successful more often than those made by local millers, whose costs do not include transportation beyond the boundaries of their respective regions.

It further appears that the area of competition for Government contracts for the products of this industry is not sharply bound by the strictures said to qualify competition for commercial business, which the National Federation, however, concedes "is substantial—within the industry between various areas". For example, the testimony that mills in Area I may compete in an easterly direction all the way to the Atlantic coast, but that mills in other areas do not make commercial shipments in the westerly direction which would be required for them to compete in Area I, does not appear to have application to competition for the Government market. The tables reflect over 14 times as many bids for, and nearly twice as many actual, shipments of wheat flour into Area I as there are such bids and shipments out of Area I.

Areas II and IV produce most of the wheat flour consumed by the Government, and each of them distributes appreciable amounts of it to Government installations in every one of the seven regions. Similarly Area VI produces most of the corn meal supplied to the Government, and distributes it in appreciable amounts to Government installations in every one of the seven areas except Area II. Area IV, the next largest producer of corn meal for the Government, ships it to points in each of the seven areas. Area II also distributes corn meal to every other region except Area VI.

Under the circumstances disclosed by the evidence here, the nation may not be subdivided into geographic localities where Government purchases of flour and related products are unaffected by competition from producers in other geographic areas.

A witness called on behalf of the American Federation of Grain Millers (AFL–CIO) discussed the Government exhibit on minimum wages in terms of a separate wage for each of the seven areas; but expressly declined to take a position on the question whether an industry-wide determination would be appropriate. We have no other expression of the union view in this regard, nor any from the National Federation.

The National Soft Wheat Millers Association, most of whose members are in Area VI, urges that any determination make separate provision for that area. Its reason, however, that wages in this area "are historically below those in the dominant flour milling centers," in view of the industry-wide competition for Government business found to exist, supports the opposite conclusion. Only by not providing separately for this area as to all others may effect be given to the purpose of the act "to obviate the possibility that any part of our tremendous national expenditure would go to" the low wage concerns Perkins v. Lukens Steel, supra, and "to use the leverage of the Government's immense purchasing power to raise labor standards," Endicott Johnson Corp. v. Perkins, supra.

Management representatives of mills in divisions A and B of Area I expressed disagreement on the question whether such Area should be subdivided if it is not grouped with other areas in determining prevailing minimum wages for this Industry. Representatives of both groups expressed no disapproval, however, with the suggestion at the hearing of an industry-wide solution of this problem.

Where, as here, the competition is industry-wide the purposes of the act require an industry-wide determination (Mitchell v. Covington Mills, 229 F. 2d 506, certiorari denied 350 U. S. 1002, rehearing denied, 351 U. S. 934; followed Alabama Mills v. Mitchell, 234 F. 2d 21, certiorari denied, 26 L. W. 3117). Under all the evidence, therefore, I find that the locality in which flour and related products are to be manufactured or furnished under contracts subject to the act cannot be defined more narrowly than the area of competition for those contracts, which I find is all of that area in which the industry has its mills.

WAGES

The evidence relating to minimum wages in the flour and related products industry consists of tabular statistics related to the wage structure of the industry in October 1955 prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of this Department, on the basis of a survey it conducted specially for this purpose. Evidence of certain increases in wages which had occurred between the survey date and the hearing in December 1956, was also introduced. There are no substantial conflicts in this evidence, nor was there any objection to the consideration of it on the issue as to what are the minimum wages in this industry.

At the hearing and in post-hearing argument an issue is presented, however, as to the admissibility of a research study prepared by the Economic Research Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Its title is: "Fringe Benefits—1955." It was offered in evidence by the American Federation of Grain Millers in support of a contention that the "prevailing minimum wages" required by the act to be determined include the perquisites of employment as well as the money paid to employees for their work. Over objection by the National Federation, the American Federation had previously persuaded the hearing examiner to receive evidence as to the nature, value and prevalence of such payments in this industry. This particular exhibit purports to be only a statistical compilation concerning the nature and value of such payments among 1,000 reporting companies. There is no contention that these 1,000 are a representative sample of industry generally, or of any particular group. Not even one producer of flour or related products is shown to be among those reporting. The first finding in the study is that such payments vary widely among the reporting companies. No clue is given as to the extent or direction of the variance from the norm in the flour and related products industry. Regardless of whether any perquisites properly shown to be paid in this industry may be reflected in the determination, the hearing examiner correctly applied section 7 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act and the rules of practice (29 CFR 203.18 (e)) in rejecting this evidence as irrelevant.

The American Federation urges that determination be suspended pending an additional Bureau of Labor Statistics survey and an additional hearing so that the monetary value of prevailing minimum fringe benefits may be evaluated and recent increases in the cash portion of the prevailing minimum wage may be reflected. It appears from the transcript of testimony here that a representative of the American Federation was present at the panel conference prior to the present wage survey at which the scope of the survey was decided. Apart from the question of relevance of fringe benefit payments in a determination of prevailing minimum wages, it does not appear that the American Federation representative requested at the prehearing conference any fringe benefit data of the type now said to be indispensable. Substantial time is required to gather wage data and assemble it in the form usable in a hearing such as the one which was held. After this was accomplished, the date of the hearing was delayed at the request of the American Federation to permit it to assemble data on wage increases since the pay period which was studied in the survey. When the hearing opened, the American Federation first suggested the need to evaluate fringe benefits. It also appeared that the expected data on wage increases since the survey date had not been assembled. At the request of the American Federation, the hearing was adjourned for over two months for the purpose of enabling the American Federation to assemble such data as it thought advisable. Some data on wage increases was introduced by the American Federation and some by the National Federation. No additional data on fringe benefits was offered except the irrelevant Chamber of Commerce study. At the close of the hearing an additional period was provided for submitting further wage data. In view of this chronology of the proceedings, the request for further survey work and a further hearing is denied.

It appears from the Bureau of Labor Statistics' survey that in October of 1955 there were 480 establishments or separate departments of establishments employing 5 or more employees, whose major product was in the flour and related products industry, as above defined. These establishments employed 23,710 workers who are regarded as "covered" because they will be protected by any minimum wage here determined to the extent that they may engage in work on the Government contracts to which it will apply. Usable wage data were obtained from 402, or 84 percent of these establishments, employing 21,776, or 92 percent of the covered workers in the industry. In accordance with well established statistical procedures, the data were weighted so that it would more nearly represent the whole industry by ascribing to the 16 percent of the plants, employing 8 percent of the employees, from which no data was received, the same wage characteristics found in plants of similar size, location, and end products from which usable wage data were received.

The tables present data separately for probationary workers (new employees working at rates lower than the ones established for their jobs during a period of orientation or training), non-probationary workers, and all workers. This was done so that consideration might be given to one minimum wage for all of the workers in the industry, or a minimum wage for experienced workers and a separate tolerance rate for probationary workers. It appears from examining the evidence that only 390 probationary workers were employed in the flour and related products industry. This employment was confined to 68 establishments. In consequence, the minimum wages which appear on the tables reflecting the wages of all workers do not vary greatly from those appearing on the tables which exclude probationary workers. In this circumstance, a single minimum wage for all workers without any tolerance under section 6 of the act for probationary workers is the one which on this record will give the determination the most substantial meaning and effect.

The unions did not advocate any minimum wages for determination as prevailing in this industry. The Millers' National Federation and the National Soft Wheat Millers' Association voiced the management opposition to any determination. Consistent with this position neither Association advocated any minimum wages for determination as prevailing.

In this industry, 72 percent of the total covered workers are shown to be employed by establishments (45 percent of the total), which pay minimum wages to such workers ranging from and including $1.25 to $2.00 and over per hour, or a span of not less than 75 cents (Table 10–A, Government Exhibit No. 4). These plants employing a substantial preponderance of all covered workers in the industry, constitute nearly one-half of the industry. The remainder of the plants, employing 28 percent of the total covered workers paid minimum wages (except to 17 workers), ranging from and including 75 cents to $1.25 per hour, or a range of 50 cents.

As higher minimum wages and the preponderance of covered employment distinguish the plants in essentially the top half of the industry from those in the remainder, $1.25, the lowest minimum wage paid in this half, is the one most representative of the minimum wage practices of the industry as a whole, and the best measure of the industry standard which I am directed to find and determine as the prevailing minimum wage for persons employed in the industry.

Evidence of minimum wage increases since the survey period was received at the hearing. The Millers' National Federation provided a list of such increases in 256 establishments. The American Federation supplied a list of 125. Giving effect to such evidence by regarding Table 10–A in Government Exhibit No. 4 as altered to reflect each of the increases results in a distribution of plants and covered workers paying no covered worker less than $1.30 per hour which most nearly resembles the distribution supporting the $1.25 rate, above discussed. In the light of these changes, it appears that at the time of the hearing approximately 70 percent of the covered workers in the industry were employed in 45 percent of its plants which paid no covered worker less than $1.30 per hour.

The five-cent per hour increase in the minimum wage which results from giving effect to the direct evidence of specific wage changes is also supported by the evidence of movement in average wages between the dates of survey and hearing here. It appears from the May 1956 and June 1957 issues of the Department's Monthly Labor Review that the average hourly earnings in this industry were $1.93 for a 46.3 hour workweek in October 1955 and $1.98 for a 44.8 hour workweek in December 1956. Adjusted to exclude the premium pay for overtime in workweeks of these lengths by the constant factors presented in the May 1956 issue of the Monthly Labor Review, the straight time average hourly rates become $1.785 and $1.849. Projection of the ratio between the $1.25 prevailing minimum wage and the $1.785 straight time average hourly wage shown to exist at the time of the October 1955 survey, to the $1.849 average hourly wage in effect in December 1956 points to a prevailing minimum wage of $1.294 in December 1956. Such a calculation considers that the increase in straight time wages was occasioned by percentage increases at the several pay levels, and was thus a smaller figure at the minimum, than at the average, wage level. Equal pay increases at the several pay levels would have resulted in increasing the prevailing minimum wage to $1.314. As it is unlikely that all of the increases in the industry were of the same type, both these computations support the $1.30 figure which is derived from the direct evidence of plant increases.

I, therefore, find that the prevailing minimum wage for persons employed in the floor and related products industry is $1.30 per hour.

For reasons above stated, no lower rate will be provided for probationary workers or others based on lack of experience in the industry, or in the particular plant. There is no need to invoke special provision for handicapped workers and apprentices, as special rates for them are governed by the general regulations (29 CFR Part 201).

Accordingly, upon the findings and conclusions stated herein, and pursuant to authority under the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (49 Stat. 2036; 41 U. S. C., sec. 35 et seq.), and in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 237), notice is hereby given that I propose to amend Title 41 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Part 202 by the addition of § 202.56 (41 CFR Part 202) to read as follows:

§ 202.56 Flour and related products industry—(a) Definition. The flour and related products industry is defined as the milling of flour from grain and the blending or other preparation of flour and dry flour mixes. Examples of products of the industry are flours made from wheat (white, durum, granular, wholewheat), rye, buckwheat, and corn, including blended, phosphated, bromated, self-rising, and other prepared flour and dry flour mixes; semolina and farina; cornmeal; corn grits, hominy, and flakes; and offals. The definition of this industry does not include flour and other products manufactured from rice, soybeans, and potatoes; those cereal preparations of the type generally called breakfast foods (except corn grits and hominy), baby foods, and coffee substitutes; and dry and prepared animal feeds (except offals which are included).

(b) Minimum wage. The minimum wage for persons employed in the manufacture or furnishing of products of the flour and related products industry under contracts subject to the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act shall be not less than $1.30 per hour arrived at either on a time or piece rate basis.

(c) Effect on other obligations. Nothing in this section shall affect any obligations for the payment of minimum wages that an employer may have under any law or agreement more favorable to employees than the requirements of this section.

Within thirty days from the date of the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, interested parties may submit written exceptions to the proposed action above described. Exceptions should be directed to the Secretary of Labor and filed with the Chief Hearing Examiner, Room 4414, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 30th day of June 1958.

JAMES P. MITCHELL,
Secretary of Labor.

by the State committee. The State committee shall notify producers in the area through public announcement sufficiently in advance of such date in order to allow producers a reasonable period of time in which to place their corn under loans or purchase agreements. The applicable documents must be signed by the producer and delivered to the office of the county committee not later than the final date of availability for loans and purchase agreements in the area. Applicable documents include the Producer's Note and Loan Agreement for warehouse-storage loans, the Producer's Note and Supplemental Loan Agreement and the Commodity Chattel Mortgage for farm-storage loans, and the Purchase Agreement for purchase agreements.

(e) Eligible producer. An eligible producer shall be a producer who qualifies as an eligible producer under C. C. C. Corn Bulletin A in effect for the 1958-crop and any amendments thereto. Executors, administrators, trustees, or receivers who represent an eligible producer or his estate may qualify for price support provided the loan or purchase agreement documents executed by them are legally valid. Two or more eligible producers may obtain a joint loan on eligible corn harvested by them if stored in the same farm-storage facility. In the case of joint loans, each person signing the note shall be held jointly and severally responsible for the loan. Warehouse-storage loans may be made to a warehouseman who tenders to CCC warehouse receipts issued by him on grain produced by him only in those States where the issuance and pledge of such warehouse receipts are valid under State law. Where the county office has experienced difficulties in settling farm-storage loans with a producer, the county committee shall determine that he is not eligible for a farm-storage loan. He shall be eligible, however, to obtain a warehouse-storage loan or sign a purchase agreement.

§ 421.3138 Eligible corn. The corn, when placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, must meet the following requirements:

(a) The corn must be of the classes Yellow Corn (Class I), White Corn (Class II), or Mixed Corn (Class III) and must have been produced in the continental United States in 1958 by an eligible producer.

(b) The corn must not contain mercurial compounds or other substances poisonous to man or animals.

(c) The corn must be ear or shelled corn: Provided, That the corn must be shelled before placed under a warehouse-storage loan or before delivery is made in liquidation of a loan or under a purchase agreement. If the corn is not shelled prior to delivery, the cost of shelling on or after delivery shall be for the account of the producer.

(d) (1) The beneficial interest in the corn must be in the eligible producer tendering the corn for loan or for delivery under a purchase agreement, and must always have been in him, or must have been in him and a former producer whom he succeeded before the corn was harvested. Any producer who is in doubt as to whether his interest in the commodity complies with the requirements of this subpart should make available to the county committee all pertinent information, prior to filing an application, which will permit a determination to be made by CCC as to his eligibility for price support.

(2) To meet the requirements of succession to a former producer, the rights, responsibilities and interest of the former producer with respect to the farming unit on which the corn was produced shall have been substantially assumed by the producer claiming succession. Mere purchase of the crop prior to harvest, without acquisition of any additional interest in the farming unit, shall not constitute succession. The county committee shall determine whether the requirements with respect to succession have been met.

(e) Corn placed under loan must, except for moisture content, grade No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only, but otherwise No. 3 or better, and must meet the following additional requirements:

(1) For ear corn placed under a farm-storage loan, the moisture content must not exceed 20.5 percent if the corn is tested for loan from time of harvest through February 1959; 19.0 percent if tested for loan during March 1959; 17.5 percent if tested for loan during April 1959, and 15.5 percent if tested for loan during May 1959.

(2) For corn placed under a warehouse-storage loan, and for shelled corn placed under a farm-storage loan, the moisture content must not exceed 13.5 percent irrespective of when the corn is tested for loan.

(3) Corn placed under loan must not grade "weevily".

(f) Corn delivered to CCC under a purchase agreement must meet the following additional requirements:

(1) Corn delivered to CCC from other than approved warehouse-storage must grade No. 5 or better, except that such corn may bear the special grade "weevily" in addition to the numerical grade.

(2) Corn placed in approved warehouse-storage prior to the time that the producer notifies the county committee of his intention to sell the corn to CCC must grade No. 3 or better or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only but otherwise No. 3 or better, must not contain in excess of 13.5 percent moisture and must not grade "weevily".

(g) Corn when placed under a warehouse-storage loan or delivered from approved warehouse storage under a purchase agreement containing in excess of 13.5 percent moisture shall not be eligible, except that corn represented by warehouse receipts which indicate that the corn in ineligible because of moisture content only, will be eligible if the warehousemen certifies on the supplemental certificate or on a statement attached to the warehouse receipt that corn of 13.5 percent moisture or less of an eligible grade which meets the requirements of § 421.3138 will be delivered substantially as follows: "On corn containing in excess of 13.5 percent moisture delivery will be made of corn which grades No. _____, which contains not in excess of 13.5 percent moisture, which is otherwise of the same quality or better as the corn described on warehouse receipt No. _____, and which is the actual quantity obtained after drying the corn described in such receipt to not in excess of 13.5 percent moisture. No lien for processing will be claimed by the warehouseman from the Commodity Credit Corporation or any subsequent holder of the warehouse receipt."

§ 421.3139 Warehouse receipts. Warehouse receipts, representing corn in approved warehouse storage to be placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, must meet the requirements of this section:

(a) Warehouse receipts must be issued in the name of the producer, must be properly endorsed in blank so as to vest title in the holder, and must be receipts which are issued on a warehouse for which a Uniform Grain Storage Agreement is in effect and which is approved by CCC for price support purposes or must be receipts which are issued on warehouses operated by Eastern common carriers under tariffs approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission for which custodian agreements are in effect.

(b) Each warehouse receipt, or the warehouseman's supplemental certificate (in duplicate), properly identified with the warehouse receipt, must show: (1) Gross weight or bushels, (2) class, (3) grade, (4) test weight, (5) moisture, (6) cracked corn and foreign material, and (7) any other grading factor(s), when such factor(s), and not test weight or moisture, determine the grade. In areas where licensed inspectors are not available at terminal and subterminal warehouses, CCC will accept inspection certificates based on representative samples which have been forwarded to and graded by a licensed grain inspector.

(c) In the case of warehouse receipts issued for corn delivered by rail or barge, CCC will accept inbound weight and inspection certificates properly identified with the corn covered thereby in lieu of the information required by paragraph (b) of this section.

(d) A separate warehouse receipt must be submitted for each grade and class of corn.

(e) The warehouse receipt may be subject to liens for warehouse charges only to the extent indicated in § 421.3144.

(f) If the warehouseman has furnished a statement as provided in § 421.3138 (g), the supplemental certificate must show the numerical grade, grading factors, and the quantity of the corn to be delivered. Where the grade, grading factors and the quantity of the corn shown on the supplemental certificate do not agree with the warehouse receipt, the grade factors and quantity shown on the supplemental certificate shall take precedence.

(g) If the receipt is issued for grain of which the warehouseman is the producer and the owner either solely, jointly, or in common with others, the fact of such ownership shall be stated on the receipt.

Such receipts shall also be registered or recorded with appropriate State or local officials when required by State law.

(h) Each warehouse receipt or accompanying supplemental certificate representing grain stored in an approved warehouse operating under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement shall indicate that the corn is insured, in accordance with CCC Form 25, Uniform Grain Storage Agreement. Each warehouse receipt or accompanying supplemental certificate issued on warehouses operated by Eastern common carriers and representing corn to be placed under loan shall indicate that the corn is insured at the full market value against loss or damage by fire, lightning, inherent explosion, wind storm, cyclone and tornado.

§ 421.3140 Determination of quantity. (a) The quantity of corn placed under farm-storage loan may be determined either by weight or by measurement. The quantity of corn delivered under a farm-storage loan, or under a purchase agreement shall be determined by weight. The quantity of corn on which a warehouse-storage loan shall be made shall be the net weight of the corn shown on the warehouse receipt or on the supplemental certificate if applicable.

(b) When determined by measurement, a bushel of ear corn shall be 2.5 cubic feet of ear corn testing not more than 15.5 percent in moisture content. An adjustment in the number of bushels of ear corn will be made for moisture content in excess of 15.5 percent in accordance with the following schedule:

Moisture content (percent):	Adjustment factor (percent)
15.6 to 16.5, both inclusive	98
16.6 to 17.5, both inclusive	96
17.6 to 18.5, both inclusive	94
18.6 to 19.5, both inclusive	92
19.6 to 20.5, both inclusive	90

(c) A bushel of shelled corn, when determined by measurement, shall be 1.25 cubic feet of shelled corn testing not more than 13.5 percent in moisture content.

(d) When the quantity is determined by weight, a bushel of shelled corn shall be 56 pounds. In determining the quantity of sacked corn by weight, a deduction of three-fourths of a pound for each sack will be made.

(e) Since dockage is not a grade factor in the case of corn, the quantity of corn will be determined without reference to dockage.

§ 421.3141 Determination of quality. The class, grade, grading factors, and all other quality factors shall be determined in accordance with the method set forth in the Official Grain Standards of the United States for Corn, whether or not such determinations are made on the basis of an official inspection.

§ 421.3142 Maturity of loans. (a) Loans mature on demand but not later than July 31, 1959.

(b) Corn may be delivered in satisfaction of farm-storage loans after maturity in accordance with § 421.3018 (a) (1). Corn may be delivered under purchase agreement after maturity in accordance with § 421.3018 (c) (1).

(c) In areas where it is determined by the State committee that some producers may not be in a position to store corn safely for full storage period (for reasons set for in § 421.3137 (d)), the State committee may establish an earlier delivery period prior to maturity (in addition to the regular delivery period) during which any producer in such areas may voluntarily deliver corn which is held in farm storage under loans and purchase agreements. Such earlier delivery period, if established, shall begin at least 30 days after the final date of availability of loans and purchase agreements established by the State committee, and not before April 1, 1959. CCC will accept deliveries of corn during such early delivery period, provided the producer notifies the county committee at least 10 days prior to the date that he desires to deliver the corn.

(d) If the State committee determines that producers in any area are not in a position to safely store corn for the full storage period (for reasons set for in § 421.3137 (d)), all farm-storage loans in such area shall be called promptly by the State committee, and producers who elect to make deliveries from farm storage under purchase agreements shall be required to do so during the delivery period for loans. Such earlier delivery period, if established, shall begin at least 30 days after the final date of availability of loans and purchase agreements established by the State committee, and not before April 1, 1959.

(e) Corn under farm-storage loan may be delivered before maturity, upon prior approval of the county committee, for any of the reasons stated in § 421.3018 (a) (1), or if the corn is threatened with damage by flood or other conditions which are beyond the control of the producer.

§ 421.3143 Determination of support rates. (a) Basic county support rates, and the schedule of premiums and discounts, for corn will be set forth in 1958 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, Supplement 2, Corn. Both warehouse-storage and farm-storage loans and purchases under purchase agreements will be made on the basis of the rate established for the county in which the corn is produced.

(b) Where the State committee determines that State, district or county weed control laws, as administered, affect the corn crop, the support rate in the case of farm storage shall be 10 cents below the applicable county support rate unless the producer obtains a certificate from the appropriate weed control official indicating that the corn complies with the weed control laws. In the case of warehouse storage, whenever the State committee of the State in which the corn is stored determines that State, district or county weed control laws, as administered, affect corn stored in approved warehouses, the rate shall be 10 cents below the applicable support rate unless the producer obtains a certificate from either the appropriate State, county or district weed control official or the storing warehouseman that the corn complies with the weed control laws, and he will save CCC harmless from loss or penalty because of the weed control laws. The certificate of the warehouseman may be in substantially the following form:

CERTIFICATION

This is to certify that the grain evidenced by warehouse receipt No. _____ issued to _____ is not subject to seizure or other action under weed control laws or regulations in effect at point of storage. It is further certified and agreed that should such grain be taken over by CCC in settlement of a loan or be purchased under the purchase agreement program that the undersigned will save CCC from loss or penalty under weed control laws or regulations in effect at the point the grain was stored under the above warehouse receipt.

§ 421.3144 Warehouse charges. (a) Warehouse receipts and the corn represented thereby stored in approved warehouses operating under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement may be subject to liens for warehouse handling and storage charges at not to exceed the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement rates from the date the corn is deposited in the warehouse for storage: Provided, That the warehouseman shall not be entitled to satisfy the lien by sale of the commodity when CCC is holder of the warehouse receipt.

(b) Where the date of deposit (the date of the warehouse receipt if the date of deposit is not shown) on warehouse receipts representing corn stored in warehouses operating under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement is on or before July 31, 1959, there shall be deducted in computing the amount of the loan or purchase price the storage charges per bushel as shown in the following table unless written evidence has been submitted with the warehouse receipt that all warehouse charges, except receiving and loading out charges, have been prepaid through the maturity date, July 31, 1959.

(c) Warehouse receipts and the corn represented thereby stored in approved warehouses operated by Eastern common carriers may be subject to liens for warehouse elevation (receiving and delivering) and storage charges from the date of deposit at rates approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission: Provided, That the warehouseman shall not be entitled to satisfy the lien by sale of the commodity when CCC is holder of the warehouse receipt. There shall be deducted in computing the amount of the loan or purchase price the amount of the approved tariff rate for storage (not including elevation) which will accumulate from the date of deposit through July 31, 1959, unless evidence has been submitted with the warehouse receipt that the storage charges have been prepaid. The county office shall request the CSS commodity office to determine the amount of such charges. Where the producer presents evidence showing that elevation charges have been prepaid, the amount of the storage charges to be deducted shall be reduced by the amount of the elevation charges prepaid by the producer.

§ 421.3145 Inspection of corn under purchase agreement—(a) Predelivery inspection. Where the producer has given written notice within the 30-day period prior to the loan maturity date of his intent to sell his corn stored in other than an approved warehouse under purchase agreement to CCC, the county office shall make an inspection of the corn within the 30-day period or as soon as possible thereafter but prior to delivery of the corn. The primary importance of this inspection is to discuss with the producer the condition of his corn and the method for making settlement for corn delivered. This predelivery inspection shall not be used for settlement. If the corn, on the basis of predelivery inspection, is determined to be eligible for delivery to CCC in accordance with § 421.3138 or if the corn appears to be ineligible for delivery and the producer insists upon making delivery, the county office will issue delivery instructions on or after the final date of the 30-day period or the date of inspection, whichever is later. The producer must then complete delivery within a 15-day period immediately following the date the county office issues delivery instructions, unless the county office determines that more time is needed for delivery. A predelivery inspection shall not be made on corn stored commingled in warehouses not approved for storage or on corn in an unapproved warehouse which is stored so that the identity of the producer's corn is maintained but a predelivery inspection is not possible.

(b) Inspection of corn stored by producer after maturity date. The producer may be required to retain corn under purchase agreement which is stored in other than approved warehouse storage for a period of 60 days after the loan maturity date without any cost to CCC. CCC will not assume any loss in quantity or quality of the corn covered by a purchase agreement occurring prior to delivery to CCC, except for quality deterioration under the following circumstances: If a producer has properly requested delivery instructions for corn which was determined to be of an eligible grade and quality at the time of the predelivery inspection, and CCC cannot accept delivery within the 60-day period following the loan maturity date, the producer may notify the county office at any time after such 60-day period that the corn is going out of condition or is in danger of going out of condition. Such notice must be confirmed in writing. If the county office determines that the corn is going out of condition or is in danger of going out of condition and that the corn cannot be satisfactorily conditioned by the producer, and delivery cannot be accepted within a reasonable length of time, the county office shall obtain an inspection and grade and quality determination. When delivery is completed, settlement shall be made on the basis of such grade and quality determination or on the basis of the grade and quality determination made at the time of delivery, whichever is higher, and on the basis of the quantity actually delivered.

§ 421.3146 Settlement—(a) Settlement value—(1) Farm-storage loans. In the case of corn delivered to CCC under farm-storage loans grading No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only but otherwise grading No. 3 or better, settlement shall be made at the applicable support rate for the county in which the corn was produced. The support rate shall be for the grade and quality of the total quantity of corn eligible for delivery subject to premiums and discounts shown in the "Schedule of Premiums and Discounts" in 1958 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, Supplement 2, Corn. The settlement value of corn which upon delivery grades below No. 3 (except for corn which grades No. 4 on test weight only, but otherwise No. 3 or better) shall be the applicable basic county support rate without reference to any premiums or discounts less the difference, if any, at the time of delivery, between the market price of corn grading No. 3 (without any premiums or discounts for the factor of moisture) and the market price of the corn delivered, as determined by CCC: Provided, however, That if such corn is sold by CCC in order to determine its market price the settlement value shall not be less than such sales price: And provided further, That if upon delivery the corn contains mercurial compounds or other substances poisonous to man or animals, such corn shall be sold for seed (in accordance with applicable State seed laws and regulations), fuel or industrial uses where the end product will not be consumed by man or animals, and the settlement value shall be the same as the sales price, except that if CCC is unable to sell such corn for the use specified above, the settlement value shall be the market value, as determined by CCC, as of the date of delivery.

(2) Warehouse-storage loans. Settlement for eligible corn under warehouse-storage loans not redeemed on maturity and represented by warehouse receipts issued by an approved warehouse shall be made on the basis of the weight, grade, and other quality factors shown on the warehouse receipts or accompanying documents at the applicable support rate for the county in which the corn was produced.

(3) Purchase agreements—(i) Delivery from farm storage. Settlement for corn delivered to CCC from farm storage and purchased by CCC under a purchase agreement shall be made on the basis of weight, grade, and other quality factors determined by a reinspection at the time of delivery. Settlement for eligible corn grading No. 3 or better, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only but otherwise No. 3 or better, and for corn of such grades bearing the special grade "Weevily" in addition to the numerical grade shall be made on the basis of the applicable basic county support rate for the county where produced and the "Schedule of Premiums and Discounts" contained in the 1958 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, Supplement 2, Corn. Settlement for eligible corn grading No. 4 on the basis of factors other than test weight, for eligible corn grading No. 5, and for eligible corn of such grades bearing the special grade "Weevily" in addition to the numerical grade, shall be computed at the applicable basic county support rate without reference to any premiums or discounts, less the difference, if any, at the time of delivery, between the market price for No. 3 corn (without any premiums or discounts for the factor of moisture) and the market price of the corn delivered, as determined by CCC: Provided, however, That if such corn is sold by CCC in order to determine its market price, the settlement value shall not be less than such sales price: And provided, further, That if, upon delivery, the corn contains mercurial compounds or other substances poisonous to man or animals, such corn shall be sold for seed (in accordance with applicable State seed laws and regulations), fuel or industrial uses where the end product will not be consumed by man or animals, and the settlement value shall be the same as the sales price, except that if CCC is unable to sell such corn for the use specified above, the settlement value shall be the market value, if any, as determined by CCC as of the date of delivery.

(ii) Delivery from approved warehouse storage. In the case of eligible corn stored commingled in an approved warehouse, the producer must, not later than the day following the loan maturity date, or during such period of time thereafter as may be specified by the county committee, submit to the office of county committee warehouse receipts under which the warehouseman guarantees quality and quantity for the quantity of corn the producer elects to sell to CCC. Settlement for eligible corn delivered under purchase agreement to CCC by submission of warehouse receipts issued by an approved warehouse shall be made on the basis of the weight, grade and other quality factors shown on the warehouse receipt or accompanying documents at the applicable support rate for the county in which the corn was produced.

(iii) Delivery from unapproved warehouse storage. Settlement for corn delivered to CCC which is stored in an unapproved warehouse, regardless of whether a predelivery inspection is performed, shall be the same as for corn delivered under a purchase agreement from farm storage as provided in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph.

(iv) Corn ineligible for delivery inadvertently accepted by CCC. The settlement provisions hereof shall apply to the following categories of corn ineligible for delivery which is inadvertently accepted by CCC and which CCC determines it is not in a position to reject: (a) Corn of an ineligible grade or quality which is delivered to CCC in excess of the maximum quantity stated in the purchase agreement; and (b) corn in other than approved warehouse storage which, at the time of delivery, does not meet the eligibility requirements of § 421.3138. The settlement value shall be the market price for the grade, quality, and quantity of such ineligible corn delivered as determined by CCC: Provided, however, That if such corn is sold by CCC in order to determine its market price, the settlement value shall not be less than the sales price: Provided further, That if upon delivery, the corn contains mercurial compounds or other substances poisonous to man or animals, the corn shall be sold for seed (in accordance with applicable State seed laws and requirements), fuel or industrial uses where the end product will not be consumed by man or animals and the settlement value shall be the same as the sales price: Provided further, That if CCC is unable to sell such corn for the use specified above, the settlement value shall be the market value, as determined by CCC as of the date of delivery. If corn delivered is of an eligible grade and quality but in excess of the maximum quantity stated in the purchase agreement and such corn is inadvertently accepted by CCC, the settlement value shall be the sales price if the corn is immediately sold. If the corn is not immediately sold, the settlement value shall be the applicable support rate if such rate has been established or the market price as determined by CCC, whichever is lower.

(b) Storage deduction for early delivery. No deduction for storage shall be made for farm-stored corn under loan or purchase agreement authorized to be delivered to CCC prior to the loan maturity date or such earlier delivery date as may be established by the State committee in accordance with § 421.3142 (d) except where it is necessary to call the loan by reason of the fault or negligence on the part of the producer or where the producer requests early delivery and the county committee approves early delivery and determines such early delivery is solely for the convenience of the producer. The deduction for storage shall be made in accordance with the schedule of deductions for warehouse charges in § 421.3144.

(c) Refund of prepaid handling charges. In case a warehouseman charges the producer for the receiving or the receiving and loading out charges on corn under loan or purchase agreement stored in a warehouse under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement, the producer shall, upon delivery of the corn to CCC, be reimbursed or given credit by the county office for such prepaid charges in an amount not to exceed the charges authorized under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement, provided the producer furnishes to the county office written evidence signed by the warehouseman that such charges have been paid.

(d) Storage payment where CCC is unable to take delivery of corn stored in other than an approved warehouse under loan or purchase agreement. The producer may be required to retain corn under loan or purchase agreement which is stored in other than an approved warehouse for a period of 60 days after the maturity date without any cost to CCC. The producer shall be paid a storage payment upon delivery of the corn to CCC if CCC is unable to take delivery of such corn within the 60-day period after maturity and in the case of corn under purchase agreement if the producer has properly given notice of his intention to sell the corn to CCC. The period for earning such storage payment shall begin the day following the expiration of the 60-day period after the maturity date and extend through the final date of delivery, or the final date for delivery as specified in the delivery instructions issued to the producer by the county office, whichever is earlier. The storage payment shall be computed at the rate of $0.00045 per bushel per day for the corn accepted for delivery or sale to CCC.

(e) Track-loading payment. A track-loading payment of 3 cents per bushel shall be made to the producer on corn delivered to CCC on track at a country point.

(f) Compensation for hauling. If the producer is directed by the county office to deliver his corn to a point other than his customary shipping point, he shall be allowed compensation (as determined by CCC at not to exceed the common carrier truck rate or the rate available from local truckers) for the additional cost of hauling the corn any distance greater than the distance from the point where the corn is stored by the producer to the customary shipping point.

(g) Method of payment under purchase agreement settlements. When delivery of corn under purchase agreement is completed, payment will be made by sight draft drawn on CCC by the county office. The producer shall direct, on Commodity Purchase Form 4, to whom payment of the proceeds shall be made.

Issued this 1st day of July 1958.

Executive Vice President,
Commodity Credit Corporation.

GENERAL

§ 727.930 Basis and purpose. Sections 727.930 to 727.962 are issued pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, the Agricultural Act of 1949 and the Agricultural Act of 1956, and govern the issuance of marketing cards for marketing and price support purposes, the identification of tobacco for purposes of marketing restrictions and price support, the collection and refund of penalties, and the records and reports incident thereto on the marketing of Maryland tobacco during the 1958-59 marketing year. Prior to preparing §§ 727.930 to 727.962, public notice (23 F. R. 2611) of their formulation was given in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003). The data, views, and recommendations pertaining to §§ 727.930 to 727.962, which were submitted have been duly considered within the limits permitted by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, and the Agricultural Acts of 1949 and 1956. Since county committees are now determining the acreage of tobacco on farms, and are preparing to issue marketing cards, and since farmers are engaged in harvesting tobacco and disposing of excess tobacco, and are marketing tobacco at nonwarehouse sale, it is hereby determined that compliance with the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act with respect to the effective date is contrary to the public interest. Sections 725.930 to 725.962 shall therefore become effective upon filing with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

The acreage of each kind of tobacco shall be determined by the county committee on the basis of seeding, cultivating, curing, and marketing practices commonly known to the area. Such determination shall include all acreage of tobacco on the farm. The production of the acreage of each kind of tobacco so determined shall be considered to be tobacco of the kind available for marketing until such time as the operator of the farm furnishes to the county committee satisfactory proof that a part or all of the production of such acreage has been classified pursuant to Part 29 of this title when marketed, as a different kind of tobacco. Any amount of tobacco so classified as a different kind shall be converted to acres on the basis of the average yield per acre of the entire acreage of tobacco grown on the farm in 1958 for the purpose of determining the harvested acreage of such kind of tobacco produced on the farm.

(3) Notwithstanding the foregoing definition of "tobacco" and the other provisions of §§ 727.930 to 727.962, inclusive, tobacco in hogsheads which at the close of business on September 30, 1956, was on such date physically in the State Tobacco Warehouse, Baltimore, Maryland, and which was produced prior to 1956, shall not be considered to be "tobacco" within the meaning of this subpart if the hogshead tobacco warehouseman has furnished a report to the ASC State committee showing the quantity of such tobacco and identifying symbols which identify each lot of such tobacco.

§ 727.933 Extent of calculations and rule of fractions—(a) Harvested acreage. The acreage of tobacco harvested on a farm in 1958 shall be expressed in hundredths and fractions of less than one-hundredth of an acre shall be dropped. For example, 4.550, 4.555 or 4.559 acres would be 4.55 acres.

(c) Converted rate of penalty. The amount of penalty per pound upon marketing of tobacco subject to penalty, hereinafter referred to as the "converted rate of penalty," shall be expressed in tenths of a cent and fractions of less than a tenth shall be dropped, except that if the resulting converted rate of penalty is less than a tenth of a cent, it shall be expressed in hundredths and fractions of less than a hundredth shall be dropped. For example, 3.68 cents per pound would be 3.6 cents, and 0.068 cents per pound would be 0.06 cent.

IDENTIFICATION AND LOCATION OF FARMS AND DETERMINATION OF ACREAGE

§ 727.934 Identification and location of farms. (a) Each farm as operated for the 1958 crop of tobacco shall be identified by a farm serial number assigned by the county office manager and all records pertaining to marketing quotas for the 1958 crop of tobacco shall be identified by such number.

(b) A farm shall be regarded as located in the county in which the principal dwelling is situated, or if there is no dwelling thereon, it shall be regarded as located in the county in which the major portion of the farm is located.

§ 727.935 Determination of tobacco acreage—(a) County committees. For the purpose of ascertaining with respect to each farm whether there is excess tobacco of the 1958 crop available for marketing, the county committee shall determine the acreage of tobacco on each farm in the county for which a 1958 tobacco acreage allotment has been established and on any other farms in the county on which the county committee has reason to believe tobacco was planted. The county committee's determination shall be based upon acreage and performance determined as provided in the applicable provisions of Part 718 of this chapter.

(b) Tolerance in measured acreage. For the purpose of §§ 727.930 to 727.962 inclusive and subject to the rule of fractions heretofore provided in § 727.933 (a), if the determination of the county committee of the planted or the harvested acreage of tobacco on a farm is in excess of the farm tobacco acreage allotment and the excess acreage is not more than the smaller of two percent of such acreage allotment or nine hundredths (0.09) of an acre, in either case the planted or harvested acreage of tobacco on such farm shall be deemed to be the same acreage as the tobacco acreage allotment established for such farm: Provided, That if the determination of the county committee of the planted or harvested acreage of tobacco on any farm is in excess of the farm tobacco acreage allotment by more than the smaller of two percent of such acreage allotment or nine hundredths (0.09) of an acre, all such planted or harvested acreage of tobacco in excess of the farm tobacco acreage allotment as determined by the county committee shall be tobacco acreage in excess of the allotment.

(c) Notice to farm operators. The county committee shall notify the farm operator of the measured acreage of tobacco on each farm as determined under the provisions of this section.

(d) Harvested acreage of tobacco. The acreage of tobacco determined or redetermined for a farm by the county committee pursuant to this section shall be the harvested acreage of tobacco for the farm for the purpose of issuing the correct marketing card for the farm as provided in § 727.938 unless the farm operator furnishes to the county committee satisfactory proof that a portion of the acreage planted will not be harvested or that a representative portion of the production of the acreage physically harvested will be disposed of other than by marketing, in which case the harvested acreage shall be the acreage as adjusted by taking into account the portion of the acreage planted which will not be harvested or the portion of the production of the acreage physically harvested which will be disposed of other than by marketing.

(e) Acreage not determined. If the farm operator or his representative prevents the county committee from obtaining information necessary to determine the correct acreage of tobacco on a farm, in addition to any other liability which might be imposed upon the operator, and until the farm operator or his representative permits a determination of the correct acreage, all acreage of tobacco on the farm shall be deemed to be in excess of the farm acreage allotment for the purpose of issuing a marketing card for the farm.

(f) Prior measurements. Measurements made prior to the effective date of this section, and in accordance with procedures then in effect may be utilized where pertinent for the purpose of ascertaining with respect to any farm, the 1958 tobacco acreage and the tobacco acreage in excess of the 1958 farm tobacco acreage allotment.

FARM MARKETING QUOTAS AND MARKETING CARDS

§ 727.936 Amount of farm marketing quota—(a) Actual production. The marketing quota for a farm shall be the actual production of tobacco on the farm acreage allotment, as established for the farm in accordance with §§ 727.911 to 727.928, 1023 (Maryland-58)–1, Maryland Tobacco Marketing Quota Regulations, 1958–59 (22 F. R. 4355, 4912, 8104, 23 F. R. 136). The actual production of the farm acreage allotment shall be the average yield per acre of the entire acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in 1958 times the farm acreage allotment.

(b) Excess production. The excess tobacco on any farm shall be (1) that quantity of tobacco which is equal to the average yield per acre of the entire acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in 1958 times the number of acres harvested in excess of the 1958 farm acreage allotment, plus (2) any excess carryover tobacco for the farm.

§ 727.938 Transfer of farm marketing quota. There shall be no transfer of farm marketing quotas except as provided in §§ 727.920 and 727.926 of the Maryland tobacco marketing quota regulations for determining acreage allotments and normal yields, 1958–59 marketing year.

§ 727.938 Marketing cards—(a) Issuance. A marketing card shall be issued for each farm having tobacco available for marketing. The kind of card to be issued for each farm shall be determined pursuant to the following paragraphs.

(b) Excess marketing card (MQ–77—Tobacco). The provisions of this paragraph govern the issuance of excess marketing cards for use in identifying marketings of 1958 crop tobacco except with respect to the issuance of marketing cards for the identification of tobacco grown for experimental purposes only, as provided in paragraph (d) (2) of this section.

(1) Excess marketing card showing full rate of penalty. An excess marketing card (ineligible for price support loans) showing the full rate of penalty determined pursuant to § 727.947 (a) shall be issued for a farm in any case:

(i) Where tobacco is harvested in 1958 from a farm for which no 1958 acreage allotment was established, or

(ii) Where tobacco is harvested in 1958 from a farm and the farm operator or his representative prevents the county committee or its representative from obtaining information necessary to determine the correct acreage of tobacco on the farm.

(2) Excess marketing card showing converted rate of penalty or zero penalty. An excess marketing card (ineligible for price support loans) showing the extent to which marketings of 1958 crop tobacco from a farm are subject to penalty, determined as provided in § 727.944 (including zero penalty) shall be issued in any case:

(i) Where tobacco is harvested in 1958 from a farm in excess of the farm acreage allotment therefor, or

(ii) Where tobacco is produced in 1958 on newly irrigated or drained land which was not used for the production of tobacco prior to May 28, 1956, and which is within any Federal irrigation or drainage project (as defined in Section 211 of the Agricultural Act of 1956) authorized on or after May 28, 1956; or where tobacco is produced on land reclaimed by a flood-control project authorized on or after May 28, 1956; or where tobacco is produced on land owned by the Federal Government in violation of the provisions of a lease restricting the production of tobacco.

(3) Excess marketing cards showing zero penalty only. An excess marketing card (ineligible for price support loans) showing zero penalty only shall be issued under the following conditions:

(i) If more than one kind of tobacco is produced on a farm in 1958, a zero penalty excess marketing card shall be issued for each kind of tobacco produced thereon for which the harvested acreage is not in excess of the farm acreage allotment therefor if at the time of issuing marketing cards for the farm the harvested acreage of any kind of tobacco is in excess of the farm acreage allotment for such kind of tobacco; or

(ii) For any kind of tobacco produced on a farm in 1958, the acreage of which is in excess of the farm acreage allotment therefor and the operator or any other producer on the farm fails to file with the county ASC office a written request (with deposit to cover the cost as estimated by the county committee) to dispose of excess tobacco or to have a remeasurement made of the tobacco acreage within ten (10) days from the date of notice to the farm operator on Form CSS–595—Tobacco, Notice of Excess Tobacco Acreage, and the tobacco produced on the excess acreage is disposed of other than by marketing, in accordance with § 727.945, unless the county committee with the approval of a representative of the State committee, determines that failure to file such written request was due to circumstances beyond the control of the farm operator or producer, or

(iii) For any kind of tobacco physically harvested from a farm in 1958 from an acreage in excess of the acreage allotment for the farm and disposed of in accordance with § 727.945 (a) unless the county committee with the approval of a representative of the State committee determines that the acreage of tobacco was not measured, or remeasured as the case may be, in sufficient time to afford the farm operator an opportunity to dispose of the excess acreage prior to harvest.

(c) Excess marketing card (MQ–77—Tobacco) marked "carryover". An excess marketing card (ineligible for price support loans) marked "carryover", showing the extent to which marketings of carryover tobacco only from a farm are subject to penalty, determined pursuant to § 727.944 (b), shall be issued for a farm with respect to which there is carryover tobacco.

(d) Within quota marketing card (MQ–76—Tobacco). In any case where an excess marketing card is not required to be issued for use in identifying marketings of 1958 crop tobacco from a farm under paragraph (b) of this section, a within-quota marketing card (eligible for price support loan and marketing without penalty) shall be issued for such farm under the following conditions:

(1) If the harvested acreage of tobacco for the farm in 1958 is not in excess of the farm acreage allotment therefor.

(2) If the Director of a publicly owned Agricultural Experiment Station furnished to the ASC State office a list by counties showing the following information with respect to each kind of tobacco and farm on which tobacco is grown for experimental purposes only:

(i) Name and address of the publicly owned experiment station.

(ii) Name of the owner, and name of the operator if different from the owner of each farm on which tobacco is grown for experimental purposes only.

(iii) The amount of acreage of tobacco grown on each farm for experimental purposes only, and

(iv) A certification signed by the Director of the publicly owned agricultural experiment station to the effect that such acreage of tobacco was grown on each farm for experimental purposes only; the tobacco was grown under his direction; and the acreage on each plot was considered necessary for carrying out the experiment: Provided, however, That if the Director of a publicly owned agricultural experiment station does not furnish the information and certification as required above in this subparagraph, an excess marketing card showing zero penalty shall be issued for the purpose of identifying tobacco produced for experimental purposes only under the direction of such Director. The list required in this subparagraph shall be posted and kept available for public inspection in the ASC office of the county in which the farms included in the list are located.

(e) Stamping within quota marketing cards (MQ–76 to show producer indebtedness.) (1) If any producer on a farm is indebted to the United States and such indebtedness is listed on the county debt register, any within quota marketing card (MQ–76) issued for such farm in accordance with paragraph (d) of this section shall bear the notation "Indebted to U. S." on the front cover thereof and on the county office copy of each memorandum of sale, and the name of the debtor and the amount of the indebtedness shall be shown on the inside back cover of the marketing card: Provided, That if the producer named as debtor on the card objects to the issuance of or after issuance to the use of a within quota marketing card (MQ–76) bearing the notation and information of indebtedness to the United States thereon as provided in this subparagraph, an excess marketing card (ineligible for price support loans) showing "zero penalty" shall be issued for such farm. The acceptance and use of a within quota marketing card bearing a notation and information of indebtedness to the United States by the producer named as debtor on such card, shall constitute an authorization by such producer to any tobacco warehouseman to pay to the United States the price support advance due the producer to the extent of his indebtedness set forth on such card but not to exceed that portion of the price support advance remaining after deduction of usual warehouse and authorized price support charges and amounts due prior lien holders. The acceptance and use of a within quota marketing card bearing a notation and information of indebtedness to the United States shall not constitute a waiver of any right by the producer to contest the validity of such indebtedness by appropriate administrative appeal or legal action.

(2) Any marketing card may be stamped for the purpose of notifying warehousemen that the tobacco being marketed pursuant to such card is subject to a lien held by the United States.

(f) Replacing or issuing additional marketing cards. Subject to the approval of the county office manager or the State administrative officer as provided in § 727.939, two or more marketing cards may be issued for any farm for use in identifying marketings of (1) 1958 crop tobacco, or (2) carryover tobacco. Upon the return to the ASC issuing office of the marketing card after all of the memoranda of sale have been issued therefrom and before the marketing of tobacco from the farm has been completed, a new marketing card of the same kind, bearing the same name, information and identification as the used card shall be issued for the farm. A new marketing card of the same kind shall be issued to replace a card which has been determined by the State administrative officer or county office manager, who issued the card, to have been lost, destroyed or stolen.

§ 727.939 Persons authorized to issue marketing cards. (a) The State administrative officer shall be responsible for the issuance of marketing cards for the purpose of identifying tobacco grown for experimental purposes pursuant to the provisions of § 727.938 (d) (2).

(b) Except as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, the county office manager shall be responsible for the issuance of marketing cards for farms in the county.

(c) Each marketing card shall bear the actual or facsimile signature of either the State administrative officer or the county office manager who issues the card. The facsimile signature may be affixed by an employee of the ASC State office or of the ASC county office as the case may be.

§ 727.940 Rights of producers in marketing cards. Each producer having a share in the tobacco available for marketing from a farm shall be entitled to the use of the marketing card issued for the farm for marketing his proportionate share.

§ 727.941 Successors in interest. Any person who succeeds in whole or in part to the share of a producer in the tobacco available for marketing from a farm shall, to the extent to such succession, have the same rights as the producer to the use of the marketing card for the farm.

§ 727.942 Invalid cards. (a) A marketing card shall be invalid if:

(1) It is not issued or delivered in the form and manner prescribed;

(2) Entries are omitted or incorrect;

(3) It is lost, destroyed, stolen, or becomes illegible; or

(4) Any erasure or alteration has been made, and not properly initialed.

(b) In the event any marketing card becomes invalid (other than by loss, destruction or theft, or by omission, alteration or incorrect entry which cannot be corrected by a field assistant), the farm operator, or the person having the card in his possession, shall return it to the ASC county office at which it was issued.

(c) If any entry is not made on a marketing card as required, either through omission or incorrect entry, and the proper entry is made and initialed by a field assistant, then such card shall become valid.

§ 727.943 Report of misuse of marketing card. Any information which causes a field assistant, a member of a State, county, or community committee, or an employee of an ASC State or county office, to believe that any tobacco which actually was produced on one farm has been or is being marketed under the marketing card issued for another farm shall be reported immediately by such person to the ASC county or State office.

MARKETING OR OTHER DISPOSITION OF TOBACCO AND PENALTIES

§ 727.944 Extent to which marketings from a farm are subject to penalty. (a) Marketings of 1958 crop tobacco from a farm shall be subject to penalty by the percent excess determined as follows: Divide the acreage of tobacco harvested in 1958 in excess of the 1958 farm acreage allotment and not disposed of under § 727.945 by the total acreage of tobacco harvested from the farm in 1958.

(b) For the purpose of this paragraph, "excess carry-over tobacco" means a quantity of tobacco carried over from either or both the 1956 or 1957 crop which was produced and harvested on a farm in a crop year in which tobacco was produced and harvested from acreage in excess of the farm acreage allotment; and "within quota carry-over tobacco" means any quantity of carry-over tobacco which is not "excess carry-over tobacco". Marketings of carry-over tobacco from a farm shall be subject to penalty by the percent excess determined as follows:

(1) The percent excess for farms having within quota carry-over tobacco only from one or more year's crop will be zero.

(2) The percent excess for any farm having excess carry-over tobacco from either the 1956 crop or the 1957 crop, none of which has been offset by underharvesting the 1958 allotment, will be the same percentage as was determined in 1957 as applicable to the 1956 excess carry-over tobacco or the 1957 crop, whichever was the case, for the purpose of collecting penalties.

(3) Where the carry-over tobacco for a farm is from more than one year's crop, the percent excess for such farm having within quota carry-over tobacco, if any, and excess carry-over tobacco, none of which excess has been offset by underharvesting the 1958 allotment, will be determined as follows:

(i) The quantity of any excess carry-over tobacco from the 1956 crop will be multiplied by the percentage determined in 1957 as applicable to the 1956 excess carry-over tobacco for penalty collection purposes. The result so determined represents 100 percent excess poundage.

(ii) The quantity of any excess carry-over tobacco from the 1957 crop will be multiplied by the percentage determined in 1957 as applicable to the 1957 crop for penalty collection purposes. The result so determined represents 100 percent excess poundage.

(iii) Add the pounds of 100 percent excess poundage as may be determined under (i) and (ii) and divide the sum by the total of the pounds of within quota carry-over tobacco, if any, and the pounds of excess carry-over tobacco. The result is the percent excess.

(4) Where the carry-over tobacco for a farm is from one or more year's crop, the percent excess for such farm having within quota carry-over tobacco, if any, and excess carry-over tobacco, part or all of which excess has been offset by underharvesting in 1958, the 1958 allotment will be determined as follows:

(i) Multiply the 1958 underharvesting acreage (allotment minus harvested acreage) by the normal yield for 1958 to determine the pounds of 100 percent excess tobacco that could be absorbed by 1958 underharvesting.

(ii) The quantity of any excess carry-over tobacco from the 1956 crop will be multiplied by the percentage determined in 1957 as applicable to the 1956 excess carry-over tobacco for penalty collection purposes. The result so determined represents 100 percent excess poundage.

(iii) The quantity of any excess carry-over tobacco from the 1957 crop will be multiplied by the percentage determined in 1957 as applicable to the 1957 crop for penalty collection purposes. The result so determined represents 100 percent excess poundage.

(iv) Compute the sum of the pounds of 100 percent excess poundage by adding the results determined under (ii) and (iii).

(v) If the sum of the pounds of 100 percent excess poundage computed under (iv) does not exceed the pounds computed under (i), all carry-over tobacco is penalty free, and the percent excess is zero.

(vi) If the pounds computed under (iv) exceed the pounds computed under (i), the difference between such two poundage figures is the net amount of 100 percent excess poundage that was not absorbed. Such net amount of 100 percent excess poundage divided by the total of the pounds of within quota carry-over tobacco, if any, and the pounds of excess carry-over tobacco will result in the percent excess.

(c) For the purpose of determining the penalty due on each marketing by a producer of tobacco subject to penalty, the converted rate of penalty per pound shall be determined by multiplying the rate of penalty determined pursuant to § 727.947 by the percent excess obtained under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section. The memorandum of sale issued to identify each such marketing shall show the amount of penalty due.

§ 727.945 Disposition of excess tobacco. (a) The farm operator may elect to give satisfactory proof of disposition of excess tobacco prior to the marketing of any 1958 crop tobacco from the farm by furnishing to the county committee satisfactory proof that excess tobacco representative of the entire crop will not be marketed.

(b) If the 1958 harvested acreage is less than the 1958 allotment, an amount of excess carry-over tobacco from the farm calculated as provided in §727.944 (b) and not to exceed the normal production of the acreage by which the 1958 harvested acreage for the farm is less than the 1958 allotment may be marketed penalty free.

§ 727.946 Identification of marketings. Subject to paragraph (a) of this section, each marketing of tobacco from a farm shall be identified by an executed memorandum of sale from the 1958 marketing card (MQ–76—Tobacco or MQ–77—Tobacco) issued for the farm on which the tobacco was produced. In addition, as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, in the case of nonwarehouse sales, each marketing shall also be identified by an executed bill of nonwarehouse sale (reverse side of memorandum of sale). A separate memorandum from an excess marketing card marked "carry-over" issued for the farm shall be executed with respect to each marketing of tobacco produced prior to 1958, and the words "old crop" will be entered by the field assistant or warehouseman on each memorandum executed covering a warehouse sale or by a buyer on each bill of nonwarehouse sale executed to cover a nonwarehouse sale, with respect to a marketing of tobacco produced prior to 1958.

(a) Memorandum of sale and sale without marketing card. (1) If a memorandum of sale is not executed to identify a warehouse sale of producer's tobacco by end of the sale day on which the tobacco was marketed, the marketing shall be a suspended sale, and, unless a memorandum identifying the tobacco so marketed is executed on or before the last warehouse sale day of the marketing season, or within four weeks after the date of marketing, whichever comes first, the marketing shall be identified by MQ–82—Tobacco, Sale Without Marketing Card, as a marketing of excess tobacco. The memorandum of sale or MQ–82—Tobacco shall be executed only by a field assistant or other representative of the State administrative officer with the following exceptions:

(i) A warehouseman, or his representative, who has been authorized on MQ–78—Tobacco, may issue a memorandum of sale to identify a warehouse sale if a field assistant is not available at the warehouse when the marketing card is presented. Each memorandum of sale issued by a warehouseman to cover a warehouse sale shall be presented promptly by him to the field assistant for verification with the warehouse records.

(ii) A tobacco dealer who buys tobacco direct from farmers, who resells such tobacco through a hogshead tobacco warehouse, and who keeps records showing the information specified in § 727.954, and who has been authorized on MQ–78—Tobacco to issue memoranda of sale, may issue a memorandum of sale covering a purchase of such tobacco only if the bill of nonwarehouse sale has been executed. Such dealer may also execute MQ–82—Tobacco, where applicable, under the circumstances specified in this section.

(2) The authorization on MQ–78—Tobacco to issue memoranda of sale may be withdrawn by the State administrative officer from any or all persons so authorized if such action is determined to be necessary in order to properly enforce the provisions of §§ 727.930 to 727.962. The authorization shall terminate upon receipt of written notice setting forth the reason therefor.

(3) Each excess memorandum of sale issued by a field assistant shall be verified by a warehouseman or dealer (or his representative) to determine whether the amount of penalty shown to be due has been correctly computed and such warehouseman or dealer shall not be relieved of any liability with respect to the amount of penalty due because of any error which may occur in executing the memorandum of sale.

(b) Bill of nonwarehouse sale. (1) Each nonwarehouse sale shall be identified by a bill of nonwarehouse sale completely executed by the buyer and the farm operator, including the signature of each such person.

(2) Each bill of nonwarehouse sale covering any marketing (except as described under paragraph (a) (1) (ii) of this section) shall be presented to a field assistant for the issuance of a memorandum of sale and for recording in MQ–79—Tobacco.

§ 727.947 Rate of penalty. (a) The penalty per pound upon marketing of excess tobacco subject to marketing quotas shall be seventy-five (75) percent of the average market price (calculated to the nearest whole cent) for Maryland tobacco for the 1957–58 marketing year, as determined by the Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture. The rate of penalty per pound shall be calculated to the nearest whole cent.

(b) Proportional rate of penalty: With respect to tobacco marketed from farms having tobacco available for marketing in excess of the farm marketing quota, the penalty shall be paid upon that percentage of each lot of tobacco marketed which the tobacco available for marketing in excess of the farm marketing quota is of the total amount of tobacco available for marketing from the farm, as determined under § 727.944.

§ 727.948 Persons to pay penalty. The person to pay the penalty due on any marketing of tobacco subject to penalty shall be determined as follows:

(a) Warehouse sale. The penalty due on marketings by a producer through a warehouse shall be paid by the warehouseman who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the price paid to the producer.

(b) Nonwarehouse sale. The penalty due on tobacco purchased directly from a producer other than (1) by sale at public auction through a warehouse, or (2) by sale through a hogshead tobacco warehouse to a buyer other than the warehouseman, in the regular course of business, shall be paid by the purchaser of the tobacco who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the price paid to the producer.

(c) Marketings through an agent. The penalty due on marketings by a producer through an agent who is not a warehouseman shall be paid by the agent who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the price paid to the producer.

(d) Marketings outside the United States. The penalty due on marketings by a producer directly to any person outside the United States shall be paid by the producer.

§ 727.949 Marketings deemed to be excess tobacco. Any marketing of tobacco under any one of the following conditions shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco:

(a) Warehouse sale without memorandum of sale. Any warehouse sale of tobacco by a producer which is not identified by a valid memorandum of sale on or before the last warehouse sale day of the marketing season or within four weeks following the date of marketing whichever comes first, shall be identified by an MQ–82—Tobacco, and shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the warehouseman.

(b) Nonwarehouse sale. Any nonwarehouse sale which (1) is not identified by a valid bill of nonwarehouse sale (reverse side of memorandum of sale), and (2) is not also identified by a valid memorandum of sale and recorded in MQ–79—Tobacco within one week following the date of purchase, or, if purchased prior to the opening of the local auction markets (if the tobacco is not to be resold through a hogshead tobacco warehouse), is not identified by a valid memorandum of sale and recorded in MQ–79—Tobacco within one week following the first sale day of the local auction markets, shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the purchaser of such tobacco.

(c) Leaf account tobacco. The part or all of any marketing by a warehouseman which such warehouseman represents to be a leaf account resale but which when added to prior leaf account resales as reported under §§ 727.930 to 727.962 is in excess of prior leaf account purchases shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco unless and until such warehouseman furnishes proof acceptable to the State committee showing that such marketing is not a marketing of excess tobacco. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the warehouseman.

(d) Dealer's tobacco. The part or all of any marketing of tobacco by a dealer which such dealer represents to be a resale but which when added to prior resales by such dealer is in excess of the total of his prior purchases as reported on MQ–79—Tobacco shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco unless and until such dealer furnishes proof acceptable to the State committee showing that such marketing is not a marketing of excess tobacco. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the dealer.

(e) Marketings not reported. Any resale of tobacco which under §§ 727.930 to 727.962 is required to be reported by a warehouseman or dealer but which is not so reported within the time and in the manner required by §§ 727.930 to 727.962 shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco unless and until such warehouseman or dealer furnishes a report of such resale which is acceptable to the State administrative officer. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the warehouseman or dealer who fails to make the report as required.

(f) Marketings falsely identified by a person other than a producer. If any marketing of tobacco by a person other than the producer thereof is identified by a marketing card other than the marketing card issued for the farm on which such tobacco was produced, such marketing shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco and the penalty thereon shall be paid by such person.

(g) Producer marketings. (1) If any producer falsely identifies or fails to account for the disposition of any tobacco produced on a farm, an amount of tobacco equal to the normal yield of the number of acres harvested in 1958 in excess of the farm acreage allotment shall be deemed to have been marketed as excess tobacco from such farm. The penalty thereon for false identification or failure to account shall be paid by the producer and shall be due on the date of the false identification or failure to account. The filing of a report by a producer under § 727.952 (e) which the State committee finds to be incomplete or incorrect or the failure to file such a report as required by said regulations, shall constitute a failure to account for the disposition of tobacco produced on the farm.

(2) If, after part or all of the tobacco produced on a farm has been marketed, the State or county committee redetermines that the harvested acreage for the farm was more than that shown by the prior determination, and if the harvested acreage may not be deemed to be within the farm acreage allotment pursuant to paragraph (h) of this section, any penalty due on the basis of the harvested acreage as redetermined pursuant to § 725.935 shall be paid by the producer.

(h) Erroneous notice of measured acreage. If it is determined that the tobacco acreage on a farm is larger than the tobacco farm acreage allotment approved under § 727.927, such farm shall be deemed to have not exceeded its allotment if the county committee, with the approval of the State administrative officer, determines from the facts and circumstances that:

(1) The excess acreage was caused by reliance in good faith by the farm operator on an erroneous notice of measured acreage;

(2) Neither the farm operator nor any producer on the farm had actual knowledge of the error in time to adjust the excess acreage prior to completion of marketing of tobacco from the farm;

(3) The incorrect notice was the result of an error made by the performance reporter or by another employee of the county or State office in reporting, computing, or recording the tobacco allotment acreage for the farm;

(4) Neither the farm operator nor any producer on the farm was in any way responsible for the error; and

(5) The extent of the error in the notice was such that the farm operator would not reasonably be expected to question the acreage of which he was erroneously notified.

§ 727.950 Payment of penalty—(a) Date due. Penalties shall become due at the time the tobacco is marketed, except in the case of false identification or failure to account for disposition in which case penalty shall be due on the date of such false identification or failure to account for disposition. Penalty shall be paid by remitting the amount thereof to the ASC State office not later than the end of the calendar week following the week in which the tobacco became subject to penalty. A draft, money order, or check drawn payable to the Treasurer of the United States may be used to pay any penalty, but any such draft or check shall be received subject to payment at par.

(b) Warehouse sale; net proceeds. If the penalty due on any warehouse sale of tobacco by a producer as determined under §§ 727.930 to 727.962 is in excess of the net proceeds of such sale (gross amount for all lots included in the sale less usual warehouse charges), the amount of the net proceeds, accompanied by a copy of the warehouse bill covering such sale, may be remitted as the full penalty due. Usual warehouse charges shall not include (1) advances to producers, (2) charges for hauling, or (3) any other charges not usually incurred by producers in marketing tobacco through a warehouse.

(c) Nonwarehouse sale; converted penalty rate. Nonwarehouse sales, including sales of scrap tobacco, shall be subject to the converted rate of penalty for the farm on which the tobacco was produced without regard to the net proceeds of the sale.

§ 727.951 Request for return of penalty. Any producer of tobacco after the marketing of all tobacco available for marketing from the farm and any other person who bore the burden of the payment of any penalty may request the return of the amount of such penalty which is in excess of the amount required under §§ 727.930 to 727.962 to be paid. Such request shall be filed on MQ–85—Tobacco with the ASC county office within two (2) years after the payment of the penalty.

RECORDS AND REPORTS

§ 727.952 Producer's records and reports—(a) Report of tobacco acreage. The farm operator or any producer on the farm shall execute and file a report with the ASC county office or a representative of the county committee on Form CSS–578, Report of 1958 Acreage, showing all fields of tobacco on the farm in 1958. If any producer on a farm files or aids or acquiesces in the filing of any false report with respect to the acreage of tobacco grown on the farm, even though the farm operator or his representative refuses to sign such report, the allotment next established for such farm and kind of tobacco shall be reduced as provided in the Maryland tobacco marketing quota regulations for determining acreage allotments and normal yields, 1959–60 marketing year.

(b) Report on marketing card. The operator of each farm to whom a marketing card is issued in 1958 shall return to the ASC county office each marketing card issued for the farm whenever marketings from the farm are complete and in no event later than October 1, 1959. At the time the marketing card is returned to the ASC county office, there shall be shown on each such card the quantity of tobacco on hand, if any, including the crop year produced and its location. Failure to return the marketing card within fifteen (15) days after written request by certified mail from the county office manager shall constitute failure to account for disposition of tobacco marketed from the farm unless disposition of all tobacco marketed from the farm is accounted for as provided in paragraph (d) of this section.

(c) False identification. If tobacco was marketed or was permitted to be marketed in any marketing year as having been produced on the acreage allotment for any farm which in fact was produced on a different farm, the acreage allotment next established for both such farms and kind of tobacco shall be reduced, except that such reduction for any such farm shall not be made if the county and State committees determine that no person connected with such farm caused, aided, or acquiesced in such marketing, as provided in the Maryland tobacco marketing quota regulations for determining acreage allotments and normal yields, 1959–60 marketing year.

(d) Report of production and disposition. In addition to any other reports which may be required under §§ 727.930 to 727.962, the operator of each farm or any producer on the farm (even though the harvested acreage does not exceed the acreage allotment or even though no allotment was established for the farm) shall upon written request by certified mail from the State administrative officer, with fifteen (15) days after the deposit of such request in the United States mails, addressed to such person at his last known address, furnish the Secretary on Form MQ–108—Tobacco, a written report of the acreage, production, and disposition of all tobacco produced on the farm by sending the same to the ASC State office showing, as to the farm at the time of filing said report: (1) The number of fields (patches or areas) from which tobacco was harvested, the acres of tobacco harvested from each such field, and the total acreage of tobacco harvested from the farm, (2) the total pounds of tobacco produced, (3) the amount of tobacco on hand and its location, and (4) as to each lot of tobacco marketed, the name and address of the warehouseman, dealer, or other person to or through whom such tobacco was marketed and the number of pounds marketed, the gross price, and the date of the marketing. Failure to file the MQ–108 as requested, or the filing of a MQ–108 which is found by the State committee to be incomplete or incorrect shall constitute failure of the producer to account for disposition of tobacco produced on the farm and the allotment next established for such farm shall be reduced as provided in the Maryland tobacco marketing quota regulations for determining acreage allotments and normal yields, 1959–60 marketing year.

§ 727.953 Warehouseman's records and reports—(a) Record of marketings. (1) Each warehouseman shall keep such records as will enable him to furnish the ASC State office with respect to each warehouse sale of tobacco made at his warehouse the following information:

(i) The name of the operator of the farm on which the tobacco was produced and the name of the seller in the case of a sale by a producer, and in the case of a resale the name of the seller,

(ii) Date of sale.

(iii) Number of pounds sold.

(iv) Gross sale price.

(v) Amount of any penalty and the amount of any deduction on account of penalty from the price paid the producer(s); and in addition with respect to each individual basket or lot of tobacco constituting the warehouse sale the following information:

(vi) Name of purchaser.

(vii) Number of pounds sold.

(viii) Gross sale price.

(2) Records of all purchases and resales of tobacco by the warehouseman shall be maintained to show a separate account for:

(i) Nonwarehouse sales by farmers of tobacco purchased by or on behalf of the warehouseman.

(ii) Purchases and resales for the warehouse leaf account.

(iii) Resales of floor sweepings.

(iv) Resales of pick-ups (subparagraphs (1) and (2) of § 727.931 (p)).

(3) Any warehouseman or any other person who grades tobacco for farmers shall maintain records which will enable him to furnish the ASC office the name of the farm operator and the approximate amount of scrap tobacco obtained from the grading of tobacco from each farm.

(4) In the case of resales for dealers, the name of the dealer making each resale shall be shown on the warehouse records so that the individual lots of tobacco sold by the dealer can be identified.

(b) Identification of sale on check register (or ledger account in case of a sale through a hogshead tobacco warehouse). The serial number of sale issued to identify each warehouse sale by a producer or the serial number of the warehouse bill(s) covering each such sale shall be recorded on the check register or check stub for the check written with respect to such sale of tobacco (or on the ledger account in the case of a sale through a hogshead tobacco warehouse).

(c) Memorandum of sale and bill of nonwarehouse sale. A record in the form of a valid memorandum of sale or an MQ–82—Tobacco, Sale Without Marketing Card, shall be obtained by a warehouseman to cover each marketing of tobacco from a farm through the warehouse and each nonwarehouse sale of tobacco purchased by or for the warehouseman. For a nonwarehouse sale of tobacco purchased by or for a warehouseman, no memorandum of sale shall be issued unless the bill of nonwarehouse sale on the reverse side of the memorandum of sale is executed. Any warehouseman who obtains possession of any scrap tobacco in the course of grading tobacco from any farm shall obtain a bill of nonwarehouse sale and a memorandum of sale to cover the amount of such scrap.

(d) Suspended sale record. Any warehouse bills covering farm tobacco for which memoranda of sale have not been issued at the end of the sale day shall be presented to a field assistant who shall stamp such bills "suspended," write thereon the serial number of the suspended sale, and, if the warehouse is not a hogshead warehouse, record the bills on MQ–83—Tobacco, Field Assistant's Report: Provided, That if a field assistant is not available, the warehouseman may stamp such bills "suspended" and deliver them to a field assistant when one is available.

(e) Warehouse entries on dealer's record. Each warehouseman, other than a hogshead tobacco warehouseman, shall record on MQ–79—Tobacco the total purchases and resales made by each dealer or other warehouseman during each sale day at the warehouse and enter his initials in the space provided. If any tobacco resold by the dealer is tobacco bought by him from a crop produced prior to 1958, the entry on MQ–79—Tobacco shall clearly show such fact.

(f) Record and report of purchases and resales. Each warehouseman shall keep a record and make reports on MQ–79—Tobacco, Dealer's Record, showing:

(1) All purchases, by or for the warehouse, of tobacco directly from producers other than at public auction through a warehouse (nonwarehouse sales) (also including, in the case of a hogshead tobacco warehouseman, purchases at the hogshead tobacco warehouse by or for such warehouseman at auction from producers).

(2) All purchases and resales, by or for the warehouse, of tobacco at public auction through warehouses other than his own.

(3) All purchases, by or for the warehouse, of tobacco from dealers other than warehousemen and resales, by or for the warehouse, of tobacco to dealers other than warehousemen.

MQ–79—Tobacco shall be prepared and a copy forwarded to the ASC State office not later than the end of the calendar week following the week in which tobacco was purchased or resold.

(g) Season report of warehouse business. (1) Each warehouseman, other than a hogshead tobacco warehouseman, shall furnish the ASC State office not later than thirty (30) days following the last sale day of the marketing season a report on MQ–80—Tobacco, Auction Warehouse Report, showing:

(i) For each dealer or buyer, as originally billed, the total pounds and gross amount of tobacco purchased and resold on the warehouse floor;

(ii) The total pounds and gross amount of "loan tobacco" billed to any association;

(iv) The pounds and estimated value of all tobacco on hand at the time of filing the report and whether such tobacco represents leaf account tobacco, pick-ups (§ 727.931 (p) (1) or (2)), or floor sweepings;

(v) The total pounds and gross amount of all tobacco purchased directly from farmers other than at public auction through a warehouse; and

(vi) The total pounds and gross amount of all purchases over other warehouse floors or from dealers other than warehousemen, and all resales over other warehouse floors, or to dealers other than warehousemen. A hogshead tobacco warehouseman, also, shall report all leaf account tobacco purchased or sold and all floor sweepings and pick-ups sold, if any, through the warehouse.

(2) A hogshead tobacco warehouseman shall furnish the ASC State committee, not later than October 10, 1958, a report showing the producer's name (or the name of the dealer in the case of tobacco received from a dealer), hogshead number and pounds of tobacco in each hogshead received but which is on hand and unsold as of the close of business on September 30, 1958: Provided, that such report shall not include any tobacco which was previously reported as being on hand in such hogshead warehouse as of the close of business September 30, 1956.

(3) A hogshead tobacco warehouseman shall submit weekly reports (each such report to be submitted not later than the end of the calendar week following the week during which the transactions occurred) to the ASC State office including for each buyer who purchased tobacco (and any association to which any "loan" tobacco was consigned) through the warehouse during the week for which the report is submitted, a copy of the billout to the buyer (or association) together with the following:

(ix) A remittance of the penalty due as shown on all memoranda of sale and memoranda of sale without marketing card.

(x) Designation by the word "resale" and the name of the person reselling the tobacco entered on the bill-out for tobacco resold through the hogshead warehouse.

(h) Report of penalties. Each warehouseman, other than a hogshead to-

MQ–81—Tobacco shall be prepared for each week and forwarded together with remittance of the penalty due as shown thereon to the ASC State office not later than the end of the calendar week following the week in which the tobacco became subject to penalty.

MQ–86—Tobacco shall be prepared for each sale day and forwarded to the ASC State office not later than the end of the calendar week following the week in which the tobacco was resold.

(j) Additional records and reports by warehousemen. Each warehouseman shall keep such records and furnish such reports to the ASC State office in addition to the foregoing, as the State administrative officer may find necessary to insure the proper identification of the markings of tobacco and the collection of penalties due thereon as provided in §§ 727.930 to 727.962.

§ 727.954 Dealer's records and reports. Each dealer, except as provided in § 727.955 shall keep the records and make the reports as provided by this section.

(a) Report of dealer's name, address and registration number. Each dealer shall properly execute and the field assistant (or the dealer, if the tobacco is to be marketed through a hogshead tobacco warehouse) shall detach and forward to the ASC State office "Receipt for Dealer's Record" contained in MQ–79—Tobacco which is issued to the dealer.

(b) Record of marketings. Each dealer shall keep such records as will enable him to furnish the ASC State office with respect to each lot of tobacco purchased by him the following information:

(1) The name of the warehouse through which the tobacco was purchased in the case of a warehouse sale; the name of the operator of the farm on which the tobacco was produced and the name of the seller in the case of a nonwarehouse sale; and the name of the seller in the case of purchases directly from warehousemen or other dealers.

(c) Memorandum of sale and bill of nonwarehouse sale. (1) A bill of nonwarehouse sale and a memorandum of sale from the 1958 marketing card issued for the farm on which the tobacco was produced shall be obtained by a dealer to cover each purchase of tobacco directly from a producer other than at auction through a warehouse. No memorandum of sale shall be issued identifying such purchase unless the bill of nonwarehouse sale on the reverse side of the memorandum of sale has been executed.

(2) Any dealer who acquires scrap tobacco from any farm shall obtain a bill of nonwarehouse sale and a memorandum of sale to cover the amount of such scrap tobacco.

(d) Record and report of purchases and resales. Each dealer shall keep a record and make reports on MQ–79—Tobacco, Dealer's Record, showing all purchases and resales of tobacco made by or for the dealer and, in the event of a purchase or resale of tobacco bought from a crop produced prior to 1958, the fact that such tobacco was bought by him from a crop produced prior to 1958. § 727.955 Dealers exempt from regular records and reports. Any dealer or buyer who does not purchase or otherwise acquire tobacco except at warehouse sales, or directly from dealers other than warehousemen, and who does not resell in the form in which tobacco ordinarily is sold by farmers more than 10 percent of such tobacco so purchased by him shall not be subject to the provisions of § 727.954: Provided, however, That any such dealer or buyer who purchases tobacco at nonwarehouse sale, or from a warehouseman other than at warehouse sale shall be subject to the provisions of § 727.954 with respect to such purchases. Each such dealer or buyer shall make such reports to the State administrative officer, in addition to the foregoing, as he may find necessary to enforce §§ 727.930 to 727.962.

§ 727.956 Records and reports of truckers and persons redrying, prizing or stemming tobacco. (a) Each person engaged to any extent in the business of trucking or hauling tobacco for producers to a point where it may be marketed or otherwise disposed of in the form and in the condition in which it is usually marketed by producers shall keep such records as will enable him to furnish the ASC State office a report with respect to each lot of tobacco received by him showing:

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

PART 937—NECTARINES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA

EXEMPTION FROM INSPECTION

Pursuant to the Marketing Agreement and Order No. 37 (7 CFR Part 937; 23 F. R. 4616) regulating the handling of nectarines grown in California, effective June 25, 1958, under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), the Nectarine Administrative Committee, established under the aforesaid marketing agreement and order, has adopted rules and regulations, hereinafter set forth, to effectuate the provisions of the said marketing agreement and order.

It is hereby found and determined that the said rules and regulations are in accordance with the provisions of the said marketing agreement and order and will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act; and the said rules and regulations are hereby approved as follows:

§ 937.110 Exemption from inspection—(a) Minimum quantities. A handler may handle, exempt from the inspection and certification requirements prescribed under § 937.55 and the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section, nectarines totaling not more than 100 pounds, net weight, during any one day.

(b) Waivers. A handler may handle nectarines without inspection and certification, as prescribed under § 937.55, if all of the following applicable conditions are met:

(1) When the handler desires to ship on a day other than an announced Federal-State Inspection working day, a request for inspection is made to the Federal-State Inspection Service not later than 5:00 p. m. of the day before the nectarines will be available for inspection; or when the handler desires to ship on a Federal-State Inspection working day but later than the announced closing hour for inspection, a request is made to the Federal-State Inspection Service not later than 5:00 p. m. of the day on which the nectarines will be made available for inspection;

(2) The handler designates in such request the varieties of nectarines to be inspected, the approximate quantities by variety and the time when the nectarines will be available for inspection;

(3) The Federal-State Inspection Service furnishes the handler with a signed statement that it is not practicable, under such conditions for the Federal-State Inspection Service to make the inspection within the necessary time;

(4) The Federal-State Inspection Service furnishes the handler with the number of the waiver which will cover the nectarines for which inspection is being requested;

(5) The handler submits, or causes to be submitted, promptly to the Nectarines Administrative Committee such signed statement, and states, on the reverse side thereof, (i) the varieties of nectarines shipped without inspection, (ii) the quantity of each variety so shipped, (iii) the type of containers in which such fruit was packed, (iv) the date and hour when such shipment was made, (v) the car or truck license number of the carrier, and (vi) that all of the fruit so shipped complied with all grade and size, or minimum standards of quality or maturity, regulations applicable to such shipments;

(6) When instructed to do so, the handler plainly and conspicuously marks, stamps, stencils, prints, labels or brands one end of each container with the letter "W" and the waiver number which the Federal-State Inspection Service has assigned to the shipment or shipments. The letter "W" and the number shall not be less than one-half inch high in height; and

(7) Nothing contained in § 937.55 or in this paragraph shall prevent a handler from shipping nectarines without inspection during working hours of an announced Federal-State Inspection Service working day if (i) such handler requests inspection for such nectarines and the Federal-State Inspection Service furnishes such handler with a waiver number and a signed statement that it is not practicable to make the inspection requested, (ii) such handler submits, or causes to be submitted, promptly to the Nectarine Administrative Committee such statement together with a report concerning such shipments containing all of the information set forth in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph and (iii) such handler complies with the marking requirements set forth in subparagraph (6) of this paragraph.

It is hereby further found that it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date hereof until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.); and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective at the time hereinafter set forth, in that the time intervening between the date when information upon which the provisions hereof are based became available and the time such provisions must become effective in order to effectuate the declared purposes of the act is insufficient; shipments of nectarines are now being made and regulations are being issued simultaneously herewith, to become effective on July 5, 1958, at which time, unless otherwise provided, all shipments of nectarines will be subject to inspection and certification requirements under § 937.55; and this section relieves restrictions with respect to such inspection and certification requirements.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c)

Dated: July 2, 1958, to become effective at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., July 5, 1958.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that, as hereinafter set forth, the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective not later than the date hereinafter specified. A reasonable determination as to the supply of and the demand for, such nectarines must await the development of the crop thereof, and adequate information thereon was not available to the Nectarine Administrative Committee until the date hereinafter set forth on which an open meeting was held, after giving due notice thereof, to consider the need for, and the extent of, regulation of shipments of such nectarines. Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; shipments of the current crop of such varieties of nectarines are expected to begin on or about the effective date hereof; this section should be applicable to all such shipments in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act; the provisions of this section are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee; and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such nectarines and compliance with the provisions of this section will not require of handlers any preparation therefor which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof. Such committee meeting was held on June 28, 1958.

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., July 9, 1958, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., November 1, 1958, no handler shall handle any package or container of Sun Flame, Red Grand, or Grand Prize nectarines unless such nectarines grade at least U. S. No. 1; and,

(i) If the nectarines are packed in a No. 26 standard lug box, or in a No. 27 standard lug box, they are of a size that will pack, in accordance with the requirements of a standard pack, not more than 96 nectarines in the respective lug box; or

(ii) If the nectarines are packed in any container other than in a No. 26 standard lug box, or in a No. 27 standard lug box, ninety (90) percent, by count, of the nectarines measure not less than two and one-eighth (2⅛) inches in diameter.

(2) When used herein, "U. S. No. 1," "diameter," and "standard pack" shall have the same meaning as set forth in the United States Standards for Nectarines (§§ 51.3145 to 51.3159 of this title; 23 F. § 957.317 Limitation of shipments—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 98 and Order No. 57, as amended (7 CFR Part 957), regulating the handling of Irish poatoes grown in certain designated counties in Idaho and Malheur County, Oregon, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that (i) the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, (ii) more orderly marketing in the public interest, than would otherwise prevail, will be promoted by regulating the shipment of potatoes, in the manner set forth below, on and after the effective date of this section, (iii) compliance with this section will not require any preparation on the part of handlers which cannot be completed by the effective date, (iv) a reasonable time is permitted under the circumstances for such preparation, and (v) information regarding the committee's recommendations has been made available to producers and handlers in the production area.

(b) Order. (1) Except as otherwise provided in this section, during the period from July 7, 1958, through June 30, 1959, no handler shall ship potatoes of any variety unless such potatoes are generally "fairly clean," which means that at least 90 percent of such potatoes are "fairly clean," as such terms are defined in the United States Standards for Potatoes (§§ 51.1540 to 1559 of this title), and

(v) If they are of any other variety (including, but not being limited to the Russet Burbank variety), such potatoes meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 2, or better, grade, and are of 2 inches minimum diameter or 4 ounces minimum weight, size A, as such terms, grades, and sizes are defined in the United States Standards for Potatoes (§ 51.1540 to 51.1559 of this title), including the tolerances set forth therein.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this section, during the period from July 7, 1958, through June 30, 1959, no handler shall ship (i) any lot of potatoes of the Kennebec or White Rose variety if more than 25 percent of the potatoes in such lot have more than one-half of the skin missing or "feathered", as such terms are used in the said United States Standards, or (ii) any lot of potatoes of any other variety if such potatoes are more than "moderately skinned", as such term is defined in the said United States Standards, which means that not more than 10 percent of such potatoes have more than one-half of the skin missing or "feathered": Provided, That during such period, not to exceed a total of 50 hundredweight of each variety of such potatoes may be handled for any producer without regard to the aforesaid skinning requirements: Provided further, That in addition to such 50 hundred-weight of potatoes of any variety that may be handled without regard to said skinning requirements, any lot of potatoes may be handled for any producer without regard to such requirements if (a) such lot of potatoes previously failed, upon inspection by a Federal-State inspector, to meet grade and size requirements but met the aforesaid skinning requirements applicable to such lot of potatoes, (b) such lot of potatoes has been regraded, and such lot of potatoes otherwise meets, as indicated by a Federal-State inspection certificate, the grade and size requirement applicable to such potatoes, and (c) the potatoes failing to meet the aforesaid skinning requirements are not in excess of 100 hundredweight in any such lot. Prior to each shipment of potatoes exempt from the above skinning requirements, the handler thereof shall report to the committee the name and address of the producer of such potatoes, and each such shipment shall be handled as an identifiable entity.

(3) Each handler may make one shipment of not in excess of 5 hundredweight per week without regard to the regulatory, assessment, and inspection requirements of this part.

TURBINE-POWERED TRANSPORT CATEGORY AIRPLANES OF CURRENT DESIGN; SPECIAL CIVIL AIR REGULATION

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C. on the 2d day of July 1958.

On July 23, 1957, the Board adopted Special Civil Air Regulation No. SR-422 which sets forth airworthiness requirements applicable to the type certification and operation of turbine-powered transport category airplanes for which a type certificate is issued after August 27, 1957. Included in that regulation was a new set of performance requirements, with respect to which the Board indicated that consideration would be given to any changes found necessary as a result of further study and experience. The preamble to SR-422 contains the relevant considerations leading to its promulgation and is considered to provide the basic background for this regulation.

Since the adoption of SR-422, considerable study has been devoted to the new performance requirements by all interested parties. As a result of these studies and of further experience gained in the design, certification, and operation of turbine-powered airplanes, certain issues with respect to SR-422 require re-evaluation. This regulation reflects the resolution of most of the outstanding issues in the light of the best information presently available to the Board.

The following provisions of this regulation differ from, or are additional to, the provisions of SR-422: Introductory paragraph; item 1; §§ 4T.111 (c); 4T.112; 4T.114 (b), (b) (1), (b) (4), and (c); introductory paragraph of 4T.116; 4T.116 (b), (c), (e), and (g); 4T.117; 4T.117a; 4T.119; 4T.120 (a), (a) (1), (b), (b) (1), (c), (c) (2), (c) (3), (d), and (d) (3); 4T.121 (a) and (b); introductory paragraph of 4T.122; 4T.122 (b), (f), and (g); 4T.123 (a) (1), (a) (2), (a) (3), and (b); 4T.743 (c); 40T.81 (b) and (c); 40T.82; 40T.83 (a) (2) (iii), (b) (2), and (b) (2) (ii); item 4; and item 5. With respect to the applicability of this regulation, experience with certification under SR-422 indicates that a lead time of about two months between the date of adoption of the regulation and the date of issuance of the type certificate should provide a reasonable period of time within which to show compliance with this regulation. In view of this, and in the interest of having uniform regulations applicable to most of the turbine-powered airplanes, it is considered advisable to have this regulation apply to all such airplanes for which a type certificate is issued after September 30, 1958. Turbine-powered transport category airplanes for which a type certificate is issued on or prior to September 30, 1958, may comply with the provisions of this regulation in lieu of SR-422. If this option is exercised, it is intended that compliance be shown with all the provisions of this regulation and it is not intended to permit a showing of compliance with portions of this regulation and portions of SR-422.

The provisions of this regulation involve the following technical issues:

A substantive change is made by introducing an all-engines-operating take-off in establishing the take-off distance. Presently, the take-off distance is based only on a one-engine-out take-off. To insure that an adequate margin of safety will exist for day-in and day-out operations, the minimum take-off distance is being related to both the one-engine-inoperative distance now prescribed and to the distance with all engines operating, with a factor of 1.15 being applied to the latter.

There are also included important changes with respect to the speeds applicable to the take-off path. The provisions of SR-422 prescribe that the airplane shall be accelerated on or near the ground to the speed V_2. This provision has been subject to varying interpretations having a marked difference in effect on the resultant level of performance. The issue in this matter is whether or not the airplane should be permitted to lift off the runway at some speed below V_2. Because of the increased acceleration of turbine-powered airplanes, the tendency to overshoot the lift-off speed will be greater than on piston-engine airplanes and this tendency increases with the reduction in weight of the airplane. To restrict lift-off to the minimum take-off safety speed V_2 would unduly extend the take-off distance in cases where such overshooting of speed occurs. Such a restriction would be unnecessarily conservative and would not reflect realistic take-off procedures. For these reasons this regulation permits the airplane to lift off the ground at a speed lower than the V_2 speed, but prescribes certain limiting conditions. The lift-off speed is related to a rotational speed V_R which must not be less than 95 percent of the minimum V_2 speed and must be 10 percent greater than a speed at which no hazardous characteristics are displayed by the airplane, such as a relatively high drag condition or a ground stall. The V_2 speed has been re-defined to take into account the increment in speed arising from overshoot tendencies. Under the new definition, the minimum V_2 speed corresponds with the minimum take-off safety speed as now defined in SR-422. With respect to the take-off path, the V_2 speed is required to be attained prior to reaching a height of 35 feet above the take-off surface and thus is related to the selection of the rotational speed. Further, there is a revision which requires V_2 to be maintained as close as practicable at a constant value from the 35-foot point to a height of 400 feet above the take-off surface. This speed is the speed at which the prescribed minimum take-off gradients must be met.

There is introduced in this regulation the concept of unbalanced take-off field lengths. SR-422 does not preclude unbalancing of field lengths, provided that the unbalancing is within the length of the runway. Other countries have employed unbalancing with respect to so-called "stop-ways" and "clearways." It appears that United States operators ultimately will find it advantageous to resort to the use of unbalancing, but probably not to the same extent as practiced in other countries. On the premise that only clearways will be utilized, the amendments have been formulated accordingly. Clearways, as defined herein, are areas not suitable for stopping the airplane in the event of an aborted take-off, but adequate to provide additional take-off distance for climb-out. To safeguard operations utilizing clearways, there is introduced the concept of a take-off run which operationally relates to the determination of the minimum runway length required. The take-off run is defined as the greater of the horizontal distances along the take-off path to a given point with one engine inoperative or with all engines operating, with a margin of 15 percent being added to the latter. The take-off run is measured from the beginning of take-off to a point equidistant between the point where the airplane lifts off and the point where a height of 35 feet is reached. The required runway length must not be less than the take-off run nor less than the accelerate stop distance.

According to the definition given, a clearway is subjected to the control of the airport authorities. It is not intended, however, that there be ownership by the airport authorities of the area in which the clearway lies. The objective for requiring control by the airport authorities is to insure that no flight will be initiated using a clearway unless it is determined with certainty that no movable obstacle will exist within the clearway when the airplane flies over.

It is anticipated that the introduction of clearways will offer further possibilities of increasing the utility of existing airport facilities in this country. When such areas can be integrated into existing facilities, economical benefits will accrue to the community and the operators. In addition, since clearways are presently available at some of the airports in other countries, United States operators will have the opportunity of taking advantage of such facilities.

There are included changes with respect to the prescribed minimum altitude of 1,000 feet relative to the take-off path and to the one-engine-inoperative and two-engine-inoperative requirements applicable to the vicinity of the airport. Heretofore, the Civil Air Regulations have incorporated the reference altitude of 1,000 feet in respect of performance criteria over the airport. Obscure as is the significance of this altitude operationally, the altitude of 1,500 feet has worldwide precedent of being used as the altitude above the airport at which, generally, IFR approaches are initiated and go-around procedures executed. For this reason, the changes made extend the take-off path to a minimum altitude of 1,500 feet and make this altitude applicable to the prescribed performance criteria above the airport for the one- and two-engine-inoperative en route requirements. It is not anticipated that these changes will create any problem with respect to the en route stages of flight; however, it is realized that a further extension of the take-off path might add to the problem of obtaining accurate data on obstacles relatively distant from the airport. The Board finds that the extension of the flight path to 1,500 feet is warranted in light of the operational significance of this altitude and because of the extended flight paths will provide more fully for adequate terrain clearance at the end of the take-off path.

There is included a change with respect to the take-off path whereby the take-off flight path is established as starting from a 35-foot height at the end of the take-off distance and a net take-off flight path is prescribed for operational use. This latter change is for consistency with the specification of net flight paths for the en route stages of flight and to simplify determination of obstacle clearances operationally. The net flight path is specified to be the actual flight path diminished by a gradient of 1.0 percent. It is intended that the net flight path be obtained from the gross flight path by simple geometric means.

The change in the altitude from 1,000 to 1,500 feet previously mentioned, as well as a re-evaluation in other respects of some of the climb gradients in SR-422, justify certain changes. The gradients of 1.4 and 1.8 applicable to the take-off path and the final take-off climb are being reduced to 1.2 and 1.7 for two-engine and four-engine airplanes, respectively. In addition, the gradients of 1.4 and 1.8 in the one-engine-inoperative en route case are being reduced to 1.1 and 1.6, respectively.

Changes are made with respect ot the one-engine-inoperative take-off climb by interrelating more realistically the prescribed airplane configuration, weight, and power. These changes, in effect, permit meeting the prescribed gradients of climb at slightly higher airplane weights than would be possible under the presently effective provisions.

There is included a change to the provisions applicable to the one-engine-inoperative take-off climb with landing gear extended which increases the prescribed minimum gradient from substantially zero to 0.5 percent for four-engine airplanes. This change is made to attain consistency in the difference between gradients applicable to twins and fours.

Changes are incorporated in connection with the two-engine-inoperative en route requirement. Representations have been made that the gradient of 0.6 percent now prescribed is unduly conservative. On the other hand, it has been pointed out that the fuel requirements for this case are not realistically covered. Both of these contentions warrant consideration and changes are included which reduce the margin gradient from 0.6 to 0.5 percent, reduce the prescribed altitude from 5,000 to 2,000 feet, and require scheduling the flight so that there is sufficient fuel on board to reach the airport and subsequently to fly for 15 minutes at cruise power or thrust.

Changes are also made relative to the approach and landing stages of flight. There is a new provision which requires the establishment of procedures for the execution of missed approaches and balked landings. A question has been raised as to whether the speed limitation of 1.5 V_s applicable to the approach condition is realistically related to the normal day-in and day-out landing procedures. To insure that it will be so related, it is required that the speed used for demonstrating the approach climb be established consistent with the landing procedures, but that it not exceed 1.5 V_s. In addition, the approach gradient of 2.8 percent prescribed for four-engine airplanes is being reduced to 2.7 percent to obtain consistency in the differences between gradients applicable to twins and fours.

A change is made to the "all-engines-operating landing climb" provisions which now require a 4.0 percent gradient of climb in the landing configuration. On the premise that requiring the landing configuration during the climb after a balk is unduly conservative, consideration was given to a proposal to permit showing of compliance with the 4.0 percent gradient of climb in the configuration which would exist 5 seconds after the initiation of the climb. Further study of this proposal indicated that such a rule would tend to introduce complications in design and lead to less favorable operating procedures which ultimately would not contribute to safety. One of the most important factors in connection with this configuration is the response of the engines to throttle movement. Therefore, there is a provision which requires that the power used in showing compliance with the climb gradient be that power or thrust attained 8 seconds after initiation of movement of the power controls to the take-off position from the minimum flight idle position. In addition, for consistency with the procedures used for determining the landing distance, the speed limitation of 1.4 V_s is reduced to 1.3 V_s. Concern has been indicated to the effect that any reduction in the prescribed gradient of 4.0 percent might not insure in all cases the ability of the airplane to continue a safe climb after a balk. To provide a further safeguard, the take-off weight-altitude-temperature limitations (WAT limitations stemming from the application of the one-engine-inoperative take-off climb requirements) are being made applicable to the maximum landing weight at the airport of landing. In the past, the landing weight limitations were applicable to the airport of destination but not to the weather alternates. This regulation makes both the take-off weight and landing weight limitations equally applicable to the airport of destination and the weather alternates. In view of the aforementioned changes, a reduction of the required climb gradient from 4.0 to 3.2 percent is justified and included in this regulation.

In addition to the substantive changes which have been discussed, there are three significant changes of a clarifying nature. The first deals with the determination of the landing distance as affected by devices or means other than wheel brakes. There is included a provision similar to the one applicable to the accelerate-stop distance for application to the landing distance. This provision permits the use of means other than wheel brakes in the determination of the landing distance. Additionally, there is a change to the provision which requires in some cases the determination of the landing distance with one engine inoperative. It is believed that the new requirement expresses the intent more clearly. One of the more obvious applications of this provision is in respect of turbo-propeller airplanes. Such airplanes usually are landed with the propellers in a relatively high drag position. If one of the engines becomes inoperative, its propeller would be expected to be in a relatively low drag position with the consequence of a longer landing distance than with all engines operating. In such a case it is required that the landing distance be determined with one engine inoperative unless use could be made by the crew of other means (e. g., reverse thrust not otherwise considered in determining the landing distance) which would reduce the landing distance at least to that determined for all-engine operation.

The second clarification being included deals with the provision setting forth the procedures which must be included in the Airplane Flight Manual. This provision in SR–422 does not make clear what procedures are involved and whether the procedures are considered to be limitations on the operation of the airplane. The clarification in language specifies that the procedures which are included with the performance limitations shall be considered only as guidance material.

The third clarification concerns the applicability of the performance limitations prescribed in SR–422. These consist of the "certificate limitations" and the "operating limitations." The former relate to maximum take-off and landing weights, minimum take-off distances, accelerate-stop distances, and the operational limits imposed upon the airplane. These limitations, being part of the conditions of the type and airworthiness certificates, must be complied with at all times irrespective of the type of operation being conducted (e. g., air carrier, private, cargo). The "operating limitations," distinct from the "certificate limitations," are only applicable when required by the operating parts of the regulations (Parts 40, 41, and 42 require compliance for passenger operations). Although it appeared that previous Board pronouncements regarding this general principle as well as the explanation contained in the preamble to SR–422 would make the issue quite clear, it has come to the Board's attention that there is still some misunderstanding of this matter. Apparently this misunderstanding stems from the fact that SR–422 prescribes operating rules for air carrier operations which contain both the "certificate limitations" and the "operating limitations" while no prescription is given to non-air-carrier operations; thus giving an impression that not even the "certificate limitations" are applicable to non-air-carriers. The inclusion of "certificate limitations" for air carrier operations with the "operating limitations" was meant only to provide the operators with the convenience of having together the complete prescription of the applicable performance limitations, notwithstanding that such an inclusion, in fact, duplicates the general requirement of compliance with the "certificate limitations" contained in the Airplane Flight Manual. In view of the possible misunderstanding which might exist from the aforementioned inclusion, there are included in this regulation the same "certificate limitations" for application to all operations under the provisions of Part 43 of the Civil Air Regulations.

In addition, other changes of a minor nature are included herein, the most significant of which is the generalization of the stall speed V_s, eliminating reference to V_{s_0} and V_{s_1}.

Of the changes to SR–422 made in this regulation, there are a number which might require further consideration as studies continue and as additional experience is gained with the application of these new rules. Several of these involve new concepts with which U. S. operators have had little or no experience. These entail the requirements relative to unbalanced field lengths with respect to clearways, to the rotational speed, and to the all-engine take-off distance. Strong representation has been made to the Board to the effect that the numerical factors applicable to the aforementioned rules are too high and should be reduced pending further experience. The Board considers that it would not be in the public interest to reduce any of these factors until such time as further experience indicates that they are in fact overly conservative. Realizing, however, that these issues are of considerable importance in prescribing a practicable level of performance, the Board stands ready to reconsider the relevant provisions of this regulation at such time as substantiating information is received.

There are areas other than those previously mentioned where additional refinement of details may be advisable. This is so particularly in the case of the requirements pertaining to the landing stage of flight, to the take-off lateral clearances, and to the two-engine-inoperative en route gradient margin. It is anticipated that, after further study of the regulation and especially after its application in the design, certification, and operation of forthcoming turbine-powered airplanes, the desirability of changes may become more apparent. It is the intent of the Board to consider without delay such changes as might be found necessary. Only after the provisions of this Special Civil Air Regulation are reasonably verified by practical application will the Board consider incorporating them on a more permanent basis into Parts 4b, 40, 41, 42, and 43 of the Civil Air Regulations.

This Special Civil Air Regulation is not intended to compromise the authority of the Administrator under § 4b.10 to impose such special conditions as he finds necessary in any particular case to avoid unsafe design features and otherwise to insure equivalent safety.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this regulation (23 F. R. 2139), and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby makes and promulgates the following Special Civil Air Regulation, effective July 2, 1958.

Contrary provisions of the Civil Air Regulations notwithstanding all-turbine-powered transport category airplanes for which a type certificate is issued after August 27, 1957, shall comply with Special Civil Air Regulation No. SR–422 or, alternatively, with the following provisions, except that those airplanes for which a type certificate is issued after September 30, 1958, shall comply with the following provisions:

1. The provisions of Part 4b of the Civil Air Regulations, effective on the date of application for type certificate; and such of the provisions of all subsequent amendments to Part 4b, in effect prior to August 27, 1957, as the Administrator finds necessary to insure that the level of safety of turbine-powered airplanes is equivalent to that generally intended by Part 4b.

2. In lieu of §§ 4b.110 through 4b.125, and 4b.743 of Part 4b of the Civil Air Regulations, the following shall be applicable:

PERFORMANCE

4T.110 General. (a) The performance of the airplane shall be determined and scheduled in accordance with, and shall meet the minima prescribed by, the provisions of §§ 4T.110 through 4T.123. The performance limitations, information, and other data shall be given in accordance with § 4T.743.

(b) Unless otherwise specifically prescribed, the performance shall correspond with ambient atmospheric conditions and still air. Humidity shall be accounted for as specified in paragraph (c) of this section.

(c) The performance as affected by engine power and/or thrust shall be based on a relative humidity of 80 percent at and below standard temperatures and on 34 percent at and above standard temperatures plus 50° F. Between these two temperatures the relative humidity shall vary linearly.

(d) The performance shall correspond with the propulsive thrust available under the particular ambient atmospheric conditions, the particular flight condition, and the relative humidity specified in paragraph (c) of this section. The available propulsive thrust shall correspond with engine power and/or thrust not exceeding the approved power and/or thrust less the installation losses and less the power and/or equivalent thrust absorbed by the accessories and services appropriate to the particular ambient atmospheric conditions and the particular flight condition.

4T.111 Airplane configuration, speed, power, and/or thrust; general. (a) The airplane configuration (setting of wing and cowl flaps, air brakes, landing gear, propeller, etc.), denoted respectively as the take-off, en route, approach, and landing configurations, shall be selected by the applicant except as otherwise prescribed.

(b) It shall be acceptable to make the airplane configurations variable with weight, altitude, and temperature, to an extent found by the Administrator to be compatible with operating procedures required in accordance with paragraph (c) of this section.

(c) In determining the accelerate-stop distances, take-off flight paths, take-off distances, and landing distances, changes in the airplane's configuration and speed, and in the power and/or thrust shall be in accordance with procedures established by the applicant for the operation of the airplane in service, except as otherwise prescribed. In addition, procedures shall be established for the execution of balked landings and missed approaches associated with the conditions prescribed in §§ 4T.119 and 4T.120 (d), respectively. All procedures shall comply with the provisions of subparagraphs (1) through (3) of this paragraph.

(1) The Administrator shall find that the procedures can be consistently executed in service by crews of average skill.

(2) The procedures shall not involve methods or the use of devices which have not been proven to be safe and reliable.

(3) Allowance shall be made for such time delays in the execution of the procedures as may be reasonably expected to occur during service.

§ 4T.112 Stalling speeds. (a) The speed V_s shall denote the calibrated stalling speed or the minimum steady flight speed at which the airplane is controllable, in knots, with:

(1) Zero thrust at the stalling speed, or engines idling and throttles closed if it is shown that the resultant thrust has no appreciable effect on the stalling speed;

(2) If applicable, propeller pitch controls in the position necessary for compliance with subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; the airplane in all other respects (flaps, landing gear, etc.) in the particular configuration corresponding with that in connection with which V_s is being used;

(3) The weight of the airplane equal to the weight in connection with which V_s is being used to determine compliance with a particular requirement;

(4) The center of gravity in the most unfavorable position within the allowable range.

(b) The stall speed defined in this section shall be the minimum speed obtained in flight tests conducted in accordance with the procedure of subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(1) With the airplane trimmed for straight flight at a speed of 1.4 V_s and from a speed sufficiently above the stalling speed to insure steady conditions, the elevator control shall be applied at a rate such that the airplane speed reduction does not exceed one knot per second.

(2) During the test prescribed in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the flight characteristics provisions of § 4b.160 of Part 4b of the Civil Air Regulations shall be complied with.

4T.113 Take-off; general. (a) The take-off data in §§ 4T.114 through 4T.117 shall be determined under the conditions of subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(1) At all weights, altitudes, and ambient temperatures within the operational limits established by the applicant for the airplane.

(2) In the configuration for take-off (see § 4T.111).

(b) Take-off data shall be based on a smooth, dry, hard-surfaced runway and shall be determined in such a manner that reproduction of the performance does not require exceptional skill or alertness on the part of the pilot. In the case of seaplanes or float planes, the take-off surface shall be smooth water, while for skiplanes it shall be smooth dry snow. In addition, the take-off data shall be corrected in accordance with subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph for wind and for runway gradients within the operational limits established by the applicant for the airplane.

(1) Not more than 50 percent of nominal wind components along the take-off path opposite to the direction of take-off, and not less than 150 percent of nominal wind components along the take-off path in the direction of take-off.

(2) Effective runway gradients.

4T.114 Take-off speeds. (a) The critical-engine-failure speed V_1, in terms of calibrated air speed, shall be selected by the applicant, but shall not be less than the minimum speed at which controllability by primary aerodynamic controls alone is demonstrated during the take-off run to be adequate to permit proceeding safely with the take-off using average piloting skill, when the critical engine is suddenly made inoperative.

(b) The take-off safety speed V_2, in terms of calibrated air speed, shall be selected by the applicant so as to permit the gradient of climb required in § 4T.120 (a) and (b), but it shall not be less than:

(1) 1.2 V_s for two-engine propeller-driven airplanes and for airplanes without propellers which have no provisions for obtaining a significant reduction in the one-engine-inoperative power-on stalling speed;

(2) 1.15 V_s for propeller-driven airplanes having more than two engines and for airplanes without propellers which have provisions for obtaining a significant reduction in the one-engine-inoperative power-on stalling speed;

(3) 1.10 times the minimum control speed V_{MC}, established in accordance with § 4b.133 of Part 4b of the Civil Air Regulations;

(4) The rotation speed V_R plus the increment in speed attained in compliance with § 4T.116 (e).

(c) The minimum rotation speed V_R, in terms of calibrated air speed, shall be selected by the applicant, except that it shall not be less than:

(1) The speed V_1;

(2) A speed equal to 95 percent of the highest speed obtained in compliance with subparagraph (1) or (2), whichever is applicable, and with subparagraph (3) of paragraph (b) of this section;

(3) A speed which permits the attainment of the speed V_2 prior to reaching a height of 35 feet above the take-off surface as determined in accordance with § 4T.116 (e);

(4) A speed equal to 110 percent of the minimum speed above which the airplane, with all engines operating, can be made to lift off the ground and to continue the take-off without displaying any hazardous characteristics.

4T.115 Accelerate-stop distance. (a) The accelerate-stop distance shall be the sum of the following:

(1) The distance required to accelerate the airplane from a standing start to the speed V_1;

(2) Assuming the critical engine to fail at the speed V_1, the distance required to bring the airplane to a full stop from the point corresponding with the speed V_1.

(b) In addition to, or in lieu of, wheel brakes, the use of other braking means shall be acceptable in determining the accelerate-stop distance, provided that such braking means shall have been proven to be safe and reliable, that the manner of their employment is such that consistent results can be expected in service, and that exceptional skill is not required to control the airplane.

(c) The landing gear shall remain extended throughout the accelerate-stop distance.

4T.116 Take-off path. The take-off path shall be considered to extend from the standing start to a point in the take-off where a height of 1,500 feet above the take-off surface is reached or to a point in the take-off where the transition from the take-off to the en route configuration is completed and a speed is reached at which compliance with § 4T.120 (c) is shown, whichever point is at a higher altitude. The conditions of paragraphs (a) through (i) of this section shall apply in determining the take-off path.

(a) The take-off path shall be based upon procedures prescribed in accordance with § 4T.111 (c).

(b) The airplane shall be accelerated on the ground to the speed V_1 at which point the critical engine shall be made inoperative and shall remain inoperative during the remainder of the take-off. Subsequent to attaining speed V_1, the airplane shall be accelerated to speed V_2 during which time it shall be permissible to initiate raising the nose gear off the ground at a speed not less than the rotation speed V_R.

(c) Landing gear retraction shall not be initiated until the airplane becomes airborne.

(d) The slope of the airborne portion of the take-off path shall be positive at all points.

(e) The airplane shall attain the speed V_2 prior to reaching a height of 35 feet above the take-off surface and shall continue at a speed as close as practical to, but not less than, V_2 until a height of 400 feet above the take-off surface is reached.

(f) Except for gear retraction and propeller feathering, the airplane configuration shall not be changed before reaching a height of 400 feet above the take-off surface.

(g) At all points along the take-off path starting at the point where the airplane first reaches a height of 400 feet above the take-off surface, the available gradient of climb shall not be less than 1.2 percent for two-engine airplanes and 1.7 percent for four-engine airplanes.

(h) The take-off path shall be determined either by a continuous demonstrated take-off, or alternatively, by synthesizing from segments the complete take-off path.

(1) If the take-off path is determined by the segmental method, the provisions of subparagraphs (1) through (4) of this paragraph shall be specifically applicable.

(1) The segments of a segmental take-off path shall be clearly defined and shall be related to the distinct changes in the configuration of the airplane, in power and/or thrust, and in speed.

(2) The weight of the airplane, the configuration, and the power and/or thrust shall be constant throughout each segment and shall correspond with the most critical condition prevailing in the particular segment.

(3) The segmental flight path shall be based on the airplane's performance without ground effect.

(4) Segmental take-off path data shall be checked by continuous demonstrated take-offs to insure that the segmental path is conservative relative to the continuous path.

4T.117 Take-off distance and take-off run.—(a) Take-off distance. The take-off distance shall be the greater of the distances established in accordance with subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(1) The horizontal distance along the take-off path from the start of the take-off to the point where the airplane attains a height of 35 feet above the take-off surface, as determined in accordance with § 4T.116.

(2) A distance equal to 115 percent of the horizontal distance along the take-off path, with all engines operating, from the start of the take-off to the point where the airplane attains a height of 35 feet above the take-off surface, as determined by a procedure consistent with that established in accordance with § 4T.116.

(b) Take-off run. If the take-off distance is intended to include a clearway (see item 5 of this regulation), the take-off run shall be determined and shall be the greater of the distances established in accordance with subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(1) The horizontal distance along the take-off path from the start of the take-off to a point equidistant between the point where the airplane first becomes airborne and the point where it attains a height of 35 feet above the take-off surface, as determined in accordance with § 4T.116.

(2) A distance equal to 115 percent of the horizontal distance along the take-off path, with all engines operating, from the start of the take-off to a point equidistant between the point where the airplane first becomes airborne and the point where it attains a height of 35 feet above the take-off surface, as determined by a procedure consistent with that established in accordance with § 4T.116.

4T.117a Take-off flight path. (a) The take-off flight path shall be considered to begin at a height of 35 feet above the take-off surface at the end of the take-off distance as determined in accordance with § 4T.117 (a).

(b) The net take-off flight path data shall be determined in such a manner that they represent the airplane's actual take-off flight paths, determined in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section, diminished by a gradient of climb equal to 1.0 percent.

4T.118 Climb; general. Compliance shall be shown with the climb requirements of §§ 4T.119 and 4T.120 at all weights, altitudes, and ambient temperatures, within the operational limits established by the applicant for the airplane. The airplane's center of gravity shall be in the most unfavorable position corresponding with the applicable configuration.

4T.119 All-engine-operating landing climb. In the landing configuration the steady gradient of climb shall not be less than 3.2 percent, with:

(a) All engines operating at the power and/or thrust which is available 8 seconds after initiation of movement of the power and/or thrust controls from the minimum flight idle to the take-off position;

(b) A climb speed not in excess of 1.3 V_s.

4T.120 One-engine-inoperative climb—(a) Take-off; landing gear extended. In the take-off configuration existing at the point of the flight path where the airplane first becomes airborne, in accordance with § 4T.116 but without ground effect, the steady gradient of climb shall be positive for two-engine airplanes and shall not be less than 0.5 percent for four-engine airplanes, with:

(1) The critical engine inoperative, the remaining engine(s) operating at the available take-off power and/or thrust existing in accordance with § 4T.116 at the time retraction of the airplane's landing gear is initiated, unless subsequently a more critical power operating condition exists along the flight path prior to the point where the landing gear is fully retracted;

(2) The weight equal to the airplane's weight existing in accordance with § 4T.116 at the time retraction of the airplane's landing gear is initiated;

(3) The speed equal to the speed V_2.

(b) Take-off; landing gear retracted. In the take-off configuration existing at the point of the flight path where the airplane's landing gear is fully retracted, in accordance with § 4T.116 but without ground effect, the steady gradient of climb shall not be less than 2.5 percent for two-engine airplanes and not less than 3.0 percent for four-engine airplanes, with:

(1) The critical engine inoperative, the remaining engine(s) operating at the available take-off power and/or thrust existing in accordance with § 4T.116 at the time the landing gear is fully retracted, unless subsequently a more critical power operating condition exists along the flight path prior to the point where a height of 400 feet above the take-off surface is reached;

(2) The weight equal to the airplane's weight existing in accordance with § 4T.116 at the time the airplane's landing gear is fully retracted;

(3) The speed equal to the speed V_2.

(c) Final take-off. In the en route configuration, the steady gradient of climb shall not be less than 1.2 percent for two-engine airplanes and not less than 1.7 percent for four-engine airplanes, at the end of the take-off path as determined by § 4T.116, with:

(1) The critical engine inoperative, the remaining engine(s) operating at the available maximum continuous power and or thrust;

(2) The weight equal to the airplane's weight existing in accordance with § 4T.116 at the end of the take-off path;

(3) The speed equal to not less than 1.25 V_s.

(d) Approach. In the approach configuration such that the corresponding V_2 for this configuration does not exceed 110 percent of the V_2 corresponding with the related landing configuration, the steady gradient of climb shall not be less than 2.2 percent for two-engine airplanes and not less than 2.7 percent for four-engine airplanes with:

(1) The critical engine inoperative, the remaining engine(s) operating at the available take-off power and/or thrust;

(2) The weight equal to the maximum landing weight;

(3) A climb speed established by the applicant in connection with normal landing procedures, except that it shall not exceed 1.5 V_s (see § 4T.111 (c)).

4T.121. En route flight paths. With the airplane in the en route configuration, the flight paths prescribed in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section shall be determined at all weights, altitudes, and ambient temperatures within the limits established by the applicant for the airplane.

(a) One engine inoperative. The one-engine-inoperative net flight path data shall be determined in such a manner that they represent the airplane's actual climb performance diminished by a gradient of climb equal to 1.1 percent for two-engine airplanes and 1.6 percent for four-engine airplanes. It shall be acceptable to include in these data the variation of the airplane's weight along the flight path to take into account the progressive consumption of fuel and oil by the operating engine(s).

(b) Two engines inoperative. For airplanes with four engines, the two-engine-inoperative net flight path data shall be determined in such a manner that they represent the airplane's actual climb performance diminished by a gradient of climb equal to 0.5 percent. It shall be acceptable to include in these data the variation of the airplane's weight along the flight path to take into account the progressive consumption of fuel and oil by the operating engines.

(c) Conditions. In determining the flight paths prescribed in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, the conditions of subparagraphs (1) through (4) of this paragraph shall apply.

(1) The airplane's center of gravity shall be in the most unfavorable position.

(2) The critical engine(s) shall be inoperative, the remaining engine(s) operating at the available maximum continuous power and/or thrust.

(3) Means for controlling the engine cooling air supply shall be in the position which provides adequate cooling in the hot-day condition.

(4) The speed shall be selected by the applicant.

4T.122 Landing distance. The landing distance shall be the horizontal distance required to land and to come to a complete stop (to a speed of approximately 3 knots in the case of seaplanes or float planes) from a point at a height of 50 feet above the landing surface. Landing distances shall be determined for standard temperatures at all weights, altitudes, and winds within the operational limits established by the applicant for the airplane. The conditions of paragraphs (a) through (g) of this section shall apply.

(a) The airplane shall be in the landing configuration. During the landing, changes in the airplane's configuration, in power and/or trust, and in speed shall be in accordance with procedures established by the applicant for the operation of the airplane in service. The procedures shall comply with the provisions of § 4T.111 (c).

(b) The landing shall be preceded by a steady gliding approach down to the 50-foot height with a calibrated air speed of not less than 1.3 V_s.

(c) The landing distance shall be based on a smooth, dry, hard-surfaced runway, and shall be determined in such a manner that reproduction does not require exceptional skill or alertness on the part of the pilot. In the case of seaplanes or float planes, the landing surface shall be smooth water, while for skiplanes it shall be smooth dry snow. During landing, the airplane shall not exhibit excessive vertical acceleration, a tendency to bounce, nose over, ground loop, porpoise, or water loop.

(d) The landing distance shall be corrected for not more than 50 percent of nominal wind components along the landing path opposite to the direction of landing and not less than 150 percent of nominal wind components along the landing path in the direction of landing.

(e) During landing, the operating pressures on the wheel braking system shall not be in excess of those approved by the manufacturer of the brakes, and the wheel brakes shall not be used in such a manner as to produce excessive wear of brakes and tires.

(f) In addition to, or in lieu of, wheel brakes, the use of other braking means shall be acceptable in determining the landing distance, provided such braking means shall have been proven to be safe and reliable, that the manner of their employment is such that consistent results can be expected in service, and that exceptional skill is not required to control the airplane.

(g) If the characteristics of a device (e. g., the propellers) dependent upon the operation of any of the engines noticeably increase the landing distance when the landing is made with the engine inoperative, the landing distance shall be determined with the critical engine inoperative unless the Administrator finds that the use of compensating means will result in a landing distance not greater than that attained with all engines operating.

4T.123 Limitations and information—(a) Limitations. The performance limitations on the operation of the airplane shall be established in accordance with subparagraphs (1) through (4) of this paragraph. (See also § 4T.743.)

(1) Take-off weights. The maximum take-off weights shall be established at which compliance is shown with the generally applicable provisions of this regulation and with the take-off climb provisions prescribed in § 4T.120 (a), (b), and (c) for altitudes and ambient temperatures within the operational limits of the airplane (see subparagraph (4) of this paragraph).

(2) Landing weights. The maximum landing weights shall be established at which compliance is shown with the generally applicable provisions of this regulation and with the landing and take-off climb provisions prescribed in §§ 4T.119 and 4T.120 for altitudes and ambient temperatures within the operational limits of the airplane (see subparagraph (4) of this paragraph).

(3) Accelerate-stop distance, take-off distance, and take-off run. The minimum distances required for take-off shall be established at which compliance is shown with the generally applicable provisions of this regulation and with §§ 4T.115 and 4T.117 (a), and with 4T.117 (b) if the take-off distance is intended to include a clearway, for weights, altitudes, temperatures, wind components, and runway gradients, within the operational limits of the airplane (see subparagraph (4) of this paragraph).

(4) Operational limits. The operational limits of the airplane shall be established by the applicant for all variable factors required in showing compliance with this regulation (weight, altitude, temperature, etc.). (See §§ 4T.113 (a) (1) and (b), 4T.116, 4T.121, and 4T.122.)

(b) Information. The performance information on the operation of the airplane shall be scheduled in compliance with the generally applicable provisions of this regulation and with §§ 4T.117a (b), 4T.121, and 4T.122 for weights, altitudes, temperatures, wind components, and runway gradients, as these may be applicable, within the operational limits of the airplane (see subparagraph (4) of this section). In addition, the performance information specified in subparagraphs (1) through (3) of this paragraph shall be determined by extrapolation and scheduled for the ranges of weights between the maximum landing and maximum take-off weights established in accordance with subparagraphs (a) (1) and (a) (2) of this section. (See also § 4T.743.)

(1) Climb in the landing configuration (see § 4T.119);

(2) Climb in the approach configuration (see § 4T.120 (d));

(3) Landing distance (see § 4T.122).

AIRPLANE FLIGHT MANUAL

4T.743 Performance limitations, information, and other data—(a) Limitations. The airplane's performance limitations shall be given in accordance with § 4T.123 (a).

(b) Information. The performance information prescribed in § 4T.123 (b) for the application of the operating rules of this regulation shall be given together with descriptions of the conditions, air speeds, etc., under which the data were determined.

(c) Procedures. Procedures established in accordance with § 4T.111 (c) shall be given to the extent such procedures are related to the limitations and information set forth in accordance with paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section. Such procedures, in the form of guidance material, shall be included with the relevant limitations or information, as applicable.

(d) Miscellaneous. An explanation shall be given of significant or unusual flight or ground handling characteristics of the airplane.

3. In lieu of §§ 40.70 through 40.78, 41.27 through 41.36 (d), and 42.70 through 42.83, of Parts 40, 41, and 42 of the Civil Air Regulations, respectively, the following shall be applicable:

OPERATING RULES

40T.80 Transport category airplane operating limitations. (a) In operating any passenger-carrying transport category airplane certificated in accordance with the performance requirements of this regulation, the provisions of §§ 40T.80 through 40T.84 shall be complied with, unless deviations therefrom are specifically authorized by the Administrator on the ground that the special circumstances of a particular case make a literal observance of the requirements unnecessary for safety.

(b) The performance data in the Airplane Flight Manual shall be applied in determining compliance with the provisions of §§ 40T.81 through 40T.84. Where conditions differ from those for which specific tests were made, compliance shall be determined by approved interpolation or computation of the effects of changes in the specific variables if such interpolations or computations give results substantially equalling in accuracy the results of a direct test.

40T.81 Airplane's certificate limitations. (a) No airplane shall be taken off at a weight which exceeds the take-off weight specified in the Airplane Flight Manual for the elevation of the airport and for the ambient temperature existing at the time of the take-off. (See §§ 4T.123 (a) (1) and 4T.743 (a).)

(b) No airplane shall be taken off at a weight such that, allowing for normal consumption of fuel and oil in flight to the airport of destination and to the alternate airports, the weight on arrival will exceed the landing weight specified in the Airplane Flight Manual for the elevation of each of the airports involved and for the ambient temperatures anticipated at the time of landing. (See §§ 4T.123 (a) (2) and 4T.743 (a).)

(c) No airplane shall be taken off at a weight which exceeds the weight shown in the Airplane Flight Manual to correspond with the minimum distances required for take-off. These distances shall correspond with the elevation of the airport, the runway to be used, the effective runway gradient, and the ambient temperature and wind component existing at the time of take-off. (See §§ 4T.123 (a) (3) and 4T.743 (a).) If the take-off distance includes a clearway as defined in Item 5 of this regulation, the take-off distance shall not include a clearway distance greater than one-half of the take-off run.

40T.82 Take-off obstacle clearance limitations. No airplane shall be taken off at a weight in excess of that shown in the Airplane Flight Manual to correspond with a net take-off flight path which clears all obstacles either by at least a height of 35 feet vertically or by at least 200 feet horizontally within the airport boundaries and by at least 300 feet horizontally after passing beyond the boundaries. In determining the allowable deviation of the flight path in order to avoid obstacles by at least the distances prescribed, it shall be assumed that the airplane is not banked before reaching a height of 50 feet as shown by the take-off path data in the Airplane Flight Manual, and that a maximum bank thereafter does not exceed 15 degrees. The take-off path considered shall be for the elevation of the airport, the effective runway gradient, and for the ambient temperature and wind component existing at the time of take-off. (See §§ 4T.123 (b) and 4T.743 (b).)

40T.83 En route limitations—(a) One engine inoperative. No airplane shall be taken off at a weight in excess of that which, according to the one-engine inoperative en route net flight path data shown in the Airplane Flight Manual, will permit compliance with either subparagraph (1) or subparagraph (2) of this paragraph at all points along the route. The net flight path used shall be for the ambient temperatures anticipated along the route. (See §§ 4T.123 (b) and 4T.743 (b).)

(1) The slope of the net flight path shall be positive at an altitude of at least 1,000 feet above all terrain and obstructions along the route within 5 miles on either side of the intended track.

(2) The net flight path shall be such as to permit the airplane to continue flight from the cruising altitude to an alternate airport where a landing can be made in accordance with the provisions of § 40T.84 (b), the net flight path clearing vertically by at least 2,000 feet all terrain and obstructions along the route within 5 miles on either side of the intended track. The provisions of subdivisions (i) through (vii) of this subparagraph shall apply.

(i) The engine shall be assumed to fail at the most critical point along the route.

(ii) The airplane shall be assumed to pass over the critical obstruction following engine failure at a point no closer to the critical obstruction than the nearest approved radio navigational fix, except that the Administrator may authorize a procedure established on a different basis where adequate operational safeguards are found to exist.

(iii) The net flight path shall have a positive slope at 1,500 feet above the airport used as the alternate.

(iv) An approved method shall be used to account for winds which would otherwise adversely affect the flight path.

(v) Fuel jettisoning shall be permitted if the Administrator finds that the operator has an adequate training program, proper instructions are given to the flight crew, and all other precautions are taken to insure a safe procedure.

(vi) The alternate airport shall be specified in the dispatch release and shall meet the prescribed weather minima.

(vii) The consumption of fuel and oil after the engine becomes inoperative shall be that which is accounted for in the net flight path data shown in the Airplane Flight Manual.

(b) Two engines inoperative. No airplane shall be flown along an intended route except in compliance with either subparagraph (1) or subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(1) No place along the intended track shall be more than 90 minutes away from an airport at which a landing can be made in accordance with the provisions of § 40T.84 (b), assuming all engines to be operating at cruising power.

(2) No airplane shall be taken off at a weight in excess of that which, according to the two-engine-inoperative en route net flight path data shown in the Airplane Flight Manual, will permit the airplane to continue flight from the point where two engines are assumed to fail simultaneously to an airport where a landing can be made in accordance with the provisions of § 40T.84 (b), the net flight path having a positive slope at an altitude of at least 1,000 feet above all terrain and obstructions along the route within 5 miles on either side of the intended track or at an altitude of 2,000 feet, whichever is higher. The net flight path considered shall be for the ambient temperatures anticipated along the route. The provisions of subdivisions (i) through (iii) of this subparagraph shall apply. (See §§ 4T.123 (b) and 4T.743 (b).)

(i) The two engines shall be assumed to fail at the most critical point along the route.

(ii) The airplane's weight at the point where the two engines are assumed to fail shall be considered to be not less than that which would include sufficient fuel to proceed to the airport and to arrive there at an altitude of at least 1,500 feet directly over the landing area and thereafter to fly for 15 minutes at cruise power and/or thrust.

(iii) The consumption of fuel and oil after the engines become inoperative shall be that which is accounted for in the net flight path data shown in the Airplane Flight Manual.

40T.84 Landing limitations—(a) Airport of destination. No airplane shall be taken off at a weight in excess of that which, in accordance with the landing distances shown in the Airplane Flight Manual for the elevation of the airport of intended destination and for the wind conditions anticipated there at the time of landing, would permit the airplane to be brought to rest at the airport of intended destination within 60 percent of the effective length of the runway from a point 50 feet directly above the intersection of the obstruction clearance plane and the runway. The weight of the airplane shall be assumed to be reduced by the weight of the fuel and oil expected to be consumed in flight to the airport of intended destination. Compliance shall be shown with the conditions of subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph. (See §§ 4T.123 (b) and 4T.743 (b)).

(1) It shall be assumed that the airplane is landed on the most favorable runway and direction in still air.

(2) It shall be assumed that the airplane is landed on the most suitable runway considering the probable wind velocity and direction and taking due account of the ground handling characteristics of the airplane and of other conditions (i. e., landing aids, terrain, etc.). If full compliance with the provisions of this subparagraph is not shown, the airplane may be taken off if an alternate airport is designated which permits compliance with paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Alternate airport. No airport shall be designated as an alternate airport in a dispatch release unless the airplane at the weight anticipated at the time of arrival at such airport can comply with the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section, provided that the airplane can be brought to rest within 70 percent of the effective length of the runway.

4. In lieu of § 43.11 of Part 43 of the Civil Air Regulations, the following shall be applicable:

43T.11 Transport category airplane weight limitations. The performance data in the Airplane Flight Manual shall be applied in determining compliance with the following provisions:

(a) No airplane shall be taken off at a weight which exceeds the take-off weight specified in the Airplane Flight Manual for the elevation of the airport and for the ambient temperature existing at the time of the take-off. (See §§ 4T.123 (a) (1) and 4T.743 (a).)

(b) No airplane shall be taken off at a weight such that, allowing for normal consumption of fuel and oil in flight to the airport of destination and to the alternate airports, the weight on arrival will exceed the landing weight specified in the Airplane Flight Manual for the elevation of each of the airports involved and for the ambient temperatures anticipated at the time of landing. (See §§ 4T.123 (a) (2) and 4T.743 (a).)

(c) No airplane shall be taken off at a weight which exceeds the weight shown in the Airplane Flight Manual to correspond with the minimum distances required for take-off. These distances shall correspond with the elevation of the airport, the runway to be used, the effective runway gradient, and the ambient temperature and wind component existing at the time of take-off. (See §§ 4T.123 (a) (3) and 4T.743 (a).) If the take-off distance includes a clearway as defined in Item 5 of this regulation, the take-off distance shall not include a clearway distance greater than one-half of the take-off run.

5. The following definitions shall apply:

DEFINITIONS

Clearway. A clearway is an area beyond the airport runway not less than 300 feet on either side of the extended center line of the runway, at an elevation no higher than the elevation at the end of the runway, clear of all fixed obstacles, and under the control of the airport authorities.

Schechter Sales Associates, and Abraham Sturisky and Seymour Feldman, individuals and copartners trading as Allison's Company, or under any other trade name, their agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale or sale and distribution of candy, toys, or any other articles of merchandise in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from:

1. Selling or distributing, to jobbers or other dealers, candy and toys, or other merchandise, so packed and assembled that the sale of such candy, toys, or other merchandise to the general public are to be made, or are intended or designed to be made, by means of a lottery, gaming device or gift enterprise.

In the Matter of Sidney Fink and Jack Fink, individuals doing business as Major Brand Tube Co., Teltron Electric Co., Video Electric Co. and Solar Electronics

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission charging mail order sellers in Harrison, N. J., with representing falsely in advertisements in newspapers and other advertising media that all the receiving radio and television tubes listed in their advertisements were new, unused, and of first quality; that they tested and had tested all the tubes they sold; that the cathode-ray picture tubes they offered were new; and with failing to disclose in said advertisements, on cartons, on tubes, or in invoices or shipping memoranda, that some of their receiving tubes were used, factory seconds and rejects, or that the cathode-ray tubes contained used envelopes or shells.

Following acceptance of an agreement containing consent order, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist which became on June 7 the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent Sidney Fink, individually and doing business as Major Brand Tube Co., Teltron Electric Company, Video Electric Company, Solar Electronics, or under any other name, and respondent's representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of used tubes and factory rejects or seconds and cathode-ray tubes containing used parts in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from:

1. Representing, directly or by implication, that any used products or products containing used parts, are new;

2. Representing, directly or by implication, that any factory rejects or seconds are first-quality, provided, however, that nothing herein will prohibit respondent from representing the true or actual quality thereof;

3. Representing, directly or by implication, that respondent has tested said products, unless such is the fact;

4. Failing to clearly disclose with respect to tubes which are used or factory rejects or seconds, in advertising, on the cartons in which the tubes are packaged on invoices and shipping memoranda and on the tubes themselves, that such tubes are used or are factory rejects or seconds; or

5. Failing to clearly disclose in advertising, on the cartons in which they are packaged, on invoices and shipping memoranda and on such tubes themselves, that such cathode-ray tubes contain used envelopes or shells, or any other used parts, when such is the fact.

It is further ordered, That the complaint herein be, and the same hereby is, dismissed as to respondent Jack Fink.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the above-named respondents except respondent Jack Fink shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: June 6, 1958.

CHANGES IN FEES

Under the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (secs. 406 (b), 504, 604, 701, 706, 52 Stat. 1049, 1052, 1055, 1058; 21 U. S. C. 346 (b), 354, 364, 371, 376) and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (22 F. R. 1045), § 9.15 (a) of the regulations for color certification (21 CFR Part 9; 21 CFR, 1957 Supp., 9.15) is amended to read as follows:

§ 9.15 Fees. (a) (1) The fee for the services provided by the regulations in this part, in the case of each request for certification submitted in accordance with § 9.8 (b), shall be 16.5 cents per pound of the batch covered by such request; but no such fee shall be less than $110.00.

(2) The fees for the services provided under the regulations in this part in the case of each request for certification submitted in accordance with § 9.8 (c) or (d) shall be:

Weight of batch:	Fee
100 pounds or less	$6.60.
Over 100 pounds but not over 1,000 pounds.	$6.60 plus 4.4 cents for each pound in excess of 100 pounds.
Over 1,000 pounds	$46.20 plus 1.1 cent per pound for each pound in excess of 1,000 pounds.

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the promulgation of this order, and I so find, since the increases in fees are necessary in order to provide, equip, and maintain an adequate certification service for coal-tar colors under the applicable sections of the law. These changes were made necessary by increases in the cost of materials and equipment and the rise in salaries of personnel made mandatory by Public Law 85-462.

Effective date. This order shall become effective 30 days from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Subchapter B—Food and Food Products

PART 120—TOLERANCES AND EXEMPTIONS FROM TOLERANCES FOR PESTICIDE CHEMICALS IN OR ON RAW AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

TOLERANCES FOR RESIDUES OF INORGANIC BROMIDE RESULTING FROM FUMIGATION WITH METHYL BROMIDE

A petition was filed with the Food and Drug Administration by Dow Chemical Company, Midland, Michigan, requesting the establishment of tolerances for residues of inorganic bromides from fumigation with methyl bromide in or on raw agricultural commodities. The request for a tolerance on sweetpotatoes in that petition was subsequently withdrawn. A separate order has issued establishing the requested tolerance for strawberries.

The Secretary of Agriculture has certified that this pesticide chemical is useful for the purposes for which tolerances are being established.

After consideration of the data submitted in the petition and other relevant material which show that the tolerances established in this order will protect the public health, and by virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408 (d) (2), 68 Stat. 512; 21 U. S. C. 346a (d) (2)) and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (21 CFR 120.7 (g)), the regulations for tolerances for pesticide chemicals in or on raw agricultural commodities (21 CFR Part 120; 21 CFR, 1957 Supp., 120.123; 23 F. R. 4365) are amended by changing § 120.123 to include the commodities for which tolerances are being established in this order. As amended, § 120.123 reads as follows:

§ 120.123 Tolerances for residues of inorganic bromides resulting from fumigation with methyl bromide. Tolerances for residues of inorganic bromides (calculated as Br) in or on raw agricultural commodities that have been fumigated with methyl bromide are established as follows:

(a) 200 parts per million in or on almonds, brazil nuts, bush nuts, butternuts, cashew nuts, chestnuts, cottonseed, filberts (hazelnuts), hickory nuts, peanuts, pecans, pistachio nuts, walnuts.

(b) 100 parts per million in or on copra.

(c) 75 parts per million in or on potatoes, sweetpotatoes.

(d) 50 parts per million in or on alfalfa hay, barley, beans, beans (green), beans (lima), beans (snap), black-eyed peas, cipollini bulbs, cocoa beans, corn, garlic, grain sorghum (milo), oats, peas (with pods), rice, rye, sweet corn (determined on kernels plus cob with husk removed), wheat.

(e) 30 parts per million in or on beets, garden (roots), carrots (roots), citrus citron, cucumbers, grapefruit, horseradish, Jerusalem-artichokes, kumquats, lemons, limes, okra, oranges, parsnips (roots), peppers, pimentos, radishes, rutabagas, salsify roots, strawberries, sugar beets (roots), summer squash, tangelos, tangerines, turnips (roots), yams.

(f) 20 parts per million in or on apricots, cantaloups, cherries, eggplants, grapes, honeydew melons, mangoes, muskmelons, nectarines, onions, papayas, peaches, pineapples, plums (fresh prunes), pumpkins, tomatoes, watermelons, winter squash, zucchini squash.

(g) 5 parts per million in or on apples, pears, quinces.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may, at any time prior to the thirtieth day from the effective date thereof, file with the [1] New.

Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D. C., written objections thereto. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by this order, specify with particularity the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and reasonable grounds for the objections, and request a public hearing upon the objections. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof. All documents shall be filed in quintuplicate.

Effective date. This order shall be effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

NOTE: Copies of the forms mentioned in this part may be obtained upon request from the several Federal Reserve Banks.

§ 213.1 Definition of terms. When used in this part, the terms listed below shall have the following meaning, unless otherwise expressly stated:

(a) "Federal Taxes" shall mean (1) income taxes withheld by employers pursuant to section 3402 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954; (2) employer taxes under section 3111 of such Code and employee taxes withheld under section 3101 of such Code (Social Security employment taxes); (3) employer taxes under section 3221 of such Code and employee taxes withheld under section 3201 of such Code (Railroad Retirement taxes); and (4) certain Federal taxes specified in 26 CFR (1939) 477.2 (b) (Treasury Decision No. 6025) approved July 3, 1953.

(b) "Federal Reserve Bank" shall mean any of the several Federal Reserve Banks, as fiscal agent of the United States;

(c) "Depositary for Federal Taxes" shall mean a designated bank or trust company that has qualified, in accordance with the provisions of this part as originally published, or in its present form, to receive from employers deposits of Federal Taxes, as defined in paragraph (a) of this section, and unless otherwise expressly stated the word "depositary" when used in this part shall refer to a "Depositary for Federal Taxes".

(d) "Depositary receipt" shall mean (1) U. S. Treasury Department Forms 450 and 450-A (Rev. Feb. 1958)—"Federal Depositary Receipt", for use by employers in making deposits of withheld income taxes and Social Security employment taxes; (2) U. S. Treasury Department Form 515 (Rev. Feb. 1958)—"Railroad Retirement Depositary Receipt", for use by employers in making deposits of Railroad Retirement taxes; and (3) U. S. Treasury Department Forms 537 and 537-A (Rev. Feb. 1958)—"Depositary Receipt for Federal Excise Taxes", for use by taxpayers in making deposits of certain Federal excise taxes.

(e) "Employer" shall include any taxpayer required or permitted to deposit Federal excise taxes in the manner provided for in this part.

§ 213.2 Authorization of Federal Reserve Banks. Pursuant to the authority contained in section 6302 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 and the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, the several Federal Reserve Banks, in their capacity as fiscal agents of the United States, are hereby authorized and directed, subject to the provisions of this part, to receive from employers or other persons, hereinafter referred to as employers, deposits of Federal Taxes and to perform such other functions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury in connection with the handling and processing of such tax deposits. The functions to be performed by Federal Reserve Banks are outlined in § 213.9, and will be described in detail, together with the detailed procedure to be followed in performing the required functions, in instructions to the Federal Reserve Banks.

§ 213.3 Designation of banks which may be qualified to act as Depositaries for Federal Taxes. (a) Pursuant to the authority contained in section 6302 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, all insured incorporated banks, within the meaning of section 10 of the act of June 11, 1942, as amended, and all uninsured incorporated banks and trust companies designated as "Special Depositaries of Public Moneys" under the provisions of the act of Congress approved September 24, 1917, as amended, are hereby designated, subject to the provisions of this part, as depositaries and financial agents of the Government for receiving from employers deposits of Federal Taxes. No such bank or trust company shall perform any of the acts covered by this designation until it has qualified, in the manner prescribed in this part, to so act. Banks and trust companies that qualify for the purpose of receiving deposits of Federal Taxes from employers will be known as "Depositaries for Federal Taxes".

(b) Banking institutions which have heretofore been designated as depositaries for withheld income taxes, in accordance with the provisions of Part 213 of this subchapter or as depositaries and financial agents of the Government for the performance of certain classes of fiscal duties, will be required to qualify under the terms of this part in order to act as Depositaries for Federal Taxes. Banking institutions that have qualified as Depositaries for Federal Taxes, in accordance with the provisions of this part as originally published, 14 F. R. 7061, will not be required to requalify in accordance with the provisions of this part in its present form.

(c) Incorporated banks or trust companies located in the territories and insular possessions of the United States, which are not insured banks within the meaning of section 10 of the act of June 11, 1942, as amended, but which are otherwise eligible for designation as depositaries or financial agents of the United States, may be specifically designated by the Secretary of the Treasury under the act of June 19, 1922 (31 U. S. C. 473), governing depositaries outside of the continental United States, to act as Depositaries for Federal Taxes, upon qualification substantially in accordance with the provisions of § 213.4. Banks and trust companies located in the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii should transmit applications for such designation to the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, and banks and trust companies located in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the Panama Canal Zone should transmit applications for such designation to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

§ 213.4 Qualification of designated banks as Depositaries for Federal Taxes. Any designated bank or trust company which desires to qualify, under the terms of this part, for receiving from employers deposits of Federal Taxes without compensation for its services, should apply for qualification through the Federal Reserve Bank for the district in which it is located. Such application shall be made on Application-Agreement, Depositary for Federal Taxes (Form No. 469—Revised). Copies of this form and instructions regarding the application may be obtained from the Federal Reserve Bank. No designated bank, which has made application for qualification, shall act as a Depositary for Federal Taxes under the terms of this part until it receives from the Federal Reserve Bank notice of approval of the application. Upon receipt of such notice, each designated bank is hereby authorized to receive deposits of Federal Taxes from employers.

§ 213.5 Procedure to be followed by Depositaries for Federal Taxes. There are outlined below the basic requirements of the procedure that will be observed by qualified Depositaries for Federal Taxes with respect to deposits of Federal Taxes. More detailed instructions will be furnished such depositaries, through the Federal Reserve Banks.

(a) Depositaries shall accept from employers, who desire to make deposits of Federal Taxes with such depositaries, cash or remittances in the form of check, money order, etc., covering the amount of the Federal Taxes, accompanied by an appropriate depositary receipt form on which the employer has inscribed, by pen or by typewriter, his name, address, employer's identification number, and total amount of taxes. Depositaries will not be required to, but may at their own risk, accept from employers funds which are not immediately available to the depositary at the time of deposit. Depositaries shall not accept from employers any type of depositary receipt form, accompanying their remittances, other than the depositary receipt forms prescribed in this part. Depositaries shall not accept Treasury Savings Notes or other public debt securities of the United States as deposits of Federal Taxes under this part.

(b) If requested to do so by employers, depositaries will issue a memorandum or counter receipt to employers evidencing receipt of funds by the depositary. It is important that memorandum receipts issued by depositaries clearly state that employers must not attach such memorandum receipts to their tax returns as evidence of deposit of taxes, since only official depositary receipts, which have been validated by a Federal Reserve Bank, will be accepted by district directors of internal revenue. A suggested form of memorandum receipt, which shall be provided by the depositaries at their own expense, is shown as the appendix of this part.

(c) Depositaries shall place on each depositary receipt in the space provided on the face thereof: (1) The date on which the tax deposit was actually received by the depositary or its branches; and (2) the name and address of the depositary.

(d) Depositaries shall forward daily to the Federal Reserve Bank of their district the depositary receipts inscribed by and received from employers, together with payment in funds immediately available at the Federal Reserve Bank point or with advice that funds have been credited in the Treasury Tax and Loan Account of the depositary, covering the aggregate amount of all Federal Tax deposits received during that day. (Regulations governing deposits in Treasury Tax and Loan Accounts are contained in Part 203 of this subchapter.) Each transmittal will be accompanied by a transmittal letter in the form prescribed by the Federal Reserve Banks. It is important that the depositary receipts be forwarded daily in order that they may be validated by the Federal Reserve Bank and returned directly to the respective employers without delay, together with a blank depositary receipt for the employer's use in making his next deposit.

(e) Depositaries will establish, prior to transmittal to the Federal Reserve Bank, an adequate record of all deposits received from employers, so that the depositary will be able to identify deposits in the event depositary receipts are lost in shipment between depositaries and Federal Reserve Banks. For this purpose, it will only be necessary to maintain a record of the date of payment, the employer's identification number and the total amount of tax deposit; therefore, copies of memorandum receipts and copies of the depositary's transmittal letter, if individual deposits and employers' identification numbers are listed separately, could be used to provide the necessary information.

§ 213.6 Issuance of replacement receipts; inquiries from employers. (a) In the event a depositary receipt, which has been validated by a Federal Reserve Bank, is lost, stolen, or destroyed before it is forwarded to a district director of internal revenue with the employer's Federal tax return, the employer will be issued a replacement receipt upon proper application and submission of required evidence to the Federal Reserve Bank which validated the receipt. Such issuance of replacement receipts will be governed by requirements and procedure prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. Depositaries should instruct employers to execute "Application for issuance of Replacement Depositary Receipt", indicating thereon the type of taxes, the date and amount of deposit, employer's name, address, and identification number, and the serial number of the validated depositary receipt, and should indicate whether deposit was made with the Depositary for Federal Taxes or directly with the Federal Reserve Bank.

(b) In the event an employer makes inquiry of a depositary with respect to a deposit made with such depositary, for which he has not received a validated depositary receipt from the Federal Reserve Bank, the depositary should furnish the required information, stated in the preceding subsection, to the Federal Reserve Bank to enable it to investigate the matter.

(c) If a depositary receipt without the employer's identification number inscribed thereon is presented to a depositary by an employer when he makes his deposit of Federal Taxes, the depositary should request him to inscribe the identification number in the space provided. In the event the employer has not been assigned an employer's identification number, the depositary should nevertheless accept the deposit. If the employer has not made application for an identification number to the director of internal revenue for his district, the depositary should request him to do so.

§ 213.7 Termination of the qualification of a Depositary for Federal Taxes. The Secretary of the Treasury may terminate at any time the qualification of any Depositary for Federal Taxes. Failure upon the part of a depositary to comply with the provisions of this part, and any amendments or supplements thereof, or with instructions issued pursuant thereto, may, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, constitute grounds for termination of qualification. Likewise, any depositary may terminate its qualification upon formal notice to the Secretary of the Treasury, through the Federal Reserve Bank of its district.

§ 213.8 Treatment by district director of internal revenue of validated depositary receipts. (a) Deposits of Federal Taxes made by employers with Depositaries for Federal Taxes and Federal Reserve Banks shall be treated as payment of such taxes to district directors of internal revenue upon the filing of the employer's tax return and the presentation therewith to such district directors of properly executed and validated depositary receipts. District directors of internal revenue will treat all such depositary receipts as internal revenue collections and send them to the Federal Reserve Bank of the district in which the district director's head office is located. Each such transmittal shall be accompanied by an appropriate certificate which shall not include any items other than depositary receipts.

(b) In any case in which a depositary receipt is transmitted by a district director of internal revenue to a Federal Reserve Bank, and it is determined that the employer failed to pay to a depositary or a Federal Reserve Bank the amount stated thereon, the Federal Reserve Bank may return such item to the district director of internal revenue, under procedure prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

§ 213.9 Functions to be performed by Federal Reserve Banks. The functions to be performed by Federal Reserve Banks, as fiscal agents of the United States, with respect to Federal Taxes, will be prescribed in detailed instructions to such banks. The Federal Reserve Banks will perform such additional functions relating to the deposit of Federal Taxes as may be required from time to time by the Secretary of the Treasury. In general, Federal Reserve Banks will:

(a) Receive directly from employers deposits of Federal Taxes, accompanied by inscribed depositary receipts, and establish appropriate accounting control for such deposits. The requirements upon employers with respect to inscribing depositary receipts and use of the prescribed receipt forms described in § 213.5 (a) shall be applicable to tax deposits made directly with Federal Reserve Banks.

(b) Be responsible for the qualification of designated banks as Depositaries for Federal Taxes and for the general supervision of depositaries' operations under such qualification.

(c) Receive from depositaries remittances and inscribed depositary receipts, relating to tax deposits made with depositaries by employers, and establish appropriate accounting control for such tax deposits.

(d) Validate depositary receipts, relating to tax deposits made with depositaries, as well as directly with the Federal Reserve Bank, and return such validated receipts to employers, together with blank depositary receipt forms for use by the employers in making their next deposit of Federal Taxes.

(e) Perform the necessary functions to provide for crediting deposits of Federal Taxes in Treasury Tax and Loan Accounts of depositary banks, with respect to deposits of such taxes made by employers with banks acting in their capacity as Depositaries for Federal Taxes.

(f) Receive transmittals of validated depositary receipts from district directors of internal revenue for appropriate credit and clearance in the central accounts of the Treasury Department.

(g) Perform appropriate matching and auditing functions to verify that the tax deposits, represented by the depositary receipts transmitted by district directors of internal revenue, were previously received by the Federal Reserve Bank from depositaries or directly from employers.

(h) Issue replacement receipts, referred to in § 213.6, for validated depositary receipts which are lost, stolen or destroyed.

§ 213.10 Amendment or revocation of regulations in this part. The Secretary of the Treasury may revoke or amend any or all provisions of this part at any time or from time to time.

Chapter I—Internal Revenue Service, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter E—Alcohol, Tobacco, and Other Excise Taxes

[T. D. 6300]

PART 251—IMPORTATION OF DISTILLED SPIRITS, WINES, AND BEER

AMENDMENT TO IMPLEMENT THE PROVISIONS OF PUBLIC LAW 85-211

On April 1, 1958, a notice of proposed rule making with respect to the amendment of the regulations in 26 CFR Part 251 was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (23 FR 2129). The proposed amendments would conform regulations to the provisions of Public Law 85-211 relative to the importation of certain samples of alcoholic beverages free of internal revenue tax imposed on or by reason of importation.

In accordance with the notice, interested parties were afforded an opportunity to submit written data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto. No written comments were received within the period of 30 days prescribed in the notice, and the regulations so published are hereby adopted as set forth below.

In order to conform regulations to the provisions of Public Law 85-211 relative to the importation of certain samples of alcoholic beverages free of internal revenue tax imposed on or by reason of importation, 26 CFR Part 251 is amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. By inserting immediately following § 251.48 the following new undesignated centerhead and new section:

EXEMPTION OF CERTAIN SAMPLES FROM INTERNAL REVENUE TAXES

§ 251.49 Commercial samples of alcoholic beverages. Samples of distilled spirits, beer, and wine, to be used in the United States by persons importing alcoholic beverages in commercial quantities, are, subject to the limitations in this section, exempt from the payment of any internal revenue tax imposed on, or by reason of, importation. This exemption applies only to samples to be used for soliciting orders for products of foreign countries. In no case shall this exemption apply to more than one sample of each alcoholic beverage product admitted during any calendar quarter for the use of each such person. No sample of beer shall contain more than 8 ounces, no sample of wine shall contain more than 4 ounces, and no sample of distilled spirits shall contain more than 2 ounces.

PAR. 2. Section 251.74 is amended:

(A) By inserting ", other than those provided for in § 251.49," in the second sentence between the word "spirits" and the word "imported" so that the sentence will begin, "Samples of distilled spirits, other than those provided for in § 251.49, imported for any purpose • • •."

(B) By inserting the following new sentence between the present second and third sentences, "Samples of beer and wine brought into the United States pursuant to § 251.49 are exempt from the labeling requirements of the Federal Alcohol Administration Act and regulations issued thereunder."

(71 Stat. 486; 19 U. S. C. 1201)

Since the amendments made by Public Law 85-211 apply to articles entered for consumption or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption on or after October 17, 1957, the date on which the International Convention to Facilitate the Importation of Commercial Samples and Advertising Material came into force for the United States, these regulations are being made retroactively effective to that date pursuant to section 7805 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

TITLE 43—PUBLIC LANDS: INTERIOR

Chapter I—Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior

[Circular 2006]

PART 63—GRAZING

REIMBURSEMENT RIGHTS OF GRAZING LESSEE

On page 1602 of the FEDERAL REGISTER of March 6, 1958, there was published a notice of proposed rule making to issue regulations describing reimbursement rights of grazing lessees and the manner in which leased land may be acquired under the nonmineral public land laws applicable to Alaska. Interested persons were given 30 days within which to submit written comments, suggestions or objections with respect to the proposed regulations.

No comments or suggestions were submitted within the 30-day period. The proposed regulations are hereby adopted without change and are set forth below.

FRED A. SEATON,
Secretary of the Interior.

JUNE 30, 1958.

Section 63.21 (b) is revised to read as shown below, present § 63.22 is renumbered to be § 63.23, and a new § 63.22 is added to read as shown below.

§ 63.21 Removal of improvements and other property. • • •

(b) If all moneys due have been paid and the lessee, on or before the termination of his lease in whole or in part for any reason, notifies the manager of his determination to leave on the land involved in such termination improvements, the construction or maintenance of which has been authorized, no other person shall use or occupy, under any permit, lease or entry under any public land law, the land on which such improvements are located, until there has been paid to the person entitled thereto the value of such improvements. If the interested parties are unable to reach an agreement as to such value, the amount may be fixed by the manager. All such agreements, to be effective, must be approved by the manager. The failure of the subsequent permittee, lessee, or entryman to pay the former lessee in accordance with such agreement will be just cause for the cancellation of the permit, lease, or entry.

§ 63.22 Location, settlement, entry and other disposition of leased lands; determinations; preference rights. (a) Lands leased under the act are not subject to settlement, location, and acquisition under the nonmineral public land laws applicable to Alaska unless and until the authorized officer of the Bureau of Land Management determines that the grazing lease should be cancelled or reduced in order to permit, in the public interest and without undue interference with the grazing operations, the appropriate development and utilization of the lands (see § 63.18), and that the lands are suitable for and otherwise subject to the intended settlement, location, entry or acquisition.. An application on the appropriate form or a notice on Form 4-1154, if applicable to the class of entry contemplated, will be accepted and treated as a petition for determination. Upon such determination and after not less than 30 days' notice thereof to the lessee the grazing lease may be cancelled or reduced to permit the settlement, location, entry or other acquisition of the lands so eliminated from the lease, and the petitioner will be accorded a preference right to settle upon or enter the lands in accordance with the determination.

(b) Unless otherwise withdrawn therefrom, lands leased under the act are subject to disposition under the mineral leasing laws and to mineral prospecting, location, and purchase under the mining laws, in accordance with the applicable regulations of Parts 69, 70, 71, and 185 of this chapter.

§ 63.23 Appeals. An appeal may be taken from any decision of the manager to the Director, and from any decision of the Director to the Secretary, pursuant to the rules of practice (Part 221 of this chapter).

(Sec. 15, 44 Stat. 1455, as amended; 48 U. S. C. 471n)

Chapter II—Alaska Game Commission

PART 202—TRAPPING AND HUNTING LICENSES

SPECIAL BROWN AND GRIZZLY BEAR LICENSE

Basis and purpose. Subdivision M of section 10 of the Alaska Game Law of June 13, 1925, as amended (48 U. S. C. 199, Subdivision M), provides that in addition to the hunting, trapping, and fishing licenses or permits required by any other provisions of the Alaska Game Law, or by regulations authorized to be issued thereunder, the Alaska Game Commission may from time to time prescribe regulations requiring residents, nonresidents and aliens to obtain special licenses upon the payment of fees fixed by such regulations, prior to the taking of specified game or fur animals in specified areas.

By Notice of Proposed Rule Making published on May 28, 1958 (23 F. R. 3673), the public was notified that the Alaska Game Commission proposed to amend Part 163 of the regulations in order to establish a special license to be procured in addition to the regular hunting license when persons are engaged in hunting brown or grizzly bear in Wildlife Management Units. Interested persons were invited to submit their views, data, or arguments in writing to the Executive Officer, Alaska Game Commission, P. O. Box 2021, Juneau, Alaska, on or before June 30, 1958.

It is believed this amendment is desirable since these bear are a unique species, limited in number, and the privilege of taking them should not be conferred by the mere issuance of a general huntng license. Having given due consideration to all relevant matters presented in response to the Notice of Proposed Rule Making, former Part 163, now codified as Part 202, by reason of an editorial change published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on May 30, 1958 (23 F. R. 3779), is amended by adding a new § 202.2 reading as follows:

§ 202.2 Special brown and grizzly bear license. Any person, required by regulations made pursuant to the Alaska Game Law to possess a hunting license, shall be additionally required to possess a valid special brown and grizzly bear license prior to taking any brown or grizzly bear in Wildlife Management Units 1, 4 through 17 inclusive, and 19 through 26 inclusive. Such special license shall bear his signature written in ink on the face thereof, and he shall have such license on his person when taking brown or grizzly bear and shall produce it for inspection by any game management agent or other authorized person requesting to see it. The fee for the special brown and grizzly bear license shall be $10.00. Each application for a license shall be made on a form prescribed by the Commission and if the application be made by mail it shall be accompanied by a bank draft or an express or postal money order payable to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service for the amount of the license fee. The holder of any such license shall maintain a record on forms furnished by the Commission, disclosing information concerning the taking or attempted taking of brown or grizzly bear under such license and shall submit a report thereon in such form and at such times as may be specified by the Commission. The record required to be maintained for the purpose of making reports under this section shall be retained, by the person or persons responsible for their preparation and maintenance, for a period of 6 months following the expiration of the special bear license herein required.

(Sec. 10; 43 Stat. 744; 48 U. S. C. 199)

In accordance with the provisions of section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act of June 11, 1946, 60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003 (c) the foregoing amendment shall become effective 30 days following the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

CLARENCE J. RHODE,
Executive Officer,
Alaska Game Commission,
Juneau, Alaska.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G-13372]

UNITED FUEL GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

JULY 1, 1958.

Take notice that United Fuel Gas Company (Applicant), a West Virginia corporation with its principal place of business in Charleston, West Virginia, filed an application on October 7, 1957, as supplemented on April 3, 1958, for permission and approval to abandon certain natural gas facilities and for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of certain natural gas facilities pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant seeks:

(1) An order authorizing the abandonment and sale of its natural gas Storage Pool X-1, together with approximately 6 miles of transmission pipe line and appurtenances and 2 billion cubic feet of storage gas to Godfrey L. Cabot, Inc. (Cabot).

(2) A certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of measuring and regulating facilities to be used in connection with the abandonment and sale described in (1) above.

The above described property and facilities are located in the Poca District in Putnam County, West Virginia, approximately 15 miles northwest of Charleston, West Virginia.

The application states that on May 7, 1948, Applicant acquired from Cabot certain estates, rights and wells with appurtenant production and gathering facilities which were developed into a natural gas storage, known as Storage Pool X-1. Cabot reserved the right under certain circumstances to repurchase the storage pool at Applicant's actual cost, less 2½ percent per year physical property depreciation, along with the gas in said pool at 25 cents per Mcf. Cabot could also elect to receive during Applicant's operation of the storage pool 5 percent of all the gas withdrawn by Applicant.

The application further states by letter dated January 23, 1957, that Cabot exercised its right to repurchase Storage Pool X-1 and entered into an agreement with Applicant for a 5-year plan of transfer of the pool from Applicant to Cabot, effective May 1, 1957, when 19 percent is transferred.

The agreement of May 1, 1957, modifies the basic May 7, 1948, agreement in that it provides for a 5-year plan of transfer to Cabot for the reason that Cabot does not immediately need the entire capacity and deliverability of the storage and Applicant can efficiently use what Cabot does not need.

To effectuate the transfer as proposed herein, the parties entered into an operating agreement dated May 31, 1957, containing the following pertinent provisions:

(1) Delivery by United to Cabot of an executed deed to the properties on May 1, 1962, or as soon thereafter as Cabot has completed its payments to United.

(2) The operation of the storage by United during the period to May 1, 1962.

(3) Delivery of gas, during winter periods, to Cabot by United from United's system near Lanham compressor station into a new line to be constructed by Cabot.

(4) Delivery of gas, during summer periods, by Cabot to United from the new pipeline of Cabot, and by displacement, delivery of the gas into the storage pool by United.

(5) Sharing of the cost of operation and maintenance of the storage pool, compression charges and cost of metering and regulating equipment.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on August 26, 1958, at 9:30 a. m., e. d. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a non-contested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before July 24, 1958. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

Secretary.

EL PASO NATURAL GAS CO. ET AL.

NOTICE OF APPLICATIONS AND DATE OF HEARING

JULY 1, 1958.

In the Matter of El Paso Natural Gas Company, Docket No. G-13862; Shell Oil Company, Docket No. G-13876; Aztec Oil & Gas Company, Docket No. G-13946; Phillips Petroleum Company, Docket No. G-13963; Western Natural Gas Company, Docket No. G-13964; The Pure Oil Company, Docket No. G-14156;

General Petroleum Corporation, Docket No. G–14245; Davis Oil Company, Docket No. G–14361; The Carter Oil Company, Docket No. G–14369; Continental Oil Company, Docket No. G–14396; Sun Oil Company, Docket No. G–14403; The Ohio Oil Company, Docket No. G–14441; Pan American Petroleum Corporation, Docket No. G–14640; Three States Natural Gas Company, Docket No. G–14800; Reynolds Mining Corporation, Docket No. G–14834; Petro-Atlas Corporation, Docket No. G–15081; The Texas Company, Docket No. G–15153.

Take notice that on December 6, 1957, El Paso Natural Gas Company (El Paso), filed in Docket No. G–13862, an application [1] for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing the construction and operation of certain natural gas facilities in order to receive, process and transport a maximum average daily volume of 100,000 Mcf of natural gas from the Aneth Field Area of the Four Corners Region of Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona for resale for ultimate public consumption, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant, El Paso, proposes to construct and operate the following facilities:

(1) Approximately 13.3 miles of 20-inch and 62.6 miles of 16-inch pipeline extending from El Paso's proposed Aneth Gasoline Plant in San Juan County, Utah, southeast to a connection with its existing 24-inch San Juan-Gallup line at its San Juan Gasoline Plant in San Juan County, New Mexico.

(2) The Aneth Gasoline Plant, with an installed inlet capacity of 115,000 Mcf per day, to be located in the Aneth Field area, San Juan County, Utah. This plant is to be built in stages progressing from a capacity of 58,000 Mcf per day in 1959 to 86,000 Mcf per day in 1960 and to 115,000 Mcf per day in 1961.

(3) The 30,600 HP Aneth Compressor Station, to be located near the proposed Aneth Plant. The initial installation of 10,200 HP will be increased by additions of 6,800 HP in 1959, 1960 and 1961.

(4) The Aneth Gasoline Fractionating Plant, with a design capacity of 422,290 gallons per day.

(5) The Aneth Dehydration Plant, with an installed capacity of 96,000 Mcf per day.

(6) Approximately 102.3 miles of 4 to 30-inch field pipeline and related facilities.

(7) Various metering facilities, river crossings, structures and equipment.

(8) Wells for El Paso's own production in the area.

The gas would, during the first phase of development be transported through El Paso's proposed 13.3 miles of 20-inch and 62.6 miles of 16-inch pipeline to a connection with its 24-inch San Juan-Gallup line at the San Juan River Plant in San Juan County, New Mexico, and thence to the Arizona and California markets commingled with the San Juan gas. Initially, El Paso proposes to treat all of the Aneth gas at its existing San Juan River Plant until the proposed Aneth processing facilities have been completed. Although the proposed 16 and 20-inch line from Aneth Field area would connect with El Paso's mainline downstream from the San Juan River Plant, only minor changes in plant piping would be required to treat the Aneth Field gas. El Paso asserts that during the interim period mentioned, there is sufficient treating capacity available at the San Juan River Plant to accomplish this.

The progressive installation of the proposed facilities and approximate capacities, volumes available and costs are indicated by the following table. The application states that development may be accelerated or delayed as circumstances may require.

20-inch and 16-inch lines (all in 1958)	1958	1959	1960	1961
Compressor station horsepower	10,200	17,000	23,800	30,600
Aneth plant capacity, MMcf day		58	86	115
Gas to El Paso, MMcf/day:
Wet gas range	18-23.5	23.5-47.5	47.5-80.5	80.5-102.3
Average day residue	15.5	27.2	49.5	73.5
Average day, dry	8.6	17.3	11.9	8.4
Average total pipeline gas	24.1	44.5	61.4	81.9
Total expenditures, all facilities	$14,043,000	$6,672,000	$3,633,000	$1,727,000
Total expenditures, all facilities, cumulative	$14,043,000	$20,715,000	$24,388,000	$26,055,000

On June 5, 1958, El Paso informed the Commission that it would accept a certificate limited to the proposed 1958–59 construction without prejudice to its rights to file for authority to construct and operate the remaining facilities at some future date.

The maximum daily average volume is estimated to be available in 1962. It is estimated to be composed of 90.7 MMcf per day from casinghead gas sources (113.4 MMcf of wet gas per day) and 6.4 MMcf per day from dry gas sources. The casinghead gas produced is reduced by 20 percent for plant fuel, liquid extraction losses, and lease use to arrive at the residue volume available for pipeline transmission.

The respective applicants listed in the table below filed related applications on the dates shown, for certificates of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing the sale of natural gas in interstate commerce to El Paso Natural Gas Company subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the respective applications which are on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

[Docket No. G–15360]

UNITED GAS PIPE LINE CO.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED REVISED TARIFF SHEETS AND PROVIDING FOR HEARING

JUNE 27, 1958.

United Gas Pipe Line Company (United), on May 29, 1958, as supplemented on June 16, 1958, tendered for filing First Revised Sheet No. 24; Second Revised Sheets Nos. 22, 26, 34, 35, 44 and 45; Third Revised Sheets Nos. 8, 14, and 104; Fourth Revised Sheets Nos. 1, 4, 6, 10, 12, 16, 17, 17–A, 18, 19, 20, 21, 23, 25, 27, 28, 30, 32, 100, 102 and 103; and Fifth Revised Sheet No. 101 to its FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1.[1] By such revised tariff sheets, United proposes an exparte increase in its rates and charges of approximately $5,488,000 annually,[2] or 5.9 percent, to its jurisdictional customers [3] (save Tyler Gas Service Company),[4] based upon sales for the year ended December 31, 1957, all as more fully set forth in Appendix A attached hereto and made a part hereof. United requests that the proposed tariff sheets be allowed to take effect on July 1, 1958.

The proposed increase is stated to be based principally on the future cost of purchased gas. In support of the increased rates and charges, United has submitted a zoned cost of service based upon actual operations for the year 1957 adjusted to reflect changes in plant and operations to August 31, 1958. The company claims a total cost of service for the test period of $235,430,291, of which $99,195,419, or 42.1 percent, is allocated to jurisdictional gas sales.

United's claimed future costs of gas, the need for a 6¾ percent return, claimed Federal income taxes, its classification and allocation of costs, the amounts claimed for acquisition adjustments, and its proposed rate structure, among other things, have not been supported and should be further investigated.

The tendered filing would increase rates in effect since December 1, 1957, subject to refund, in Docket No. G–12801, United Gas Pipe Line Co., 19 FPC 119. No hearing has been held in that docket. United's proposal in Docket No. G–12801 superseded increased rates in effect since November 16, 1956 subject to refund, in Docket No. G–10592, which, in turn, superseded increased rates similarly in effect since April 1, 1956, in Docket No. G–9547. The latter two proceedings presently await completion of briefing, after hearings, by the parties, and, thereafter, an examiner's decisions thereon. United Gas Pipe Line Co., Docket Nos. G–9547 and G–10592, order issued June 20, 1958. As a result of these three foregoing proceedings, together with United's instant proposal, there are now before the Commission four rate increase applications of United totaling $26,743,000 (without adjustment to a uniform test period). In effect, the instant proposal is United's fifth general rate increase since 1952.[5]

To date, comments have been received from fourteen customers and the Commissions of the States of Alabama and Mississippi. The Alabama commission requests that we suspend United's proposal; the Mississippi commission states that it plans to intervene in the proceeding. Of the 14 customers submitting comments, seven oppose the increase (two of such customers object to the acceptance of the tender for filing),[6] three anticipate that we will suspend the increase, three exhort us to consider and study the proposal with care, and one is of the opinion that the increased cost of gas would make it difficult for such customer to operate under its present rate structure.

The increased rates and charges provided for in the revised tariff sheets tendered by United on May 29, 1958, as supplemented on June 16, 1958, have not been shown to be justified and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest, and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act, that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of all the rates, charges, classifications and services of United, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, including those contained in United's FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, and as proposed to be amended by the revised tariff sheets listed above, and that said proposed revised tariff sheets and the rates contained therein (except those relating to sales of gas for resale for industrial use only) be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter provided.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR, Ch. I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of all the rates, charges, classifications and services of United, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, including those contained in United's FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, and as proposed to be amended by the revised tariff sheets listed above.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, United's proposed First Revised Sheet No. 24; Second Revised Sheets Nos. 22, 26, 34, 35, 44 and 45; Third Revised Sheets Nos. 8, 14, and 104; Fourth Revised Sheets Nos. 1, 4, 6, 10, 12, 21, 23, 25, 27, 28, 30, 32, 100, 102, and 103; and Fifth Revised Sheet No. 101 to its FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, be and they are each hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 1, 1958, and until such further time as the foregoing revised sheets may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

PLACID OIL CO. ET AL.

ORDER FOR HEARING AND SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGES IN RATES

JULY 1, 1958.

Placid Oil Company (Operator) et al. (Placid), on June 2, 1958, tendered for filing proposed changes in its presently effective rate schedules for sales of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed changes, which constitute increased rates and charges, are contained in the following designated filings:

Description: (1) Letter,[1] dated September 27, 1957. (2) Notice of Change, dated May 29, 1958. (3) Letter,[2] dated September 26, 1957. (4) Notice of Change, dated May 29, 1958.

Purchaser: H. L. Hunt.

Rate schedule designation: (1) Supplement No. 3 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 15. (2) Supplement No. 4 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 15. (3) Supplement No. 2 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 16. (4) Supplement No. 3 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 16.

Effective date: July 3, 1958 (the stated effective date is the first day after expiration of the required thirty days' notice).

In support of the proposed revenue-sharing rate increases, Placid cites the letter agreements providing the new prices and states, among other things, that such escalation clauses as contained in the amendatory agreements are common in long-term gas sales agreements; that producer's costs increase as direct functions of time and depletion of reserves, and that the increased prices are below the initial price contained in contracts negotiated at the same time for gas sold in the area and to deny same would be discriminatory. Placid also states that the proposed prices are just and reasonable and would result in no more than a fair return.

The increased rates and charges so proposed have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed increased rates and charges contained in Supplement Nos. 3 and 4 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 15, and Supplement Nos. 2 and 3 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 16.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, said supplements be and they are each hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 3, 1958, and until such further time as they are made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Neither the supplements hereby suspended, nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby, shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the periods of suspension have expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(D) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

PLACID OIL CO. ET AL.

ORDER FOR HEARING AND SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

JULY 1, 1958.

Placid Oil Company (Operator) et al. (Placid), on June 2, 1958, tendered for filing a proposed change in its presently effective rate schedule for the sale of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate and charge, is contained in the following designated filing:

Description: Notice of Change, dated May 29, 1958.

Purchaser: H. L. Hunt.

Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 6 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 14.

Effective date: July 3, 1958 (the stated effective date is the first day after expiration of the required thirty days' notice).

In support of the proposed three-step periodic rate increase, Placid cites the contract provision therefor and states that the increased price is below the initial price contained in contracts negotiated at the same time for gas sold in the area and to deny same would be discriminatory. Placid also states that the proposed price is just and reasonable and would result in no more than a fair return.

The increased rate and charge so proposed has not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that Supplement No. 6 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 14 be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR, Ch. I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rate and charge contained in Supplement No. 6 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 14.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, said supplement be and it is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 3, 1958, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Neither the supplement hereby suspended nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(D) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by Sections 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

(b) The portion of each of the following premises in which live khapra beetles were found has received the approved fumigation treatment, but these premises must continue under frequent observation and inspection for a period of one year following fumigation before a determination can be made as to the adequacy of such treatment to eradicate the khapra beetle in and upon such premises. NEW MEXICO

M. M. Martin Farm, located 11 miles south of Tolar.

This revision has the effect of revoking the designation as regulated areas of certain premises in Arizona and California, it having been determined by the Director of the Plant Pest Control Division that adequate sanitation measures have been practiced for a sufficient length of time to eradicate the khapra beetle in and upon such premises. It also adds certain premises in Arizona and California to the list of premises in which khapra beetle infestations have been determined to exist, and designates such premises as regulated areas under the khapra beetle quarantine and regulations.

As an informative item, the revision also segregates certain regulated premises in Arizona, California, and New Mexico where the approved fumigation treatment has been applied to the portion of the premises in which live khapra beetles were found and which are consequently in a somewhat different category than untreated premises.

These administrative instructions shall become effective July 9, 1958, when they shall supersede P. P. C. 612, Twelfth Revision, effective June 12, 1958 (23 F. R. 4142).

These instructions, in part, impose restrictions supplementing khapra beetle quarantine regulations already effective. They also relieve restrictions insofar as they revoke the designation of certain regulated areas. They must be made effective promptly in order to carry out the purposes of the regulations and to be of maximum benefit in permitting the interstate movement, without restriction under the quarantine, of regulated products from the premises being removed from designation as regulated areas. Accordingly, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to the foregoing administrative instructions are impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and good cause is found for making the effective date thereof less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 9, 37 Stat. 318; 7 U. S. C. 162. Interprets or applies sec. 8, 37 Stat. 318, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 161)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 3d day of July 1958.

The term "tobacco" shall include all leaves harvested, including trash.

(3) For the purpose of discovering and identifying all tobacco subject to marketing quotas the term "tobacco" with respect to any farm located in an area in which any kind of tobacco subject to marketing quotas is normally produced, shall include all acreage of tobacco on the farm, including any acreage which the farm operator may contend is not devoted to the production of tobacco as defined herein. The acreage of each kind of tobacco (cigar-binder (types 51 and 52) and cigar-filler and binder (types 42, 43, 44, 53, 54, and 55) shall be determined by the county committee on the basis of seeding, cultivating, curing, and marketing practices commonly known to the area. Such determination shall include all acreage of tobacco on the farm. The production of the acreage of each kind of tobacco so determined shall be considered to be tobacco of the kind available for marketing until such time as the operator of the farm furnishes to the county committee satisfactory proof that a part or all of the production of such acreage has been classified pursuant to Part 29 of this title when marketed, as a different kind of tobacco. Any amount of tobacco so classified as a different kind shall be converted to acres on the basis of the average yield per acre of the entire acreage of tobacco grown on the farm in 1958 for the purpose of determining the harvested acreage of such kind of tobacco produced on the farm.

(u) "Trucker" means a person who engages to any extent in the business of trucking or hauling tobacco for producers to a point where it may be marketed or otherwise disposed of in the form and in the condition in which it is usually marketed by producers.

The forms and instructions shall be approved by, and the instructions shall be issued by, the Deputy Administrator.

§ 723.933 Extent of calculations and rule of fractions—(a) Harvested acreage. The acreage of tobacco harvested on a farm in 1958 shall be expressed in hundredths and fractions of less than one hundredth of an acre shall be dropped. For example, 1.550, 1.555, or 1.559 acres would be 1.55 acres.

(b) Percent excess. The percentage of excess tobacco available for marketing from a farm, hereinafter referred to as the "percent excess," shall be expressed in tenths and fractions of less than one-tenth shall be dropped. For example, 12.59 percent would be 12.5 percent.

(c) Converted rate of penalty. The amount of penalty per pound upon marketings of tobacco subject to penalty, hereinafter referred to as the "converted rate of penalty", shall be expressed in tenths of a cent and fractions of less than a tenth shall be dropped, except that if the resulting converted rate of penalty is less than a tenth of a cent, it shall be expressed in hundredths and fractions of less than a hundredth shall be dropped. For example, 3.68 cents per pound would be 3.6 cents, and 0.068 cent per pound would be 0.06 cent.

IDENTIFICATION AND LOCATION OF FARMS AND DETERMINATION OF ACREAGE

§ 723.934 Identification and location of farms. (a) Each farm as operated for the 1958 crop of tobacco shall be identified by a farm serial number assigned by the county office manager and all records pertaining to marketing quotas for the 1958 crop of tobacco shall be identified by such number.

(b) A farm shall be regarded as located in the county in which the principal dwelling is situated, or if there is no dwelling thereon, it shall be regarded as located in the county in which the major portion of the farm is located.

§ 723.935 Determination of tobacco acreage—(a) County committees. For the purpose of ascertaining with respect to each farm whether there is excess tobacco of the 1958 crop available for marketing, the county committee shall determine the acreage of tobacco on each farm in the county for which a 1958 tobacco acreage allotment has been established and on any other farms in the county on which the county committee has reason to believe tobacco was planted. The county committee's determination shall be based upon acreage and performance determined as provided in the applicable provisions of Part 718 of this chapter.

(b) Tolerance in measured acreage. For the purpose of §§ 723.930 to 723.962, inclusive, and subject to the rule of fractions heretofore provided in § 723.933 (a), if the determination of the county committee of the planted or the harvested acreage of tobacco on a farm is in excess of the farm tobacco acreage allotment and the excess acreage is not more than the smaller of two percent of such acreage allotment or nine hundredths (0.09) of an acre, in either case the planted or harvested acreage of tobacco on such farm shall be deemed to be the same acreage as the tobacco acreage allotment established for such farm: Provided, That if the determination of the county committee of the planted or harvested acreage of tobacco on any farm is in excess of the farm tobacco acreage allotment by more than the smaller of two percent of such acreage allotment or nine hundredths (0.09) of an acre, all such planted or harvested acreage of tobacco in excess of the farm tobacco acreage allotment as determined by the county committee shall be tobacco acreage in excess of the allotment.

(c) Notice to farm operators. The county committee shall notify the farm operator of the measured acreage of tobacco on each farm as determined under the provisions of this section.

(d) Harvested acreage of tobacco. The acreage of tobacco determined or as re-determined for a farm by the county committee pursuant to this section shall be the harvested acreage of tobacco for the farm for the purpose of issuing the correct marketing card for the farm as provided in § 723.938 unless the farm operator furnishes to the county committee satisfactory proof that a portion of the acreage planted will not be harvested or that a representative portion of the production of the acreage physically harvested will be disposed of other than by marketing, in which case the harvested acreage shall be the acreage as adjusted by taking into account the portion of the acreage planted which will not be harvested or the portion of the production of the acreage physically harvested which will be disposed of other than by marketing.

(e) Acreage not determined. If the farm operator or his representative prevents the county committee from obtaining information necessary to determine the correct acreage of tobacco on a farm, in addition to any other liability which might be imposed upon the operator, and until the farm operator or his representative permits a determination of the correct acreage, all acreage of tobacco on the farm shall be deemed to be in excess of the farm acreage allotment for the purpose of issuing a marketing card for the farm.

(f) Prior measurements. Measurements made prior to the effective date of this section, and in accordance with procedures then in effect may be utilized where pertinent for the purpose of ascertaining with respect to any farm the 1958 tobacco acreage and the tobacco acreage in excess of the 1958 farm tobacco acreage allotment.

FARM MARKETING QUOTAS AND MARKETING CARDS

§ 723.936 Amount of farm marketing quota—(a) Actual production. The marketing quota for a farm shall be the actual production of tobacco on the farm acreage allotment as established for the farm in accordance with 1023 (Cigar-Binder and Cigar-Filler and Binder–58)–1, Marketing Quota Regulations 1958–59 (§§ 723.912 to 723.928; 22 F. R. 4351, 6127, 23 F. R. 135). The actual production of the farm acreage allotment shall be the average yield per acre of the entire acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in 1958 times the farm acreage allotment.

(b) Excess production. The excess tobacco on any farm shall be (1) that quantity of tobacco which is equal to the average yield per acre of the entire acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in 1958 times the number of acres harvested in excess of the farm acreage allotment, plus (2) any excess carryover tobacco.

§ 723.937 Transfer of farm marketing quotas. These shall be no transfer of farm marketing quotas except as provided in §§ 723.920 and 723.926 of the cigar-binder and cigar-filler and binder tobacco marketing quota regulations for determining acreage allotments and normal yields, 1958–59 marketing year.

§ 723.938 Issuance of marketing cards. (a) A marketing card shall be issued for each farm having tobacco available for marketing.

(b) Excess marketing card (MQ–77—Tobacco). The provisions of this paragraph govern the issuance of excess marketing cards except with respect to the issuance of marketing cards for the identification of tobacco grown for experimental purposes only, as provided in paragraph (c) (2) of this section.

(1) Excess marketing card showing full rate of penalty. An excess marketing card (ineligible for price support loans) showing the full rate of penalty set forth in § 723.947 (b) shall be issued for a farm in any case:

(i) Where tobacco is harvested in 1958 from a farm for which no 1958 acreage allotment was established, or

(ii) Where tobacco is harvested in 1958 from a farm and the farm operator or his representative prevents the county committee or its representative from obtaining information necessary to determine the correct acreage of tobacco on the farm.

(2) Excess marketing card showing converted rate of penalty or zero penalty. An excess marketing card (ineligible for price support loans) showing the extent to which marketings of tobacco from a farm are subject to penalty, determined as provided in § 723.944 (including zero penalty except where the provisions of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph apply), shall be issued in any case:

(i) Where tobacco is harvested in 1958 from a farm in excess of the farm acreage allotment therefor, or

(ii) Where tobacco is to be marketed from a farm in 1958 having carryover tobacco available for marketing and the percent excess determined pursuant to § 723.944 (b) exceeds zero percent, or

(iii) Where tobacco is produced on newly irrigated or drained land which was not used for the production of tobacco prior to May 28, 1956 and which is within any Federal irrigation or drainage project (as defined in section 211 of the Agricultural Act of 1956) authorized on or after May 28, 1956; or where tobacco is produced on land reclaimed by a flood-control project authorized on or after May 28, 1956; or where tobacco is produced on land owned by the Federal Government in violation of the provisions of a lease restricting the production of tobacco.

(3) Excess marketing cards showing zero penalty only. An excess marketing card (ineligible for price support loans) showing zero penalty only shall be issued under the following conditions:

(i) If more than one kind of tobacco is produced on a farm in 1958, a zero penalty excess marketing card shall be issued for each kind of tobacco produced thereon for which the harvested acreage is not in excess of the farm acreage allotment therefor if at the time of issuing marketing cards for the farm the harvested acreage of any kind of tobacco is in excess of the farm acreage allotment for such kind of tobacco; or

(ii) For any kind of tobacco produced on a farm in 1958 the acreage of which is in excess of the farm acreage allotment therefor and the operator or any other producer on the farm fails to file with the county ASC office a written request (with deposit to cover the cost as estimated by the county committee) to dispose of excess tobacco or to have a remeasurement made of the tobacco acreage within ten (10) days from the date of notice to the farm operator on Form CSS–590, Notice of Excess Acreage, and the tobacco produced on the excess acreage is disposed of other than by marketing in accordance with § 723.945 unless the county committee with the approval of a representative of the State committee determines that failure to file such written request was due to circumstances beyond the control of the farm operator or producer; or

(iii) For any kind of tobacco physically harvested from a farm in 1958 from an acreage in excess of the acreage allotment for the farm and disposed of in accordance with § 723.945 (a) unless the county committee with the approval of a representative of the State committee determines that the acreage of tobacco was not measured or remeasured, as the case may be, in sufficient time to afford the farm operator an opportunity to dispose of the excess acreage prior to harvest.

(c) Within Quota Marketing Card (MQ–76—Tobacco). In any case where an excess marketing card is not required to be issued for a farm under paragraph (b) of this section, a Within Quota Marketing Card (eligible for price support loans and marketing without penalty) shall be issued for such farm under the following conditions:

(1) If the harvested acreage of tobacco for the farm in 1958 is not in excess of the farm acreage allotment therefor and any excess carryover tobacco can be marketed without penalty under the provisions of § 723.944 (b).

(2) If the Director of a publicly owned Agricultural Experiment Station furnishes to the ASC State office a list by counties showing the following information with respect to each kind of tobacco and farms on which tobacco is grown for experimental purposes only:

(i) Name and address of the publicly owned experiment station,

(ii) Name of the owner, and name of the operator if different from the owner of each farm on which tobacco is grown for experimental purposes only,

(iii) The amount of acreage of tobacco grown on each farm for experimental purposes only, and

(iv) A certification signed by the Director of the publicly owned agricultural experiment station to the effect that such acreage of tobacco was grown on each farm for experimental purposes only; the tobacco was grown under his direction; and the acreage on each plot was considered necessary for carrying out the experiment: Provided, however, That if the Director of a publicly owned agricultural experiment station does not furnish the information and certification as required above in this subparagraph, an excess marketing card showing zero penalty shall be issued for the purpose of identifying tobacco produced for experimental purposes only under the direction of such Director. The list required in this subparagraph shall be posted and kept available for public inspection in the ASC office of the county in which farms included in the list are located.

(d) Stamping Within Quota Marketing Cards (MQ–76) to show producer indebtedness. (1) If any producer on a farm is indebted to the United States and such indebtedness is listed on the county debt register, any within quota marketing card (MQ–76) issued for such farm in accordance with paragraph (c) of this section shall bear the notation "Indebted to U. S." on the front cover thereof and on the county office copy of each memorandum of sale, and the name of the debtor and the amount of the indebtedness shall be shown on the inside back cover of the marketing card: Provided, That if the producer named as debtor on the card objects to the issuance of or after issuance to the use of a within quota marketing card (MQ–76) bearing the notation and information of indebtedness to the United States thereon as provided in this subparagraph, an excess marketing card (ineligible for price support loans) showing "zero penalty" shall be issued for such farm. The acceptance and use of a within quota marketing card bearing a notation and information of indebtedness to the United States by the producer named as debtor on such card, shall constitute an authorization by such producer to any tobacco loan organization to pay to the United States the price support advance due the producer to the extent of his indebtedness set forth on such card but not to exceed that portion of the price support advance remaining after deduction of usual loan organization charges, authorized price support charges and amounts due prior lien holders. The acceptance and use of a within quota marketing card bearing a notation and information of indebtedness to the United States shall not constitute a waiver of any right by the producer to contest the validity of such indebtedness by appropriate administrative appeal or legal action.

(2) Any marketing card may be stamped for the purpose of notifying loan organizations that the tobacco being marketed pursuant to such card is subject to a lien held by the United States.

(e) Replacing or issuing additional marketing cards. Subject to the approval of the county office manager or the State administrative officer as provided in § 723.939, two or more marketing cards may be issued for any farm. Upon the return to the ASC issuing office of the marketing card after all of the memoranda of sale have been issued therefrom and before the marketing of tobacco from the farm have been completed, a new marketing card of the same kind, bearing the same name, information and identification as the used card shall be issued for the farm. A new marketing card of the same kind shall be issued to replace a card which has been determined by the State administrative officer or county office manager who issued the card, to have been lost, destroyed or stolen.

§ 723.939 Persons authorized to issue marketing cards. (a) The State administrative officer shall be responsible for the issuance of marketing cards issued for the purpose of identifying tobacco grown for experimental purposes pursuant to the provision of § 723.938 (c) (2).

(b) Except as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, the county office manager shall be responsible for the issuance of marketing cards for farms in the county.

(c) Each marketing card shall bear the actual or facsimile signature of either the State administrative officer or the county office manager who issues the card. The facsimile signature may be affixed by an employee of the State administrative officer or of the county office manager, as the case may be.

§ 723.940 Rights of producers in marketing cards. Each producer having a share in the tobacco available for marketing from a farm shall be entitled to the use of the marketing card for marketing his proportionate share.

§ 723.941 Successors in interest. Any person who succeeds in whole or in part to the share of a producer in the tobacco available for marketing from a farm shall, to the extent of such succession, have the same rights as the producer to the use of the marketing card for the farm.

§ 723.942 Invalid cards. (a) A marketing card shall be invalid if:

(1) It is not issued or delivered in the form and manner prescribed;

(2) Entries are omitted or incorrect;

(3) It is lost, destroyed, stolen, or becomes illegible; or

(4) Any erasure or alteration has been made and not properly initialed.

(b) In the event any marketing card becomes invalid (other than by loss, destruction, or theft, or by omission, alteration or incorrect entry which has been corrected by the State administrative officer or the county office manager who issued the card), the farm operator, or the person having the card in his possession, shall return it to the ASC office at which it was issued.

(c) If an entry is not made on a marketing card as required, either through omission or incorrect entry, and the proper entry is made and initialed by the State administrative officer or the county office manager who issued the card, then such card shall become valid.

§ 723.943 Report of misuse of marketing card. Any information which causes a member of a State, county, or community committee, or an employee of an ASC State or county office, to believe that any tobacco which actually was produced on one farm has been or is being marketed under the marketing card issued for another farm shall be reported immediately by such person to the ASC county or State office.

MARKETING OR OTHER DISPOSITION OF TOBACCO AND PENALTIES

§ 723.944 Extent to which marketings from a farm are subject to penalty. (a) Marketings of tobacco from a farm having no carryover tobacco available for marketing shall be subject to penalty by the percent excess determined as follows: Divide the acreage of tobacco harvested in excess of the farm acreage allotment and not disposed of under § 723.945 by the total acreage of tobacco harvested from the farm.

(b) Marketing of tobacco from a farm having carryover tobacco available for marketing shall be subject to penalty by the percent excess determined as follows:

(1) Determine the number of "carryover acres" by dividing the number of pounds of carryover tobacco from the prior years by the normal yield for the farm for that year.

(2) Determine the number of "within quota carryover acres" by multiplying the "carryover acres" (subparagraph (1) of this paragraph) by the "percent within quota" (i. e., 100 percent minus the "percent excess") for the year in which the carryover tobacco was produced except that if the excess portion of the carryover tobacco has been disposed of under § 723.945, the "percent within quota" shall be 100.

(3) Determine the "total acres" of tobacco by adding the "carryover acres" (subparagraph (1) of this paragraph) and the acreage of tobacco harvested in the current year.

(4) Determine the "excess acres" by subtracting from the "total acres" (subparagraph (3) of this paragraph) the sum of the 1958 allotment and the "within quota carryover acres" (subparagraph (2) of this paragraph).

(5) Determine the percent excess by dividing the "total acres" into the "excess acres" (subparagraph (4) of this paragraph).

(6) Those persons having an interest in the carryover tobacco for a farm shall be liable for the payment of any penalty due thereon.

(c) For the purpose of determining the penalty due on each marketing by a producer of tobacco subject to penalty, the converted rate of penalty per pound shall be determined by multiplying the applicable rate of penalty by the percent excess obtained under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section. The memorandum of sale issued to identify each such marketing shall show the amount of penalty due.

§ 723.945 Disposition of excess tobacco. (a) The farm operator may elect to give satisfactory proof of disposition of excess tobacco prior to the marketing of any tobacco from the farm by furnishing to the county committee satisfactory proof that excess tobacco representative of the entire crop will not be marketed.

(b) If the 1958 harvested acreage is less than the 1958 allotment an amount of any tobacco from the farm which was placed under storage for a prior marketing year equal to the normal production of the acreage by which the 1958 harvested acreage plus any acreage added with respect to any excess carryover tobacco for the farm pursuant to § 723.944 (b) is less than the 1958 allotment may be marketed penalty free.

§ 723.946 Identification of marketing. Each marketing of tobacco from a farm shall be identified by an executed memorandum of sale from the 1958 marketing card (MQ–76—Tobacco or MQ–77—Tobacco) issued for the farm on which the tobacco was produced.

(a) Memorandum of sale. (1) If a memorandum of sale is not issued by the buyer to identify a sale of producer's tobacco by the end of the the sale date and recorded and reported on MQ–95, Buyer's Record, by the 10th day of the calendar month next following the month during which the sale date occurred, the marketing shall be identified on MQ–95, Buyer's Record, as a marketing of excess tobacco, and reported not later than the 10th day of the calendar month next following the month during which the sale date ocurred.

(2) Each excess memorandum of sale issued by a buyer shall be verified by the buyer to determine whether the amount of penalty shown to be due has been correctly computed and such buyer shall not be relieved of any liability with respect to the amount of penalty due because of any error which may occur in issuing the memorandum of sale.

§ 723.947 Rate of penalty. Marketings of excess tobacco from a farm shall be subject to a penalty per pound equal to seventy-five (75) percent of the average market price for the 1957–58 marketing year as determined by the Crop Reporting Board, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture. The rate of penalty per pound shall be calculated to the nearest whole cent.

(a) Average market price. The average market price as determined by the Crop Reporting Board, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, for the 1957–58 marketing year was 30.6 cents per pound for cigar-filler and binder (types 42, 43, 44, 53, 54 and 55) tobacco, and 48.0 cents per pound for cigar-binder (types 51 and 52) tobacco.

(b) Rate of penalty per pound. The penalty per pound upon marketings of excess tobacco subject to marketing quotas during the 1958–59 marketing year shall be 23 cents per pound for cigar-filler and binder (types 42, 43, 44, 53, 54 and 55) tobacco, and 36 cents per pound in the case of cigar-binder (types 51 and 52) tobacco.

(c) Proportional rate of penalty. With respect to tobacco marketed from farms having tobacco available for marketing in excess of the farm marketing quota, the penalty shall be paid upon that percentage of each lot of tobacco marketed which the tobacco available for marketing in excess of the farm marketing quota is of the total amount of tobacco available for marketing from the farm as determined under § 723.944.

§ 723.948 Persons to pay penalty. The person to pay the penalty due on any marketing of tobacco subject to penalty shall be determined as follows:

(a) Sale. The penalty due on tobacco purchased directly from a producer, other than a buyer outside the United States, shall be paid by the buyer of the tobacco who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the price paid to the producer.

(b) Marketings through an agent. The penalty due on marketings by a producer through an agent who is not a buyer shall be paid by the agent who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the price paid to the producer.

(c) Marketings outside the United States. The penalty due on marketings by a producer directly to any person outside the United States shall be paid by the producer.

§ 723.949 Marketings deemed to be excess tobacco. Any marketing of tobacco under any one of the following conditions shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco:

(a) Without memorandum of sale. Any sale of tobacco by a producer which is not identified by a valid memorandum of sale by the end of the sale date shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the buyer who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the amount due the producer.

(b) Unrecorded sale. Any sale which is not recorded in MQ–95—Tobacco by the 10th day of the month next following the month during which the sale date occurred, shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco unless and until the buyer furnishes proof acceptable to the State administrative officer showing that such marketing is not a marketing of excess tobacco. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the buyer.

(c) Marketings falsely identified. If any marketing of tobacco by a person other than the producer thereof is identified by a marketing card other than the marketing card issued for the farm on which such tobacco was produced, such marketing shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco and the penalty thereon shall be paid by such person.

(d) Producer marketings. (1) If any producer falsely identifies or fails to account for the disposition of any tobacco produced on a farm, an amount of tobacco equal to the normal yield of the number of acres harvested in 1958 in excess of the farm acreage allotment shall be deemed to have been a marketing of excess tobacco from such farm.

(2) If any producer who manufacturers tobacco products from tobacco produced by or for him fails to make the reports, or makes a false report, required under § 723.952 (c), he shall be deemed to have failed to account for the disposition of tobacco produced on the farm and shall be subject to penalty on such tobacco. The penalty thereon for false identification or failure to account shall be paid by the producer and shall be due on the date of false identification or failure to account. The filing of a report by a producer under § 723.952 (c) or (e) which the State committee finds to be incomplete or incorrect shall constitute a failure to account for the disposition of tobacco produced on the farm.

(3) If, after part or all of the tobacco produced on a farm has been marketed, the State or county committee redetermines that the harvested acreage for the farm was more than that shown by the prior determination, and if the harvested acreage may not be deemed to be within the farm acreage allotment pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section, any penalty due on the basis of the harvested acreage as redetermined pursuant to § 723.935 shall be paid by the producer.

(e) Erroneous notice of measured acreage. If it is determined that the tobacco acreage on a farm is larger than the tobacco farm acreage allotment approved under § 723.927, such farm shall be deemed to have not exceeded its allotment if the county committee, with the approval of the State administrative officer, determines from the facts and circumstances that:

(1) The excess acreage was caused by reliance in good faith by the farm operator on an erroneous notice of measured acreage;

(2) Neither the farm operator nor any producer on the farm had actual knowledge of the error in time to adjust the excess acreage prior to completion of marketing of tobacco from the farm;

(3) The incorrect notice was the result of an error made by the performance reporter or by another employee of the county or State office in reporting, computing, or recording the allotment acreage for the farm;

(4) Neither the farm operator nor any producer on the farm was in any way responsible for the error; and

(5) The extent of the error in the notice was such that the farm operator would not reasonably be expected to question the acreage of which he was erroneously notified.

§ 723.950 Payment of penalty.—(a) Penalties shall become due at the time the tobacco is marketed, except in the case of tobacco removed from storage as provided in § 723.945 (b), or in the case of false identification or failure to account for disposition. Penalty shall be paid by remitting the amount thereof to the ASC State office, not later than the 10th day of the calendar month next following the month in which the tobacco became subject to penalty. A draft, money order, or check drawn payable to the Treasurer of the United States may be used to pay any penalty, but any such draft or check shall be received subject to payment at par.

(b) The penalty due on any sale of tobacco by a producer as determined under §§ 723.930 to 723.962 shall be paid as specified in § 723.948, even though the penalty may exceed the proceeds for the tobacco.

§ 723.951 Request for return of penalty. Any producer of tobacco after the marketing of all tobacco available for marketing from the farm and any other person who bore the burden of the payment of any penalty may request the return of the amount of such penalty which is in excess of the amount required under §§ 723.930 to 723.962 to be paid. Such request shall be filed on MQ–85—Tobacco with the ASC county office within two (2) years after the payment of the penalty.

RECORDS AND REPORTS

§ 723.952 Producer's records and reports.—(a) Report of tobacco acreage. The farm operator or any producer on the farm shall file a report with the ASC county office or a representative of the county committee on Form CSS–578, Report of 1958 Acreage, showing all fields of tobacco on the farm in 1958. If any producer on a farm files or aids or acquiesces in the filing of any false report with respect to the acreage of tobacco grown on the farm even though the farm operator or his representative refuses to sign such report, the allotment next established for such farm shall be reduced as provided in the Cigar-Filler Tobacco, Cigar-Binder Tobacco, and Cigar-Filler and Binder Tobacco Marketing Quota Regulations for Determining Acreage Allotments and Normal Yields, 1959–60 Marketing Year.

(b) Report on marketing card. The operator of each farm on which tobacco is produced in 1958 shall return to the ASC county office such marketing card issued for the farm whenever marketings from the farm are completed and in no event later than June 1, 1959. Failure to return the marketing card within fifteen (15) days after written request by certified mail from the county office manager shall constitute failure to account for disposition of tobacco marketed from the farm unless disposition of all tobacco marketed from the farm is accounted for as provided in paragraph (e) of this section. The county office manager or the State administrative officer who issued the marketing card may reissue the same marketing card or issue a new marketing card for any farm from which the marketing of tobacco has not been completed by June 1, 1959.

(c) Reports by producer-manufacturers. (1) Each producer who manufactures tobacco products from tobacco produced by or for him as a producer shall report to the ASC State office as follows with respect to such tobacco.

(i) If the 1958 harvested acreage is not in excess of the 1958 farm tobacco acreage allotment, the producer-manufacturer shall furnish the ASC State office a report, as soon as the tobacco has been weighed, and not later than the date specified in writing by the State administrative officer, showing the total pounds of tobacco produced, the date(s) on which such tobacco was weighed, the farm serial number of the farm on which it was produced, and the estimated value of such tobacco.

(ii) If the 1958 harvested acreage is in excess of the 1958 farm acreage allotment, the producer-manufacturer shall furnish the ASC State office a report, as soon as the tobacco has been weighed, and not later than the date specified in writing by the State administrative officer, showing the total pounds of tobacco produced on the farm, the date(s) on which the tobacco was weighed, the farm serial number of the farm on which it was produced, the estimated value of the tobacco, and the location of the tobacco. Unless it has become penalty free under circumstances described in § 723.944 (b), or unless he makes the reports outlined in this section, penalty shall be paid on the tobacco by the producer-manufacturer, at the converted rate of penalty shown on the marketing card issued for the farm, when it is moved from the place where it can be conveniently inspected by the county committee at any time separate and apart from any other tobacco.

(2) If the producer-manufacturer has excess tobacco and does not pay the penalty thereon at the converted rate of penalty shown on the marketing card, as provided in this section, he shall notify the buyer of the manufactured product, or the buyer of any residue resulting from processing the tobacco, in writing, at time of sale of such product or residue of the precise amount of penalty due on such manufactured product or residue. In such event, the producer-manufacturer shall immediately notify the Director and shall account for the disposition of such tobacco by furnishing the Director a report, on a form to be furnished him by the Director, showing the name and address of the buyer of the manufactured products or residue, a detailed account of the disposition of such tobacco and the exact amounts of penalty due with respect to each such sale of such products or residue, together with copies of the written notice of the exact amounts of the penalty due given to the buyers of such products or residue. Failure to file such report, or the filing of a report which is found by the State committee to be incomplete or incorrect, shall constitute failure of the producer-manufacturer to account for the production and disposition of tobacco produced on his farm and in the event of such failure the allotment next established for such farm shall be reduced as provided in the Cigar-Filler Tobacco, Cigar-Binder Tobacco, and Cigar-Filler and Binder Tobacco Marketing Quota Regulations for Determining Acreage Allotments and Normal Yields, 1959–60 Marketing Year, and the producer-manufacturer shall be liable for the payment of penalty as provided in § 723.949 (d).

(3) The reports required by this paragraph shall be in addition to the reports required by paragraph (a) of this section with respect to tobacco produced by or for the producer-manufacturer but not used by him in the manufacture of products therefrom.

(d) False identification. If tobacco was marketed or was permitted to be marketed in any marketing year as having been produced on the acreage allotment for any farm which in fact was produced on a different farm, the acreage allotment next established for both such farms and kind of tobacco shall be reduced, except that such reduction for any such farm shall not be made if the county and State committees determine that no person connected with such farm caused, aided or acquiesced in such marketing, as provided in the applicable tobacco marketing quota regulations for determining acreage allotments and normal yields, 1959–60 marketing year.

(e) Report of production and disposition. In addition to any other reports which may be required under §§ 723.930 to 723.962, the operator of each farm or any other person having an interest in the tobacco grown on the farm (even though the harvested acreage does not exceed the acreage allotment or even though no allotment was established for the farm) shall upon written request by certified mail from the State administrative officer within fifteen days after the deposit of such request in the United States mails, addressed to such person at his last known address, furnish the Secretary on Form MQ–108—Tobacco a written report of the acreage, production and disposition made of all tobacco produced on the farm by sending the same to the ASC State office showing, as to the farm at the time of filing said report,

(1) The number of fields (patches or areas) from which tobacco was harvested, the acres of tobacco harvested from each such field, and the total acreage of tobacco harvested from the farm,

(2) The total pounds of tobacco produced,

(3) The amount of tobacco on hand and its location, and

(4) As to each lot of tobacco marketed, the name and address of the buyer or other persons to or through whom such tobacco was marketed and the number of pounds marketed, the gross price, and the date of the marketing. Failure to file the report as requested, or the filing of a report which is found by the State committee to be incomplete or incorrect, shall constitute failure of the producer to account for disposition of tobacco produced on the farm and the allotment next established for such farm shall be reduced as provided in the Cigar-Filler Tobacco, Cigar-Binder Tobacco, and Cigar-Filler and Binder Tobacco Marketing Quota Regulations for Determining Acreage Allotments and Normal Yields, 1959–60 Marketing Year.

§ 723.953 Buyer's records.—(a) Record of marketing. (1) Each buyer shall keep such records as will enable him to furnish the ASC State office with respect to each sale of tobacco made by producers to such buyer the following information:

(i) The name of the operator of the farm on which the tobacco was produced and the name of the seller and the seller's address in the case of a sale by a person other than the farm operator.

(ii) Date of sale.

(iii) The serial number of the memorandum of sale used to identify the sale.

(iv) Number of pounds sold.

(v) Gross sale price.

(vi) Amount of any penalty and the amount of any deduction on account of penalty from the price paid the producer(s).

(2) Any buyer or any other person who grades tobacco for farmers shall maintain records which will enable him to furnish the ASC State office the name of the farm operator and the amount of each grade of tobacco obtained from the grading of tobacco from each farm.

(b) Identification of sale on buyer's records. The serial number of the memorandum of sale issued to identify each sale by a producer shall be recorded on the check register or check stub for the check written with respect to such sale of tobacco. The serial number of such memorandum shall also be entered on the buyer's copy of the receipt furnished the producer by the buyer, or the buyer's copy of the contract to purchase, or on the document customarily used in recording the purchase, and on MQ–95—Tobacco.

PART 146e—CERTIFICATION OF BACITRACIN AND BACITRACIN-CONTAINING DRUGS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Under the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 507, 59 Stat. 463, as amended; sec. 701, 52 Stat. 1055, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 357, 371) and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (22 F. R. 1045), the regulations for tests and methods of assay and certification of antibiotic and antibiotic-containing drugs (21 CFR Parts 141c, 146a, 146c, 146e; 22 CFR, 1957 Supp., 146a.53, 146c.207, 146c.211, 146c.217, 146e.402) are amended as indicated below:

1. Part 141c is amended by adding the following new section:

§ 141c.242 Tetracycline-neomycin complex powder topical—(a) Potency—(1) Tetracycline content. Proceed as directed in § 141c.230 (a) (2), except use water in lieu of 0.1 N HCl for dissolving the sample. Its tetracycline content is satisfactory if it contains not less than 85 percent of the equivalent number of milligrams of tetracycline hydrochloride that it is represented to contain.

(2) Neomycin content. Using 0.1 M potassium phosphate buffer, pH 8.0, dilute an appropriate aliquot of the aqueous solution, prepared as directed in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, to a final concentration of 1 μg. per milliliter (estimated), and proceed as directed in § 141c.231 (c) (1), except that the neomycin standard stock solution described in § 141e.410 (b) (1) (iii) of this chapter, is used to prepare the standard curve, by further diluting with pH 8.0 buffer to final concentrations of 0.64, 0.80, 1.0, 1.25, and 1.56 μg. per milliliter. The 1.0 μg. per milliliter solution is the reference concentration. In lieu of the method described in this subparagraph, the neomycin content may also be determined as follows: Using the aqueous solution described, prepare the sample and proceed as directed in § 141e.410 (b) (1) of this chapter, except use M. pyogenes var. aureus (American Type Culture Collection 12715) as the test organism, which is grown and maintained on agar containing 100 μg. of tetracycline hydrochloride per milliliter of agar. Its neomycin content is satisfactory if it contains not less than 85 percent of the number of milligrams that it is represented to contain.

(b) Sterility. Thoroughly cleanse the valve of each container to be tested with a suitable disinfectant. Carefully spray approximately 40 milligrams into each tube and proceed as directed in § 141a.2 of this chapter, except that neither penicillinase nor the control tube is used.

(c) Moisture. Proceed as directed in § 141b.117 (c) of this chapter.

(d) Tetracycline-neomycin complex used in making the drug—(1) Potency—(i) Tetracycline content. Dissolve the sample to be tested in sufficient water to give a convenient stock solution. Using an appropriate aliquot, proceed as directed in § 141c.218 (a).

(ii) Neomycin content. Using an aliquot of the stock solution prepared as directed in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph, proceed as directed in paragraph (a) (2) of this section, except the last sentence of that subparagraph.

(2) Toxicity. Proceed as directed in § 141a.4 of this chapter using 0.5 milliliter of a solution prepared by diluting the sample with physiological sodium chloride solution to contain 200 μg. of neomycin per milliliter (estimated).

(3) pH. Using a 1-percent aqueous solution, proceed as directed in § 141a.5 (b) of this chapter.

2. In § 146a.53 Capsules penicillin and novobiocin, paragraph (b) Packaging; labeling • • • is amended by changing the period at the end of subparagraph (1) to a comma and adding the following clause: ", except that if the person who requests certification has submitted to the Commissioner results of tests and assays that show such drug as prepared by him is stable for 24 months, such date may be used for such drug."

3. In § 146c.207 Chlortetracycline hydrochloride tablets • • •, paragraph (a) is amended by changing the comma after the word "percent" to a period and deleting the remaining words in the paragraph.

4. Section 146c.211 (c) (1) (iii) is changed to read as follows:

(c) Labeling. • • •

(1) • • •

(iii) The statement "Expiration date ----------," the blank being filled in with the date that is 60 months after the month during which the batch was certified if it is chlortetracycline hydrochloride surgical powder, or with the date that is 24 months after the month during which the batch was certified if it is tetracycline hydrochloride surgical powder, except that if the person who requests certification has submitted to the Commissioner results of tests and assays that show such drug as prepared by him is stable for 36 months or 48 months, such date may be used for such drug: Provided, however, That such expiration date may be omitted from the immediate container if such immediate container is packaged in an individual wrapper or container.

5. Section 146c.217 (c) (1) (v) is changed to read as follows:

(1) • • •

(v) The statement "Expiration date ----------," the blank being filled in with the date which is 12 months after the month during which the batch was certified, except that the blank may be filled in with the date that is 18 months, 24 months, 36 months, or 48 months after the month during which the batch was certified if the person who requests certification has submitted to the Commission results of tests and assays showing that after having been stored for such period of time such drug as prepared by him complies with the standards prescribed by paragraph (a) of this section: Provided, however, That such expiration date may be omitted from the immediate container if such immediate container is packaged in an individual wrapper or container.

6. Part 146c is amended by adding the following new section:

§ 146c.242 Tetracycline-neomycin complex powder topical—(a) Standards of identity, strength, quality, and purity. Tetracycline-neomycin complex powder topical is tetracycline-neomycin complex with one or more suitable and harmless diluents and suspending agents. It is sterile. The moisture content is not more than 7.5 percent. The water-soluble, acetone-insoluble tetracycline-neomycin complex used contains the equivalent of 400 milligrams of tetracycline hydrochloride and 400 milligrams of neomycin base per gram, is nontoxic, has a moisture content of not more than 7.5 percent and its pH in a 1 percent aqueous solution is not less than 7.5 and not more than 9.0. Each other substance used, if its name is recognized in the U. S. P. or N. F., conforms to the standards prescribed therefor by such official compendium.

(b) Packaging; labeling; request for certification; samples; fees. (1) In addition to complying with the requirements of § 146c.230 (b) and (c), each package shall bear on its label and labeling the number of milligrams of neomycin per gram or per immediate container. The expiration date of the drug shall be 12 months.

(2) In addition to complying with § 146c.230 (d), a person who requests certification of a batch shall submit with his request a statement showing the batch mark and (unless previously submitted) the results and the date of the latest tests and assays of the tetracycline-neomycin complex used in making the batch for potency, toxicity, moisture, and pH. He shall also submit in connection with his request a sample consisting of 10 immediate containers of the batch for sterility testing. He shall also submit in connection with his request (unless previously submitted) a sample consisting of 10 packages each containing not less than 60 milligrams of the tetracycline-neomycin complex used in making the batch.

(3) The fees for the services rendered with respect to the samples submitted in accordance with the requirements of this section shall be:

(i) $10.00 for all immediate containers submitted for sterility testing.

(ii) $5.00 for each immediate container of the batch.

(iii) $5.00 for each immediate container of tetracycline-neomycin complex used in making the batch.

7. Section 146e.402 Bacitracin ointment • • • is amended as follows:

a. Paragraph (c) Labeling is amended by inserting in subparagraph (1) (iv) after the word "certified," the following new words: "except that the blank may be filled in with the date that is 48 months after the month during which the batch was certified if the person who requests certification has submitted to the Commissioner results of tests and assays showing that after having been stored for such period of time such drug as prepared by him complies with the standards prescribed by paragraph (a) of this section:".

b. Paragraph (f) Exemption of bacitracin ointment from certification is amended by changing the words "36 months" in subparagraph (1) to read "48 months".

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the promulgation of this order, and I so find, since it was drawn in collaboration with interested members of the affected industry and since it would not be in the public interest to delay providing for the amendments set out herein.

Effective date. This order shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, since both the public and the affected industry will benefit by the earliest effective date, and I so find.

EXEMPT ORGANIZATIONS

GENERAL RULE

§ 1.501 (a) Statutory provisions; exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc.

SEC. 501. Exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc.—(a) Exemption from taxation. An organization described in subsection (c) or (d) or section 401 (a) shall be exempt from taxation under this subtitle unless such exemption is denied under section 502, 503, or 504.

§ 1.501 (a)–1 Exemption from taxation—(a) In general; proof of exemption. (1) Section 501 (a) provides an exemption from income taxes for organizations which are described in section 501 (c) or (d) and section 401 (a), unless such organization is a "feeder organization" (see section 502), or unless it engages in a transaction described in section 503 or in an activity described in section 504. However, the exemption does not extend to "unrelated business taxable income" of such an organization (see sections 511 to 515).

(2) An organization, other than an employees' trust described in section 401 (a), is not exempt from tax merely because it is not organized and operated for profit. In order to establish its exemption, it is necessary that every such organization claiming exemption file an application form as set forth below with the district director of internal revenue for the internal revenue district in which is located the principal place of business or principal office of the organization. However, an organization which has been granted exemption under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 or prior law may rely on that ruling, unless affected by substantive changes in the 1954 Code or any changes in the character, purposes, or methods of operation of the organization, and it is not necessary in such case for the organization to request a new determination as to its exempt status.

(3) (i) An organization claiming exemption under section 501 (a) and described in section 501 (c) (2), (3), (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), (9), (12), (13), or (15) shall file the form of application appropriate to its activities, filled out in accordance with the instructions on the form or issued therewith. The following forms shall be filed: For organizations described in section 501 (c) (3), Form 1023; in section 501 (c) (4), (5), (6), or (8), Form 1024; in section 501 (c) (7), Form 1025; and in section 501 (c) (2), (9), (12), (13), or (15), Form 1026. State chartered credit unions described in section 501 (c) (14) shall submit an application for exemption showing the State and date of incorporation. The application should show that the State credit union law with respect to loans, investments, and dividends, if any, is being complied with. All other organizations claiming exemption, other than employees' trusts described in section 401 (a), shall file an application for exemption showing the character of the organization, the purpose for which it was organized, its actual activities, the sources of its income and receipts and the disposition thereof, whether or not any of its income or receipts is credited to surplus or may inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and in general all facts relating to its operations which affect its right to exemption. To each such form or application shall be attached a conformed copy of the articles of incorporation, declaration of trust, or other instrument of similar import, setting forth the permitted powers or activities of the organization, the by-laws or other code of regulations, and the latest financial statement showing the assets, liabilities, receipts, and disbursements of the organization. Each such form or application shall contain or be verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury.

(ii) For the rules relating to obtaining a determination of exempt status by an employees' trust described in section 401 (a), see paragraph (e) of § 1.401–1.

(b) Additional proof by particular classes of organizations. (1) Organizations mentioned below shall submit with and as a part of their applications the following information:

(i) Mutual insurance companies shall submit copies of the policies or certificates of membership issued by them.

(ii) In the case of title holding companies described in section 501 (c) (2), if the organization for which title is held has not been specifically notified in writing by the Internal Revenue Service that it is held to be exempt under section 501 (a), the title holding company shall submit the information indicated herein as necessary for a determination of the status of the organization for which title is held.

(2) In addition to the information specifically called for by this section, the Commissioner may require any additional information deemed necessary for a proper determination of whether a particular organization is exempt under section 501 (a), and when deemed advisable in the interest of an efficient administration of the internal revenue laws, he may in the cases of particular types of organizations prescribe the form in which the proof of exemption shall be furnished.

(3) An organization claiming to be specifically exempted by section 6033 (a) from filing annual returns shall submit with and as a part of its application a statement of all the facts on which it bases its claim.

(c) "Private shareholder or individual" defined. The words "private shareholder or individual" in section 501 refer to persons having a personal and private interest in the activities of the organization.

(d) Requirement of annual returns. For the annual return requirements of organizations exempt under section 501 (a), see section 6033 and § 1.6033–1.

§ 1.501 (b) Statutory provisions; exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc.; tax on unrelated business income.

SEC. 501. Exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc. • • •

(b) Tax on unrelated business income. An organization exempt from taxation under subsection (a) shall be subject to tax to the extent provided in part II of this subchapter (relating to tax on unrelated income), but, notwithstanding part II, shall be considered an organization exempt from income taxes for the purpose of any law which refers to organizations exempt from income taxes.

§ 1.501 (c) (1) Statutory provisions; exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc.; list of exempt organizations; instrumentalities of the United States.

SEC. 501. Exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc. • • •

(c) List of exempt organizations. The following organizations are referred to in subsection (a):

(1) Corporations organized under Act of Congress, if such corporations are instrumentalities of the United States and, if under such Act, as amended and supplemented, such corporations are exempt from Federal income taxes.

§ 1.501 (c) (2) Statutory provisions; exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc.; corporations organized to hold title to property for exempt organizations.

SEC. 501. Exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc. • • •

(c) List of exempt organizations. The following organizations are referred to in subsection (a): • • •

(2) Corporations organized for the exclusive purpose of holding title to property, collecting income therefrom, and turning over the entire amount thereof, less expenses, to an organization which itself is exempt under this section.

§ 1.501 (c) (2)–1 Corporations organized to hold title to property for exempt organizations. (a) A corporation described in section 501 (c) (2) and otherwise exempt from tax under section 501 (a) is taxable upon its unrelated business taxable income if the income is payable to an organization which is itself subject to the tax imposed by section 511 or if the income is payable to a church or to a convention or association of churches. See sections 511 to 515, inclusive, and the regulations thereunder. Since a corporation described in section 501 (c) (2) cannot be exempt under section 501 (a) if it engages in any business other than that of holding title to property and collecting income therefrom, it cannot have unrelated business taxable income as defined in section 512 other than unrelated business rental income described in section 514.

(b) A corporation described in section 501 (c) (2) cannot accumulate income and retain its exemption, but it must turn over the entire amount of such income, less expenses, to an organization which is itself exempt from tax under section 501 (a).

§ 1.501 (c) (3) [Reserved.]

§ 1.501 (c) (4) [Reserved.]

SEC. 501. Exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc. • • •

(c) List of exempt organizations. The following organizations are referred to in subsection (a): • • •

(5) Labor, agricultural, or horticultural organizations.

§ 1.501 (c) (5)–1 Labor, agricultural, and horticultural organizations. (a) The organizations contemplated by section 501 (c) (5) as entitled to exemption from income taxation are those which:

(1) Have no net earnings inuring to the benefit of any member, and

(2) Have as their objects the betterment of the conditions of those engaged in such pursuits, the improvement of the grade of their products, and the development of a higher degree of efficiency in their respective occupations.

(b) Organizations described in section 501 (c) (5) and otherwise exempt from tax under section 501 (a) are taxable upon their unrelated business taxable income. See sections 511 to 515, inclusive, and the regulations thereunder.

§ 1.501 (c) (6) Statutory provisions; exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc.; business leagues, chambers of commerce, real estate boards and boards of trade.

SEC. 501. Exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc. • • •

(c) List of exempt organizations. The following organizations are referred to in subsection (a): • • •

(6) Business leagues, chambers of commerce, real-estate boards, or boards of trade not organized for profit and no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

§ 1.501 (c) (6)–1 Business leagues, chambers of commerce, real estate boards, and boards of trade. A business league is an association of persons having some common business interest, the purpose of which is to promote such common interest and not to engage in a regular business of a kind ordinarily carried on for profit. It is an organization of the same general class as a chamber of commerce or board of trade. Thus, its activities should be directed to the improvement of business conditions of one or more lines of business as distinguished from the performance of particular services for individual persons. An organization whose purpose is to engage in a regular business of a kind ordinarily carried on for profit, even though the business is conducted on a cooperative basis or produces only sufficient income to be self-sustaining, is not a business league. An association engaged in furnishing information to prospective investors, to enable them to make sound investments, is not a business league, since its activities do not further any common business interest, even though all of its income is devoted to the purpose stated. A stock or commodity exchange is not a business league, a chamber of commerce, or a board of trade within the meaning of section 501 (c) (6) and is not exempt from tax. Organizations otherwise exempt from tax under this section are taxable upon their unrelated business taxable income. See sections 511 to 515, inclusive, and the regulations thereunder.

§ 1.501 (c) (7) Statutory provisions; exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc.; social clubs.

SEC. 501. Exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc. • • •

(c) List of exempt organizations. The following organizations are referred to in subsection (a): • • •

(7) Clubs organized and operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation, and other nonprofitable purposes, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder.

§ 1.501 (c) (7)–1 Social Clubs. (a) The exemption provided by section 501 (a) for organizations described in section 501 (c) (7) applies only to clubs which are organized and operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation, and other nonprofitable purposes, but does not apply to any club if any part of its net earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder. In general, this exemption extends to social and recreation clubs which are supported solely by membership fees, dues, and assessments. However, a club otherwise entitled to exemption will not be disqualified because it raises revenue from members through the use of club facilities or in connection with club activities.

(b) A club which engages in business, such as making its social and recreational facilities available to the general public or by selling real estate, timber, or other products, is not organized and operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation, and other nonprofitable purposes, and is not exempt under section 501 (a). Solicitation by advertisement or otherwise for public patronage of its facilities is prima facie evidence that the club is engaging in business and is not being operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation, or social purposes. However, an incidental sale of property will not deprive a club of its exemption.

SEC. 501. Exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc. • • •

(c) List of exempt organizations. The following organizations are referred to in subsection (a): • • •

(8) Fraternal beneficiary societies, orders, or associations—

(A) Operating under the lodge system or for the exclusive benefit of the members of a fraternity itself operating under the lodge system, and

(B) Providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members of such society, order, or association or their dependents.

§ 1.501 (c) (8)–1 Fraternal beneficiary societies. (a) A fraternal beneficiary society is exempt from tax only if operated under the "lodge system" or for the exclusive benefit of the members so operating. "Operating under the lodge system" means carrying on its activities under a form of organization that comprises local branches, chartered by a parent organization and largely self-governing, called lodges, chapters, or the like. In order to be exempt it is also necessary that the society have an established system for the payment to its members or their dependents of life, sick, accident, or other benefits.

(b) To be exempt a fraternal beneficiary society must be operated in furtherance of its fraternal purposes and may not engage in business activities of a kind carried on for profit, except that the carrying on of activities which raise revenues from members and their guests will not deprive the society of its exemption.

(B) 85 percent or more of the income consists of amounts collected from members and amounts contributed to the association by the employer of the members for the sole purpose of making such payments and meeting expenses.

(A) Admission to membership in such association is limited to individuals who are officers or employees of the United States Government, and

(B) No part of the net earnings of such association inures (other than through such payments) to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

(A) No part of their net earnings inures (other than through payment of retirement benefits) to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and

(B) The income consists solely of amounts received from public taxation, amounts received from assessments on the teaching salaries of members, and income in respect of investments.

§ 1.501 (c) (12) Statutory provisions; exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc.; local benevolent life insurance associations, mutual irrigation and telephone companies and like organizations.

(12) Benevolent life insurance associations of a purely local character, mutual ditch or irrigation companies, mutual or cooperative telephone companies, or like organizations; but only if 85 percent or more of the income consists of amounts collected from members for the sole purpose of meeting losses and expenses.

§ 1.501 (c) (12)–1 Local benevolent life insurance associations, mutual irrigation and telephone companies, and like organizations. (a) An organization described in section 501 (c) (12) must receive at least 85 percent of its income from amounts collected from members for the sole purpose of meeting losses and expenses. If an organization issues policies for stipulated cash premiums, or if it requires advance deposits to cover the cost of the insurance and maintains investments from which more than 15 percent of its income is derived, it is not entitled to exemption. On the other hand, an organization may be entitled to exemption, although it makes advance assessments for the sole purpose of meeting future losses and expenses, provided that the balance of such assessments remaining on hand at the end of the year is retained to meet losses and expenses or is returned to members.

(b) The phrase "of a purely local character" applies to benevolent life insurance associations, and not to the other organizations specified in section 501 (c) (12). It also applies to any organization seeking exemption on the ground that it is an organization similar to a benevolent life insurance association. An organization of a purely local character is one whose business activities are confined to a particular community, place, or district, irrespective, however, of political subdivisions. If the activities of an organization are limited only by the borders of a State it cannot be considered to be purely local in character.

§ 1.501 (c) (13)–1 Cemetery companies. (a) A cemetery company may be entitled to exemption—

(1) If it is owned by and operated exclusively for the benefit of its lot owners who hold such lots for bona fide burial purposes and not for purpose of resale, or

(2) If it is not operated for profit.

(b) Any cemetery corporation chartered solely for burial purposes and not permitted by its charter to engage in any business not necessarily incident to that purpose is exempt from income tax, provided that no part of its net earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual. A cemetery company which fulfills the other requirements of section 501 (c) (13) may be exempt, even though it issues preferred stock entitling the holders to dividends at a fixed rate, not exceeding the legal rate of interest in the State of incorporation or 8 percent per annum, whichever is greater, on the value of the consideration for which the stock was issued, provided that its articles of incorporation require:

(1) That the preferred stock shall be retired at par as soon as sufficient funds available therefor are realized from sales, and

(2) That all funds not required for the payment of dividends upon or for the retirement of preferred stock shall be used by the company for the care and improvement of the cemetery property.

(16) Corporations organized by an association subject to part III of this subchapter or members thereof, for the purpose of financing the ordinary crop operations of such members or other producers, and operated in conjunction with such association. Exemption shall not be denied any such corporation because it has capital stock, if the dividend rate of such stock is fixed at not to exceed the legal rate of interest in the State of incorporation or 8 percent per annum, whichever is greater, on the value of the consideration for which the stock was issued, and if substantially all such stock (other than nonvoting preferred stock, the owners of which are not entitled or permitted to participate, directly or indirectly, in the profits of the corporation, on dissolution or otherwise, beyond the fixed dividends) is owned by such association, or members thereof; nor shall exemption be denied any such corporation because there is accumulated and maintained by it a reserve required by State law or a reasonable reserve for any necessary purpose.

§ 1.501 (c) (16)–1 Corporations organized to finance crop operations. A corporation organized by a farmers' cooperative marketing or purchasing association, or the members thereof, for the purpose of financing the ordinary crop operations of such members or other producers is exempt, provided the marketing or purchasing association is exempt under section 521 and the financing corporation is operated in conjunction with the marketing or purchasing association. The provisions of § 1.521–1 relating to a reserve or surplus and to capital stock shall also apply to corporations coming under this section.

(d) Religious and apostolic organizations. The following organizations are referred to in subsection (a): Religious or apostolic associations or corporations, if such associations or corporations have a common treasury or community treasury, even if such associations or corporations engage in business for the common benefit of the members, but only if the members thereof include (at the time of filing their returns) in their gross income their entire pro rata shares, whether distributed or not, of the taxable income of the association or corporation for such year. Any amount so included in the gross income of a member shall be treated as a dividend received.

§ 1.501 (d)–1 Religious and apostolic associations or corporations. (a) Religious or apostolic associations or corporations are described in section 501 (d) and are exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) if they have a common treasury or community treasury, even though they engage in business for the common benefit of the members, provided each of the members includes (at the time of filing his return) in his gross income his entire pro rata share, whether distributed or not, of the net income of the association or corporation for the taxable year of the association or corporation ending with or during his taxable year. Any amount so included in the gross income of a member shall be treated as a dividend received.

(b) For annual return requirements of organizations described in section 501 (d), see section 6033 and paragraph (a) (5) of § 1.6033–1.

§ 1.501 (e) Statutory provisions; exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc.; cross reference.

(e) Cross reference. For nonexemption of Communist-controlled organizations, see section 11 (b) of the Internal Security Act of 1950 (64 Stat. 997; 50 U. S. C. 790 (b)).

§ 1.501 (e)–1 Communist-controlled organizations. Under section 11 (b) of the Internal Security Act of 1950, as amended, which is made applicable to the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 by section 7852 (b) of that Code, no organization is entitled to exemption under sections 501 (a) or 521 (a) for any taxable year if at any time during such year such organization is registered under section 7 of such Act or if there is in effect a final order of the Subversive Activities Control Board established by section 12 of such Act requiring such organization to register under section 7 of such Act, or determining that it is a Communist-infiltrated organization.

§ 1.502 Statutory provisions; feeder organizations.

SEC. 502. Feeder organizations. An organization operated for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business for profit shall not be exempt under section 501 on the ground that all of its profits are payable to one or more organizations exempt under section 501 from taxation. For purposes of this section, the term "trade or business" shall not include the rental by an organization of its real property (including personal property leased with the real property).

§ 1.502–1 Feeder organizations. (a) In the case of an organization operated for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business for profit, exemption is not allowed under section 501 on the ground that all the profits of such organization are payable to one or more organizations exempt from taxation under section 501. For the purpose of this rule, the term "trade or business" does not include the rental by an organization of its real property (including personal property leased with the real property). In determining the primary purpose of an organization, all the circumstances must be considered, including the size and extent of the trade or business and the size and extent of those activities of such organization which are specified in the applicable paragraph of section 501.

(b) If a subsidiary organization of a tax-exempt organization would itself be exempt on the ground that its activities are an integral part of the exempt activities of the parent organization, its exemption will not be lost because, as a matter of accounting between the two organizations, the subsidiary derives a profit from its dealings with its parent organization, for example, a subsidiary organization which is operated for the sole purpose of furnishing electric power used by its parent organization, a tax-exempt educational organization, in carrying on its educational activities. However, the subsidiary organization is not exempt from tax if it is operated for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business which would be an unrelated trade or business (that is, unrelated to exempt activities) if regularly carried on by the parent organization. For example, if a subsidiary organization is operated primarily for the purpose of furnishing electric power to consumers other than its parent organization (and the parent's tax-exempt subsidiary organizations), it is not exempt since such business would be an unrelated trade or business if regularly carried on by the parent organization. Similarly, if the subsidiary is owned by several unrelated exempt organizations, and is operated for the purpose of furnishing electric power to each of them, it is not exempt since such business would be an unrelated trade or business if regularly carried on by any one of the tax-exempt organizations.

(c) In certain cases an organization which carries on a trade or business for profit but is not operated for the primary purpose of carrying on such trade or business is subject to the tax imposed under section 511 on its unrelated business taxable income.

§ 1.503 (a) Statutory provisions; requirements for exemption; denial of exemption to organizations engaged in prohibited transactions.

SEC. 503. Requirements for exemption—(a) Denial of exemption to organizations engaged in prohibited transactions—(1) General rule. An organization described in section 501 (c) (3) which is subject to the provisions of this section shall not be exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) if it has engaged in a prohibited transaction after July 1, 1950; and an organization described in section 401 (a) which is subject to the provisions of this section shall not be exempt from taxation under section 501 (a), if it has engaged in a prohibited transaction after March 1, 1954.

(2) Taxable years affected. An organization described in section 501 (c) (3) or section 401 (a) shall be denied exemption from taxation under section 501 (a) by reason of paragraph (1) only for taxable years after the taxable year during which it is notified by the Secretary or his delegate that it has engaged in a prohibited transaction, unless such organization entered into such prohibited transaction with the purpose of diverting corpus or income of the organization from its exempt purposes, and such transaction involved a substantial part of the corpus or income of such organization.

§ 1.503 (a)–1 Denial of exemption to organizations engaged in prohibited transactions. (a) The prohibited transactions enumerated in section 503 (c) are in addition to and not in limitation of the restrictions contained in section 501 (c) (3) and section 401 (a). Even though an organization has not engaged in any of the prohibited transactions referred to in section 503 (c), it still may not qualify for tax exemption in view of the general provisions of section 501 (c) (3) and section 401 (a). Thus, if a trustee or other fiduciary of the organization (whether or not he is also a creator of such organization) enters into a transaction with the organization, such transaction will be closely scrutinized in the light of the fiduciary principle requiring undivided loyalty to ascertain whether the organization is in fact being operated for the stated exempt purposes.

(b) An organization described in section 501 (c) (3) which after July 1, 1950, has engaged in any prohibited transaction as defined in section 503 (c), unless it is excepted by the provisions of section 503 (b), and an organization described in section 401 (a) which after March 1, 1954, has engaged in any such prohibited transaction shall not be exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) for any taxable year subsequent to the taxable year in which there is mailed to it a notice in writing by the Commissioner that it has engaged in such prohibited transaction. Such notification by the Commissioner shall be by registered or certified mail to the last known address of the organization. However, notwithstanding the requirement of notification by the Commissioner, exemption shall be denied with respect to any taxable year if such organization during or prior to such taxable year commenced the prohibited transaction with the purpose of diverting income or corpus from its exempt purposes and such transaction involved a substantial part of the income or corpus of such organization. For the purpose of this section, the term "taxable year" means the established annual accounting period of the organization; or, if the organization has no such established annual accounting period, the "taxable year" of the organization means the calendar year.

(c) The application of section 503 (c) may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). A creates a foundation in 1954 ostensibly for educational purposes. B, a trustee, accumulates the foundation's income from 1957 until 1959 and then uses a substantial part of this accumulated income to send A's children to college. The foundation would lose its exemption for the taxable years 1957 through 1959 and for subsequent taxable years until it regains its exempt status.

Example (2). If under the facts in example (1) such private benefit was the purpose of the foundation from its inception, such foundation is not exempt by reason of the general provisions of section 501 (c) (3), without regard to the provisions of section 503, for all years since its inception, that is, for the taxable years 1954 through 1959 and subsequent taxable years, since under section 501 (c) (3) the organization must be organized and operated exclusively for exempt purposes. See § 1.501 (c) (3)–1. See also § 1.504–1 for loss of exemption in the case of certain organizations accumulating income.

§ 1.503 (b) Statutory provisions; requirements for exemption; organizations to which section applies.

SEC. 503. Requirements for exemption. • • •

(b) Organizations to which section applies. This section shall apply to any organization described in section 501 (c) (3) or section 401 (a) except—

(1) A religious organization (other than a trust);

(2) An educational organization which normally maintains a regular faculty and curriculum and normally has a regularly enrolled body of pupils or students in attendance at the place where its educational activities are regularly carried on;

(3) An organization which normally receives a substantial part of its support (exclusive of income received in the exercise or performance by such organization of its charitable, educational, or other purpose or function constituting the basis for its exemption under section 501 (a)) from the United States or any State or political subdivision thereof or from direct or indirect contributions from the general public;

(4) An organization which is operated, supervised, controlled, or principally supported by a religious organization (other than a trust) which is itself not subject to the provisions of this section; and

(5) An organization the principal purposes or functions of which are the providing of medical or hospital care or medical education or medical research or agricultural research.

§ 1.503 (c) Statutory provisions; requirements for exemption; prohibited transactions.

SEC. 503. Requirements for exemption. • • •

(c) Prohibited transactions. For purposes of this section, the term "prohibited transaction" means any transaction in which an organization subject to the provisions of this section—

(1) Lends any part of its income or corpus, without the receipt of adequate security and a reasonable rate of interest, to;

(2) Pays any compensation, in excess of a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal services actually rendered, to;

(3) Makes any part of its services available on a preferential basis to;

(4) Makes any substantial purchase of securities or any other property, for more than adequate consideration in money or money's worth, from;

(5) Sells any substantial part of its securities or other property, for less than an adequate consideration in money or money's worth, to; or

(6) Engages in any other transaction which results in a substantial diversion of its income or corpus to;

the creator of such organization (if a trust); a person who has made a substantial contribution to such organization; a member of the family (as defined in section 267 (c) (4)) of an individual who is the creator of such trust or who has made a substantial contribution to such organization; or a corporation controlled by such creator or person through the ownership, directly or indirectly, of 50 percent or more of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or 50 percent or more of the total value of shares of all classes of stock of the corporation.

§ 1.503 (c)–1 Prohibited transactions—(a) In general. The term "prohibited transaction" means any transaction set forth in section 503 (c) engaged in by an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) or section 401 (a), other than those organizations excepted by section 503 (b). Whether a transaction is a prohibited transaction depends on the facts and circumstances of the particular case. This section is intended to deny tax-exempt status to those organizations described in sections 501 (c) (3) and 401 (a) which engage in certain transactions which inure to the private advantage of (1) the creator of such organization (if it is a trust); (2) any substantial contributor to the organization; (3) a member of the family (as defined in section 267 (c) (4)) of an individual who is such creator of or such substantial contributor to such organization; or (4) a corporation controlled, as set forth in section 503 (c), by such creator or substantial contributor.

(b) Loans as prohibited transactions under section 503 (c) (1)—(1) Adequate security. For the purposes of section 503 (c) (1), which treats as prohibited transactions certain loans by an organization without receipt of adequate security and a reasonable rate of interest, the term "adequate security" means something in addition to and supporting a promise to pay, which is so pledged to the organization that it may be sold, foreclosed upon, or otherwise disposed of in default of repayment of the loan, the value and liquidity of which security is such that it may reasonably be anticipated that loss of principal or interest will not result from the loan. Mortgages or liens on property, accommodation endorsements of those financially capable of meeting the indebtedness, and stock or securities issued by corporations other than the borrower may constitute security for a loan to the persons or organizations described in section 503 (c). Stock of a borrowing corporation does not constitute adequate security. A borrower's evidence of indebtedness, irrespective of its name, is itself not security for a loan, whether or not it was issued directly to the exempt organization. However, if any such evidence of indebtedness provides for security that may be sold, foreclosed upon, or otherwise disposed of in default of repayment of the loan, there may be adequate security for such loan. If an organization subject to section 503 (c) purchases debentures issued by a person specified in section 503 (c), the purchase is considered, for purposes of section 503 (c) (1), as a loan made by the purchaser to the issuer on the date of such purchase. For example, if an exempt organization subject to section 503 (c) makes a purchase through a registered security exchange of debentures issued by a person described in section 503 (c), and owned by an unknown third party, the purchase will be considered as a loan to the issuer by the purchaser. For rules relating to loan of funds to, or investment of funds in stock or securities of, persons described in section 503 (c) by an organization described in section 401 (a), see paragraph (b) (5) of § 1.401–1.

(2) Effective dates. The effective dates for the application of the definition of adequate security in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph are:

(i) March 15, 1956, for loans (other than debentures) made after March 15, 1956;

(ii) January 31, 1957, for loans (other than debentures) made before March 16, 1956, and continued after January 31, 1957;

(iii) November 8, 1956, for debentures which were purchased after November 8, 1956;

(iv) March 15, 1959, or the ninetieth day after the date of enactment of legislation amending section 503 and relating to adequate security, whichever date is earlier, for debentures which were purchased before November 9, 1956, and held after such earlier date.

(v) If an employees' pension, stock bonus, or profit-sharing trust described in section 401 (a) made a loan before March 1, 1954, repayable by its terms after December 31, 1955, and which would constitute a prohibited transaction if made on or after March 1, 1954, the loan shall not constitute a prohibited transaction if held until maturity (determined without regard to any extension or renewal thereof).

(c) Examples. The following examples illustrate the operation of section 503 (c) (1):

Example (1). A, creator of an exempt trust subject to section 503, borrows $100,000 from such trust in 1960, giving his unsecured promissory note. The net worth of A is $1,000,000. The net worth of A is not "security" for such loan and the transaction is a prohibited transaction. If, however, the note is secured by a mortgage on property of sufficient value, or is accompanied by acceptable collateral of sufficient value, or carries with it the secondary promise of repayment by an accommodation endorser financially capable of meeting the indebtedness, it may be adequately secured. However, subordinated debenture bonds of a partnership which are guaranteed by the general partners are not adequately secured since the general partners are liable for the firm's debt and their guaranty adds no additional security.

Example (2). Assume the same facts as in example (1) except that A's promissory note in the amount of $100,000 to the trust is secured by property which has a fair market value of $75,000. A's promissory note secured to the extent of $75,000 is not adequately secured within the meaning of section 503 (c) (1) since the security at the time of the transaction must be sufficient to repay the indebtedness, interest, and charges which may pertain thereto.

Example (3). Corporation M, a substantial contributor to an exempt organization subject to section 503, borrows $150,000 from such organization in 1960, giving its promissory note accompanied by stock of the borrowing corporation with a fair market value of $200,000. Since promissory notes and debentures have priority over stock in the event of liquidation of the corporation, stock of a borrowing corporation may not be adequate security. Likewise, debenture bonds which are convertible on default into voting stock of the issuing corporation may not constitute "adequate security" under section 503 (c) (1).

Example (4). B, creator of an exempt trust subject to section 503, borrows $100,000 from such trust in 1960, giving his secured promissory note at the rate of 3 percent interest. The prevailing rate of interest charged by financial institutions in the community where the transaction takes place is 5 percent for a loan of the same duration and similarly secured. The loan by the trust to the grantor is a prohibited transaction since section 503 (c) (1) requires both adequate security and a reasonable rate of interest. Further, a promise to repay the loan plus a percentage of future profits which may be greater than the prevailing rate of interest does not meet the reasonable rate of interest requirement.

Example (5). N Corporation, a substantial contributor to an exempt organization subject to section 503, borrows $50,000 on or after March 16, 1956, from the organization. If the loan is not adequately secured, the organization has committed a prohibited transaction at the time the loan was made. If the loan had been made on or before March 15, 1956, and is continued after January 31, 1957, it must be adequately secured on February 1, 1957, or it will be considered a prohibited transaction on that date. However, if the exempt organization were an employees' trust, described in section 401 (a), and the loan were made before March 1, 1954, repayable by its terms after December 31, 1955, it would not have to be adequately secured on February 1, 1957.

Example (6). An exempt organization subject to section 503 purchases a debenture issued by O Corporation, which is a substantial contributor to the organization. The organization purchases the debenture in an arm's length transaction from a third person on or after November 9, 1956. The purchase is considered as a loan by the organization to O Corporation and the loan must be adequately secured when it is made, or it is considered as a prohibited transaction at that time. If the organization purchased the debenture on or before November 8, 1956, and holds it after the earlier of the dates set forth in paragraph (b) (2) (iv) of this section the debenture must be adequately secured on the day after such earlier date or it will be then considered as a prohibited transaction. However, if the organization were an employees' trust described in section 401 (a), and if the debenture were purchased before March 1, 1954, and its maturity date is after December 31, 1955, the debenture does not have to be adequately secured.

§ 1.503 (d) Statutory provisions; requirements for exemption; future status of organizations denied exemption.

SEC. 503. Requirements for exemption. • • •

(d) Future status of organizations denied exemption. Any organization described in section 501 (c) (3) or section 401 (a) which is denied exemption under section 501 (a) by reason of subsection (a) of this section, with respect to any taxable year following the taxable year in which notice of denial of exemption was received, may, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, file claim for exemption, and if the Secretary or his delegate, pursuant to such regulations, is satisfied that such organization will not knowingly again engage in a prohibited transaction, such organization shall be exempt with respect to taxable years after the year in which such claim is filed.

§ 1.503 (d)–1 Future status of organizations denied exemption. (a) Any organization described in section 501 (c) (3) or an employees' trust described in section 401 (a), which is denied exemption under section 501 (a) by reason of the provisions of section 503 (a), may file, in any taxable year following the taxable year in which notice of denial was issued, a claim for exemption. Form 1023, the exemption application, shall be used for this purpose in the case of an organization described in section 501 (c) (3), and shall be filed with the district director of internal revenue for the internal revenue district in which is located the principal place of business or principal office of the organization claiming exemption. In the case of an employees' trust described in section 401 (a), the information described in § 1.404 (a)–2 shall be submitted with a letter claiming exemption. An employees' trust described in section 401 (a) shall submit this information to the district director of internal revenue with whom a request for a determination as to its qualification under section 401 and exemption under section 501 may be submitted under paragraph (1) of § 601.201 of this chapter (Statement of Procedural Rules). A claim for exemption must contain or have attached to it, in addition to the information generally required of such an organization claiming exemption as an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) or 401 (a), a written declaration made under the penalties of perjury by a principal officer of such organization authorized to make such declaration that the organization will not knowingly again engage in a prohibited transaction. See § 1.501 (a)–1 for proof of exemption requirements in general.

(b) If the Commissioner is satisfied that such organization will not knowingly again engage in a prohibited transaction and that the organization also satisfies all other requirements under section 501 (c) (3) or section 401 (a), the organization will be so notified in writing. In such case the organization will be exempt (subject to the provisions of sections 501 (c) (3), 401 (a), 503, and 504) with respect to the taxable years subsequent to the taxable year in which the claim prescribed in section 503 (d) is filed. Section 503 contemplates that an organization denied exemption because of the terms of such section will be subject to taxation for at least one full taxable year. For the purpose of this section, the term "taxable year" means the established annual accounting period of the organization; or, if the organization has no such established annual accounting period, the "taxable year" of the organization means the calendar year.

§ 1.503 (d)–2 Fiscal years and short taxable years ending after March 1, 1954, subject to the Internal Revenue Code of 1939. Pursuant to section 7851 (a) (1) (C), the regulations prescribed in §§ 1.503 (a)–1 to 1.503 (d)–1, inclusive, as they relate to the denial of exemption to organizations described in section 401 (a) engaged in prohibited transactions after March 1, 1954, shall also apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1953, and ending after March 1, 1954, but before August 17, 1954, and to taxable years beginning before January 1, 1954, and ending after March 1, 1954, which years are subject to the Internal Revenue Code of 1939.

§ 1.503 (e) Statutory provisions; requirements for exemption; disallowance of certain charitable, etc., deductions.

SEC. 503. Requirements for exemption. • • •

(e) Disallowance of certain charitable, etc., deductions. No gift or bequest for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes (including the encouragement of art and the prevention of cruelty to children or animals), otherwise allowable as a deduction under section 170, 642 (c), 545 (b) (2), • • • shall be allowed as a deduction if made to an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) which, in the taxable year of the organization in which the gift or bequest is made, is not exempt under section 501 (a) by reason of this section. With respect to any taxable year of the organization for which the organization is not exempt pursuant to subsection (a) by reason of having engaged in a prohibited transaction with the purpose of diverting the corpus or income of such organization from its exempt purposes and such transaction involved a substantial part of such corpus or income, and which taxable year is the same, or prior to the, taxable year of the organization in which such transaction occurred, such deduction shall be disallowed the donor only if such donor or (if such donor is an individual) any member of his family (as defined in section 267 (c) (4)) was a party to such prohibited transaction.

§ 1.503 (e)–1 Disallowance of certain charitable deductions. (a) No gift or contribution which would otherwise be allowable as a charitable or other deduction under section 170, 642 (c), or 545 (b) (2) shall be allowed as a deduction if made to an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) which at the time the gift or contribution is made is not exempt under section 501 (a) by reason of the provisions of section 503.

(b) If an organization which is described in section 501 (c) (3) is not exempt because it engaged in a prohibited transaction involving a substantial part of its income or corpus with the purpose of diverting its income or corpus from its exempt purposes, and if the organization receives a gift or contribution during, or prior to, its taxable year in which such prohibited transaction occurred, then a deduction by the donor with respect to the gift or contribution shall not be disallowed under section 503 (e) unless the donor (or any member of his family if the donor is an individual) is a party to such prohibited transaction.

For the purpose of the preceding sentence, "family" is defined in section 267 (c) (4) and includes brothers and sisters, whether by whole or half blood, spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants. See the regulations under section 267 (c).

(c) The application of section 503 (e) may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. In 1954, Corporation M, which files its income tax returns on the calendar year basis, creates a foundation purportedly for charitable purposes and deducts from its gross income for that year the amount of the gift to the foundation. Corporation M makes additional gifts to this foundation in 1955, 1956, and 1957, and takes charitable deductions for such years. B, an individual, also contributes to the foundation in 1955, 1956, and 1957, and takes charitable deductions for such years. In 1955, the foundation commences purposely to divert its corpus to the benefit of Corporation M, and a substantial amount of such corpus is so diverted by the close of the taxable year 1956. For 1955 and subsequent taxable years, the exemption allowed the foundation as an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) is denied by reason of the provisions of section 503 (a). Both Corporation M and individual B would be disallowed any deduction for the contributions made during 1957 to the foundation. Moreover, the charitable deductions taken by Corporation M for contributions to the foundation in the years 1955 and 1956 would also be disallowed since Corporation M was a party to the prohibited transaction. If the facts and surrounding circumstances indicate that the contribution in 1954 by Corporation M was for the purpose of the prohibited transaction, then the charitable deduction for the year 1954 shall also be disallowed with respect to Corporation M, since the prohibited transaction would then have commenced with the making of such contribution and the exemption allowed the foundation would then be denied for 1954 by reason of the provisions of section 503 (e). B's deductions for his contributions for the years 1955 and 1956 will not be disallowed since he was not a party to the prohibited transaction.

(f) Definition. For purposes of this section, the term "gift or bequest" means any gift, contribution, bequest, devise, legacy, or transfer.

SEC. 503. Requirements for exemption. • • •

(g) Special rule for loans. For purposes of the application of subsection (c) (1), in the case of a loan by a trust described in section 401 (a), the following rules shall apply with respect to a loan made before March 1, 1954, which would constitute a prohibited transaction if made on or after March 1, 1954:

(1) If any part of the loan is repayable prior to December 31, 1955, the renewal of such part of the loan for a period not extending beyond December 31, 1955, on the same terms, shall not be considered a prohibited transaction.

(2) If the loan is repayable on demand, the continuation of the loan without the receipt of adequate security and a reasonable rate of interest beyond December 31, 1955, shall be considered a prohibited transaction.

§ 1.504 Statutory provisions; denial of exemption.

SEC. 504. Denial of exemption—(a) General rule. In the case of any organization described in section 501 (c) (3) to which section 503 is applicable, exemption under section 501 shall be denied for the taxable year if the amounts accumulated out of income during the taxable year or any prior taxable year and not actually paid out by the end of the taxable year—

(1) Are unreasonable in amount or duration in order to carry out the charitable, educational, or other purpose or function constituting the basis for exemption under section 501 (a) of an organization described in section 501 (c) (3); or

(2) Are used to a substantial degree for purposes or functions other than those constituting the basis for exemption under section 501 (a) of an organization described in section 501 (c) (3); or

(3) Are invested in such a manner as to jeopardize the carrying out of the charitable, educational, or other purpose or function constituting the basis for exemption under section 501 (a) of an organization described in section 501 (c) (3).

Paragraph (1) shall not apply to income attributable to property of a decedent dying before January 1, 1951, which is transferred under his will to a trust created by such will. In the case of a trust created by the will of a decedent dying on or after January 1, 1951, if income is required to be accumulated pursuant to the mandatory terms of the will creating the trust, paragraph (1) shall apply only to income accumulated during a taxable year of the trust beginning more than 21 years after the date of death of the last life in being designated in the trust instrument.

(b) Cross references. For the limitation on charitable contributions in case of unreasonable accumulations by certain trusts, see section 681 (c) (2).

§ 1.504–1 Denial of exemption. (a) The restrictions enumerated in section 504 are in addition to and not in limitation of the restrictions contained in section 501 (c) (3). Even though an organization has not violated any of the terms of section 504, it still may not qualify for tax exemption in view of the general provisions of section 501 (c) (3). Thus, if a trustee or other fiduciary of the organization (whether or not he is also a creator of such organization) enters into a transaction with the organization, such transaction will be closely scrutinized in the light of the fiduciary principle requiring undivided loyalty to ascertain whether the organization is in fact being operated for the stated exempt purposes.

(b) (1) Any organization described in section 501 (c) (3) other than an organization described in section 503 (b) (1) through (5), inclusive, shall not be exempt under section 501 (a) if the amounts accumulated out of income during the taxable year, or any prior taxable year, and not actually paid out for exempt purposes by the end of the taxable year, are unreasonable. Amounts accumulated out of income become unreasonable when more income is accumulated than is needed, or when the duration of the accumulation is longer than is needed in order to carry out the purpose constituting the basis for the organization's exemption. Furthermore, such an organization shall not be exempt under section 501 (a) if amounts accumulated out of income are used to a substantial degree for purposes or functions other than those constituting the basis for the organization's exemption, or if such amounts are invested in such a manner as to jeopardize the carrying out of the purpose or function constituting the basis for the organization's exemption.

(2) The provisions for the denial of exemption for unreasonable accumulations of income will not apply to income attributable to property of a decedent dying before January 1, 1951, which is transferred under his will to a trust created by such will. In the case of a trust created by the will of a decedent dying on or after January 1, 1951, where income is required to be accumulated by the trust, the denial of exemption for unreasonable accumulations of income under paragraph (b) (1) will apply only to income accumulated during a taxable year of the trust beginning more than 21 years after the date of death of the last life in being designated in the trust instrument.

(c) For the purpose of section 504, the term "income" means gains, profits, and income determined under the principles applicable in determining the earnings or profits of a corporation. The amount accumulated out of income during the taxable year or any prior taxable year shall be determined under the principles applicable in determining the accumulated earnings or profits of a corporation. In determining the reasonableness of an accumulation out of income, there will be disregarded the following:

(1) The accumulation of gain upon the sale or exchange of a donated asset to the extent that such gain represents the excess of the fair market value of such asset when acquired by the organization over its substituted basis in the hands of the organization;

(2) The accumulation of gain upon the sale or exchange of property held for the production of investment income, such as dividends, interest, and rents, where the proceeds of such sale or exchange are within a reasonable time reinvested in property acquired and held in good faith for the production of investment income.

(d) Whether the conditions specified in paragraphs (1), (2), and (3) of section 504 (a) are present in any case must be determined from all the facts. The conditions specified in section 504 (a) (1), (2), and (3) may result from the use of only one organization or of a chain of two or more organizations.

(e) An organization that has lost its exempt status by reason of the provisions of section 504 may, in order to reestablish its exemption, file a claim for exemption with the district director of internal revenue for the internal revenue district in which is located the principal place of business or principal office of the organization. Form 1023, the exemption application, shall be used for this purpose. The claim for exemption must contain or be accompanied by information or evidence showing that the circumstances that caused the loss of exemption under section 504 no longer exist, and a written declaration made under the penalties of perjury, by a principal officer of such organization authorized to make such declaration, that the organization will not knowingly again violate the terms of section 504. See § 1.501 (a)–1 for proof of exemption requirements in general. The provisions of section 504 contemplate that an organization denied exemption thereunder will be subject to taxation for at least one full taxable year. For the purpose of this section, the term "taxable year" means the established annual accounting period of the organization; or, if the organization has no such established annual accounting period, the "taxable year" of the organization means the calendar year.

(f) In the case of an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) denied exemption under section 501 (a) solely by reason of the provisions of section 504, deductions otherwise allowable under section 170, 545 (b) (2), or 642 (c) for gifts or contributions to such organization shall not be disallowed for the year during which the exemption is denied and prior years.

TAXATION OF BUSINESS INCOME OF CERTAIN EXEMPT ORGANIZATIONS

§ 1.511 Statutory provisions; imposition of tax on unrelated business income of charitable, etc., organizations.

SEC. 511. Imposition of tax on unrelated business income of charitable, etc., organizations—(a) Charitable, etc., organizations taxable at corporation rates—(1) Imposition of tax. There is hereby imposed for each taxable year on the unrelated business taxable income (as defined in section 512) of every organization described in paragraph (2) a normal tax and a surtax computed as provided in section 11. In making such computation for purposes of this section, the term "taxable income" as used in section 11 shall be read as "unrelated business taxable income".

(2) Organizations subject to tax—(A) Organizations described in section 501 (c) (3), (5), and (6), and section 401 (a). The taxes imposed by paragraph (1) shall apply in the case of any organization (other than a church, a convention or association of churches, or a trust described in subsection (b)) which is exempt, except as provided in this part, from taxation under this subtitle by reason of section 401 (a) or of paragraph (3), (5), or (6) of section 501 (c). Such taxes shall also apply in the case of a corporation described in section 501 (c) (2) if the income is payable to an organization which itself is subject to the taxes imposed by paragraph (1) or to a church or to a convention or association of churches.

(B) State colleges and universities. The taxes imposed by paragraph (1) shall apply in the case of any college or university which is an agency or instrumentality of any government or any political subdivision thereof, or which is owned or operated by a government or any political subdivision thereof, or by any agency or instrumentality of one or more governments or political subdivisions. Such taxes shall also apply in the case of any corporation wholly owned by one or more such colleges or universities.

(b) Tax on charitable, etc., trusts—(1) Imposition of tax. There is hereby imposed for each taxable year on the unrelated business taxable income of every trust described in paragraph (2) a tax computed as provided in section 1. In making such computation for purposes of this section, the term "taxable income" as used in section 1 shall be read as "unrelated business taxable income" as defined in section 512.

(2) Charitable, etc., trusts subject to tax. The tax imposed by paragraph (1) shall apply in the case of any trust which is exempt, except as provided in this part, from taxation under this subtitle by reason of section 501 (c) (3) or section 401 (a) and which, if it were not for such exemption, would be subject to subchapter J (sec. 641 and following, relating to estates, trusts, beneficiaries, and decedents).

(c) Effective date. The tax imposed by this section shall apply, in the case of a trust described in section 401 (a), only for taxable years beginning after June 30, 1954.

§ 1.511–1 Imposition and rates of tax. Section 511 (a) imposes a tax upon the unrelated business taxable income of certain organizations otherwise exempt from Federal income tax. Under section 511 (a) (1), organizations described in section 511 (a) (2) (A) and in paragraph (a) of § 1.511–2 and organizations described in section 511 (a) (2) (B) are subject to normal tax and surtax at the corporate rates provided by section 11. Under section 511 (b) (1), trusts described in section 511 (b) (2) are subject to tax at the individual rates prescribed in section 1. The deduction for personal exemption provided in section 642 (b) in the case of a trust taxable under subchapter J is not allowed in computing unrelated business taxable income.

§ 1.511–2 Organizations subject to tax. (a) (1) The taxes imposed by section 511 (a) (1) apply in the case of any organization (other than a church, a convention or association of churches, or a trust described in section 511 (b) (2)) which is exempt (except as provided in sections 511 through 515) from taxation under section 501 (a) as an organization described in section 501 (c) (3), (5), or (6), or section 401 (a). A corporation described in section 501 (c) (2) exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) holding property for an organization which itself is subject to the tax or for a church or a convention or association of churches, is also subject to the tax imposed by section 511 (a) (1).

(2) The taxes imposed by section 511 (a) apply in the case of any college or university which is an agency or instrumentality of any government or any political subdivision thereof, or which is owned or operated by a government or any political subdivision thereof or by any agency or instrumentality of any one or more governments or political subdivisions. Such taxes also apply in the case of any corporation wholly owned by one or more such colleges or universities. As here used, the word "government" includes any foreign government (to the extent not contrary to any treaty obligation of the United States) and all domestic governments (the United States and any of its Territories or possessions, any State, and the District of Columbia). Elementary and secondary schools operated by such governments are not subject to the tax on unrelated business income.

(3) (i) Churches and associations or conventions of churches are exempt from the tax imposed by section 511. The exemption is applicable only to an organization which itself is a church or an association or convention of churches. Subject to the provisions of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, religious organizations, including religious orders, if not themselves churches or associations or conventions of churches, and all other organizations which are organized or operated under church auspices, are subject to the tax imposed by section 511, whether or not they engage in religious, educational, or charitable activities approved by a church.

(ii) The term "church" includes a religious order or a religious organization if such order or organization (a) is an integral part of a church, and (b) is engaged in carrying out the functions of a church, whether as a civil law corporation or otherwise. In determining whether a religious order or organization is an integral part of a church, consideration will be given to the degree to which it is connected with, and controlled by, such church. A religious order or organization shall be considered to be engaged in carrying out the functions of a church if its duties include the ministration of sacerdotal functions and the conduct of religious worship. If a religious order or organization is not an integral part of a church, or if such an order or organization is not authorized to carry out the functions of a church (ministration of sacerdotal functions and conduct of religious worship) then it is subject to the tax imposed by section 511 whether or not it engages in religious, educational, or charitable activities approved by a church. What constitutes the conduct of religious worship or the ministration of sacerdotal functions depends on the tenets and practices of a particular religious body constituting a church. If a religious order or organization can fully meet the requirements stated in this subdivision, exemption from the tax imposed by section 511 will apply to all its activities, including those which it conducts through a separate corporation (other than a corporation described in section 501 (c) (2)) or other separate entity which it wholly owns and which is not operated for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business for profit. Such exemption from tax will also apply to activities conducted through a separate corporation (other than a corporation described in section 501 (c) (2)) or other separate entity which is wholly owned by more than one religious order or organization, if all such orders or organizations fully meet the requirements stated in this subdivision and if such corporation or other entity is not operated for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business for profit.

(b) The taxes imposed by section 511 (b) apply in the case of any trust which is exempt (except as provided in sections 511 through 515) from taxation under section 501 (a) as an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) or section 401 (a) and which, if it were not for such exemption, would be subject to the provisions of subchapter J of chapter 1. In the case of a trust described in section 401 (a), the tax imposed by section 511

(b) and this section shall apply only for taxable years beginning after June 30, 1954. An organization which is considered as "trustee" of a stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing plan described in section 401 (a) (regardless of the form of such organization) is subject to the taxes imposed by section 511 (b) (1) on its unrelated business taxable income. However, if such an organization conducts a business which is a separate taxable entity on the basis of all the facts and circumstances, for example, as a corporation or an association taxable as a corporation, the business will be taxable as a feeder organization described in section 502.

§ 1.511–3 Provisions generally applicable to the tax on unrelated business income—(a) Assessment and collections. Since the taxes imposed by section 511 are taxes imposed by subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, all provisions of law and of the regulations applicable to the taxes imposed by subtitle A are applicable to the assessment and collection of the taxes imposed by section 511. Organizations subject to the tax imposed by section 511 (a) (1) are subject to the same provisions, including penalties, as are provided in the case of the income tax of other corporations. In the case of a trust subject to the tax imposed by section 511 (b) (1), the fiduciaries for such trust are subject to the same provisions, including penalties, as are applicable to fiduciaries in the case of the income tax of other trusts. See section 6151, et seq., and the regulations prescribed thereunder, for provisions relating to payment of tax.

(b) Returns. For requirements of filing annual returns with respect to unrelated business taxable income by organizations subject to the tax on such income, see section 6012, paragraph (e) of § 1.6012–2, and paragraph (a) (5) of § 1.6012–3.

(c) Taxable years, method of accounting, etc. The taxable year (fiscal year or calendar year, as the case may be) of an organization shall be determined without regard to the fact that such organization may have been exempt from tax during any prior period. See sections 441, 446, and 7701, and the regulations thereunder. Similarly, in computing unrelated business taxable income, the determination of the taxable year for which an item of income or expense is taken into account shall be made under the provisions of sections 441, 446, 451, and 461, and the regulations thereunder, whether or not the item arose during a taxable year beginning before, on, or after the effective date of the provisions imposing a tax upon unrelated business taxable income. If a method for treating bad debts was selected in a return of income (other than an information return) for a previous taxable year, the taxpayer must follow such method in its returns under section 511, unless such method is changed in accordance with the provisions of § 1.166–1. A taxpayer which has not previously selected a method for treating bad debts may, in its first return under section 511, exercise the option granted in § 1.166–1.

(d) Foreign tax credit. See section 515 for provisions applicable to the credit for foreign taxes provided in section 901.

SEC. 512. Unrelated business taxable income—(a) Definition. The term "unrelated business taxable income" means the gross income derived by any organization from any unrelated trade or business (as defined in section 513) regularly carried on by it, less the deductions allowed by this chapter which are directly connected with the carrying on of such trade or business, both computed with the exceptions, additions, and limitations provided in subsection (b). In the case of an organization described in section 511 which is a foreign organization, the unrelated business taxable income shall be its unrelated business taxable income derived from sources within the United States determined under subchapter N (sec. 861 and following, relating to tax based on income from sources within or without the United States).

§ 1.512 (a)–1 Definition; general rule. The unrelated business taxable income which is subject to the tax imposed by section 511 is the gross income, derived by any organization to which section 511 applies, from any unrelated trade or business regularly carried on by it, less the deductions allowed by chapter 1 of the Code which are directly connected with the carrying on of such trade or business, subject to certain exceptions, additions, and limitations referred to below. In the case of an organization which regularly carries on two or more unrelated businesses, its unrelated business taxable income is the aggregate of its gross income from all such unrelated businesses, less the aggregate of the deductions allowed with respect to all such unrelated businesses. For provisions generally applicable to the unrelated business tax, see § 1.511–3, and for rules applicable to the determination of the adjusted basis of property, see paragraph (a) (2) of § 1.514 (a)–1.

SEC. 512. Unrelated business taxable income. • • •

(b) Exceptions, additions, and limitations. The exceptions, additions, and limitations applicable in determining unrelated business taxable income are the following:

(1) There shall be excluded all dividends, interest, and annuities, and all deductions directly connected with such income.

(2) There shall be excluded all royalties (including overriding royalties) whether measured by production or by gross or taxable income from the property, and all deductions directly connected with such income.

(3) There shall be excluded all rents from real property (including personal property leased with the real property), and all deductions directly connected with such rents.

(4) Notwithstanding paragraph (3), in the case of a business lease (as defined in section 514) there shall be included, as an item of gross income derived from an unrelated trade or business, the amount ascertained under section 514 (a) (1), and there shall be allowed, as a deduction, the amount ascertained under section 514 (a) (2).

(5) There shall be excluded all gains or losses from the sale, exchange, or other disposition of property other than—

(A) Stock in trade or other property of a kind which would properly be includible in inventory if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or

(B) Property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of the trade or business.

This paragraph shall not apply with respect to the cutting of timber which is considered, on the application of section 631, as a sale or exchange of such timber.

(6) The net operating loss deduction provided in section 172 shall be allowed, except that—

(A) The net operating loss for any taxable year, the amount of the net operating loss carryback or carryover to any taxable year, and the net operating loss deduction for any taxable year shall be determined under section 172 without taking into account any amount of income or deduction which is excluded under this part in computing the unrelated business taxable income; and

(B) The terms "preceding taxable year" and "preceding taxable years" as used in section 172 shall not include any taxable year for which the organization was not subject to the provisions of this part.

(7) There shall be excluded all income derived from research for (A) the United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities or (B) any State or political subdivision thereof; and there shall be excluded all deductions directly connected with such income.

(8) In the case of a college, university, or hospital, there shall be excluded all income derived from research performed for any person, and all deductions directly connected with such income.

(9) In the case of an organization operated primarily for purposes of carrying on fundamental research the results of which are freely available to the general public, there shall be excluded all income derived from research performed for any person, and all deductions directly connected with such income.

(10) In the case of any organization described in section 511 (a), the deduction allowed by section 170 (relating to charitable etc. contributions and gifts) shall be allowed (whether or not directly connected with the carrying on of the trade or business), but shall not exceed 5 percent of the unrelated business taxable income computed without the benefit of this paragraph.

(11) In the case of any trust described in section 511 (b), the deduction allowed by section 170 (relating to charitable etc. contributions and gifts) shall be allowed (whether or not directly connected with the carrying on of the trade or business), and for such purpose a distribution made by the trust to a beneficiary described in section 170 shall be considered as a gift or contribution. The deduction allowed by this paragraph shall be allowed with the limitations prescribed in section 170 (b) (1) (A) and (B) determined with reference to the unrelated business taxable income computed without the benefit of this paragraph (in lieu of with reference to adjusted gross income).

(12) There shall be allowed a specific deduction of $1,000.

§ 1.512 (b)–1 Exceptions, additions, and limitations. Whether a particular item of income falls within any of the exceptions, additions, and limitations provided in section 512 (b) shall be determined by all the facts and circumstances of each case. For example, if a payment termed "rent" by the parties is in fact a return of profits by a person operating the property for the benefit of the tax-exempt organization or is a share of the profits retained by such organization as a partner or a joint venturer, such payment is not within the exception for rent. The exceptions, additions, and limitations provided in section 512 (b) are as follows:

(a) Dividends, interest, and annuities. All dividends, interest, and annuities, and the deductions directly connected therewith, shall be excluded in computing unrelated business taxable income.

(b) Royalties. Royalties, including overriding royalties, and all deductions directly connected with such income shall be excluded in computing unrelated business taxable income. Mineral royalties shall be excluded whether measured by production or by gross or taxable income from the mineral property. However, where an organization owns a working interest in a mineral property, and is not relieved of its share of the development costs by the terms of any agreement with an operator, income received from such an interest shall not be excluded. In-oil payments shall be treated in the same manner as royalty payments for the purpose of computing unrelated business taxable income.

(c) Rents. (1) Rents from real property (including personal property leased with the real property) and the deductions directly connected therewith shall also be excluded in computing unrelated business taxable income, except that certain rents from, and certain deductions in connection with, a business lease (as defined in section 514 (a)) shall be included in computing unrelated business taxable income. See §§ 1.514 (a)–1 and 1.514 (a)–2.

(2) Payments for the use or occupancy of rooms or other space where services are also rendered to the occupant, such as for the use or occupancy of rooms or other quarters in hotels, boarding houses, or apartment houses furnishing hotel services, or in tourist camps or tourist homes, motor courts or motels, or for the use or occupancy of space in parking lots, warehouses, or storage garages, do not constitute rentals from real estate. Generally, services are considered rendered to the occupant if they are primarily for his convenience and are other than those usually or customarily rendered in connection with the rental of rooms or other space for occupancy only. The supplying of maid service, for example, constitutes such service; whereas the furnishing of heat and light, the cleaning of public entrances, exits, stairways and lobbies, the collection of trash, etc., are not considered as services rendered to the occupant. Payments for the use or occupancy of entire private residences or living quarters in duplex or multiple housing units, of offices in an office building, etc., are generally rentals from real estate.

(d) Gains and losses from the sale, etc., of property. There shall also be excluded from the computation of unrelated business taxable income gains or losses from the sale, exchange, or other disposition of property other than (1) stock in trade or other property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the organization if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or (2) property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of the trade or business. This exclusion does not apply with respect to the cutting of timber which is considered, upon the application of section 631 (a), as a sale or exchange of such timber. The exclusion under section 512 (b) (5) applies with respect to gains and losses from involuntary conversions, casualties, etc.

(e) Net operating losses. (1) The net operating loss deduction provided in section 172 shall be allowed in computing unrelated business taxable income. However, the net operating loss carryback or carryover (from a taxable year for which the taxpayer is subject to the provisions of section 511) shall be determined under section 172 without taking into account any amount of income or deduction which is not included under section 511 in computing unrelated business taxable income. For example, a loss attributable to an unrelated trade or business shall not be diminished by reason of the receipt of dividend income.

(2) For the purpose of computing the net operating loss deduction provided by section 172, any prior taxable year for which an organization was not subject to the provisions of section 511, or a corresponding provision of prior law, shall not be taken into account. Thus, if the organization was not subject to the provisions of section 511 or Supplement U of the 1939 Code for a preceding taxable year, the net operating loss is not a carryback to such preceding taxable year, and the net operating loss carryover to succeeding taxable years is not reduced by the taxable income for such preceding taxable year.

(3) A net operating loss carryback or carryover shall be allowed only from a taxable year for which the taxpayer is subject to the provisions of section 511, or a corresponding provision of prior law.

(4) In determining the span of years for which a net operating loss may be carried for purposes of section 172, taxable years in which an organization was not subject to the provisions of section 511 or a corresponding provision of prior law shall be taken into account. Thus, for example, if an organization is subject to the provisions of section 511 for the taxable year 1955 and has a net operating loss for that year, the last taxable year to which any part thereof may be carried over is the year 1960 regardless of whether the organization is subject to the provisions of section 511 in any of the intervening taxable years.

(f) Research. (1) Income derived from research for the United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities or a State or political subdivision thereof, and all deductions directly connected with such income, shall be excluded in computing unrelated business taxable income.

(2) In the case of a college, university, or hospital, all income derived from research performed for any person and all deductions directly connected with such income, shall be excluded in computing unrelated business taxable income.

(3) In the case of an organization operated primarily for the purpose of carrying on fundamental research (as distinguished from applied research) the results of which are freely available to the general public, all income derived from research performed for any person and all deductions directly connected with such income shall be excluded in computing unrelated business taxable income.

(4) For the purpose of § 1.512 (a)–1 and this section, the term "research" does not include activities of a type ordinarily carried on as an incident to commercial or industrial operations, for example, the ordinary testing or inspection of materials or products or the designing or construction of equipment, buildings, etc. The term "fundamental research" does not include research carried on for the primary purpose of commercial or industrial application.

(g) Charitable, etc., contributions. (1) In computing the unrelated business taxable income of an organization described in section 511 (a) (2) the deduction from gross income allowed by section 170 (relating to charitable contributions and gifts) shall be allowed, whether or not the contribution is directly connected with the carrying on of the trade or business. Section 512 (b) (10) provides that this deduction shall not exceed 5 percent of the organization's unrelated business taxable income computed without regard to that deduction. The provisions of section 170 (b) (2) are not applicable to contributions by the organizations described in section 511 (a) (2).

(2) In computing the unrelated business taxable income of a trust described in section 511 (b) (2), the deduction allowed by section 170 (relating to charitable contributions and gifts) shall be allowed whether or not the contribution is directly connected with the carrying on of the trade or business. The deduction is limited as provided in section 170 (b) (1) (A) and (B), except that the amounts so allowed are determined on the basis of unrelated business taxable income computed without regard to this deduction (rather than on the basis of adjusted gross income). For purposes of this deduction, a distribution by a trust described in section 511 (b) (2) made pursuant to the trust instrument to a beneficiary described in section 170 shall be treated in the same manner as gifts or contributions.

(3) The contribution, whether made by a trust or other exempt organization, must be paid to another organization to be allowable. For example, a university described in section 501 (c) (3) which is exempt from tax and which operates an unrelated business, shall be allowed a deduction, not in excess of 5 percent of its unrelated business taxable income, for gifts or contributions to another university described in section 501 (c) (3) for educational work but shall not be allowed any deduction for amounts expended in administering its own educational program.

(h) Specific deduction. In computing unrelated business taxable income a deduction from gross income of $1,000 is allowed.

SEC. 512. Unrelated business taxable income. • • •

(c) Special rules applicable to partnerships. If a trade or business regularly carried on by a partnership of which an organization is a member is an unrelated trade or business with respect to such organization, such organization in computing its unrelated business taxable income shall, subject to the exceptions, additions, and limitations contained in subsection (b), include its share (whether or not distributed) of the gross income of the partnership from such unrelated trade or business and its share of the partnership deductions directly connected with such gross income. If the taxable year of the organization is different from that of the partnership, the amounts to be so included or deducted in computing the unrelated business taxable income shall be based upon the income and deductions of the partnership for any taxable year of the partnership ending within or with the taxable year of the organization.

§ 1.512 (c)–1 Special rules applicable to partnerships; in general. In the event an organization to which section 511 applies is a member of a partnership regularly engaged in a trade or business which is an unrelated trade or business with respect to such organization, the organization shall include in computing its unrelated business taxable income so much of its share (whether or not distributed) of the partnership gross income as is derived from that unrelated business and its share of the deductions attributable thereto. For this purpose, both the gross income and the deductions shall be computed with the necessary adjustments for the exceptions, additions, and limitations referred to in section 512 (b) and in § 1.512 (b)–1. For example, if an exempt educational institution is a partner in a partnership which operates a factory and if such partnership also holds stock in a corporation, the exempt organization shall include in computing its unrelated business taxable income its share of the gross income from the operation of the factory, but not its share of any dividends received by the partnership from the corporation. If the taxable year of the organization differs from that of the partnership, the amounts included or deducted in computing unrelated business taxable income shall be based upon the income and deductions of the partnership for each taxable year of the partnership ending within or with the taxable year of the organization.

§ 1.513 Statutory provisions; unrelated trade or business.

SEC. 513. Unrelated trade or business—(a) General rule. The term "unrelated trade or business" means, in the case of any organization subject to the tax imposed by section 511, any trade or business the conduct of which is not substantially related (aside from the need of such organization for income or funds or the use it makes of the profits derived) to the exercise or performance by such organization of its charitable, educational, or other purpose or function constituting the basis for its exemption under section 501 (or, in the case of an organization described in section 511 (a) (2) (B), to the exercise or performance of any purpose or function described in section 501 (c) (3)), except that such term does not include any trade or business—

(1) In which substantially all the work in carrying on such trade or business is performed for the organization without compensation; or

(2) Which is carried on, in the case of an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) or in the case of a college or university described in section 511 (a) (2) (B), by the organization primarily for the convenience of its members, students, patients, officers, or employees; or

(3) Which is the selling of merchandise, substantially all of which has been received by the organization as gifts or contributions.

(b) Special rule for trusts. The term "unrelated trade or business" means, in the case of—

(1) A trust computing its unrelated business taxable income under section 512 for purposes of section 681; or any trade or business regularly carried on by such trust or by a partnership of which it is a member.

(2) A trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt from tax under section 501 (a);

(c) Special rule for certain publishing businesses. If a publishing business carried on by an organization during a taxable year beginning before January 1, 1953, is, without regard to this subsection, an unrelated trade or business, but before the beginning of the third succeeding taxable year the business is carried on by it (or by a successor who acquired such business in a liquidation which would have constituted a tax-free exchange under section 112 (b) (6) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939) in such manner that the conduct thereof is substantially related to the exercise or performance by such organization (or such successor) of its educational or other purpose or function described in section 501 (c) (3), such publishing business shall not be considered, for the taxable year, as an unrelated trade or business.

§ 1.513–1 Definition of unrelated trade or business—(a) In general. (1) As used in section 512 (a), the term "unrelated business taxable income" includes only income from an unrelated trade or business regularly carried on, and the term "trade or business" has the same meaning as it has in section 162.

(2) The income of an exempt organization is subject to the tax on unrelated business income only if two conditions are present with respect to such income. The first condition is that the income must be from a trade or business which is regularly carried on by the organization. The second condition is that the trade or business must not be substantially related (aside from the need of the organization for income or funds or the use it makes of the profits derived) to the exercise or performance by such organization of its charitable, educational, or other purpose or function constituting the basis for its exemption under section 501, or, in the case of an organization described in section 511 (a) (2) (B) (governmental colleges, etc.) to the exercise or performance of any purpose or function described in section 501 (c) (3). Whether or not an organization is subject to the tax imposed by section 511 shall be determined by the application of these tests to the particular circumstances involved in each individual case. For certain exceptions from the term "unrelated trade or business", see paragraph (b) of this section.

(3) A trade or business is regularly carried on when the activity is conducted with sufficient consistency to indicate a continuing purpose of the organization to derive some of its income from such activity. An activity may be regularly carried on even though its performance is infrequent or seasonal.

(4) Ordinarily, a trade or business is substantially related to the activities for which an organization is granted exemption if the principal purpose of such trade or business is to further (other than through the production of income) the purpose for which the organization is granted exemption. In the usual case the nature and size of the trade or business must be compared with the nature and extent of the activities for which the organization is granted exemption in order to determine whether the principal purpose of such trade or business is to further (other than through the production of income) the purpose for which the organization is granted exemption. For example, the operation of a wheat farm is substantially related to the exempt activity of an agricultural college if the wheat farm is operated as a part of the educational program of the college, and is not operated on a scale disproportionately large when compared with the educational program of the college. Similarly, a university radio station or press is considered a related trade or business if operated primarily as an integral part of the educational program of the university, but is considered an unrelated trade or business if operated in substantially the same manner as a commercial radio station or publishing house. A trade or business not otherwise related does not become substantially related to an organization's exempt purpose merely because incidental use is made of the trade or business in order to further the exempt purpose. For example, the manufacture and sale of a product by an exempt college would not become substantially related merely because students as part of their educational program perform clerical or bookkeeping functions in the business. In some cases, the business may be substantially related because it is a necessary part of the exempt activity. For example, in the case of an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) and engaged in the rehabilitation of handicapped persons, the business of selling articles made by such persons as a part of their rehabilitation training would not be considered an unrelated business since such business is a necessary part of the rehabilitation program.

(b) Exceptions. Section 513 (a) specifically states that the term "unrelated trade or business" does not include—

(1) Any trade or business in which substantially all the work in carrying on such trade or business is performed for the organization without compensation; or

(2) Any trade or business carried on by an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) or by a governmental college or university described in section 511 (a) (2) (B), primarily for the convenience of its members, students, patients, officers, or employees; or

(3) Any trade or business which consists of selling merchandise, substantially all of which has been received by the organization as gifts or contributions.

An example of the operation of the first of the exceptions mentioned above would be an exempt orphanage operating a retail store and selling to the general public, where substantially all the work in carrying on such business is performed for the organization by volunteers without compensation. An example of the second exception would be a laundry operated by a college for the purpose of laundering dormitory linens and the clothing of students. The third exception applies to so-called "thrift shops" operated by a tax-exempt organization where those desiring to benefit such organization contribute old clothes, books, furniture, etc., to be sold to the general public with the proceeds going to the exempt organization.

(c) Special rule respecting publishing businesses. For a special rule with respect to publishing businesses carried on by an organization, see section 513 (c).

§ 1.514 (a) Statutory provisions; business leases; business lease rents and deductions.

SEC. 514. Business leases—(a) Business lease rents and deductions. In computing under section 512 the unrelated business taxable income for any taxable year—

(1) Percentage of rents taken into account. There shall be included with respect to each business lease, as an item of gross income derived from an unrelated trade or business, an amount which is the same percentage (but not in excess of 100 percent) of the total rents derived during the taxable year under such lease as (A) the business lease indebtedness, at the close of the taxable year, with respect to the premises covered by such lease is of (B) the adjusted basis, at the close of the taxable year, of such premises.

(2) Percentage of deductions taken into account. There shall be allowed with respect to each business lease, as a deduction to be taken into account in computing unrelated business taxable income, an amount determined by applying the percentage derived under paragraph (1) to the sum determined under paragraph (3).

(3) Deductions allowable. The sum referred to in paragraph (2) is the sum of the following deductions allowable under this chapter:

(A) Taxes and other expenses paid or accrued during the taxable year on or with respect to the real property subject to the business lease.

(B) Interest paid or accrued during the taxable year on the business lease indebtedness.

(C) A reasonable allowance for exhaustion, wear and tear (including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence) of the real property subject to such lease.

Where only a portion of the real property is subject to the business lease, there shall be taken into account under subparagraphs (A), (B), and (C) only those amounts which are properly allocable to the premises covered by such lease.

§ 1.514 (a)–1 Business lease rents—(a) In general—(1) Rents includible in gross income. There shall be included with respect to each business lease, as an item of gross income derived from an unrelated trade or business, an amount which is the same percentage (but not in excess of 100 percent) of the total rents derived during the taxable year under such lease as—

(i) The amount of the business lease indebtedness at the close of the taxable year of the lessor tax-exempt organization, with respect to the premises covered by such lease, is of

(ii) The adjusted basis of such premises at the close of such taxable year.

For definition of business lease as a lease for a term of more than 5 years, and for rules for determining the computation of such 5-year term in certain specific situations, see § 1.514 (b)–1. For definition of business lease indebtedness and allocation of business lease indebtedness where only a portion of the property is subject to a business lease, see § 1.514 (c)–1.

(2) Determination of basis. For purposes of the unrelated business income tax the basis (unadjusted) of property is determined under section 1012, and the adjusted basis of property is determined under section 1011. The determination of the adjusted basis of property is not affected by the fact that the organization was exempt from tax for prior taxable years. Proper adjustment must be made under section 1011 for the entire period since the acquisition of the property. Thus, adjustment must be made for depreciation for all prior taxable years whether or not the organization was exempt from tax for any of such years. Similarly, for taxable years during which the organization is subject to the tax on unrelated business taxable income the fact that only a portion of the deduction for depreciation is taken into account under section 514 (a) (2) does not affect the amount of the adjustment for depreciation.

(b) Examples. The application of this section may be illustrated by the following examples, in each of which it is assumed that the taxpayer makes its returns under section 511 on the basis of the calendar year, and that the lease is not substantially related to the purpose for which the organization is granted exemption from tax.

Example (1). Assume that a tax-exempt educational organization purchased property in 1942 for $600,000, using borrowed funds, and leased the building for a period of 20 years. Assume further that the adjusted basis of such building at the close of 1954 is $500,000 and that, at the close of 1954, $200,000 of the indebtedness incurred to acquire the property remains outstanding. Since the amount of the outstanding indebtedness is two-fifths of the adjusted basis of the building at the close of 1954, two-fifths of the gross rental received from the building during 1954 shall be included as an item of gross income in computing unrelated business taxable income. If, at the close of a subsequent taxable year, the outstanding indebtedness is $100,000 and the adjusted basis of the building is $400,000, one-fourth of the gross rental for such taxable year shall be included as an item of gross income in computing unrelated business taxable income for such taxable year.

Example (2). Assume that a tax-exempt organization owns a 4-story building, that in 1954 it borrows $100,000 which it uses to improve the whole building, and that it thereafter in 1954 rents the first and second floors of the building under 6-year leases at rentals of $4,000 a year. The third and fourth floors of the building are leased on a yearly basis during 1954. Assume, also, that the adjusted basis of the real property at the end of 1954 (after reflecting the expenditures for improving the building) is $200,000, allocable equally to each of the 4 stories. Under these facts, only one-half of the real property is subject to a business lease since only one-half is rented under a lease for more than five years. See § 1.514 (b)–1. The percentage of the rent under such lease which is taken into account is determined by the ratio which the allocable part of the business lease indebtedness bears to the allocable part of the adjusted basis of the real property, that is, the ratio which one-half of the $100,000 of business lease indebtedness outstanding at the close of 1954, or $50,000, bears to one-half of the adjusted basis of the business lease premises at the close of 1954, or $100,000. The percentage of rent which is business lease income for 1954 is, therefore, one-half (the ratio of $50,000 to $100,000) of $8,000, or $4,000, and this amount of $4,000 is considered an item of gross income derived from an unrelated trade or business.

§ 1.514 (a)–2 Business lease deductions. (a) The same percentage is used in determining both the portion of the rent and the portion of the deductions taken into account with respect to the business lease in computing unrelated business taxable income. See § 1.514 (a)–1 for the determination of such percentage. Such percentage is applicable only to the sum of the following deductions allowable under section 161:

(1) Taxes and other expenses paid or accrued during the taxable year upon or with respect to the real property subject to the business lease;

(2) Interest paid or accrued during the taxable year on the business lease indebtedness;

(3) A reasonable allowance for exhaustion, wear and tear (including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence) of the real property subject to such lease.

Where only a portion of the real property is subject to the business lease, there shall be taken into account only those amounts of the above-listed deductions which are properly allocable to the premises covered by such lease.

(b) The deductions allowable under section 514 (a) (3) and under paragraph (a) of this section with respect to a business lease are not limited by the amount included in gross income with respect to the rent from such lease, but any excess of such deductions over such gross income shall be applied against other items of gross income in computing unrelated business taxable income taxable under section 511 (a).

(c) The application of this section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. Assume the same facts as those in example (1) in paragraph (b) of § 1.514 (a)–1. Assume, also, that for 1954 the organization pays taxes of $4,000 on the property, interest of $6,000 on its business lease indebtedness, and that the depreciation allowable for 1954 under section 167 is $10,000. Under the facts set forth in such example (1) and in this example, the deductions to be taken into account for 1954 in computing unrelated business taxable income would be two-fifths of the total of the deductions of $20,000, that is, $8,000.

§ 1.514 (b) Statutory provisions; business leases; definition of business lease.

SEC. 514. Business leases. * * *

(b) Definition of business lease—(1) General rule. For purposes of this section, the term "business lease" means a lease for a term of more than 5 years of real property by an organization (or by a partnership of which it is a member), if at the close of the lessor's taxable year there is a business lease indebtedness (as defined in subsection (c)) with respect to such property.

(2) Special rules for applying paragraph (1). For purposes of paragraph (1)—

(A) In computing the term of a lease which contains an option for renewal or extension, the term of such lease shall be considered as including any period for which such option may be exercised; and the term of any lease made pursuant to an exercise of such option shall include the period during which the prior lease was in effect. If real property is acquired subject to a lease, the term of such lease shall be considered to begin on the date of such acquisition.

(B) If the property has been occupied by the same lessee for a total period of more than 5 years commencing not earlier than the date of acquisition of the property by the organization or trust (whether such occupancy is under one or more leases, renewals, extensions, or continuations thereof), the occupancy of such lessee shall be considered to be under a lease for a term of more than 5 years within the meaning of paragraph (1). However, subsection (a) shall apply in the case of a tenancy described in this subparagraph (and not within subparagraph (A)) only with respect to the sixth and succeeding years of occupancy by the same lessee. For purposes of this subparagraph, the term "same lessee" shall include any lessee of the property whose relationship with a lessee of the same property is such that losses in respect of sales or exchanges of property between the 2 lessees would be disallowed under section 267 (a).

(3) Exceptions. (A) No lease shall be considered a business lease if—

(i) Such lease is entered into primarily for purposes which are substantially related (aside from the need of such organization for income or funds or the use it makes of the rents derived) to the exercise or performance by such organization of its charitable, educational, or other purpose or function constituting the basis for its exemption under section 501, or

(ii) The lease is of premises in a building primarily designed for occupancy, and occupied, by the organization.

(B) If a lease for more than 5 years to a tenant is for only a portion of the real property, and space in the real property is rented during the taxable year under a lease for not more than 5 years to any other tenant of the organization, leases of the real property for more than five years shall be considered as business leases during the taxable year only if—

(i) The rents derived from the real property during the taxable year under leases for more than 5 years (not including, as a lease for more than 5 years, an occupancy which is considered as such a lease by reason of paragraph (2) (B)) represent 50 percent or more of the total rents derived during the taxable year from the real property; or the area of the premises occupied under leases for more than 5 years (not including, as a lease for more than 5 years, an occupancy which is considered as such a lease by reason of paragraph (2) (B)) represents, at any time during the taxable year, 50 percent or more of the total area of the real property rented at such time; or

(ii) The rent derived from the real property during the taxable year from any tenant under a lease for more than 5 years (including as a lease for more than 5 years an occupancy which is considered as such a lease by reason of paragraph (2) (B)), or from a group of tenants (under such leases) who are either members of an affiliated group (as defined in section 1504) or partners, represents more than 10 percent of the total rents derived during the taxable year from such property; or the area of the premises occupied by any one such tenant, or by any such group of tenants, represents at any time during the taxable year more than 10 percent of the total area of the real property rented at such time.

In the application of clause (i), if during the last half of the term of a lease a new lease is made to take effect after the expiration of such lease, the unexpired portion of such lease on the date the second lease is made shall not be treated as a part of the term of the second lease.

§ 1.514 (b)–1 Definition of business lease—(a) In general. The term "business lease" means any lease, with certain exceptions discussed in paragraph (c) of this section, for a term of more than five years of real property by an organization subject to section 511 (or by a partnership of which it is a member) if at the close of the organization's taxable year there is a business lease indebtedness as defined in section 514 (c) and § 1.514 (c)–1 with respect to such property. For the purpose of section 514, the term "real property" and the term "premises" include personal property of the lessor tax-exempt organization leased by it to a lessee of its real estate if the lease of such personal property is made under, or in connection with, the lease of such real estate. For amounts of business lease rents and deductions to be included in computing unrelated business taxable income, see §§ 1.514 (a)–1 and 1.514 (a)–2.

(b) Special rules. (1) In computing the term of the lease, the period for which a lease may be renewed or extended by reason of an option contained therein shall be considered as part of the term. For example, a 3-year lease with an option for renewal for another such period is considered a lease for a term of six years. Another example is the case of a 1-year lease with option of renewal for another such term, where the parties at the end of each year renew the arrangement. In this case, during the fifth year (but not during the first four years), the lease falls within the 5-year rule, since the lease then involves five years and there is an option for the sixth year. In determining the term of the lease, an option for renewal of the lease is taken into account whether or not the exercise of the option depends upon conditions or contingencies.

(2) If the property is acquired subject to a lease, the term of such lease shall be considered to begin on the date of such acquisition. For example, if an exempt organization purchases, in whole or in part with borrowed funds, real property subject to a 10-year lease which has three years left to run, and such lease contains no right of renewal or extension, the lease shall be considered a 3-year lease and hence does not meet the definition of a business lease in section 514 (b) and paragraph (a) of this section. However, if this lease contains an option to renew for a period of three years or more, it is a business lease.

(3) Under the provisions of section 514 (b) (2) (B) a lease is considered as continuing for more than five years if the same lessee has occupied the premises for a total period of more than five years, whether the occupancy is under one or more leases, renewals, extensions, or continuations. Continued occupancy shall be considered to be by the same lessee if the occupants during the period are so related that losses in respect of sales or exchanges of property between them would be disallowed under section 267 (a) of the 1954 Code. Such period shall be considered as commencing not earlier than the date of the acquisition of the property by the tax-exempt organization or trust. This rule is applicable only in the sixth and succeeding years of such occupancy by the same lessee. See, however, paragraph (c) (3) of this section.

(c) Exceptions. (1) A lease shall not be considered a business lease if such lease is entered into primarily for a purpose which is substantially related (aside from the need of such organization for income or funds, or the use it makes of the rents derived) to the exercise or performance by such organization of its charitable, educational, or other purpose or function constituting the basis for its exemption. For example, where a tax-exempt hospital leases real property owned by it to an association of doctors for use as a clinic, the rents derived under such lease would not be included in computing unrelated business taxable income if the clinic is substantially related to the carrying on of hospital functions. See § 1.513–1 for principles applicable in determining whether there is a substantial relationship to the exempt purposes of an organization.

(2) A lease is not a business lease if the lease is of premises in a building primarily designed for occupancy and occupied by the tax-exempt organization.

(3) If a lease for more than five years to a tenant is for only a portion of the real property, and space in the real property is rented during the taxable year under a lease for not more than five years to any other tenant of the tax-exempt organization, all leases of the real property for more than five years shall be considered as business leases during the taxable year only if—

(i) The rents derived from the real property during the taxable year under leases for more than five years represent 50 percent or more of the total rents derived during the taxable year from the real property; or the area of the premises occupied under leases for more than five years represents, at any time during the taxable year, 50 percent or more of the total area of the real property rented at such time; or

(ii) The rent derived from the real property during the taxable year from any tenant under a lease for more than five years, or from a group of tenants (under such leases) who are either members of an affiliated group (as defined in section 1504) or are partners, represents more than 10 percent of the total rents derived during the taxable year from such property; or the area of the premises occupied by any one such tenant, or by any such group of tenants, represents at any time during the taxable year more than 10 percent of the total area of the real property rented at such time.

In determining whether 50 percent or more of the total rents are derived from leases for more than 5 years, or whether

10 percent or more of the total area is occupied under leases for more than 5 years—

(a) An occupancy which is considered to be a lease of more than five years solely by reason of the provisions of paragraph (b) (3) of this section shall not be treated as such a lease for purposes of subdivision (i) of this subparagraph, and

(b) An occupancy which is considered to be a lease of more than five years solely by reason of the provisions of paragraph (b) (3) of this section shall be treated as such a lease for purposes of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, and

(c) If during the last half of the term of a lease a new lease is made to take effect after the expiration of such lease, the unexpired portion of the first lease will not be added to the second lease to determine whether such second lease is a lease for more than 5 years for purposes of subdivision (i) of this subparagraph.

(4) The application of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. In 1954 an educational organization, which is on the calendar year basis, begins the erection of an 11-story apartment building using funds borrowed for that purpose, and immediately leases for a 10-year term the first floor to a real estate development company to sublet for stores and shops. As fast as the new apartments are completed, they are rented on an annual basis. At the end of 1959 all except the tenth and eleventh floors are rented. Those two floors are completed during 1960 and rented. Assume that for 1954 and each subsequent taxable year through 1959, and for the taxable year 1963, the gross rental for the first floor represents more than 10 percent of the total gross rents derived during the taxable year from the building. Under this set of facts the 10-year lease of the first floor would be considered to be a business lease for all except the taxable years 1961, 1962, and 1964.

§ 1.514 (c) Statutory provisions; business leases; business lease indebtedness.

Sec. 514. Business leases. • • •

(c) Business lease indebtedness.—(1) General rule. The term "business lease indebtedness" means, with respect to any real property leased for a term of more than 5 years, the unpaid amount of—

(A) The indebtedness incurred by the lessor in acquiring or improving such property;

(B) The indebtedness incurred before the acquisition or improvement of such property if such indebtedness would not have been incurred but for such acquisition or improvement; and

(C) The indebtedness incurred after the acquisition or improvement of such property if such indebtedness would not have been incurred but for such acquisition or improvement and the incurrence of such indebtedness was reasonably foreseeable at the time of such acquisition or improvement.

(2) Property acquired subject to mortgage, etc. Where real property is acquired subject to a mortgage or other similar lien, the amount of the indebtedness secured by such mortgage or lien shall be considered (whether the acquisition was by gift, devise, or purchase) as an indebtedness of the lessor incurred in acquiring such property even though the lessor did not assume or agree to pay such indebtedness, except that where such property was acquired by gift, bequest, or devise before July 1, 1950, subject to a mortgage or other similar lien, the amount of such mortgage or other similar lien shall not be considered as an indebtedness of the lessor incurred in acquiring such property.

(3) Certain property acquired by gift, etc. Where real property was acquired by gift, bequest, or devise before July 1, 1950, subject to a lease requiring improvements in such property on the happening of stated contingencies, indebtedness incurred in improving such property in accordance with the terms of such lease shall not be considered as an indebtedness for purposes of this subsection.

(4) Certain corporations described in section 501 (c) (2). In the case of a corporation described in section 501 (c) (2), all of the stock of which was acquired before July 1, 1950, by an organization described in paragraph (3), (5), or (6) of section 501 (c) (and more than one-third of such stock was acquired by such organization by gift or bequest), any indebtedness incurred by such corporation before July 1, 1950, and any indebtedness incurred by such corporation on or after such date in improving real property in accordance with the terms of a lease entered into before such date, shall not be considered as an indebtedness with respect to such corporation or such organization for purposes of this subsection.

(5) Certain trusts described in section 401 (a). In the case of a trust described in section 401 (a), or in the case of a corporation described in section 501 (c) (2) all of the stock of which was acquired prior to March 1, 1954, by a trust described in section 401 (a), any indebtedness incurred by such trust or such corporation before March 1, 1954, in connection with real property which is leased before March 1, 1954, and any indebtedness incurred by such trust or such corporation on or after such date necessary to carry out the terms of such lease, shall not be considered as an indebtedness with respect to such trust or such corporation for purposes of this subsection.

(6) Business lease on portion of property. In determining the amount of the business lease indebtedness where only a portion of the real property is subject to a business lease, proper allocation to the premises covered by such lease shall be made of the indebtedness incurred by the lessor with respect to the real property.

(7) Special rule applicable to trusts described in section 401 (a). In the application of paragraph (1), if a trust described in section 401 (a) forming part of a stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing plan of an employer lends any money to another trust described in section 401 (a) forming part of a stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing plan of the same employer, such loan shall not be treated as an indebtedness of the borrowing trust, except to the extent that the loaning trust—

(A) Incurs any indebtedness in order to make such loan;

(B) Incurred indebtedness before the making of such loan which would not have been incurred but for the making of such loan; or

(C) Incurred indebtedness after the making of such loan which would not have been incurred but for the making of such loan and which was reasonably foreseeable at the time of making such loan.

§ 1.514 (c)–1 Business lease indebtedness—(a) Definition. The term "business lease indebtedness" means, with respect to any real property leased by a tax-exempt organization for a term of more than five years, the unpaid amount of—

(1) The indebtedness incurred by the lessor tax-exempt organization in acquiring or improving such property;

(2) The indebtedness incurred by the lessor tax-exempt organization prior to the acquisition or improvement of such property if such indebtedness would not have been incurred but for such acquisition or improvement; and

(3) The indebtedness incurred by the lessor tax-exempt organization subsequent to the acquisition or improvement of such property if such indebtedness would not have been incurred but for such acquisition or improvement and the incurrence of the indebtedness was reasonably foreseeable at the time of such acquisition or improvement.

See paragraph (i) of this section with respect to subsidiary corporations.

(b) Examples. The rules of section 514 (c) respecting business leases also cover certain cases where the leased property itself is not subject to an indebtedness. For example, they apply to cases such as the following:

Example (1). A university pledges some of its investment securities with a bank for a loan and uses the proceeds of such loan to purchase (either directly or through a subsidiary corporation) a building, which building is subject to a lease that then has more than five years to run. This would be an example of a business lease indebtedness incurred prior to the acquisition of the property which would not have been incurred but for such acquisition.

Example (2). If the building itself in example (1) in this paragraph is later mortgaged to raise funds to release the pledged securities, the lease would continue to be a business lease.

Example (3). If a scientific organization mortgages its laboratory building to replace working capital used in remodeling another one of its buildings or a building held by its subsidiary corporation, which other building is free of indebtedness and is subject to a lease that then has more than five years to run, the lease would be a business lease inasmuch as the indebtedness though incurred subsequent to the improvement of such property would not have been incurred but for such improvement, and the incurrence of the indebtedness was reasonably foreseeable when, to make such improvement, the organization reduced its working capital below the amount necessary to continue current operations.

(c) Property acquired subject to lien. Where real property is acquired subject to a mortgage or similar lien, whether the acquisition be by gift, bequest, devise, or purchase, the amount of the indebtedness secured by such mortgage or lien is a business lease indebtedness (unless paragraph (d) (1) of this section applies) even though the lessor does not assume or agree to pay the indebtedness. For example, a university pays $100,000 for real estate valued at $300,000 and subject to a $200,000 mortgage. For the purpose of the tax on unrelated business taxable income the result is the same as if $200,000 of borrowed funds had been used to buy the property.

(d) Certain property acquired by gifts, etc. (1) Where real property was acquired by gift, bequest, or devise, before July 1, 1950, subject to a mortgage or other similar lien, the amount of such mortgage or other similar lien shall not be considered as an indebtedness of the lessor tax-exempt organization incurred in acquiring such property. An indebtedness not otherwise covered by this exception is not brought within the exception by reason of a transfer of the property between a parent and its subsidiary corporation.

(2) Where real property was acquired by gift, bequest, or devise, before July 1, 1950, subject to a lease requiring improvements in such property upon the happening of stated contingencies, indebtedness incurred in improving such property in accordance with the terms of such lease shall not be considered as indebtedness described in section 514 (c) and in this section. An indebtedness not otherwise covered by this exception is not brought within the exception by reason of a transfer of the property between a parent and its subsidiary corporation.

(e) Certain corporations described in section 501 (c) (2). In the case of a title holding corporation described in section 501 (c) (2), all of the stock of which was acquired before July 1, 1950, by an organization described in section 501 (c) (3), (5), or (6) (and more than one-third of such stock was acquired by such organization by gift or bequest), any indebtedness incurred by such corporation before July 1, 1950, and any indebtedness incurred by such corporation on or after such date in improving real property in accordance with the terms of a lease entered into before such date, with respect to either such section 501 (c) (2) corporation or such section 501 (c) (3), (5), or (6) organization, shall not be considered an indebtedness described in section 514 (c) and in this section.

(f) Certain trusts described in section 401 (a). In the case of a trust described in section 401 (a), or in the case of a corporation described in section 501 (c) (2) all of the stock of which was acquired before March 1, 1954, by such a trust, any indebtedness incurred by such trust or such corporation before such date, in connection with real property which is leased before such date, and any indebtedness incurred by such trust or such corporation on or after such date necessary to carry out the terms of such lease, shall not be considered as an indebtedness described in section 514 (c) and in this section.

(g) Business lease on portion of property. Where only a portion of the real property is subject to a business lease, proper allocation of the indebtedness applicable to the whole property must be made to the premises covered by the lease. See example (2) of paragraph (b) of § 1.514 (a)–1.

(h) Special rule applicable to trusts described in section 401 (a). If an employees' trust described in section 401 (a) lends any money to another such employees' trust of the same employer, for the purpose of acquiring or improving real property, such loan will not be treated as an indebtedness of the borrowing trust except to the extent that the loaning trust—

(1) Incurs any indebtedness in order to make such loan;

(2) Incurred indebtedness before the making of such loan which would not have been incurred but for the making of such loan; or

(3) Incurred indebtedness after the making of such loan which would not have been incurred but for the making of such loan and which was reasonably foreseeable at the time of making such loan.

(i) Subsidiary corporations. The provisions of section 514 are applicable whether or not a subsidiary corporation of the type described in section 501 (c) (2) is availed of in making the business lease. For example, assume a parent organization borrows funds to purchase realty and sets up a separate section 501 (c) (2) corporation as a subsidiary to hold the property. Such subsidiary corporation leases the property for a period of more than five years, collects the rents and pays over all of the income, less expenses, to the parent organization, the parent organization being liable for the indebtedness. Under these assumed facts, the lease by the section 501 (c) (2) subsidiary corporation would be a business lease with respect to such subsidiary corporation, and the rental income would be subject to the tax, whether or not the subsidiary itself assumes the indebtedness and whether or not the property is subject to the indebtedness.

SEC. 514. Business leases. • • •

(d) Personal property leased with real property. For purposes of this section, the term "real property" and the term "premises" include personal property of the lessor leased by it to a lessee of its real estate if the lease of such personal property is made under, or in connection with, the lease of such real estate.

§ 1.515 Statutory provisions; taxes of foreign countries and possessions of the United States.

SEC. 515. Taxes of foreign countries and possessions of the United States. The amount of taxes imposed by foreign countries and possessions of the United States shall be allowed as a credit against the tax of an organization subject to the tax imposed by section 511 to the extent provided in section 901; and in the case of the tax imposed by section 511, the term "taxable income" as used in section 901 shall be read as "unrelated business taxable income".

FARMERS' COOPERATIVES

SEC. 521. Exemption of farmers' cooperatives from tax—(a) Exemption from tax. A farmers' cooperative organization described in subsection (b) (1) shall be exempt from taxation under this subtitle except as otherwise provided in section 522. Notwithstanding section 522, such an organization shall be considered an organization exempt from income taxes for purposes of any law which refers to organizations exempt from income taxes.

(b) Applicable rules—(1) Exempt farmers' cooperatives. The farmers' cooperatives exempt from taxation to the extent provided in subsection (a) are farmers', fruit growers', or like associations organized and operated on a cooperative basis (A) for the purpose of marketing the products of members or other producers, and turning back to them the proceeds of sales, less the necessary marketing expenses, on the basis of either the quantity or the value of the products furnished by them, or (B) for the purpose of purchasing supplies and equipment for the use of members or other persons, and turning over such supplies and equipment to them at actual cost, plus necessary expenses.

(2) Organizations having capital stock. Exemption shall not be denied any such association because it has capital stock, if the dividend rate of such stock is fixed at not to exceed the legal rate of interest in the State of incorporation or 8 percent per annum, whichever is greater, on the value of the consideration for which the stock was issued, and if substantially all such stock (other than nonvoting preferred stock, the owners of which are not entitled or permitted to participate, directly or indirectly, in the profits of the association, upon dissolution or otherwise, beyond the fixed dividends) is owned by producers who market their products or purchase their supplies and equipment through the association.

(3) Organizations maintaining reserve. Exemption shall not be denied any such association because there is accumulated and maintained by it a reserve required by State law or a reasonable reserve for any necessary purpose.

(4) Transactions with nonmembers. Exemption shall not be denied any such association which markets the products of nonmembers in an amount the value of which does not exceed the value of the products marketed for members, or which purchases supplies and equipment for nonmembers in an amount the value of which does not exceed the value of the supplies and equipment purchased for members, provided the value of the purchases made for persons who are neither members nor producers does not exceed 15 percent of the value of all its purchases.

(5) Business for the United States. Business done for the United States or any of its agencies shall be disregarded in determining the right to exemption under this section.

§ 1.521–1 Farmers' cooperative marketing and purchasing associations; requirements for exemption under section 521. (a) (1) Cooperative associations engaged in the marketing of farm products for farmers, fruit growers, livestock growers, dairymen, etc., and turning back to the producers the proceeds of the sales of their products, less the necessary operating expenses, on the basis of either the quantity or the value of the products furnished by them, are exempt from income tax except as otherwise provided in section 522. For instance, cooperative dairy companies which are engaged in collecting milk and disposing of it or the products thereof and distributing the proceeds, less necessary operating expenses, among the producers upon the basis of either the quantity or the value of milk or of butterfat in the milk furnished by such producers, are exempt from the tax. If the proceeds of the business are distributed in any other way than on such a proportionate basis, the association does not meet the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 and is not exempt. In other words, nonmember patrons must be treated the same as members insofar as the distribution of patronage dividends is concerned. Thus, if products are marketed for nonmember producers, the proceeds of the sale, less necessary operating expenses, must be returned to the patrons from the sale of whose goods such proceeds result, whether or not such patrons are members of the association. In order to show its cooperative nature and to establish compliance with the requirement of the Code that the proceeds of sales, less necessary expenses, be turned back to all producers on the basis of either the quantity or the value of the products furnished by them, it is necessary for such an association to keep permanent records of the business done both with members and nonmembers. The Code does not require, however, that the association keep ledger accounts with each producer selling through the association. Any permanent records which show that the association was operating during the taxable year on a cooperative basis in the distribution of patronage dividends to all producers will suffice. While under the Code patronage dividends must be paid to all producers on the same basis, this requirement is complied with if an association, instead of paying patronage dividends to nonmember producers in cash, keeps permanent records from which the proportionate shares of the patronage dividends due to nonmember producers can be determined, and such shares are made applicable toward the purchase price of a share of stock or of a membership in the association.

(2) An association which has capital stock will not for such reason be denied exemption (i) if the dividend rate of such stock is fixed at not to exceed the legal rate of interest in the State of incorporation or 8 percent per annum, whichever is greater, on the value of the consideration for which the stock was issued, and (ii) if substantially all of such stock (with the exception noted below) is owned by producers who market their products or purchase their supplies and equipment through the association. Any ownership of stock by others than such actual producers must be satisfactorily explained in the association's application for exemption. The association will be required to show that the ownership of its capital stock has been restricted as far as possible to such actual producers. If by statutory requirement all officers of an association must be shareholders, the ownership of a share of stock by a nonproducer to qualify him as an officer will not destroy the association's exemption. Likewise, if a shareholder for any reason ceases to be a producer and the association is unable, because of a constitutional restriction or prohibition or other reason beyond the control of the association, to purchase or retire the stock of such nonproducer, the fact that under such circumstances a small amount of the outstanding capital stock is owned by shareholders who are no longer producers will not destroy the exemption. The restriction placed on the ownership of capital stock of an exempt cooperative association shall not apply to nonvoting preferred stock, provided the owners of such stock are not entitled or permitted to participate, directly or indirectly, in the profits of the association, upon dissolution or otherwise, beyond the fixed dividends.

(3) The accumulation and maintenance of a reserve required by State statute, or the accumulation and maintenance of a reasonable reserve or surplus for any necessary purpose, such as to provide for the erection of buildings and facilities required in business or for the purchase and installation of machinery and equipment or to retire indebtedness incurred for such purposes, will not destroy the exemption. An association will not be denied exemption because it markets the products of nonmembers, provided the value of the products marketed for nonmembers does not exceed the value of the products marketed for members. Anyone who shares in the profits of a farmers' cooperative marketing association, and is entitled to participate in the management of the association, must be regarded as a member of such association within the meaning of section 521.

(b) Cooperative associations engaged in the purchasing of supplies and equipment for farmers, fruit growers, livestock growers, dairymen, etc., and turning over such supplies and equipment to them at actual cost, plus the necessary operating expenses, are exempt. The term "supplies and equipment" as used in section 521 includes groceries and all other goods and merchandise used by farmers in the operation and maintenance of a farm or farmer's household. The provisions of paragraph (a) of this section relating to a reserve or surplus and to capital stock shall apply to associations coming under this paragraph. An association which purchases supplies and equipment for nonmembers will not for such reason be denied exemption, provided the value of the purchases for nonmembers does not exceed the value of the supplies and equipment purchased for members, and provided the value of the purchases made for nonmembers who are not producers does not exceed 15 percent of the value of all its purchases.

(c) In order to be exempt under either paragraph (a) or (b) of this section an association must establish that it has no taxable income for its own account other than that reflected in a reserve or surplus authorized in paragraph (a) of this section. An association engaged both in marketing farm products and in purchasing supplies and equipment is exempt if as to each of its functions it meets the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Business done for the United States or any of its agencies shall be disregarded in determining the right to exemption under section 521 and this section. An association to be entitled to exemption must not only be organized but actually operated in the manner and for the purposes specified in section 521.

(d) Cooperative organizations engaged in occupations dissimilar from those of farmers, fruit growers, and the like, are not exempt.

(e) An organization is not exempt from taxation under this section merely because it claims that it complies with the requirements prescribed therein. In order to establish its exemption every organization claiming exemption under section 521 is required to file a Form 1028. The Form 1028, executed in accordance with the instructions on the form or issued therewith, should be filed with the district director for the internal revenue district in which is located the principal place of business or principal office of the organization. However, an organization which has been granted exemption under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 or prior law may rely on that ruling, unless affected by substantive changes in the 1954 Code or any changes in the character, purposes, or methods of operation of the organization, and it is not necessary in such case for the organization to request a new determination as to its exempt status.

§ 1.522 Statutory provisions; tax on farmers' cooperatives.

SEC. 522. Tax on farmers' cooperatives—(a) Imposition of tax. An organization exempt from taxation under section 521 shall be subject to the taxes imposed by section 11 or section 1201.

(b) Computation of taxable income.—(1) General rule. In computing the taxable income of such an organization there shall be allowed as deductions from gross income (in addition to other deductions allowable under this chapter)—

(A) Amounts paid as dividends during the taxable year on its capital stock, and

(B) Amounts allocated during the taxable year to patrons with respect to its income not derived from patronage (whether or not such income was derived during such taxable year) whether paid in cash, merchandise, capital stock, revolving fund certificates, retain certificates, certificates of indebtedness, letters of advice, or in some other manner that discloses to each patron the dollar amount allocated to him. Allocations made after the close of the taxable year and on or before the 15th day of the 9th month following the close of such year shall be considered as made on the last day of such taxable year to the extent the allocations are attributable to income derived before the close of such year.

(2) Patronage dividends, etc. Patronage dividends, refunds, and rebates to patrons with respect to their patronage in the same or preceding years (whether paid in cash, merchandise, capital stock, revolving fund certificates, retain certificates, certificates of indebtedness, letters of advice, or in some other manner that discloses to each patron the dollar amount of such dividend, refund, or rebate) shall be taken into account in computing taxable income in the same manner as in the case of a cooperative organization not exempt under section 521. Such dividends, refunds, and rebates made after the close of the taxable year and on or before the 15th day of the 9th month following the close of such year shall be considered as made on the last day of such taxable year to the extent the dividends, refunds, or rebates, are attributable to patronage occurring before the close of such year.

§ 1.522–1 Tax treatment of farmers' cooperative marketing and purchasing associations exempt under section 521—(a) In general. (1) Section 522 is applicable to farmers', fruit growers', or like associations organized and operated on a cooperative basis in the manner prescribed in section 521. Although such an association is subject to both normal tax and surtax, as in the case of corporations generally, certain special rules for the computation of taxable income are provided in section 522 (b) and § 1.522–2. For the purpose of any law which refers to organizations exempt from income taxes such an association shall, however, be considered as an organization exempt under section 501. Thus, the provisions of section 243, providing a credit for dividends received from a domestic corporation subject to taxation, are not applicable to dividends received from a cooperative association subject to section 522. The provisions of section 1501, relating to consolidated returns, are likewise not applicable.

(2) Rules governing the manner in which amounts allocated as patronage dividends, refunds, or rebates are to be taken into account in computing the taxable income of such an association are set forth in § 1.522–3. For the tax treatment, as to patrons, of amounts received during the taxable year as patronage dividends, rebates, or refunds, see section 61 and § 1.61–5.

(b) Meaning of terms. For purposes of §§ 1.522–1 to 1.522–3, inclusive, §§ 1.6044–1 and 1.61–5, the following terms shall have the meaning ascribed below:

(1) Cooperative association. The term "cooperative association" includes any corporation operating on a cooperative basis and allocating amounts to patrons on the basis of the business done with or for such patrons, except that the term does not include any cooperative or nonprofit corporation (including any cooperative or nonprofit corporation engaged in rural electrification) exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) and described in section 501 (c) (12) or (15) or any corporation subject to a tax imposed by subchapter L (relating to insurance companies).

(2) Patron. The term "patron" includes any person with whom or for whom the cooperative association does business on a cooperative basis, whether a member or a nonmember of the cooperative association, and whether an individual, a trust, estate, partnership, company, corporation, or cooperative association.

(3) Allocation. The term "allocation" includes distributions made by a cooperative association to a patron in cash, merchandise, capital stock, revolving fund certificates, retain certificates, certificates of indebtedness, letters of advice, similar documents, or in any other manner whereby there is disclosed to a patron the dollar amount apportioned on the books of the association for the account of such patron. Thus, a mere credit to the account of a patron on the books of the cooperative association, without disclosure to the patron, is not an allocation.

(4) Patronage dividends, rebates, and refunds. The term "patronage dividend, rebate, or refund" includes any amount allocated by a cooperative association, to the account of a patron on the basis of the business done with or for such patron. The following are not patronage dividends, rebates, or refunds:

(i) Amounts distributed in redemption of capital stock, or in redemption or satisfaction of certificates of indebtedness, revolving fund certificates, retain certificates, letters of advice, or other similar documents;

(ii) Amounts allocated (whether in cash, merchandise, capital stock, revolving fund certificates, retain certificates, certificates of indebtedness, letters of advice, or in some other manner that discloses to each patron the amount of such dividend, refund, or rebate) by the association for products of members or other patrons to the extent such amounts are fixed without reference to the earnings of the cooperative association. For this purpose, the term "earnings" includes the excess of amounts retained (or assessed) by the association to cover expenses or other items over the amount of such expenses or other items.

(c) Examples. The application of paragraph (b) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). Cooperative A, a marketing association operating on a pooling basis, receives the products of patron W on January 5, 1954. On the same day Cooperative A advances to W 45 cents per unit for the products so delivered and allocates to him a "retain certificate" having a face value calculated at the rate of 5 cents per unit. During the operation of the pool, and before substantially all the products in the pool are disposed of, Cooperative A advances to W an additional 40 cents per unit, the amount being determined by reference to the market price of the products sold and the anticipated price of the unsold products. At the close of the pool on November 10, 1954, Cooperative A determines the excess of its receipts over the sum of its expenses and its previous advances to patrons, and allocates to W an additional 3 cents per unit and shares of the capital stock of A having an aggregate of face value calculated at the rate of 2 cents per unit.

The amount of patronage dividends, rebates, or refunds allocated to W during 1954 amount to 5 cents per unit, consisting of the aggregate of the following per-unit allocations: The amount of cash distribution (3 cents), and the face value of the capital stock of A (2 cents), which are fixed with reference to the earnings of A. The amount of the two distributions in cash (85 cents) and the face amount of the "retain certificate" (5 cents), which are fixed without reference to the earnings of A, do not constitute patronage dividends, rebates, or refunds.

Example (2). Cooperative B, a marketing association operating on a pooling basis, receives the products of patron X on March 5, 1954. On the same day Cooperative B pays to X $1.00 per unit for such products, this amount being determined by reference to the market price of the product when received, and issues to him a participation certificate having no face value but which entitles X on the close of the pool to the proceeds derived from the sale of his products less the previous payment of $1.00 and the expenses and other charges attributable to such products. On March 5, 1957, Cooperative B, having sold the products in the pool, having deducted the previous payments for such products, and having determined the expenses and other charges of the pool, redeems the participation certificate of X in cash for 10 cents per unit. The allocation made to X during 1957, amounting to 10 cents per unit, is a patronage dividend, rebate, or refund. Neither the payment to X in 1954 of $1.00 nor the issuance to him of the participation certificate in that year constitutes a patronage dividend, rebate, or refund within the meaning of this section.

Example (3). Cooperative C, a purchasing association, obtains supplies for patron Y on May 1, 1954, and receives in return therefor $100. On February 1, 1955, Cooperative C, having determined the excess of its receipts over its costs and expenses, allocates to Y a cash distribution of $1.00 and a revolving fund certificate of a face amount of $1.00. The amount of patronage dividends, rebates, or refunds allocated to Y for 1955 is $2.00, the aggregate of the cash distribution of $1.00, and the face amount, $1.00, of the revolving fund certificate.

Example (4). Cooperative D, a service association, sells the products of members on a fee basis. It receives the products of patron Z under an agreement not to pool his products with those of other members, to sell his products, and to deliver to him the proceeds of the sale. Patron Z makes payments to Cooperative D during 1954 aggregating $75 for service rendered him by Cooperative D during that year. On May 15, 1955, Cooperative D, having determined the excess of its receipts over its costs and expenses, allocates to Z a cash distribution of $2.00. Such amount is a patronage dividend, rebate, or refund allocated by Cooperative D during 1955.

(d) Returns of exempt cooperative associations. For requirements of annual returns by exempt cooperative associations, see sections 6012 and 6072 (d) and paragraph (f) of § 1.6012–2.

§ 1.522–2 Manner of taxation of cooperative associations subject to section 522—(a) In general. Farmers', fruit growers', or like associations, organized and operated in compliance with the requirements of section 521 and § 1.521–1 shall be subject to the taxes imposed by section 11 or section 1201, except that there shall be allowed as deductions from gross income, in addition to the other deductions allowable under chapter 1, certain special deductions provided in section 522 (b) (1) (A) and paragraph (c) of this section, and section 522 (b) (1) (B) and paragraph (d) of this section. Amounts allocated as patronage dividends, refunds, or rebates, whether in cash, merchandise, capital stock, revolving fund certificates, retain certificates, certificates of indebtedness, letters of advice, or in some other manner that discloses to each patron the dollar amount allocated, with respect to patronage for the taxable year or for preceding taxable years, shall be taken into account in the manner provided in section 522 and in § 1.522–3.

(b) Cooperative association exempt from tax before January 1, 1952. (1) For the purpose of determining the method of accounting under section 446 in the case of a cooperative association which was exempt from tax for taxable years beginning prior to January 1, 1952, the method of accounting, recognized under sections 41, 42, and 43 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 and the regulations prescribed thereunder and utilized in the return of such association for its last taxable year to which the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 was applicable, shall be deemed to constitute the method of accounting regularly employed by the cooperative association. Any change from this method may be made only if permission is obtained from the Commissioner to change to another recognized method in accordance with section 446 and the regulations thereunder.

(2) In any case where inventories are an income-producing factor, see sections 471 and 472 and the regulations thereunder. The elective method of inventorying goods provided in section 472 may be adopted by the cooperative association for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1953, in accordance with the requirements of section 472 and the regulations thereunder. However, in order to use such method for such a taxable year the cooperative association (unless it has used such method for a taxable year beginning after 1951 and before 1954 pursuant to an election exercised as provided in § 39.22 (d)–3 of this subchapter (Regulations 118)) must exercise the election provided in section 472 and the regulations thereunder, even if it may have utilized such method for accounting purposes for taxable years beginning before January 1, 1952.

(3) The following rules shall be applicable in computing the net operating loss deduction provided in section 172: No net operating loss carryover shall be allowed from a taxable year beginning prior to January 1, 1952, for which the cooperative association was exempt from tax under section 101 (12) of the 1939 Code. In the case of a taxable year beginning prior to January 1, 1952, for which the association was not exempt under section 101 (12) of the 1939 Code and of any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1951, the amount of the net operating loss carryback or carryover from such year shall not be reduced by reference to the income of any taxable year beginning prior to January 1, 1952, for which the association was exempt from tax under section 101 (12) of the 1939 Code. However, any taxable year beginning prior to January 1, 1952, for which the cooperative association was exempt under section 101 (12) of the 1939 Code shall be taken into account in determining the period for which a net operating loss may be carried back or carried over, as the case may be.

(4) The adjustments to the cost or other basis provided in sections 1011 and 1016 and the regulations thereunder, are applicable for the entire period since the acquisition of the property. Thus, proper adjustment to basis must be made under section 1016 for depreciation, obsolescence, amortization and depletion for all taxable years beginning prior to January 1, 1952, although the cooperative association was exempt from tax under section 521 or corresponding provisions of prior law for such years. However, no adjustment for percentage or discovery depletion is to be made for any year during which the association was exempt from tax. If a cooperative association has made a proper election in accordance with section 1020 and the regulations prescribed thereunder with respect to a taxable year beginning before 1952 in which the association was not exempt from tax, the adjustment to basis for depreciation for such years shall be limited in accordance with the provisions of section 1016 (a) (2).

(5) In the case of tax exempt and partially taxable bonds purchased at a premium and subject to amortization under section 171, proper adjustment to basis must be made to reflect amortization with respect to such premium from the date of acquisition of the bond. (For principles governing the method of computation, see the example in paragraph (b) of § 1.1016–9, relating to mutual savings banks, building and loan associations, and cooperative banks.) The basis of a fully taxable bond purchased at a premium shall be adjusted from the date of the election to amortize such premium in accordance with the provisions of section 171 except that no adjustment shall be allowable for such portion of the premium attributable to the period prior to the election.

(6) In the case of a mortgage acquired at a premium where the principal of such mortgage is payable in installments, adjustments to the basis for the premium must be made for all taxable years (whether or not the association was exempt from tax under section 521 during such years) in which installment payments are received. Such adjustments may be made on an individual mortgage basis or on a composite basis by reference to the average period of payments of the mortgage loans of such association. For the purpose of this adjustment, the term "premium" includes the excess of the acquisition value of the mortgage over its maturity value. The acquisition value of the mortgage is the cost including buying commissions, attorneys' fees or brokerage fees, but such value does not include amounts paid for accrued interest.

(c) Deduction for dividends paid. There is allowable as a deduction from the gross income of a cooperative association operated in compliance with the requirements of section 521 and § 1.521–1, amounts paid as dividends during the taxable year upon the capital stock of the cooperative association. For the purpose of the preceding sentence, the term "capital stock" includes common stock (whether voting or nonvoting), preferred stock, or any other form of capital represented by capital retain certificates, revolving fund certificates, letters of advice, or other evidence of a proprietary interest in a cooperative association. Such deduction is applicable only to the taxable year in which the dividends are actually or constructively paid to the holder of capital stock or other proprietary interest of the cooperative association. If a dividend is paid by check and the check bearing a date within the taxable year is deposited in the mail, in a cover properly stamped and addressed to the shareholder at his last known address, at such time that in the ordinary handling of the mails the check would be received by such holder within the taxable year, a presumption arises that the dividend was paid to such holder in such year. The determination of whether a dividend has been paid to such holder by the corporation during its taxable year is in no way dependent upon the method of accounting regularly employed by the corporation in keeping its books. For further rules as to the determination of the right to a deduction for dividends paid, under certain specific circumstances, see section 561 and the regulations thereunder.

(d) Deduction for amounts allocated from income not derived from patronage. There is allowable as a deduction from the gross income of a cooperative association operated in compliance with the requirements of section 521 and § 1.521–1 amounts allocated during the taxable year to patrons with respect to its income not derived from patronage (whether or not such income was derived during such taxable year) whether such amounts are paid in cash, merchandise, capital stock, revolving fund certificates, retain certificates, certificates of indebtedness, letters of advice, or in some other manner that discloses to each patron the dollar amount allocated to him. For this purpose, allocations made after the close of the taxable year and on or before the 15th day of the ninth month following the close of the taxable year shall be considered as made on the last day of such taxable year to the extent that such allocations are attributable to income derived during the taxable year or during years prior to the taxable year. As used in this paragraph, the term "income not derived from patronage" means incidental income derived from sources not directly related to the marketing, purchasing, or service activities of the cooperative association. For example, income derived from the lease of premises, from investment in securities, from the sale or exchange of capital assets, constitutes income not derived from patronage. Business done with the United States shall constitute income not derived from patronage. In order that the deduction for income not derived from patronage may be applicable, it is necessary that the amount sought to be deducted be allocated on a patronage basis in proportion, insofar as is practicable, to the amount of business done by or for patrons during the period to which such income is attributable. Thus, if capital gains are realized from the sale or exchange of capital assets acquired and disposed of during the taxable year, income realized from such gains must be allocated to patrons of such year in proportion to the amount of business done by such patrons during the taxable year. Similarly, if capital gains are realized by the association from the sale or exchange of capital assets held for a period of more than one taxable year income realized from such gains must be allocated, in proportion insofar as is practicable, to the patrons of the taxable years during which the asset was owned by the association, and to the amount of business done by such patrons during such taxable years.

§ 1.522–3 Patronage dividends, rebates, or refunds; treatment as to cooperative associations entitled to tax treatment under section 522—(a) General rule. Patronage dividends, refunds, or rebates, allocated by a cooperative association entitled to tax treatment under section 522 to a patron shall be taken into account in computing the gross income of such association for the taxable year, as an increase in its other cost of goods sold in the case of an association marketing products for patrons, or as a reduction in its gross receipts, in the case of an association purchasing supplies and equipment or performing services for patrons, as the case may be, if:

(1) The allocation is made in fulfillment and satisfaction of a valid obligation of such association to the patron, which obligation was in existence prior to the receipt by the cooperative association of the amount allocated, and

(2) The allocation is made on or before the 15th day of the ninth month following the close of the taxable year in which the amounts allocated were received by the cooperative association.

For the purpose of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, amounts allocated by a cooperative association entitled to tax treatment under section 522 will be deemed allocated in fulfillment and satisfaction of a valid enforceable obligation, if made pursuant to provisions of the by-laws, articles of incorporation, or other contract, whereby the association is obligated to make such allocation after the retention of "reasonable reserves" and after payment of dividends on capital stock or other proprietary capital interests. Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph, amounts allocated as patronage dividends, refunds, or rebates during the taxable year, on or before the 15th day of the ninth month following the close of such year, with respect to patronage for years preceding the taxable year, shall be taken into account as an increase in its other cost of goods sold, or as a reduction in gross receipts, for the taxable year, as the case may be, where retention as "reasonable reserves" of the amounts so allocated beyond the year in which earned was proper in accordance with the provisions of section 521 and where the allocation is made to the patron on a patronage basis in proportion insofar as is practicable, to the amount of business done by such patrons during the taxable year or years in which the retained amounts were received by the cooperative association.

(b) Examples. This section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). E, a cooperative association entitled to tax treatment under section 522, organized without capital stock, is engaged in the business of marketing products for its patrons on a non-pool basis. The by-laws of Cooperative E provide that there shall be allocated to patrons as patronage dividends within a reasonable time following the close of the year all of the gross returns from sales, less expenses of operation for the year and amounts retained as "reasonable reserves" necessary to the operation of Cooperative E. At the close of the taxable year, 1954, it is determined that from the gross returns from sales less operating expenses and all taxes for such year, $5,000 is to be retained as "reasonable reserves" for various necessary purposes of Cooperative E. It is assumed that the retention of such amount is proper in accordance with the provisions of section 521. Such $5,000 is apportioned on the books of Cooperative E to patrons of 1954 on a patronage basis, or permanent records are kept from which an apportionment to such patrons can be made. On March 1, 1955, pursuant to the terms of the by-laws, $200,000, the balance of the gross returns for the taxable year, is allocated to patrons of 1954 on the basis of patronage. $100,000 of such $200,000 is allocated in cash. The remaining $100,000 is allocated in "retain certificates", bearing no interest and redeemable in the discretion of the Board of Directors of Cooperative E.

There may be added to the cost of goods sold by Cooperative E for 1954, $200,000 ($100,000 in cash, $100,000 in retain certificates), the total amount allocated as patronage dividends, rebates, or refunds in fulfillment and satisfaction of the obligation of the by-laws, on March 1, 1955, before the 15th day of the ninth month following the close of 1954. There may not be added to the cost of goods sold by Cooperative E for 1954, $5,000, the amount retained as reserves apportioned on the books, but not allocated as patronage dividends, rebates, or refunds.

Example (2). The facts are the same as example (1), it additionally appearing that at the close of 1955 it is determined by Cooperative E to allocate as cash patronage dividends, rebates, or refunds to patrons of 1954, $5,000, the amount retained as "reasonable reserves" for 1954 in accordance with the provisions of section 521. On March 1, 1956, such amount is allocated.

There may be added to the cost of goods sold by Cooperative E for 1955, $5,000, the amount allocated with respect to patronage of a preceding year, 1954, properly maintained as a reserve under section 521.

SHIPOWNERS' PROTECTION AND INDEMNITY ASSOCIATIONS

§ 1.526 Statutory provisions; shipowners' protection and indemnity associations.

SEC. 526. Shipowners' protection and indemnity associations. There shall not be included in gross income the receipts of shipowners' mutual protection and indemnity associations not organized for profit, and no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder; but such corporations shall be subject as other persons to the tax on their taxable income from interest, dividends, and rents.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

§ 1.6012 Statutory provisions; persons required to make returns of income; general.

SEC. 6012. Persons required to make returns of income—(a) General rule. Returns with respect to income taxes under subtitle A shall be made by the following:

(1) Every individual having for the taxable year a gross income of $600 or more (except that any individual who has attained the age of 65 before the close of his taxable year shall be required to make a return only if he has for the taxable year a gross income of $1,200 or more);

(2) Every corporation subject to taxation under subtitle A;

(3) Every estate the gross income of which for the taxable year is $600 or more;

(4) Every trust having for the taxable year any taxable income, or having gross income of $600 or over, regardless of the amount of taxable income; and

(5) Every estate or trust of which any beneficiary is a nonresident alien;

except that subject to such conditions, limitations, and exceptions and under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, nonresident alien individuals subject to the tax imposed by section 871 and foreign corporations subject to the tax imposed by section 881 may be exempted from the requirement of making returns under this section.

(b) Returns made by fiduciaries and receivers—(1) Returns of decedents. If an individual is deceased, the return of such individual required under subsection (a) shall be made by his executor, administrator, or other person charged with the property of such decedent.

(2) Persons under a disability. If an individual is unable to make a return required under subsection (a) or section 6015 (a), the return of such individual shall be made by a duly authorized agent, his committee, guardian, fiduciary or other person charged with the care of the person or property of such individual. The preceding sentence shall not apply in the case of a receiver appointed by authority of law in possession of only a part of the property of an individual.

(3) Receivers, trustees and assignees for corporations. In a case where a receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, or assignee, by order of a court of competent jurisdiction, by operation of law or otherwise, has possession of or holds title to all or substantially all the property or business of a corporation, whether or not such property or business is being operated, such receiver, trustee, or assignee shall make the return of income for such corporation in the same manner and form as corporations are required to make such returns.

(4) Returns of estates and trusts. Returns of an estate or a trust shall be made by the fiduciary thereof.

(5) Joint fiduciaries. Under such regulations as the Secretary or his delegate may prescribe, a return made by one of two or more joint fiduciaries shall be sufficient compliance with the requirements of this section. A return made pursuant to this paragraph shall contain a statement that the fiduciary has sufficient knowledge of the affairs of the person for whom the return is made to enable him to make the return, and that the return is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, true and correct.

(c) Consolidated returns. For provisions relating to consolidated returns by affiliated corporations, see chapter 6.

§ 1.6012-2 Corporations required to make returns of income.

(a)-(d) [Reserved.]

(e) Charitable and other organizations with unrelated business income. Every organization, described in section 501 (c) (2), (3), (5), and (6), which is otherwise exempt from tax under section 501 (a), and which is subject to the tax imposed on unrelated business taxable income by section 511 (a) (1), shall make a return on Form 990-T for each taxable year if it has gross income, included in computing unrelated business taxable income for such taxable year, of $1,000 or more. A return on Form 990-T shall also be made for each taxable year by every governmental college or university and by every corporation wholly owned by such a college or university, which is subject to the tax on unrelated business taxable income and which has gross income, included in computing unrelated business taxable income for such taxable year, of $1,000 or more. The filing of a return of unrelated business income does not relieve the organization of the duty of filing other required returns.

(f) Farmers' cooperatives. Farmers' cooperative organizations described in section 521 are required to make a return of income whether or not such organizations are, under section 522, subject to the taxes imposed by section 11 or section 1201. The return shall be made on Form 990-C.

§ 1.6012-3 Returns by fiduciaries—(a) For estates and trusts.

The filing of a return of unrelated business income does not relieve the fiduciary of such trust from the duty of filing other required returns.

INFORMATION RETURNS

§ 1.6033 Statutory provisions; returns by exempt organizations.

SEC. 6033. Returns by exempt organizations—(a) General. Every organization, except as hereinafter provided, exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) shall file an annual return, stating specifically the items of gross income, receipts, and disbursements, and such other information for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of subtitle A as the Secretary or his delegate may by forms or regulations prescribe, and shall keep such records, render under oath such statements, make such other returns, and comply with such rules and regulations, as the Secretary or his delegate may from time to time prescribe, except that, in the discretion of the Secretary or his delegate, an organization described in section 401 (a) may be relieved from stating in its return any information which is reported in returns filed by the employer which established such organization. No such annual return need be filed under this subsection by any organization exempt from taxation under the provisions of section 501 (a)—

(1) Which is a religious organization described in section 501 (c) (3); or

(2) Which is an educational organization described in section 501 (c) (3), if such organization normally maintains a regular faculty and curriculum and normally has a regularly organized body of pupils or students in attendance at the place where its educational activities are regularly carried on; or

(3) Which is a charitable organization, or an organization for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, described in section 501 (c) (3), if such organization is supported, in whole or in part, by funds contributed by the United States or any State or political subdivision thereof, or is primarily supported by contributions of the general public; or

(4) Which is an organization described in section 501 (c) (3), if such organization is operated, supervised, or controlled by or in connection with a religious organization described in paragraph (1); or

(5) Which is an organization described in section 501 (c) (8); or

(6) Which is an organization described in section 501 (c) (1), if such organization is a corporation wholly owned by the United States or any agency or instrumentality thereof, or a wholly-owned subsidiary of such a corporation.

(b) Certain organizations described in section 501 (c) (3). Every organization described in section 501 (c) (3) which is subject to the requirements of subsection (a) shall furnish annually information, at such time and in such manner as the Secretary or his delegate may by forms or regulations prescribe, setting forth—

(1) Its gross income for the year,

(2) Its expenses attributable to such income and incurred within the year,

(3) Its disbursements out of income within the year for the purposes for which it is exempt,

(4) Its accumulation of income within the year,

(5) Its aggregate accumulations of income at the beginning of the year,

(6) Its disbursements out of principal in the current and prior years for the purposes for which it is exempt, and

(7) A balance sheet showing its assets, liabilities, and net worth as of the beginning of such year.

(c) Cross reference. For provisions relating to statements, etc., regarding exempt status of organizations, see section 6001.

§ 1.6033-1 Returns by exempt organizations—(a) In general. (1) Except as provided in section 6033 (a) and paragraph (g) of this section, every organization exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) shall file an annual return of information specifically stating its items of gross income, receipts and disbursements, and such other information as may be prescribed in the instructions issued with respect to the return. Such information return shall be filed annually regardless of the amount or source of the income or receipts of the organization. Except as provided in paragraph (d) of this section, such return shall be filed annually regardless of whether such organization is chartered by, or affiliated or associated with, any central, parent, or other organization.

(2) Every organization exempt from taxation under section 501 (a), and required to file a return under section 6033 and this section, other than those described in sections 401 (a), 501 (c) (3), and 501 (d), shall file its annual return on Form 990.

(3) Every employees' trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) shall file an annual return on Form 990-P. The return shall include the information required by paragraph (b) (5) (ii) of § 1.401-1. The trust must also file the information required by § 1.404 (a)-2, unless the employer has notified the trustee that he has or will timely file such information. If the trustee has received such notification from the employer, then the trust must file a copy thereof with its return and the other information required by the return.

(4) (i) Every organization described in section 501 (c) (3), which is exempt from taxation under section 501 (a), and which is required to file a return under section 6033 and this section, shall file its annual return on Form 990-A.

(ii) In addition to the information required by subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, there shall also be furnished on Form 990-A, in the manner prescribed in the instructions issued with respect to the return, the information required by section 6033 (b). See section 6104 and the regulations thereunder for publicity of information required by section 6033 (b).

(5) (i) Every religious or apostolic association or corporation described in section 501 (d) which is exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) shall file a return on Form 1065 for each taxable year, stating specifically the items of gross income and deductions, and its taxable income. There shall be attached to the return as a part thereof a statement showing the name and address of each member of the association or corporation and the amount of his distributive share of the taxable income of the association or corporation for such year.

(ii) If the taxable year of any member is different from the taxable year of the association or corporation, the distributive share of the taxable income of the association or corporation to be included in the gross income of the member for his taxable year shall be based upon the taxable income of the association or corporation for its taxable year ending with or within the taxable year of the member.

(b) Accounting period for filing return. A return on Form 990, Form 990-A, or Form 990-P shall be on the basis of the established annual accounting period of the organization. Where the organization has no such established accounting period, such return shall be on the basis of the calendar year.

(c) Returns when exempt status not established. An information return on Form 990 or Form 990-A is not required to be filed by an organization claiming an exempt status under section 501 (a) prior to the establishment by the organization of such exempt status under section 501 (a) and § 1.501 (a)-1. If the date for filing an income tax return and paying the tax occurs before the tax-exempt status of the organization has been established, the organization is required to file the return and pay the tax. However, see sections 6081 and 6161 and the regulations thereunder for extensions of time for filing the return and paying the tax. Upon establishment of its exempt status, the organization may file a claim for a refund of income taxes paid for the period for which its exempt status is established.

(d) Group returns. (1) A central, parent, or like organization (referred to in this paragraph as "central organization"), exempt under section 501 (a) and described in section 501 (c), although required to file a separate annual return for itself under section 6033 and paragraph (a) of this section, may file annually, in addition to such separate annual return, a group return on Form 990 or Form 990-A as may be appropriate (see paragraph (a) of this section). Such group return may be filed for two or more of the local organizations, chapters, or the like (referred to in this paragraph as "local organizations") which are (i) chartered by, or affiliated or associated with, such central organization at the close of its annual accounting period, (ii) subject to the general supervision of, and examination by, the central organization, and (iii) exempt from taxation under section 501 (a) and described by the same provision of section 501 (c) as the central organization.

(2) (i) The filing of the group return shall be in lieu of the filing of a separate return by each of the local organizations included in the group return. The group return shall include only those local organizations which (in writing have authorized the central organization to include them in the group return, and which have made and filed, with the central organization, their statements, specifically stating their items of gross income, receipts, and disbursements, and such other information relating to them as is required to be stated in the group return. Such an authorization by a local organization shall be made annually, under the penalties of perjury, and shall be signed by a duly authorized officer of the local organization in his official capacity and shall contain the following statement, or a statement of like import: "I hereby declare under the penalties of perjury that this authorization (including any accompanying schedules and statements) has been examined by me and to the best of my knowledge and belief is true, correct and complete and made in good faith for the taxable year, stated." Such authorizations and statements shall be permanently retained by the central organization.

(ii) There shall be attached to the group return and made a part thereof a schedule showing the name and address of each of the local organizations and the total number thereof included in such return, and a schedule showing the name and address of each of the local organizations and the total number thereof not included in the group return. Prior to or simultaneously with the filing of a group return for an accounting period ending on or after December 31, 1957, the central organization shall notify each district director for the internal revenue district in which is located the principal place of business or principal office of each local organization included in or excluded from such group return that the local organization has or has not been, or will or will not be, included in such group return. The filing with each district director concerned of a copy of each schedule described in this subdivision shall constitute notice as required by the preceding sentence.

(3) The group return shall be on the basis of the established annual accounting period of the central organization. Where such central organization has no established annual accounting period, such return shall be on the basis of the calendar year. The same income, receipts, and disbursements of a local organization shall not be included in more than one group return.

(4) The group return shall be filed in accordance with these regulations and the instructions issued with respect to Form 990 or Form 990–A, whichever is appropriate, and shall be considered the return of each local organization included therein. The tax-exempt status of a local organization must be established before a group return including the local organization will be considered as the return of the local organization. See § 1.501 (a)–1 for requirements for establishing a tax-exempt status.

(e) Time and place for filing. The annual return of information on Form 990, 990–A, or 990–P shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day of the fifth calendar month following the close of the period for which the return is required to be filed. The annual return on Form 1065 required to be filed by a religious or apostolic association or corporation shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the taxable year for which the return is required to be filed. Each such return shall be filed with the district director for the internal revenue district in which the principal place of business or principal office of the organization is located.

(f) Penalties. For criminal penalties for failure to file a return and filing a false or fraudulent return, see sections 7203, 7206, and 7207.

(g) Organizations not required to file annual returns. (1) (i) Annual returns on Form 990–A are not required to be filed by an organization described in section 501 (c) (3) which has established its right to exemption from taxation under section 501 (a) and which is—

(a) Organized and operated exclusively for religious purposes;

(b) Operated, supervised, or controlled by or in connection with an organization which is organized and operated exclusively for religious purposes;

(c) An educational organization which normally maintains a regular faculty and curriculum and normally has a regularly organized body of pupils or students in attendance at the place where its educational activities are regularly carried on; or

(d) A charitable organization, or an organization for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, which is suported, in whole or in part, by funds contributed by the United States or any State or political subdivision thereof, or which is primarily supported by contributions of the general public.

(ii) An educational organization which normally maintains and has a regular faculty, curriculum, and student body and meets the conditions of subdivision (i) (c) of this subparagraph, which relieves it from the requirement of filing annual returns, shall not be considered as having thereafter failed to continue meeting such conditions if it is temporarily compelled to curtail or discontinue its normal and regular activities during the existence of abnormal circumstances and conditions.

(iii) An organization organized and operated exclusively for charitable purposes or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals is not "primarily supported by contributions of the general public" for any accounting period if more than 50 percent of its income and receipts for such period is not actually derived from voluntary contributions and gifts made by the general public, as distinguished from a few contributors or donors or from related or associated persons. For purposes of this subdivision, the words "related or associated persons" refer to persons of a particular group who are connected with or are interested in the activities of the organization, such as founders, incorporators, shareholders, members, fiduciaries, officers, employees, or the like, or who are connected with such persons by family or business relationships.

(2) The annual return on Form 990 need not be filed by—

(i) A fraternal beneficiary society, order, or association, described in section 501 (c) (8), or

(ii) An organization described in section 501 (c) (1) if it is a corporation wholly owned by the United States or any agency or instrumentality thereof, or is a wholly owned subsidiary of such a corporation, which has established its exemption from tax under section 501 (a).

(3) The provisions of section 6033 (a) relieving certain specified types of organizations exempt from tax under section 501 (a) from filing annual returns do not abridge or impair in any way the powers and authority of district directors provided for in other provisions of the Code and in the regulations thereunder to require the filing of such returns by such organizations. See section 6001 and § 1.6001–1.

(h) Records, statements, and other returns of tax-exempt organizations. (1) An organization which has established its right to exemption from tax under section 501 (a) and has also established that it is not required to file annually the return of information on Form 990 or Form 990–A shall immediately notify in writing the district director for the internal revenue district in which its principal office is located of any changes in its character, operations, or purpose for which it was originally created.

(2) Every organization which has established its right to exemption from tax, whether or not it is required to file an annual return of information, shall submit such additional information as may be required by the district director for the purpose of enabling him to inquire further into its exempt status and to administer the provisions of subchapter F of chapter 1 (section 501 and following) and of section 6033. See section 6001 and § 1.6001–1 with respect to the authority of the district director to require such additional information and with respect to the permanent books of account or records to be kept by such organizations.

(3) An organization which has established its right to exemption from tax under section 501 (a), including an organization which is relieved under section 6033 and this section from filing annual returns of information, is not, however, relieved from the duty of filing other returns of information. See, for example, sections 6041 and 6051 and the regulations thereunder.

(i) Unrelated business tax returns. In addition to the foregoing requirements of this section, certain organizations otherwise exempt from tax under section 501 (a) and described in section 501 (c) (2), (3), (5), or (6) or section 401 (a) which are subject to tax on unrelated business taxable income are also required to file returns on Form 990–T. See paragraph (e) of § 1.6012–2 and paragraph (a) (5) of § 1.6012–3 for requirements with respect to such returns.

PAR. 2. Paragraph (e) of § 1.401–1 of the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR 1.401–1 (e)), as prescribed by Treasury Decision 6203 (21 F. R. 7269), approved September 24, 1956, is amended to read as follows:

(e) Determination of exemptions and returns. (1) An employees' trust may request a determination letter as to its qualification under section 401 and exemption under section 501. For the procedure for obtaining such a determination letter see paragraph (l) of § 601.201 of this chapter (Statement of Procedural Rules).

(2) A trust which qualifies under section 401 (a) and which is exempt under section 501 (a) must file a return in accordance with section 6033 and the regulations thereunder. See § 1.6033–1. In case such a trust realizes any unrelated business taxable income, as defined in section 512, such trust is also required to file a return with respect to such income. See § 1.6012–3.

TITLE 29—LABOR

Chapter V—Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor

PART 521—EMPLOYMENT OF APPRENTICES

PROCEDURE FOR EMPLOYMENT OF AN APPRENTICE AT SUBMINIMUM WAGES

Pursuant to authority under section 14 of the Fair Labor Standards Act, of 1938, as amended (52 Stat. 1068, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 214), Reorganization Plan No. 6 of 1950 (64 Stat. 1263; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp., p. 165), and General Orders Nos. 45–A (15 F. R. 3290) and 85–A (22 F. R. 7614) of the Secretary of Labor, and in accordance with the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.), I hereby amend the second paragraph of § 521.5 of Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 521, by deleting therefrom the words "two true copies" contained in requirement (c) and inserting in lieu thereof the words "one true copy".

(Sec. 14, 52 Stat. 1068, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 214)

This amendment shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, notice thereof having been found unnecessary since the change is minor in nature and will decrease rather than increase the burden of complying with the requirements of this part. TITLE 50—WILDLIFE

Chapter I—Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior

Subchapter F—Alaska Commercial Fisheries

PART 104—BRISTOL BAY AREA

WEEKLY CLOSED PERIODS

JULY 7, 1958.

Basis and purpose. On the basis of continued field observations of catches and escapements in the Bristol Bay area, it has been determined that notwithstanding the gear timetable contained in paragraph (a) of § 104.9, continued improvement in the runs in the Nushagak, Egegik, and Ugashik districts can permit some additional fishing time. Conversely, however, the continued near failure in the Naknek-Kvichak district makes further restrictions necessary.

Therefore, notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (d) of § 104.9, fishing will be permitted in the week ending July 12, 1958 in the Nushagak, Egegik, and Ugashik districts from 9 a. m. July 7 to 3 p. m. July 8 and from 9 a. m. July 10 to 3 p. m. July 11; and in the Naknek-Kvichak district from 9 a. m. July 7 to 3 a. m. July 8 and from 9 a. m. July 10 to 3 a. m. July 11.

In accordance with the provisions of paragraph (a) of § 104.9, announcement is made that the number of units of gear registered for the week ending July 12, 1958 is as follows:

Naknek-Kvichak—324 units.
Nushagak—271 units.

WENGER SALES COMMISSION

DEPOSTING OF STOCKYARD

It has been ascertained that the Wenger Sales Commission, West Union, Iowa, originally posted on March 12, 1957, as being subject to the Packers and Stockyards Act, 1921, as amended (7 U. S. C. 181 et seq.), no longer comes within the definition of a stockyard under said act for the reason that it no longer meets the area requirements. Accordingly, notice is given to the owners thereof and to the public that such livestock market is no longer subject to the provisions of the act.

Notice or other public procedure has not preceded promulgation of the foregoing rule since it is found that the giving of such notice would prevent the due and timely administration of the Packers and Stockyards Act and would, therefore, be impracticable and contrary to the public interest. There is no legal warrant or justification for not depositing promptly a stockyard which no longer is within the definition of that term contained in said act.

The foregoing is in the nature of a rule granting an exemption or relieving a restriction and, therefore, may be made effective in less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. This notice shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC CORP.

NOTICE OF ISSUANCE OF FACILITY LICENSE AMENDMENT

Please take notice that the Atomic Energy Commission has issued the following Amendment No. 1 to License CX–6 authorizing Westinghouse Electric Corporation to conduct a second series of critical experiments in its Yankee Critical Experiments Facility located at the Westinghouse Reactor Evaluation Center near Waltz Mill, Pennsylvania to test a change in the reactor water-to-uranium metal ratio from 3:1 to 2.23:1. The Commission has found that prior public notice of proposed issuance of this amendment is not necessary in the public interest since the conduct of the proposed experiments does not present any substantial changes in the hazards to the health and safety of the public from those presented by the previously approved operation of the facility.

In accordance with the Commission's rules of practice (10 CFR Part 2), the Commission will direct the holding of a formal hearing on the matter of issuance of the license amendment upon receipt of a request therefor from the licensee or an intervener within thirty days after the issuance of the license amendment. For further details, see (1) the application for license amendment by Westinghouse Electric Corporation and (2) a hazards analysis of the experiments prepared by the Division of Licensing and Regulation, both on file at the Commission's Public Document Room, 1717 H Street NW., Washington, D. C. A copy of item (2) above may be obtained at the Commission's Public Document Room or upon request addressed to the Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D. [License No. CX–6, Amdt. 1]

1. By application dated May 9, 1958, for amendment to License No. CX–6, Westinghouse Electric Corporation has applied for AEC authorization to conduct a second series of critical experiments in its Yankee Critical Experiments Facility involving a change in the reactor water-to-uranium metal ratio from 3:1 to 2.23:1. The Commission has reviewed the proposed experiments and concluded that they can be conducted by the applicant in its facility described in License No. CX–6 without presenting undue hazard to the health and safety of the public and that operation of the facility for the conduct of the experiments will not be inimical to the common defense and security.

The Commission hereby amends License No. CX–6 as follows:

a. Paragraph 1e. is changed to read as follows:

Westinghouse Electric Corporation has submitted proof of financial protection which satisfies the requirements of Commission regulations currently in effect.

b. Paragraph 2a. is changed to read as follows:

Pursuant to section 104 (c) of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, and Title 10, CFR, Chapter I, Part 50, "Licensing of Production and Utilization Facilities", to possess and operate as a utilization facility the critical experiment facility designated below, and to conduct the critical experiments described in the application in accordance with the procedures described therein.

c. Paragraph 3 is changed to read as follows:

This license applies to the facility which is owned by Westinghouse and located in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, and described in Westinghouse's application filed on July 29, 1957, and amendments to the application filed on August 14 and 21, 1957, and May 12, 1958 (herein referred to as "the application").

d. Paragraph 4a. (1) is deleted.

e. A new paragraph 4a. (1) is added as follows:

Westinghouse shall not perform a critical experiment, other than the experiments described in the application, in the facility until a description of the experiment and a hazards summary report shall have been submitted to the Commission and the Commission shall have specifically authorized the experimental activity.

Date of Issuance: June 30, 1958.

For the Atomic Energy Commission.

Acting Director,

TIDEWATER OIL CO. AND GULF INTERSTATE GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATIONS, CONSOLIDATING PROCEEDINGS AND DATE OF HEARING

JULY 1, 1958.

In the matters of Tidewater Oil Company, Docket No. G-12174; Gulf Interstate Gas Company, Docket No. G-12176.

Take notice that Tidewater Oil Company (Tidewater), a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in San Francisco, California, filed an application in Docket No. G-12174 on March 8, 1957, authorizing the proposed sale of natural gas produced by Tidewater from certain lands[1] located in Savoy Field, Landry Parish, Louisiana, to United Fuel Gas Company, under the terms of a contract dated February 12, 1957. The gas to be sold as aforesaid is to be delivered to Gulf Interstate Gas Company for transport to United Fuel Gas Company through certain facilities to be constructed and operated for the purpose by Gulf Interstate. Such facilities will connect with the natural gas pipe lines system of the said transporter near Rayne, Louisiana, and the gas so delivered in Louisiana will be transported and delivered to United Fuel Gas Company at a point in Kentucky. From this point the gas will continue to points of sale for resale for ultimate public consumption, all as more fully described in the application on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Gulf Interstate Gas Company (Gulf Interstate), a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Houston, Texas, filed an application in Docket No. G-12176 on March 8, 1957, authorizing the construction and operation of approximately 5,000 feet of 4½ inch O. D. lateral supply pipe line and a meter station to be located in the Savoy Field, Landry Parish, Louisiana to enable it to take the gas from Tidewater. The estimated total costs of the proposed facilities is $34,800, which cost is to be financed from company funds.

These related matters should be heard on a consolidated record and disposed of as promptly as possible under applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on July 31, 1958, at 9:30 a. m., e. d. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such applications: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a non-contested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicants to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protest or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before July 21, 1958. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

PLACID OIL CO. ET AL.

ORDER FOR HEARING AND SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGES IN RATES

JULY 1, 1958.

Placid Oil Company (Operator) et al. (Placid), on June 2, 1958, tendered for filing proposed changes in its presently effective rate schedules for sales of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed changes, which constitute increased rates and charges, are contained in the following designated filings:

Description: (1) Letter,[1] dated September 27, 1957. (2) Notice of Change, dated May 29, 1958. (3) Letter,[2] dated September 26, 1957. (4) Notice of Change, dated May 29, 1958.

Purchaser: H. L. Hunt.

Rate schedule designation: (1) Supplement No. 3 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 15. (2) Supplement No. 4 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 15. (3) Supplement No. 2 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 16. (4) Supplement No. 3 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 16.

Effective date: July 3, 1958 (effective date is the first day after expiration of the required thirty days' notice).

In support of the proposed revenue-sharing rate increases, Placid cites the letter agreements providing the new prices and states, among other things that such escalation clauses as contained in the amendatory agreements are common in long-term gas sales agreements; that producer's costs increase as direct functions of time and depletion of reserves, and that the increased prices are below the initial price contained in contracts negotiated at the same time for gas sold in the area and to deny same would be discriminatory. Placid also states that the proposed prices are just and reasonable and would result in no more than a fair return.

The increased rates and charges as proposed have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed changes, and that Supplement Nos. 3 and 4 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 15, and Supplement Nos. 2 and 3 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 16, be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rates and charges contained in Supplement Nos. 3 and 4 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 15, and Supplement Nos. 2 and 3 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 16.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, said supplements be and they are each hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 3, 1958, and until such further time as they are made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Neither the supplements hereby suspended, nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby, shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the periods of suspension have expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(D) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

PLACID OIL CO. ET AL.

ORDER FOR HEARING AND SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

JULY 1, 1958.

Placid Oil Company (Operator) et al., (Placid), on June 2, 1958, tendered for filing a proposed change in its presently effective rate schedule for the sale of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate and charge, is contained in the following designated filing:

Description: Notice of Change, dated May 29, 1958.

Purchaser: H. L. Hunt.

Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 6 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 14.

Effective date: July 3, 1958 (effective date is the first day after expiration of the required thirty days' notice).

In support of the proposed three-step periodic rate increase, Placid cites the contract provision therefor and states that the increased price is below the initial price contained in contracts negotiated at the same time for gas sold in the area and to deny same would be discriminatory. Placid also states that the proposed price is just and reasonable and would result in no more than a fair return.

The increased rate and charge so proposed has not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that Supplement No. 6 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 14 be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rate and charge contained in Supplement No. 6 to Placid's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 14.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, said supplement be and it is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 3, 1958, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Neither the supplement hereby suspended nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(D) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).
